A Canadian physician says, "I have a very high opinion as to the dietetic value of Bran, and particularly of Quaker Tillson's natural Bran."

These Delicious Muffins

Imagine how good they will taste when made with Quaker Tillson's natural Bran!

CONSTIPATION is the most insidious foe to good health. It pours poisons into the blood. It saps vitality and causes mental depression. Headache, stomach disorders, bad breath and sallow complexion are often traced to faulty elimination.

Quaker Tillson's natural Bran, in the form of delicious muffins, or sprinkled liberally over your regular cereal, stimulates intestinal muscles to regular and thorough action. It helps Nature flush the system of poisonous waste which saps vitality. Doctors proclaim it the most effective cereal for laxative purposes.

Quaker Tillson's natural Bran, milled to a softness to guard against undue irritation, adds a health factor which you must have every day.

Connell; secretary and advertising manager, A. B. Burrows. Other members of the committee: H. R. Wagar, Dr. G. E. Renwick, Allan H. Clark, E. H. Northey, A. Davis, Rev. A. W. MacKenzie, W. W. The program, while similar in arrangement to last season is entirely different in character and promises to be equally attractive. A dramatic entertainment will be given in the first and last nights, with a lecture on the third night with musical numbers. Music will be the feature of the second day and the afternoon of the third day.

There are six entertainments in the series arranged in similar manner to last year with four consecutive evenings and afternoon entertainments on the second and third day.

Plan Entertainment

The Peterborough Kiwanis Club is putting on a concert in the Lakefield Town Hall on Friday evening, March 6th under the auspices of the Lakefield Agricultural Society. The entertainment promises to be exceptionally good with music monologues grave and gay; a harmonica band of twelve pieces is a feature. Two of the artists are putting on a very amusing skit which is spoken of very highly as a certain laugh producer. There will be the Kiwanis quartette under the direction of Martin Chenhall, the Cheerio Entertainers, Vernon Morphet, Jack Primeau and Dick Lush. Most of whom are old favorites. Miss Viola Payton and Mr. William Thompson are newcomers but Mr. Frank Clark is a real favorite.

The Kiwanians are noted for their snappy entertainments and they very kindly offered to lend a helping hand to the Agricultural Society and have promised a real evening's treat.

Free milk for school children is to be supplied in Edinburghfi Scotland.

FIELD SECRETARY VISITS MILLBROOK

Miss F. Annie Whitby is Heard in Millbrook Churches on Sunday.

MILLBROOK, March 3 (Examiner Correspondence) — Miss F. Annie Whitby, Field Secretary of the Upper Canada Tract Society and of the Mission to Sailors of Our Inland Waters, spoke in the local churches on Sunday, giving an outline of the work which she represents, and explaining many of its most interesting details.

The age of the Upper Canada Tract Society, which is now in its centennial year, was mentioned by Miss Whitby as she spoke of its constructive activities in spreading pure and wholesome literature all over this land, thereby leading to the development of better citizens.

The mission to sailors originated in New York, but after the chaplain's death it was felt that Canada should look after this work in her own inland waters, and so for over sixty-two years now we have carried on. Rev. Thomas Bone, of Saint Catherines, being the first missionary. For nearly thirty-nine years 'Father Bone,' as the sailors affectionately called him, gave up his while life to personal work, winning one here and one there, with tact and wonderful spiritual influence, and when he died more than one of those he had helped declared: "I have lost the best friend I ever had."

The work is purely inter-denominational, and Protestants and Roman Catholics alike receive the benefit of the missionary's services. Institutes for sailor's work are established at Port Arthur, Kingston, Toronto, and other points, Rev. James Cotter being the superintendent. These provide a home for the sailors when off their vessels, the sick are cared for, advice is given to those in need of this ministry, one public service is held a day, and as far as possible a real home life is offered, with a sing-song about the piano in the evening, coffee and biscuits served, and as a result many are led to Christ.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall have been seven months in charge of the Sailors' Institute at Port Arthur, and report 6,588 having stayed over night, paying the small charge made for the privilege; 1,549 were given free beds, and 2,226 free meals. The popular idea that sailors are a rough type of men is not borne out by the testimony of the missionaries, who state they are a splendid class of manhood, many of them from the Old Land with no place here which they may call their home. Hence their appreciation of the home the Institutes offer.

More than $35,000,000 was spent by the British government in the last fiscal year to help finance projects for providing work for the unemployed.

CHAS. PALLISER IS ROTARY GUEST

DESCRIBES GEYSERS.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—The regular meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club was held on Monday in the St. Lawrence Hotel, Campbellford, with Dr. H. B. Longmore in the president's chair. The speaker was Charles Palliser of Campbellford, who gave a very interesting travel talk, adding to the word picture he drew by displaying many interesting snaps taken by him and illustrating his subject.

Taking for his theme, "Yellowstone Park," in the United States, he stressed the fact that the roads leading to it from all directions, especially those west of Chicago were very bad. Of the park itself he said that it was an area of land set aside by the Federal government as a beauty spot, being in its natural state, and was not enclosed.

It was sixty-two miles long and fifty-four miles wide, having a total of 3,000 square miles and comprising two million acres. It was just as nature had left it, with neither plant nor animal disturbed. It contained no domestic animals at all. There were four entrances to the park and an admission of three dollars was charged, this covering camping accommodation and fishing privileges.

Mr. Palliser explained the geysers, six of them in all, and the fine camp that was located in close proximity to the upper geyser, known as Old Faithful. This camp has an average population of 3,000 during the season. Old Faithful erupts at regular intervals of sixty-five minutes. Situated at the top of a gradual slope, it has a small crator. Starting with a gradual raising of the water, it rises and falls, increasing the height every time until it reaches the 150 foot mark, subsiding in the same way, covering in all a space of four minutes. At night this display is lighted by search lights from the hotel.

The grotto geyser is of smaller dimensions, erupts at irregular intervals and is supposed to be formed by the roots of an old tree.

The Black Warrior geyser is in action all the time, the water however only raising to a height of fifteen feet. The temperatures of these waters range from 196 degrees to 201 degrees, 200 being the boiling point in Yellowstone Park.

The Morning Glory pool, the speaker said, was a very pretty sight. On level ground, it was perfectly round, being from fifteen to twenty feet across, and beautifully colored. Handkerchief Pool on the other hand was only from two to three feet across, being formed like a funnel with a very small throat. It got its name from the fact that a handkerchief thrown into it would twirl around, then sink through the throat of the pool, but would eventually come to the surface again.

Mr. Palliser also gave a very graphic discription of the bears, of which many abound in the park. The feeding grounds were especially interesting, being a large platform on which food is put and to which the animals come in the evening to feed. Lectures are given at this place by the rangers. These talks are very interesting and deal with the life, habits many abound in the park. The feed-up" bears are also to be encountered in the Yellowstone Park.

Of the Grand Canyon the speaker said that it can only be seen to advantage from Inspiration Point or Argus Point. From either of these two places a wonderful view of the canyon with the water falls and the perfect coloring can be seen with the water a matter of one thousand feet below. Angel Terrace, a lime formation of terraced rock, is also a beautiful spot, showing up in dazzling white with the water running over it. The Grand Canyon is of volcanic formation.

At the conclusion of the address a hearty vote of thanks was given the speaker by the club.

Miss Van Der Horne Reads Good Address

Features Young People's Meeting in Cavan United Church.

CAVAN, March 3—(Examiner Correspondence).—The chief feature of the Young People's meeting in Cavan United Church on Wednesday evening was a very interesting address given by Miss Ina Van der Horne.

In pleasing manner she told some things about the place of her birth, "The Dutch East Indies." She told something of Holland and its people, where she spent a few years, and received her secondary school education. She also gave an interesting description of a trip west, where she visited a relative employed on the Prince of Wales ranch in Alberta. The E.P. ranch comprises 4,700 acres. It is seven miles from corner to corner, diagonally. The stables are wonderfully equipped. Here is kept the King's racer, "Will Summer."

The ground floor of the house contains a dining-room and a wonderful lounge, with hardwood floors, bear rugs and chesterfields. Gifts from all over the world are left here by distinguished visitors. The next floor has the Prince's favorite sitting room, bed room and bath. These are nice, but not any nicer than some of our ordinary guest rooms in a farm house. There are 20 bedrooms, on the ground and second floor and attic. The sun porch extends all around the house. There is an abundance of flowers, lawns and beautiful gardens. To the west extend the lonely foothill's of the mountains. They are purple in the early morning and blue in the daytime, while the sunset makes them flame with fire. They are always different.

These very interesting descriptions from one who had seen and lived among them were much enjoyed by the young people.

TORONTO, March 3.—In the death in New York on Thursday last of Francis D. MacKay, President of Canadian Telephones and Supplies, Limited, Toronto loses a citizen who for over a quarter of a century had been prominently associated with the electrical industry of Canada.

Mr. MacKay was born in Belleville, where he was educated, and in his earlier years adopted journalism as a profession, his first employment being on the staff of the Intelligencer. Later he was associated with The Globe, subsequently becoming editor of the Daily Review, Peterborough.

Prominent In Developments

In 1900 Mr. MacKay became identified with the development of automatic telephony as General Manager of the Canadian Machine Telephone Company, controlling the patent rights of the "Lorimer" system. The company installed the first automatic exchanges in America and Great Britain at Peterborough, Ont., and Hereford, England. As Managing Director of the Canadian Independent Telephone Company he became associated with the independent telephone movement in Canada, and took a prominent part in the development of systems by municipalities and local companies throughout the rural districts.

He was one of the original members of the Canadian Independent Telephone Association, which he assisted in organizing in 1905, and as Chairman of the Legislative Committee he did much to secure the enactment of legislation at Ottawa and Toronto in the interest of local and rural telephone systems, especially in the matter of obtaining connection with the Bell Telephone Company upon equitable terms. The Ontario Telephone Act is the most outstanding product of this legislation. Since its enactment 620 systems operating 135,000 telephones have been established in the rural districts of Ontario.

Was Active In Radio

Mr. MacKay also took an active part in the earlier development of radio, the first broadcasting station in Toronto being installed by the Canadian Independent Telephone Company during his regime as Managing Director.

At the time of his death Mr. MacKay was a Director of the Home Telephone Company, Markham; President of the York and Ontario Independent Telephone Union, Chairman of the Legislattive Committee and Treasurer of the Canadian Independent Telephone Association. He was also a memberof the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the United States Independent Telephone Association, the Independent Pioneer Telephone Association of the United States, the Albany and Royal Canadian Yacht Clubs, the Bay of Quinte Lodge, A.F. & A.M., Toronto, and the Corinthian Lodge, Peterborough. He was a member of Rosedale Presbyterian Church and a Conservative in politics.

Mr. MacKay was married in 1899 to Bertha M. Sherrin of Bowmanville, who survives him. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. Mary Onderdonk, of Carrying Place; Miss Edith MacKay, Kingston, and Miss Althea MacKay, Belleville. The funeral was held from 22 Nanton Avenue today to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

RUSSIA KEEPS UP GREATEST ARMY

Briand Makes Statement Replying to Communist Deputy's Charges.

Denies "White Army" Exists.

PARIS, March 3.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand told the Chamber of Deputies today that Soviet Russia has the most formidable army in the world.

Replying to charges by Marcel Cachin, Communist Deputy, that France was inimical to Soviet Russia and was harboring a "white army" he declared the charges "both unjust and ridiculous."

"The French Government," he said, "has no knowledge of such organizations and it is stupid to talk about a white army existing in Paris while Russia herself has the most formidable army which exists in the world.

"It is probable that there are in Paris men who meet and have ideas against the Russian regime. The beauty of French hospitality is that it permits the presence of persons of different conflicting ideas but the Government has no contact with these various elements. M. Cachin knows that France has always labored for peace, and his accusations are both unjust and ridiculous."

WELSH SOCIETY HOLDS ITS FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET

LANGUAGE OF HER OWN.

Wales is Described as a Land Full of Poets and Singers.

Complete success attended the first annual banquet of the newly-organized St. David's Society of Peterborough, which was held at the Empress Hotel last evening when over fifty members of the Welsh community and their guests gathered to do honor to their patron saint, and to extol the merits of their native country in speech and song.

Rev. J. L. Hughes, president of the society, occupied the chair for the initial part of the proceedings, later handing over to H. Morton, who discharged the duties of toastmaster, in an able manner.

The musical part of the program which included solos, trios and community singing, and much of which was rendered in Welsh, was one of the outstanding features of the proceedings, and worthily upheld the claim of the Welsh people for their rare qualities of vocal expression.

Following the completion of a splendid meal, on the menu of which was incidentally included the leek—one of the Welsh national emblems—a toast to The King was duly honored and was followed with a vocal solo "God Bless the Prince of Wales," sung in English and Welsh by Mrs. J. Cairns.

Proposing the toast "Wales" (Hen Wlad fy Nhadau), P. T. Moseley observed that he appreciated the honor of being called upon to propose this toast, the first of its kind in their newly-formed organization. He continued to give a comprehensive outline of his country's history and outlined the contribution which Wales has made to the world in art, music, law, engineering, religious teaching and commerce.

He described Wales as a land full of poets and singers, and asserted that although the Welsh preserve their own language and traditions they are nevertheless an integral part of the United Kingdom and have contributed to the building of Empire in no small measure. To mention but a few illustrious Welshmen mentioned by the speaker, there was the Master of the King's Music, Sir Walford Davies; Right Hon. David Lloyd George; Lord Caernarvon, who discovered King Tutankhamen's tomb; and ex-Premier Hughes of Australia. He also mentioned the fact that Mrs. Mary Hughes, who is still living at Wrexham, provided the inspiration for the well-known nursery rhyme, "Mary Had a Little Lamb"—a rhyme which is recited in the nurseries throughout the civilized world.

In correcting a popularly-accepted fallacy that the heir to the throne automatically becomes the Prince of Wales, Mr. Moseley said this is not so. Wales is not a district of England as so many people think, but is a separate country and the title of the heir to the throne is bestowed by consent of the Welsh people.

"Own Language"

Concluding, he thought it surprised many people to know that Wales has a language of her own—a language which is the only pure language west of the Corsicas. "We glory in our

CONGRESS OF U.S. STRUGGLES HARD TO END SESSION

Senate Deadlocked Till 3 O'clock Over Bill, of Intrest to Only Few Members.

PASS FARM AID BILL.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 3 (A.P.).—Pent-up feelings tensed as last chances for much-desired legislation withered and died, held the United States Congress in a tight snarl to-day as it sought to wind up the session in orderly fashion.

The Senate, far the most upset of the two branches, found itself at work until three o'clock this morning, deadlocked in a filibuster over a Copyright Bill which really had vital interest for anly a handful of members.

It recessed then, to meet again at ten o'clock, expectant of the veto message of President Hoover on the Muscle Shoals operation resolution. It faced, too, the task of cleaning up work on the second deficiency appropriation, a hundred million dollar measure whose passage was imperative.

Pass Farm-Aid Bill

The sum total of accomplishment in the night session was one farm-aid bill, a measure to slap a ten-cents a pound tax on yellow oleomargarine, thus shutting out its competition with butter, and confirmation of a number of minor nominations.

Repeated efforts for adjournment were made, and failed. Quorum calls were resorted to for maintaining a majority in attendance, but this narrowed at last to a bare 49, and the Senate gave up.

Reed's attempt on behalf of the Immigration Bill, passed only yesterday by the House, involved getting the Senate to overrule the Vice-President, who had ordered the bill could not be called up again to-day. He was confident, however, that a good majority was with him.

The House of Representatives, meanwhile, had adjourned at 10 o'clock last night, and its members returned to work far fresher than the Senators.

Kingston Council Votes For Industrial School

KINGSTON, March 3.—Kingston showed its faith in the future of the city yesterday by passing three industrial by-laws and voting for the erection of a $214,000 industrial school. The by-law to give Hield Brothers, English manufacturers of worsted goods, a fixed assessment of $1,000 was carried by 1491 for to 300 against; that to purchase the former Dominion Cotton Mill building for $75,000 and lease it to the Hield Company for ten years passed by 1,424 to 381. The Hield Company will establish a branch and employ 150 hands by summer. The other industrial by-law was to give the Dominion Webbing Company a fixed assessment of $4,000. The vote on this was 1,662 for and 137 against. The Webbing Company is the new Canadian branch of the Everlastik Company of Massachusetts, and it has purchased the Collie plant. The by-law to erect a technical school was carried by 1,113 to 626.

Kiwanis In Chippewa 'I Make Foolish Noise'

ST. THOMAS, March 3. — Dr. Milo Quaife of Detroit, an authority on Indian dialects, offered startling information to members of the Kiwanis Club yesterday when he addressed them. He referred to the name Kiwanis, which was selected for the organization by Dr. Quaife and his associates in the Detroit Public Library. The generally accepted meaning of the word is "We build," but Dr. Quaife said yesterday that, while there are slight variants, the best translation of the word from the Chippewa dialect that he knew is: 'I make a foolish noise.' "So, if any person calls another a Kiwanian, you will know what it means in future,' said Dr. Quaife, amid laughter.

VALERIE FRENCH TO WED SHORTLY

FIRST AFFAIR FAILS.

LONDON, March 3 (C.P.).—Miss Valerie French, pretty granddaughter of the late Field-Marshal Sir John French, the first Earl of Ypres, was said in the Daily Express to-day to intend soon to marry Lord Brougham and Vaux.

The Express said that the engagement of the two, both of whom are 21 years old, would be announced shortly. Lord Brougham and Vaux is the fourth baron of his title, and last year inherited about $1,000,000. His seat is at Penrith, Cumberland.

In 1926 Miss French's engagement to Henry Bradley Martin of New York was announced. Martin was injured in an automobile accident in Colorado in the summer of 1929, and spent a month in a Denver hospital. Miss French came to the United States and continued to Denver where it was believed they would be married. There were stories of their estrangement and shortly afterward Miss French returned to England.

Naval Defence Costs Canada $3,600,000

LONDON, March 3 (C.P. Cable).—Contributions of the various parts of the Empire towards naval defence were outlined in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon by C. Ammon, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, at the request of a questioner.

The amounts provided in the estimates for the year 1930-1931 were as follows, he said:

Great Britain	$258,695,000
Australia	8,890,000
Canada	3,600,000
New Zealand	3,375,000
South Africa	392,000

New Zealand's estimates include $625,000 contributed towards the cost of the Singapore Naval Base and $500,000 for interest and sinking fund on account of H.M.S. New Zealand.

Volunteers and members of life-saving brigades in Britain now total 4,000, in addition to the regular lifeboat services.

BENEFIT FUND BILL FOR FIREMEN TO BE INTRODUCED IN LEGISLATURE 22 ONTARIO CITIES TO HAVE FUND

Under Bill Peterborough Must Establish a $26,000 Benefit Fund.

KINGSTON $75,500.

Oshawa's Sum is $20,500 and St. Catharines Must Set Aside $49,500.

TORONTO, March 3. — Establishment of benefit funds for permanent members of fire departments in 22 cities of Ontario, is provided for in a Bill which will make its bow to the Legislature at an early date.

The legislation in question barring some alterations in the scale of proposed pension payments is almost identical with the measure which Hon. G. Howard Ferguson—the then Prime Minister of the Province—introduced at the 1930 session of the House, and then withdrew in order that it might be printed and distributed throughout the municipalities affected so as to drow out public opinion. This year, the Bill will have no Government sponsor, but will be brought down by a private member of the House. J. P. Moore (Conservative, London North) is rumored as the likely man for the job.

No withdrawal of the measure is in order this session. Its proponents propose to press it to the limit, convinced as they are that much of the opposition which greeted it a year ago has now vanished.

January 1, 1931, has been fixed as the date when all funds must be established. The cities and the extent to which they will be required to contribute are: Brantford, $93,500; Chatham, $61,000; East Windsor, $15,500; Fort William, $68,000; Galt, $16,000; Guelph, $33,000; Kingston, $75,500; Kitchener, $40,500; London, $120,000; Niagara Falls, $45,000; North Bay, $20,500; Oshawa, $20,500; Peterborough, $26,000; Port Arthur, $67,500; Sarnia, $14,500; Sault Ste. Marie, $59,000; St. Catharines, $49,500; St. Thomas, $13,500; Walkerville, $11,000; Welland, $25,000; Windsor, $72,000; and Woodstock, $38,000.

Larger amounts shall be contributed to the fund if in the opinion of the Superintendent of Insurance for the Province the aforesaid sums are too small.

Under the terms of the bill each city is empowered to place to the credit of its funds donations, gratituities from citizens, proceeds from fines on firemen, and such other

EVERY COUNTRY MADE SACRIFICES

NO BITTERNESS.

PARIS, March 3. (AP)—No country emerged as the victor in the naval accord reached over the weekend by France, Great Britain, and Italy, Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, told the Chamber of Deputies to-day.

"Every country made the necessary sacrifice" he declared. "That is the best praise I can give." The details of the agreement have not yet been published, pending their study by the Washington and Tokyo Government.

"It is a satisfactory accord" Mr. Briand declared, "and when you know all of its details you will be convinced that it is satisfactory. There is no bitterness anywhere. I never at any time neglected trying to reach an agreement with Italy."

M. Briand, whose remarks were made in reply to an interpellation, said that the naval accord was a good omen for other Franco-Italian agreements in the near future, and that there had never been a moment's hesitation in the minds of the French and Italians in the course of the recent negotiations.

UNSIGHT-UNSEEN

YOU would consider it an affront to your intelligence if some one were to try to sell you a horse, "unsight-unseen." You would laugh such a proposition to scorn.

Yet every day you are asked to buy merchandise on identically the same terms—canned goods with unknown labels — cosmetics of uncertain quality — a radio by an unknown manufacturer—shoes, clothing and housefurnishings about whose merit you know nothing.

And you are asked to buy this "unsight-unseen" type of merchandise in place of the nationally advertised brands that you know are dependable!

Advertised brands have been approved by the most critical of investigators—the buying public. You know exactly what you will get when you buy advertised goods, not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented. You know that the maker of advertised brands has confidence in them, else he would not invest money calling your attention to them day after day, month after month. In buying advertised brands, you get your money's worth. Buying "unsight-unseen" is liable to prove dear at any price.

Advertisers recognize that the most effective means of keeping the Canadian public informed of the merits of advertised brands is the daily newspaper, because practically every Canadian family reads a daily newspaper every day.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Of course you all know what is meant by "mixing congenialities" in friendships, but I wonder if you have ever associated these two words with foods?

• • • • • • •

You, as a homemaker, know that to make a party a success you must have persons come together who are, or who will be congenial when they meet.

• • • • • • •

This very same thing, then, holds good in the ingredients one puts together in the preparation of foods. Very often this is overlooked by housewives but it is a very important proposition.

• • • • • • •

People in Peterborough are so eagerly determined to have dishes that are just a little different, that very often ingredients are mixed which are not naturally harmonious.

• • • • • • •

If you must have novelty, then, you must see to it that you have something that will bid two otherwise opposing ingredients and make them "congenial."

• • • • • • •

Salads are an important part of many menus, so let us consider them to-day. We in America have many varieties in salads and many are marvelous concoctions, some curious, while the French never mix opposing foods.

• • • • • • •

When foods opposed to one another are combined they must be so bound that the uncongeniality is relieved. As an instance consider oranges and onions.

• • • • • • •

Except for their common initial letter, they are totally dissimilar and would shock the palate unless just the right salad dressing were used to offset this.

• • • • • • •

A well made French dressing will quell the insistence of the onion, and increase the piquant elements of the orange while a mayonnaise dressing should be avoided.

• • • • • • •

This is one instance while another might be hot waffles and ice cream. These two are uncongenial unless the waffles are very rich.

• • • • • • •

The harmony can be increased by using some hot sauce over the ice cream, the kind depending upon the flavor of the ice cream. Vanilla cream is recommended as it blends well.

• • • • • • •

Hot maple syrup can be used as a sauce and hot chocolate or hot butter scotch sauce are two excellent ones with hot waffles and ice cream.

• • • • • • •

And so you see that one can make opposing foods congenial, just as it is possible to harmonize personalities through some common interest.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE LIVER AFFECTS THE SKIN

I frequently speak of old skin ailments—eczema and other irritations—and of how useless any medicine seems to be in many of these cases.

Where a condition is due to the skin itself being irritated by acids, alkalis, or metallic substances, then drugs can be of help. In fact, drugs can be of help even where the trouble is due to some trouble in the body itself, as these drugs stimulate the skin and the blood to healthy action.

However, where a skin ailment persists for weeks and months, sometimes getting a little better for a while, and then becoming severe again, there is one organ that can be suspected of causing the trouble and that is the liver.

Why?

Because the liver has three important jobs to do, and any interference with any one of these jobs can cause trouble in the blood itself, and hence trouble in every part of the body to which the blood is carried, the skin, of course, included.

These little jobs are the making of bile, the storing of sugar in the liver, and the cleaning out of the poisons in the blood. Thus, when there is any inflammation of the liver and gall bladder, due to slowness, sluggishness, gall stone formation and so forth, then the liver cannot do these three jobs completely.

A little daily excerise, such as bending the body from side to side and forward and backward, with knees straight, so squeezes the liver and gall bladder that the bile flows down into the intestines stimulates them into action, and kills off harmful organisms there. Where the individual is unable to exercise, the old treatment of calomel and epsom salts is helpful, particularly small doses of epsom salts.

In regard to the storage of sugar, it has been found that cutting down temporarily on the sugar intake has been helpful. Sugar is our cheapest food but in these old skin conditions it may be necessary to lessen the daily intake.

In regard to food, lessening the amount of fats—cream, milk, butter—will lessen the work on the liver, and enable it to purify the blood more completely as it passes through.

So, if you have an old skin irritation that doesn't respond to treatment, think of the liver as a possible cause; and give it a chance to catch up on its work by following the above simple suggestions.

VERMONT HOLDS PRIMARY.

MONTPELIER, Vt., March 3.—Vermont Republicans held a special primbary to-day to select a successor to the late U. S. Senator Frank L. Greene. The honor will fall to Frank C. Partridge of Proctor, or Warren B. Austin of Burlington, since the Republican nomination in this State is tantamount to election.

Partridge, if nominated, will continue to hold the Senatorship as he was appointed to the office until a special election could be conducted.

WELSH SOCIETY

independence; we glory in our history; we glory in our traditions, and we are glad to see the Welsh people of this city formed into a society."

Responding, G. Davies explained that the toast was originally to have been given in Welsh, but as there were many present who did not understand the language, he had decided to speak in English. "I do not need to ask whether you are loyal to Wales. I know that you are by your response to the toast. A Welshman," he said, "has been a Welshman from the beginning of time. There is no record as to the origin of the Welsh race."

He pointed out that Wales has her own flag which is green and white superimposed with a red dragon. He mentioned the fact that no provision was made for Wales in the design of the Union Jack.

Dovetailing with the line of thought taken by the previous speaker, Mr. Davies stated, "Wales has a climate all her own. She has snows, mountarins, rains ,around Bala); coal dust (at Swansea and Cardiff); and the County of Pembroke often referred to as the "Florida of the British Isles."

"Peterborough," was the toast proposed by Miss Alice Price. "The Welsh people have formed part of the great ocean of emigration and are to be found in all parts of the globe," she commented, "but I am glad I found myself located in this splendid city, Peterborough." Miss Price continued to enlarge on the secular and religious advantages which this city affords, with her fine churches and schools, public library, and institutions. By its location, she said, it is protected from the fury of storms, while in the beautiful country surrounding it is to be found an abundance of facilities for outdoor sport and fishing and hunting. Peterborough maintains some splendid factories in tribute to trade and commerce and is also the centre of a fine agricultural county.

"All the advantages I have enumerated make for contentment and happiness," she observed, "but all these are of no avail if we have not law-abiding citizens willing to help those who are unable to help themselves. A city, country, town or village is only as great as its people."

"I am very glad to have a place in Peterborough and to have the opportunity of speaking to you this evening."

Responding to the sentiments so eloquently expressed by Miss Price, James Dutton, president of the Chamber of Commerce, tendered his congratulations to the Welsh community on having formed a society in this city. He had, he said, very pleasant memories of a holiday once spent awheel in the Principality of Wales. He described how he had left his home at Stockport, travelling by train to Chester, from which place he cycled to Wrexham. He pushed his wheel up the mountain side and was rewarded by a magnificent view from the tableland. Mr. Dutton also described some of the beauties of nature around Colwyn and Llangollen.

Speaking of Peterborough, he said, "It is essentially a city of homes where a large percentage of people own their own property. It is a city pleasantly situated, a clean city and an ideal place in which to enjoy life. He also spoke of Peterborough's waterworks and other municipal undertakings and observed that the water here is of the purest kind.

"In normal times our factories give employment to 5,000 people, while six and a half million dollars is paid annually in wages. A total of twenty-eight million dollars is invested in factories here, with an annual production of thirty-three million dollars' worth of merchandise, which is shipped to all parts of the world and maintains a wide demand in face of keen competition. Peterborough ranks as the eighth manufacturing centre in the Province."

"Our Duty"

He pleaded for a greater interest in the city on behalf of all her citizens, remarking that we are too inclined to consider our duty completed after we have elected our Mayor and Council. Our duty is greater than that, and we must stand back of the men we elect to control our municipal government, ever remembering that for the most part the men we elect are animated in everything they do by the very highest desires."

"On January 27th, an interesting event happened. There was born among the Welsh Society throughout the world an infant Welsh Society," said Rev. J. L. Hughes, president, in proposing a toast to "Our Society." "I can assure you at the outset," he proceeded, "that this youngster shows signs of being a very vigorous child of the Welsh societies."

"What is it going to be? What is it going to accomplish? These are the questions asked of every child, and so it is with our society, which has been organized to foster and maintain the carrying-on of Welsh ideals, traditions and characteristics which are a part and parcel of the Welsh race."

"To carry on with love for Wales, love for the Welsh, love for the higher arts of life—those higher values which mean more to Welsh people than material prosperity. This infant society, I believe, will be a worthy child of the parent societies already in existence and of Mother Wales."

He expressed the feeling of pride it gave him to preside at the gathering and to propose the toast and described January 27 as a day he would always look back upon as one of the proud moments of his life—the day on which he was chosen as President of the Welsh Society. Furthermore, he spoke of the largely attended service at his church (St. George's) on Sunday evening, when members of the society attended in a body to mark St. David's Day.

"With honor and privilege must come duty and responsibility," he said, as he expressed the hope that he may prove worthy of the honor and privilege in carrying out the responsibilities and duties of his office during his term."

He paid tribute to the executive of the society, mentioning G. Davies, vice-president; Mrs. G. Blowers, secretary, and H. Morton, treasurer, and also Mrs. Jones, whom he stated has contributed largely to the formation of the society by her enthusiasm. They would all try this year, he concluded, to lay the foundation for the years to come, so that this youngster may prove itself to be a virile and healthy one."

Cymru Am Byth.

Mrs. R. Jones responded to the toast, speaking in her native tongue.

R. M. Glover, managing director of The Examiner, who was called upon for a speech, congratulated the members on the success of their banquet and on their activities since organization. He had, he said, been lately reading a speech by the Right Honorable Winston Churchill, in which he had referred to some of the characteristics of the Welsh people. "In Wales men live in comradeship, they do not live as solitary beings, but as members of a social organism," he said, quoting from the speech he had mentioned. "I presume," Mr. Glover proceeded, "that desire for comradeship brought your society into being and brought you together to-night. I take it you intend to take a keen interest in the affairs of your association and will become firmly established in this city."

"I was born and raised here and have lived here all my life, and on behalf of the native citizens extend to you a hearty welcome indeed. You have made good citizens and are a credit to the city in which you are now living, and to the country from whence you came."

"All over the world we have signs of economic depression and we feel it also in Peterborough; however, I feel we are as well situated and as happily located here as would be possible in any other town in any other country in the world. If we put our shoulders to the wheel and do our share towards making this country what it should be, we will get over our troubles and will contribute to the welfare of that great Empire of which we are a part."

"In this city you will find opportunity for the expression of your enthusiasm and in making your homes here you will find that you have not made a mistake. We will do everything we can to make this place what it should be for you and yours."

A vote of thanks was accorded the speakers and to those who contributed to the musical program, on the motion of Mr. Davies, who, referring to Mr. Glover's address, stated, "We must also remember we are citizens of Peterborough and of Canada."

Cogs Qualify to Meet Norwood for Play-off Berth

Cogs	5	5	2	12	0

Next game—Wednesday night at Brock street rink, Cogs vs Norwood, in first of home and home games, the winner to meet Lakefield in finals.

C.G.E. faded out of the East Peterborough League picture at Brock street last night, losing the last of the season's scheduled games to the Cognawagas by the score of 5-3.

So close has the race been in this new League that all four teams were still in the running up to last night, and Cogs' victory leaves them tied with Norwood for second place. The first of their elimination series is booked for Wednesday night at Brock street rink, with the return game in Norwood Friday. In the meantime Lakefield are spectators waiting up on top for their finalist opponents, who will be either Norwood or the Cogs.

Last night's game was even closer than the score indicates, and the impartial fans would probably admit that Cogs were lucky to come through with two goals to the good. They started without Dallin and Ted Lebarr, and for more than half the first period they were frequently on the defensive with most of the action on their side of centre ice. But after fifteen minutes of play they snapped the tension with a goal that quickly followed by another, and finished the first session in front 3-1.

The second period opened like the first with C.G.E. forcing the attack but without the shadow of a break; and Cogs pushed ahead with two more in succession, winding up the period with the score 5-2.

The Electricians sent four men up on the line in the last period, but all they could get was one lone goal, while Cogs were kept off the score sheet. The middle session was easily the fastest, rousing the loyal fans of the East Peterborough teams to the most sustained cheering any of the games between these rivals have produced. And the verdict was settled in that frame.

The teams were as follows:

Referee—Max Board.

Summary:

First Period.

1. Cogs—Cripps, 15 mins.
2. Cogs—Lebarr, 2 mins, 18 sec.
3. C.G.E.—R. Epps (H. Epps), 1 min., 50 sec.
4. Cogs—Dallin (Jones), 3 mins.

Second Period

5. Cogs—Dallin (Rooke), 10 mins., 18 secs.
7. C.G.E.—Creighton (H. Epps), 8 mins.

Third Period.

8. C.G.E.—Ellis, 1 min., 30 secs.

Glimpses of the Play.

The Electricians camped on the Cogs' lot as the game got underway, but luck wasn't with them on a succession of scoring chances. George Lackie took the punch out of a Cogs' thrust when Maudsley broke away from the pack and passed to Cripps. Lackie drew a penalty for bumping Cripps whose shot lacked steam as it reached Hollingsworth. Ray Epps followed for slashing Jarvis. Maudsley missed a pass from Jarvis. With Lackie back on the defense, Cripps secured the puck from a face off around centre, and dashed down the board scoring on a drive into the corner of the net. Foley stopped a hot one from Hatton. If Lady Luck neglected the C.G.E. marksmen, she wasn't far from Ted Lebarr when he fired from inside the C.G.E. blue line. Hollingsworth blocked the rubber with his stick, but it bounced up at him and into the net.

Ray Epps got one of that pair back, beating Foley close in on a pass by his brother, Harold Epps, from behind the goal line. Cogs' last goal of the period was a beauty. Jones broke through centre and Dallin raced up along the left wing taking the pass for the smartest goal of the game.

The Electricians began the second period by backing the Cogs into their own garden. The Blue Shirts were minus Cripps who was roosting on the fence, and they were penned in. H. Epps nearly scored from a face off and that was only one of the close calls on Foley's net. Cripps returned to the fray, and Hayden circled the Cogs' net, and just missed pushing the puck in. And then, after virtually monopolizing the works, the C.G.E. yielded another goal, Rooke to Dallin. And shortly after, Cripps increased the score to 5-1 by a fine rush along the boards. Hatton hung on to him all the way, but Cripps managed to unlimber a shot that sifted past Hollingsworth. Creighton paraded a couple of times to the penalty box. Maudsley uncorked a fine rush, but sliced his shot over the net.

C.G.E. scored their second goal when Harold Epps intercepted a pass and flipped the puck to Creighton who registered. Jimmy Ellis started the final session with the Electricians' last counter. As Ted Lebarr crossed out in front of his own net Ellis hooked the puck from him, and stepped in with a close shot that Foley couldn't reach. Cripps nearly notched another for Cogs, but he bounced the puck off Hollingsworth's pads. Foley made a great save when Ray Epps blazed one at him from a face off near the net, and he finished his performance by tossing out three drives from Epps, Ellis and Hayden.

The two teams were so evenly matched that it is hardly fair to single out any of the players. Cogs were more effective in their combination with Cripps, Jones, Dallin and Maudsleey especially conspicuous. Eddie Williams and Lebarr were steady in the back area and Foley in the nets was a big help to the winners. For the C.G.E. Harold Epps, Hayden, Ellis, Hatton and Lackey bore the brunt of the work.

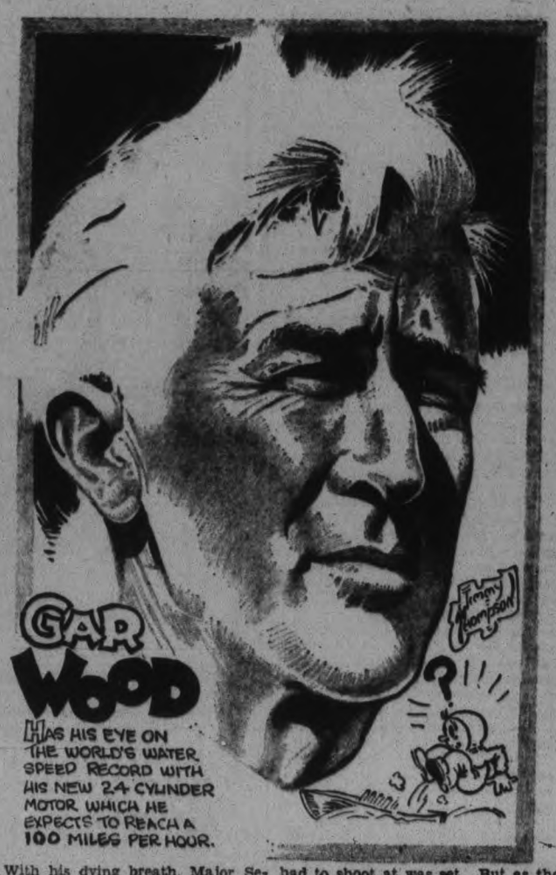
Port Colborne Gains Goal Lead Over Tigers

AMERICA'S ONLY THREAT



With his dying breath, Major Segrave asked: "Did I break the record?"

So intense has been the world's worship of "SPEED" that the late Sir Henry Segrave had no other thought as he died in the crash of Miss England II on Lake Windmere last June 13th. In a poetic sense, the gallant Major died with the knowledge that he had succeeded. The world's last speed record had gone to England. Perhaps this speed record on water was the hardest one for England to attain and probably the main reason for that was Gar Wood the American driver. Mile by mile, he and his brothers have pushed this motor boat record up until his 92.123 miles per hour mark of March 23, 1929 in the Miss America VIII., which was the goal that Segrave had to shoot at was set. But as the world knows, Segrave even bettered this mark in his two attempts up and down the course which gave an official average of 98.76 miles per hour. That's what Mr. Wood now has to beat. On the 17th and 18th of this month Gar Wood expects to again claim the speed boat record for America in a new Miss America IX on Byscayne Bay, Florida. The new boat is a twenty-four cylinder motor equipped with super charges, it is in this point that Gar Wood pins his main hopes, to attain the speed of 100 m.p.h. He is noted for his careful methods and it is said that should he find that he fails to make a favourable showing in the trials he will not attempt to oust the title until he has built a craft that he is sure will be able to stand the terrific speed that he hopes to attain.

Menie And Hoard's Tie For 2nd Place

BURNBRAE, March 3 (Examiner Correspondence) — As a result of Thursday evening's hockey games, Menie and Hoards are tied for second place in the Rawdon district league and will play off for that position when the winner of this series will meet Glen Ross, probably on Thursday.

In the postponed game, Glen Ross defeated Hoards 2-0, thus relegating the railroad vilage boys to second position. Menie triumphed over the River Valley squad by 5-2, to tie Hoards, each team having won three, tied one game and lost one. Glen Ross is in front with four wins and a tie.

SAILORS BLANK HAMILTON 1-0

PLAY AGAIN WEDNESDAY.

PORT COLBORNE, March 3. — Playing brilliant combination hockey with short, hard-driven passes and plenty of speed featuring their play, Port Colborne Seniors defeated Hamilton Tigers by to 10 in the first of the O.H.A. Senior A finals here last night and will carry a slim lead to Hamilton for the return game on Wednesday night. The brand of hockey played by the Lakesiders last night was even better than that which gave them a 3-to-1 overtime victory in Toronto on Saturday afternoon when they eliminated Marlboros. The Lakesiders had a wide margin of the play and deserved a somewhat larger lead for the return game.

Tigers last night were not in their best form. McKay got out of a sick bed to take his place on the defence, while Kain and Hayhoe were just recovering from illness of the past week. The Ports caught the Tigers off stride, but even had the Ambitious City team been at their best, they could not have beaten "Babe" Dye's team last night. The winning team played clever hockey on the attack and checked consistently throughout. They had their greatest margin in the first period, a somewhat smaller one in the second, while the honors in the last period were about even.

Hamilton Goaler Stars.

The individual start of the contest was not on the winning team. He was in the Hamilton nets. Marsh gave one of the finest displays of goal-tending seen in Port Colborne since Port Colborne has been in hockey. He stopped shots from all angles, all distances, and from the sticks of every player on the Port Colborne team except "Dinty" Moore. His work at times was sensational, once in particular, when he stopped a shot from Cuthbert's stick on his knees, caught the rebound from Heximer's stick, and then smothered the puck as Cuthbert took his second shot. Marsh saved the Tigers from returning to Hamilton facing a deficit of several goals.

Grand National Odds.

LONDON, Mar. 3.—(C. P. Cable)—The uncertainty of the 1931 Grand National steeplechase, to be run at Old Aintree on March 27, was well exemplified in yesterday's call-over of betting odds at the Victoria club.

Three horses—Sir Lindsay, Easter Hero and Drintyre—were quoted at 100 to 7 against, the shortest odds figuring. Erin Kakushin and Ballasport were bunched together at 100 to 6. Gib. Melleray's Belle and Grakle were 20 to 1.

Richmond second was quoted at 28 to 1, Shaun Goilin—last year's winner—at 33 to 1, and Gregalsch, winner in 1929, at 66 to 1. The long odds against the last two winners might be explained by the fact that only four horses have repeated a victory since the race was first run in 1839.

These double winners were Peter Simple, 1849 and 1853; Abd-El-Krader, 1850-51; the Colonel, 1869-70; and Poethlyn, 1918-19. Poethlyn's first win was in the substitute National at Gatwick.

CUBS DEFEAT GROVE 4 TO 2

Score Hardly Indicates How Even the Two Teams Were Matched.

JUVENILE LEAGUE.

LAKEFIELD, March 3 (Examiner Correspondence). — A fast game of hockey was played on Saturday morning in the Juvenile Hockey League between The Grove I. and the Cubs, with a score of 4-2 in favor of the Cubs. The play was fast, the checking hard, and the combination very fair. In weight and speed the teams were equally matched, but in team work the Grove were superior, but in individual play the Cubs had a little the best of it. The score hardly indicates how close the play was all through for it was anybody's game till the very last. Louis Sabatino handled the game satisfactorily. There were no penalties and none were earned for the game was clean as well as fast. T. H. Chaplin, principal of the Public School, is manager of the Cubs' and Colts' juvenile teams, and K. A. Mackenzie of The Grove teams. To these two gentlemen the Juvenile League is indebted for its existence and its usefulness is being proved as a training ground for future hockey teams. Out of this league have graduated several promising junior players, and in presenting the handsome shield which is the trophy at stake, Rev. A. W. Mackenzie showed his appreciation of the value of juvenile hockey.

Theodore Graham (commonly known as Red Light) was a star and played a strong game, especially in the first and last periods. Ray Pearson was goalie and was vigilant and efficient. McFadden was another member of the Cubs team who figured large in its achievements. For the Grove, Harris the goalie was valuable, and Dench was a star, always on the job. Anderson, Findlay, and Gunn were the outstanding members of the Grove aggregation.

When the first period was well past the middle, T. Graham scored the first goal on a pass from Hunter and within two minutes McFadden scored. Dench caught Pearson unawares just before the bell rang, and planted a nice one behind the nets. Gunn scored the only goal of the second period, which was not so fast as the first and last. Beginning the third period with a tie score both teams made a brave struggle to win, but the checking was too close for any one to break away very much. Graham scored, and later on a pass from Mathews, McFadden landed one behind Harris, scoring the last goal of the game.

GUELPH SETS SCORING MARK

Crush Fourth Place Kitchener Silverwoods Under 12 to 1 Avalanche.

NIAGARA FALLS WINS.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 3.—(By the Canadian Press.)—The League leading Guelph Maple Leafs established a new high scoring mark in the Ontario Hockey League last night by crushing the fourth place Kitchener Silverwoods under a 12 to 1 avalanche. The victory enabled the Leafs to take the lead from Stratford Nationals who fell before the tail-end Oshawa Pats, 5 to 3.

In addition to creating a new high mark for one game the Leafs also established a scoring record for one period when they notched eight counters agains tthe Silverwoods in the last session.

Niagara Falls moved up into a play-off berth by whitewashing the Galt Terriers, 5 to 0, at the Cataract city. The triumph placed the Niagara squad in third place, one point behind the second place Nationals. Kitchener and Galt are tied for fourth place, one point behind the Cataracts. The Pats are two points further down the scale.

OSHAWA OUSTED BY WEST TORONTO

LOSE GAME 3 TO 1.

TORONTO, March 3. — Tiring from the speed and backchecking of the first two periods, the Oshawa Juniors could not withstand West Toronto's determined attacks in the final frame, and so suffered elimination from the O.H.A. race by a 4 to 3 count on the round, the westenders winning last night's game at the Arena Gardens by 3 to 1, after losing the first game of the series in Oshawa by 2 to 1.

It was a fine exhibition of hockey by two clever, well-matched teams, fast from the opening bell and interesting throughout. Until the third period, the Motor City youngsters looked to have the edge, but they faded rapidly, as West Toronto maintained a strong offensive in the final frame to snatch the victory. The red garbed lads from Oshawa gave all they had in that last 20 minutes, but they could not stem the tide of defeat. They were totally exhausted when the concluding gong sounded.

The visitors were not outplayed. For two periods they set the pace and held their one-goal margin gained in the first game. In trying to wear down their opponents, they only succeeded in exhausting themselves. The W. Toronto players had enough reserve strength left to dominate the situation in the third frame, but so stubbornly did the visitors resist their attacks that the needed two goals to win the round were all that the local youths could muster. Even after they had attained their objective in this respect, the West Toronto players were reduced to the extremity of shooting the puck to the other end of the ice to ease the pressure of a staggering Oshawa five-man offensive, as the visitors courageously revived their all-but-spent stamina and kept the puck flying around the West Toronto net. Two very tired teams left the ice as full time came.

CANUCKS AT OTTAWA.

(By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 3.—Top-heavy favorites are pitted against comparatively weak opposition in tonight's National Hockey League schedule of three games. While upsets may occur they will not effect the present status of the teams.

Montreal Canadiens, coasting along with a snug 10 point lead over the second place Toronto Maple Leafs, journey to Ottawa for their fifth meeting of the season with the Senators. The Flying leaders of the northern section have beaten the tail-enders in all four previous games, but may strike a snag in the rejuvenated Capital City squad.

Alex Smith, star defenceman of the Senators has been operated on for appendicitus and will be an absentee while Danny Cox is still suffering from an injured knee. The cellar occupants had been showing their best hockey in recent games but this hard luck will not help their chances against the Montrealers.

Accompanied by two amateur recruits the Leafs tackle the American group tail-enders in Philadelphia and may or may not win. The Leafs are undoubtedly a far superior team to the Quakers, but in their three previous two engagements with Cooper Smeaton's men they failed to show it. The Leafs won the first contest handily but lost the next by a narrow margin and had difficulty in squeezing out a close verdict over the Philadelphians in the third match.

Alex Levinsky, burly defenceman from Toronto Marlboros, Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" team signed up with the Dunganites yesterday as did Bob Gracie, flashy left winger of the same team. The latter will be used in the place of Harvey Jackson, who has been suspended for one game through incurrence of three major penalties.

New York Rangers, who have gained a three point lead over Detroit in the struggle for third place in the southern loop, tackle their nemesis at Boston for the final scheduled meeting. In the five previous tussles the Rangers always provided the pace-setting Bruins with keen opposition but they could never manage to chalk up a victory. The Bostonians won three times and the other two clashes ended in stalemates.

The Bruins hold a 10 point lead over the second place holders, Chicago Blackhawks have no worries about being overtaken. The Rangers can draw up within a point of the Hawks by winning and at the same time draw away from the Falcons.

Tourney Dates Set

CHICAGO, Ill., March 3 (C.P.) — The National Wrestling championship of the American Amateur Union will be held at the Illinois Athletic Club, March 19, 20, 21.

BANQUET TO-NIGHT.

TORONTO, Ont., March 3 (C P.)—Ten matches provide the opening day's program in the annual competition at the Granite Club here today for the Canadian single rink curling championship and the Macdonald Brier Tankard.

Manitoba is drawn against Saskatchewan in the morning games, Ontario against the Montreal city champions, New Brunswick against Quebec, the Alberta four against the Northern Ontario representatives, and the Toronto champions against Nova Scotia.

Only morning and afternoon games will be played to-day as the annual banquet will be held to-night. During the next two days, however, the curlers will be kept busy morning, afternoon, and evening.

This afternoon's draw pits Toronto against Montreal, Alberta against Saskatchewan, Ontario against Manitoba, Nova Scotia against Quebec, and New Brunswick against northern Ontario.

For the past three years the championship has been won by Manitoba, but it is expected that the eastern rinks will give them a real battle this year. Manitoba is represented this year by Bob Gourley of Winnipeg, president of the Manitoba Curling Association.

$70,000 ASKED FOR 2 PLAYERS

Newcastle United Places Hill and Devine on English Soccer Market.

SCOTTISH CUP DEBATES.

(By O osdi Back.)

Newcastle United, which club in past years has paid out thousands and thousands of dollars in an endeavor to maintain a winning aggregation and which club has long been considered one of the greatest drawing cards in the Old Country football season, has some class to dispose of. Manager Andrew Cunningham, formerly of Glasgow Rangers, advises that Hill, centre half, and Devine, inside forward, are for disposal. Cunningham say that both are essentially first division players and does not consider it fair to relegate them to reserve team games. They cost Newcastle approximately $70,000 some ttle time ago and both came via Burnley. Hill is one of the tallest players in the game and is an international, first gaining prominence with Plymouth Argyle.

News of Glasgow Rangers' defeat by Dundee at Ibrox Park in the second round of the Scottish cup recalls the fact that last year Rangers enjoyed the most successful year in their 57 years of existence. The first and second teams won every honor possible, from the Scottish cup and league to the Scottish Alliance.

In the League, Rangers won 28 and lost six and of the six two were defeats at the hands of Hearts of Midlothian, which was the only club to win a league encounter at Ibrex. Hearts would seem to have the Indian sign on the Blues because some weeks ago they defeated Rangers in a league encounter at Tynecastle. Rangers have now two world's records to their credit, for in season 1898-9 they won every match played in the league and then last season's achievements of winning everything they competed for.

Probably nothing has been quite so romantic in sport for years as the experience of a junior rugby league team in South Wales recently. Due to the strike the team had a fixture to fill 16 miles away and no money to pay for transportation. But the game had to be played so the team walked over the hills near Pontypool. It was dark on the return journey and one of the players, by the name of Davies, who had started ahead of the remainder, fell down a hole and badly sprained an ankle. He commenced to yell and the rearguard, who had enlisted the aid of candles to find their way in the dark, came across their comrade in his predicament. He was lifted from the hole and carried on the backs of his chums to the home village, which was reached at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

The annual argument about the ridiculous state of minor clubs playing in the first round of the Scottish cup is going the rounds. Some terrific scores were registered in this season's opening struggle but probably the biggest joke was the attendance figures. At one game there were only 120 people paid for admission, not enough to pay for the referee and linesmen.

Nottinghamshire county cricket club promise to present a strange appearance when they take the field in the coming county cricket season. George Gunn has retired, William Whysall is dead, Payton retired and A. W. Carr has been deposed from the captaincy. Four members out of one eleven calls for some tall replacement action.

A. Sandham, the well-known Surrey batsman, will not play any more in South Africa. He has been invalided to England with a broken ankle. Seldom has a touring team been so handicapped by illness and injury as Chapman's M.C.C eleven, at present touring South Africa. On one occasion Hammond had to bat in his slippers on account of a foot injury.

Strange though it may seem, but last season in Scottish soccer, Queens Park, the amateur club, showed a profit of 2,297, and Clyde, in the same league, showed a loss of 2,297.

Since the beginning of league football in Scotland, Rangers had gathered 1,826 points up to the start of the present season. They have won ten championships since 1917-18, which means since the war. In the last fourteen seasons they have played 498 league games for a total of 787 points.

Although Celtic of Glasgow did not win any honor last season they finished up with a profi of 3,554.

Hampden Park, Glasgow, is capable of holding 125,000 spectators, but when the new terracing scheme is completed it is expected that 155,000 will be able to obtain accommodation on the classic slopes.

GLENNA COLLETT STILL MISSING

Ladies' Champion Fials to Join Ranks of Southern Golf Tournament.

ON SECOND MATCH.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Mar. 3.—(CP)—Diana Fishwick led a determined aggregation of British women golfers onto the golf course here today in an effort to avenge the defeats they have suffered in two previous tournaments in this state.

Miss Fishwick, the star of the invading delegation, has placed no closer than the semi-finals in the two meetings to date. She advanced that far at Palm Beach in the Florida women's championship. Kathleen Garnham, also of Great Britain, was a finalist in the Ormond championship last week.

The United States entry list for the Florida east coast title here this week was strengthened by the arrival of Maureen Orcutt, one of the "big four" women players of the United States.

Only Glenna Collett is missing from the ranks as the tournament season progresses. Marion Bennet, of New Britain, Conn., Helen Hicks, Martha Parker, who scored surprisingly to win the South Atlantic meet at Ormond from Miss Garnham, Virginia Van Wie and scores of lesser lights were in the list teeing off today on the 18-hole qualifying dash.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"STRANGE INTERLUDE"

An outstanding cultural as well as theatrical event in the life of the city will be the presentation at the Grand Opera House on Monday, March 9, of the Theatre Guild's production of Eugene O'Neill's long-awaited nine-act drama, "STRANGE INTERLUDE," with which he acquired for the third time in his career as playwright, the coveted laurels represented by a Pulitzer Prize award for "the best play of the year." "Beyond the Horizon" was his first Pulitzer Prize winner; "Anna Christie", his second.

In addition to the natural interest which attaches to every play that O'Neill writes and the Theatre Guild produces, for both playwright and producers are recognized as leaders in the world of the theatre, "STRANGE INTERLUDE" has excited the curiosity of playgoers from coast to coast because of two unusual features, its length and its "asides."

The length of this sensational play has now become legendary, so many have been the jokes made up about what one wit styled as "just an ordinary little nine-act play." Each performance begins at 5.30 and continues until 11 p.m., with an intermission for dinner from 7.40 to 9.00.

The other novel element about the play is the revival in a new form of the old fashioned "aside." Mr. O'Neill has his characters not only speak openly to one another, but they voice for the delectation of the audience their innermost thoughts, which often are exactly contradictory to what they have just said. This is done in a way to impress the audience with the knowledge that the characters themselves are not aware that they are thus revealing their true natures.

The theme of "STRANGE INTERLUDE" would require a large volume to relate; in fact, it is published in book form, and has enjoyed a very heavy sale. Briefly put, Nina Leeds in her struggle for happiness, completely devours the lives of her three men, and even tries to engulf that of her son.

A cast of well-known New York players, with five from the original production, is promised by the Theatre Guild, including many notables of the stage, such as: Elisabeth Risdon, Leonard Mudie, Blaine Cordner, Richard Barbee, Maud Durand, Maurice McRae, Ethel Westley, John J. Burns, Jack Grattan.

AT THE REGENT

"THE PRINCESS AND THE PLUMBER."

If it hadn't been for David Farrell's ownership of a couple of playhouses in a Massachusetts city, his son Charlie might not hold the niche he fills in screenland's hall of fame.

From boyhood, Charles yearned for a film career. His parents, however, didn't think so much of the idea, and sent the boy to Boston University instead. But during vacation, Charlie got into a backstage conversation with a vaudeville actor playing at the theatre and the latter offered him a small part in his company.

"West," said the actor. "Chicago first, and St. Louis and Omaha and Denver and Los Angeles and—"

"That's enough," said Charlie, recalling from his geography that Hollywood was in the last named city. "Wait till I pack a suitcase."

Farrell accompanied the troupe to Los Angeles, and promptly took the first street car to the film capital. That evening he handed in his resignation to the actor and started on a screen career that kept him playing extra roles for two years.

One day a Fox Films director saw him and promptly offered him the leading role in "Wings of Youth." This in turn brought him a role in "Sandy" and a long term contract, with the Paramount organization borrowing him for "Old Ironsides" and "Rough Riders."

When Frank Borzage, the director, was starting to make "7th Heaven," he signed Farrell for the role of Chico that made his name a household word throughout the world. "7th Heaven" was followed by a series of successful hits, with "Sunny Side Up," "High Society Blues," and "Lilliom" as the most recent of them.

Farrell's newer offering, in which Maureen O'Sullivan and H. B. Warner are also featured, is "The Princess and the Plumber," a charming comedy romance which comes to the Regent Theatre on Thursday and Friday of this week. Alexander Korda directed and the cast includes Joseph Cawthorn, Lucien Prival, Louise Closser Hale, and Bert Roach.

THREE REPRESENTATIVES LEFT IN INTERMEDIATE CLASS PLAY-OFFS

Of 5,000 Players Who Secured Certificates to Play in O. H. A. Hockey This Year Less Than 100 Athletes Are Left to Carry Teams Towards Dominion Senior and Junior Honours.

THREE TEAMS ARE LEFT IN EACH DIVISION.

TORONTO Ont., Mar. 3.—(By the Canadian Press.)— More than 5,000 players secured certificates to compete in the various series under the jurisdiction of the Ontario Hockey Association last autumn and nearly all dreamed through the long winter schedules of playing in perhaps the Allan Cup final for the Canadian senior hockey championship or in the Memorial Cup final for the Canadian junior crown.

To-day finds less than 100 athletes with their dreams still undisturbed. The long championship trail has taken its annual toll and only nine teams remain in the hunt for the pot of gold 'neath the elusive rainbow.

In the Senior series the well balanced Hamilton Tiger squad, the systematic Port Colborne "Sailors" and the Mic Macs of Windsor, have come through unscathed.

Last night the Ports defeated the Tigers, 1 to 0 in a keenly contested match at the Lake Erie town and will therefore carry this slim margin with them to the Mountain City for the return game on Wednesday. The winner on the round will be crowned Senior 'A" series champions and will qualify to meet Windsor, Senior "B" series champions for the O.H.A. title.

Hamilton Pats, Chatham and Royal Military College of Kingston are the surviving teams in the Intermediate class. The Pats Meet Chatham to-night in the first of home and home games. The second clash will take place Thursday and the winner of the round will meet R.M.C. next week in the final.

Three splendid teams still have ambitions of winning the Junior crown. These are Owen Sound, Niagara Falls and West Toronto. The latter eliminated Oshawa last night and qualified to meet Owen Sound in the semi-final. The winner will then take on Niagara Falls.

The O.H.A. winners will be drawn against the Northern Ontario Hockey Association champions in the first rounds of the Allan Cup and Memorial Cup playdowns.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 3 (C.P.)—Elmwood Millionaires last night won the first game of the final series for the Manitoba Junior hockey championship from Monarchs, 3 to 1. Three times Manitoba's representatives in the Memorial Cup playdowns, Eldwood need only another win over their city rivals to again qualify for inter-Provincial competition.

ELIMINATE INDECENCY

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 3. (CP) A group of organizations representing actors and producers has undertaken to set up a conference board for the "control of offenses against public decency in the theatre."

SOFTBALL HEADS EXPULSION IS RECOMMENDED IN REPORT

D'Alesandro and Miss Mabel Ray Should Be Barred From Organized Amateur Sport.

DEMAND INVESTIGATION.

TORONTO, March 3.—After consideration of the report of the Ontario Athletic Commission on Toronto Women's Softball Association activities, together with further evidence, the Registration and Executive Committee of the Ontario Branch, Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, decided "that in the best interests of amateur athletics, W. J. D'Alesandro be no longer permitted to have any connection with an amateur athletic organization," and recommends to the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, and through them to the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada, that "Miss Mabel Ray be no longer permitted to have any connection with an amateur athletic organization."

Three other submissions by this body are that the situation in women's athletics to-day is "not desirable"; that a complete survey be made at once, and that unless immediate action and remedy is undertaken by the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada, that the necessary steps be taken to cancel this affiliation by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The report adopted yesterday will be forwarded to the President of the Dominion body—James I. Morkin, K.C., Winnipeg. He will place the situation before the governing body of women's athletics in Canada for necessary action.

All to Be Notified

It was said last night that the decision of the committee meeting of yesterday, as it affects D'Alesandro, will be communicated to the Marlboro' Athletic Club—which plays hockey in the Ontario Hockey Association and the Toronto Hockey League—and the Toronto Amateur Softball Association. Mr. D'Alesandro is connected with activities in these organizations.

All governing bodies of amateur sports, such as lacrosse, football, softball, basketball, etc., also will be notified of the action taken by the committee yesterday.

CANADIAN HAS REAL CHANCE FOR WORLD'S BADMINTON TITLE

HAS A GREAT RECORD.

By Einar V. Rechnitzer
(Special to The Examiner—Copyright 1931)

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 3.—Canada may soon have another world's champion!

We are proud of our Jack Guest and our Percy Williams for their victories in racing, by foot and by shell. We'll be just as proud of Jack Purcell when he brings to Canada the all England Badminton singles championship. For the reclaimed game of bat and bird is no sissy-sassy affair these days, and ranks, in point of Canadian devotees, among the major amateur sports.

Jack Purcell, our Canadian champion for the past two years sailed for England on February 17th to compete in a tournament that means, for him, a world's title. There is little likelihood that he will be beaten. At least, that is the feeling of his Canadian rooters.

Already this year he has taken the measure of the best players England can produce, and on this side of the water he has again demonstrated this superiority over all comers by winning the Ontario title this month for the fifth consecutive year. His record in Canada stands at 17 major championships. He has won the singles of the Toronto city and district tourney for a number of years and paired with Miss Betty McRae has been victor in mixed doubles events too numerous to mention. He has not been particularly outstanding in men's doubles, but he has his prizes to show that he stars in this department of the game as well as others.

At His Zenith

Purcell has now reached a peak of perfection in his style of play. When the English players recently toured the country, there was some doubt as to his ability to come up to their standard and in Toronto he won from D. C. Hume, the present holder of the all-England title, in straight sets, 15-3, 15-10.

In Kingston the same month he beat R. C. F. Nichols 15-9, 8-15, 15-9 and J. F. Devlin, former English champion, fell before him at Montreal by scores of 15-4, 18-15. R. M. White, the fourth English player, was also beaten by Purcell in Montreal by scores of 15-5, 15-7.

The Canadian champion has so developed his game that I believe it is now vastly superior to the best England has to offer.

He has originated and put into effective practice a manner deceptively hitting the bird that is entirely confusing to his opponent.

He is probably not as spectacular as most good players. He may not hit as hard as the strongest smashers, yet he has an uncanny court craftmanship that completely baffles an opponent and ruins their pet strokes or the shots they have relied on most for victory.

Tough Task for Him

In England he will face many handicaps. To begin with, he has a long sea voyage and only a week or two to become accustomed to the change of climate before the big test comes. The All-England championships are being held at the Horticultural Hall in Old London on March 2-7, under conditions of natural light. Purcell's game has been mostly developed under artificial light, and this difference alone is sufficient to upset most skilful players. Then again he will be playing on a portable board floor which will be a new unaccustomed footing for him.

But in spite of every handicap, Purcell will give a good account of himself and I believe will win. That the English regard him as a serious threat is shown in the following extract from the London Evening News:

"No players from overseas has yet captured the All-England badminton title. Only one player has ever attempted to before—Gilmore from Vancouver. Now, however, we are in danger of losing our honors, for Jack Purcell, the Canadian champion has definitely decided to enter the All-England event.

"This entry is a real challenge. The Canadian is a tip top exponent of the shuttle game and the finest player the overseas Dominion has ever developed."

THREE CUP GAMES SOUTH-END LOOP

First Game of Sections Finals Will Start Off at 7 O'clock To-night.

Three cup games in the South End City League take place to-night at the Brock Street rink. Tigers and Canuck Juveniles start it off at seven in their final battle for the Mark Bredin cup. Tigers have a one-goal margin, having won the first game 1 to 0. The bantam finalists Fosters and Athletics, go on at eight with the latter trailing by one goal on the round. The boys are fighting for the J. A. O'Brien trophy. The third game will see Stars and Canucks of the junior section winding it up at nine o'clock in their quest for the J. A. Stewart cup and the junior championship. Canucks won the first game 2-1 but it is not a safe margin between these evenly-matched outfits.

Fans are assured of excellent hockey to-night in these final fixtures. The teams play a fast and none too gentle brand of the winter sport, and with good ice promised, there should be action and thrills galore.

Former Holder Of World's Best All-Round Athlete Working In $4 a Day Shovel Gang

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 2. (CP)—Jim Thorpe, great football player and once holder of the title of world's best all-round athlete, is working here as a laborer with pick and shovel for $4 per day, but he can still grin.

The once mighty athlete who in 1912 almost single handed cornered Olympic honors for his native country, only to relinquish his trophies later under charges of professionalism, is not ashamed of his job.

"I'm not through," he said today.

Jim is a noncentity in a motley crew of diggers excavating for the Los Angeles county hospital. He answers to "J. Thorpe" at the paymaster's wicket.

After work Jim goes home to a very small cottage where Mrs. Thorpe who also can smile still, and Phillip, 4, and Billy, 2, wait for him. It's hard to find a reason for the present state of affairs of the smiling former athletic kingpin.

"Guess it's an old story," he grins. "I liked to be a good fellow with the boys. But I'll come out of this, and I'll do some saving when I do."

Stanley Kunz of Chicago With His Stable After 40 Years' Connection With Race Track

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 3. (CP) Stanley Kunz of Chicago, former congressman, whose race horses became famous on Chicago tracks and elsewhere because they usually finished last, to-day is without his stable after 40 years of connection with the turf.

Kunz disposed of his 42 thoroughbreds because he no longer could withstand the financial burden. The stables were sold to the estate of the late Charles Dean of Palatine, Ill., harness racing ace, and will be operated by his sons, Charles, Ben and Jerry.

The horses raced by Kunz, among them Deerfield, Princess Pan, Majeste, Bottoms Up and Cold Cream, were famous for their habits of finishing last and farther back than entrants from any other stables. However, on rare occasions when they came in, their mutual ticket prices resembled numbers on a box car. About five years ago, Bottoms Up staggered to victory at Aurora and paid plenty. Three years later, another Kunz horse popped in, Majestic beating a band of maidens at Arlington Park and paying off in clearing house figures.

COLONEL DEACON KNOWS ANIMALS JUST AS WELL AS STOCK MARKET

WELL KNOWN FIGURER.

(By J. H. Turnpenny, Copyright 1931)

TORONTO, Mar. 2.—A man above the average height, of generous girth, yet not exactly a portly man, a man with a smooth complexion and pinkish cheeks, deep brown eyes beneath eyebrows which are not brown, nor yet black, a high forehead, somewhat narrowing at the temples, and silvery white hair which lies contentedly flat—Colonel F. H. Deacon engraves upon the memory an impressionable first picture.

At business, he is head of the stock brokerage firm of F. H. Deacon and Co., Toronto Stock Exchange—he is likely to be found wearing a suit of light brown—almost ochre color. The whole, a picture of blinding lights which one would never dream, say, of fitting into a Rembrandnt setting. A man of indefinable age, though the records say he was born in 1874.

Col. Deacon's office is on the first floor and it is spacious even for the man himself. He sits behind a desk rather near the high windows which look out on a busy thoroughfare—Toronto's Wall Street. His swivel chair swings easily as he turns to a small telephone stand to answer enquiries regarding stocks, or to transmit orders to buy and sell on the exchange.

Further along is a snap taken of Rudyard Kipling at St. Andrews. On the far wall a picture of Barron—a personal friend of Col. Davidson; of his father-in-law, Hon. H. R. Emmerson; of his eldest and youngest sons on either side of Mrs. Deacon, and immediately opposite one of Col. Deacon himself, talking with Lord Byng, in slouch clothes, on the former's farm. Hanging at odd places and between the front windows, pictures of great, wide-chested, heavy beef cattle, with certificates of award. These latter pictures are as strangely unfamiliar in a stock-broker's office as moss along the curbstone front of the Deacon building, yet giving a clue to the dual personality of the subject of this sketch.

Even in his daily business routine something of that other self asserts itself. Col. Deacon arises early, has his breakfast at home and invariably walks to his office. He finds his body demands the exercise and at the same time a brisk walk stimulates the mental faculties. Col. Deacon arrives earlyfor he likes to be accomplishing things while the sun is yet soon on its daily round.

At Heart a Country Gentleman

Col. Deacon is at heart the country gentleman and not at all the dealer in stocks and bonds. You have only to talk with him to realize this. When I called to interview him and attempted to probe into his personal history he dismissed with a few words his first years of public school teaching, the years spent travelling Ontario cities and towns selling bonds and debentures which prepared him for establishing the present stock brokerage business, of his active service in the army, and, with greater warmth, described his six hundred acre farm at Unionville, spoke with pride of his success as a breeder of shorthorns.

Horses, not cattle, were Col. Deacon's first love, and an animal of good lines and mettle will cause the Colonel to pause and admire any day. Before the automobile and the paved roads threatened the existance of the carriage horse, Colonel Deacon had his own stable of hackneys and never a day passed but what he was to be seen, either at morning or evening, driving his wel-set-up rig. He speaks with regret of giving up his stable. I appreciated the loss he felt, and, sensing a sympathetic listener he leaned back in his chair, tapping the palm of his right hand with the forefinger and put the question, "Which would you choose—to draw the line of a fine team or drive a $20,000 car; which gives you the real thrill of enjoyment?" But the question was its own answer and I remained discreetly silent. Had the comparison been riding behind a high-stepping team or in a clattering street car, or even sitting behind the wheel of a model T Ford, I might have attempted an opinion.

Col. Deacon was green at the game when he purchased his first farm fifteen years ago. But he applied himself with the same thoroughness he had in other business, added to his acreage until now he has, at Unionville, five complete units, comprising in all 600 acres. Colonel Deacon hired competent management and soon was raising prize winning grains. His livestock activities have rather overshadowed his results as a farmer and there is a feeling that sometime it irks the Colonel that this latter fact is overlooked.

Of his success as a breeder of shorthorns, the records supply ample evidence. Fine gold medals, four of them from the Canadian National Exhibition, one from the Chicago International Live stock Exposition, have been awarded him for his animals. Last year "Tam O' Glenburn" was adjudged grand champion shorthorn steer and reserve grand champion steer and reserve grand champion of all beef breeds and grand champion of all breeds of steer at both the Royal Winter Fair and C.N.E. "Glenburn Field Marshal" was adjudged junior and grand champion shorthorn bull at the C.N.E. and Royal Winter Fair and "Edellyn Favorite," sire of both was grand champion shorthorn bull at the C.N.E. and Royal Winter Fair in both 1928 and 1929 and the International Show at Chicago in 1929. Colonel Deacon is especially proud of the fact that these animals were all bred and raised on his farm. Hon. Robert Weir, minister of agriculture in the Dominion Government told Col. Deacon history had been made by the record that shorthorn family.

This business of farming and cattle breeding is no mere hobby with Col. Deacon. Again and again he emphasized the benefits accruing to the country as a whole from thoroughbred breeding of the need for more men with financial resources to cultivate the thoroughbreds that the average acreage of the stock throughout the country might be improved.

"It is important that men who have the time and money should do something along this line," said Colonel Deacon. "It is not a hobby. It is much more. If we could win recognition in Canada, for our livestock that, say Scotland has, we would be adding to the prestige of Canada and what is more, we would increase the wealth of this country. Let the farmer improve his stock at reasonable prices. As we raise the standard of our stock, so do we add to the wealth of our country. If the western farmer is to pursue more diversified lines, it is evident that Ontario must supply the stock. And that is one way of improving the economic condition of the country."

Proud of His Crops

"Proud of my livestock? Yes, but more so of my crops," said the Colonel in answer to a question. "Money can buy good seeds, money can erect fine buildings, but it takes brains and hard work to produce fine quality successfully."

Aside from his interest in cattle and farming the Colonel is well-known throughout Canada in stock-broking circles. Previuos to 1905, when the present company was formed he travelled from coast to coast, selling bonds and securities, as well as purchasing them.

He has also a war record of which to be proud. Until 1910, he served as Captain of the Halton Rifles, but was transferred to the C.A.S.C. in that year. In 1916 he became Lieutenant-colonel of the C.E.F., and 1918 was promoted to Colonel. He has served with societies too numerous to mention here. Many of them had some connection with the war, while others include hospitals, Universities, Y.M.C.A's. and the the Canadian National Exhibition.

For recreation, outside of farming, he prefers golf, but does not like to talk about it.

Reams could be written about this thorough Canadian, and no doubt in years to come, reams will be written. Suffice to say here, that he has one main purpose in life, and that is the service of his country. Above all personal gain, he has placed Canada, his native land, next to his heart.

A BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S NECK SCARF

"Come back here, Uncle Wiggily! Come right back here if you please. Don't you dare take another hop without it!"

"Oh, dear!" sighed the jolly, old, rabbit gentleman. "Oh, dear!"

You might think it was the Bob Cat or the Wolf talking to Mr. Longears this way, but if was only Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. And the reason the kind muskrat lady housekeeper spoke so sternly was for Uncle Wiggily's own good. Even if the Fox had been there, which he was not, that bad chap could hardly have spoken at all, for I think his mouth was still tightly closed by the sticky maple wax candy Uncle Wiggily had given the bad Chap in the story before this.

"Here! Put it on at once and don't be such a baby!" said Nurse Jane to Uncle Wiggily, catching him just as he was going to hop down the front steps of his hollow stump bungalow to go adventuring.

"But I don't need it and I don't like it!" objected Mr. Longears.

"You need this scarf around your neck as it is cold and the wind is blowing," said Nurse Jane. "As for liking it you will get to like it if you wear it enough. Your wife and I have tried all winter, to make you wrap this scarf about your neck when you go out But you always slip away without putting it on if we don't watch you. I just caught you this time, didn't I?"

"Yes, you just caught me," said Uncle Wiggily as he took the long, warm, woollen scarf from Nurse Jane and began to wrap it around his neck. "Another second and I'd have been gone."

"Without your scarf and you might catch cold!" gently scolded the muskrat lady housekeeper. "And you don't take that scarf off your neck and stick it in your pocket when you get out of sight, either!" she ordered.

She caught it in her paws.

"All right," sighed the rabbit gentleman. "But I don't like to wear a scarf!" he said. "It tickles!"

"Better to be tickled than to catch cold!" said Nurse Jane.

"And it scratches!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"Better to be scratched than to catch cold!" said Nurse Jane.

She watched Mr. Longears as he hopped down the steps and along the path from his bungalow to the trail through the forest where many adventures awaited the rabbit gentleman. Nurse Jane watched Uncle Wiggily as long as she could see him.

"For," she whispered, "he may take that scarf off his neck and put it in his pocket. It would be just like him."

Well, that's exactly what Uncle Wiggily did. As soon as he was out of Nurse Jane's sight, around the corner of the bungalow, the rabbit gentleman pulled off the warm scarf from around his neck and stuck it in his pocket, I mean he stuck the scarf in his pocket—not his neck. The only animal who might put his neck in his pocket is a giraffe, and he has so much neck that he would hardly miss what he put in his pocket.

"There! I feel better!" said Uncle Wiggily when he had taken off the scarf and put it in his pocket. Oh, but wasn't he the jolly bad old rabbit gentleman? Yes, indeed! "Now I'll look for an adventure!" said Mr. Longears. "I don't believe I'll catch cold." And just before I get back to my bungalow I'll put my scarf on again and Nurse Jane will never know but what I wore it all the time."

Dear me! Isn't Uncle Wiggily getting bad all of a sudden!

Along hopped the rabbit gentleman and soon he heard some jolly shouts and laughter in the woods ahead of him.

"That's at the duck pond!" Uncle Wiggily said. "It is frozen and I suppose the animal boys and girls are skating. I'll go watch them."

With the long woolen scarf dangling from his pocket, Uncle Wiggily hopped to the duck pond in the woods and there, surely enough, were many animals children having fun, sliding, skating and sailing ice boats.

All of a sudden as Uncle Wiggily hopped to the edge of the pond, there was a cracking of ice, loud shouts and Jackie Bow Wow barked:

"Oh, Baby Bunty has broken through the ice!"

"Out of my way! I must save Baby Bunty!" cried Uncle Wiggily, hopping fast out to the place where the little orphan rabbit had gone through a hole in the ice. But as the rabbit gentleman went out on the ice it cracked more and more.

"Come back or you'll break through!" barked Jackie, as Baby Bunty held with her poor little paws to the edge of the hole.

"But I must get Bunty out!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I can't unless I go close. But if I go too close the ice will break with me and we will both be in and then—Oh dear! Ha! I have it! My long neck scarf!"

Pulling the scarf from his pocket, the rabbit gentleman flung one end to Baby Bunty in the ice hole. She caught it in her paws and then Uncle Wiggily and the others pulled Bunty safely from the ice hole.

SECESSION, BLUFF SAYS GUARDIAN

Action in Canadian West and New South Wales Possible, But Not Likely.

TARIFF BLAMED.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Mar. 3. (C.P. Cable) — The Manchester Guardian, discussing to-day the reports of secession talk in the Canadian west and similar reports from New South Wales, describes them as "revolts of the primary producers whose interests have been subordinated to those of the secondary industries."

"Tariff hits the farmers equally hard, whether it is imposed to protect the profits of Ontario industrialists or the wages of the Sydney Trade Unionists" The Guardian continued. "The talk about secession cannot yet be considered as more than a bluff, if indeed it is as much.

"But there is nothing physically impossible about it. When Churchill is open for navigation, Western Canada will have an independent outlet for at least some months in the year. 'New England,' the mooted independent state in Australia, has a long coastline and could quite easily transfer its allegiance from New South Wales to Victoria.

"We do not look to see these exciting projects happen, but that they should be projected is a striking reminder of the desperation to which tariffs can drive those who do not benefit by them."

Judges Rated Higher In Canada Than U.S.

BY THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 3. — Canadian judges and barristers had a higher standard than they could claim in the United States, Mr. Justice MacNaghten (Hon. Sir. Malcolm MacNaghten), a judge of the High Court of Justice, King's Bench division, told the Yorkshire Law Society today.

His Lordship, speaking of the visit of British judges and lawyers to Canada and the United States last autumn, said that nobody would attribute to the people of the United States the virtue of modesty. They were not slow to proclaim their own merits. Nevertheless it was quite clear they had recognized that in the administration of the law they were somewhat behind England "and what is perhaps more interesting, they have recognized they are a long way behind the Canadian profession," he said.

The Blue Devils Of The Alps

This picture shows the Alpine Chasseurs on manoeuvres in the Alps near the Italian frontier. These "Blue Devils," so called because their berets are blue, are as much at home on skis as are the British cavalry on horses, and ninety per cent. of their "route marches and manoeuvres are done on these seemingly unwieldly skis.

ODD SLANTS AT INDUSTRY

by HAROLD R. SUTHERLAND

© STAR NEWSPAPER SERVICE

It takes such disasters as the recent earthquake in New Zealand to make most Canadians appreciate how fortunate they are to be living on a portion of the globe, which is relatively so stable. The reason for this is that Precambrian rocks of this country, comprise, apparently, an unusual solid part of the earth's surface. What is going on below these rocks scientists know very little. In fact, says the Canadian Mining Journal, our ignorance about the earth's crust is surprising. The commonly accepted idea is that the rocky surface is about twelve miles thick and beyond this distance it merges gradually into a hot interior that would be fluid if it were not for the great pressure that keeps it solid. The twelve miles of solid crust—a mere tissue resting upon the heated mass beneath—has been compared to the peel of an orange, but actually it is thinner than the skin of an apple. The record of the rocks show that the crustal moves are, in general, almost infinitely slow, and that this great lapse of time ordinarily permits them to flow rather than break under the influence of the strains thus produced. Occasionally, however, the pressure is too great and the crust cracks, producing an earthquake. Usually the movement is a minute fraction of an inch but even then the tremors are awesome. At long intervals there are somewhat larger movements, possibly as much as several feet, and in an inhabitated region this means a cataclysm.

Whatever may be said regarding the strange movements of the rock below us there are thousands of miners in Canada, who make their living by delving into the so-called tissue-like crust of the earth, with seldom a thought of the risk involved. In Nova Scotia, for instance, there are groups of men, who not only work hundreds of feet below the surface of the earth, but actually underneath the sea. Canada, we are told by the Canadian Mining and Metallurgical Bulletin, possesses the only submarine coal mines on this continent, one mine alone in the Glace Bay district, having three square miles of workings below the bed of the ocean. An exhibit from this same mine is now housed in the National Museum at Ottawa. It consists of a perfect column of coal, ten feet in height and eight inches in thickness representing a complete unbroken section across a thick seam and including at top and bottom, six inch layers of the shale roof and sandy shale floor. This column, which is one of thirteen pillars extracted from Nova Scotia mines, is unique among museum coal exhibits of North America because of its perfect condition and of the unusual thickness of the seam. Each column weighs approximately one thousand pounds, and several of them were obtained from locations over twelve hundred feet beneath seal evel and over two miles from the shore.

Both Contribute

In contrast to the Nova Scotia miners, whose work takes them far below the surface of the earth, there are members of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who find employment at the opposite extreme and in areas just as unchartered as those below the bed of the ocean. Both contribute to the industrial life of the Dominion. In the past two years airmen, in co-operation with the Department of the Interior, have photograph approximately one hundred and forty thousand square miles of territory in nearly every province of Canada. Aerial surveying, a field in which Canada is doing more than probably any other country in the world, is of immense value in the taking of the national inventory of forest resources. Experimental work was undertaken last year in this connection. And it may not be many years before a photographic record will be made of all standing timber in the Dominion. This work, however, if it is going to be worth while, must be accomplished within the very near future if the warning of Frank J. D. Barnjum, well-known forest conservationist, is correct. He says in his recently published volume entitled "Startling Fact and Fallacies regarding Canada's Forests", that our timber reserves will be exhausted within eight years if we continue to deplete them at the present rate.

With such measures as reforestation, it is unlikely that the wooded areas of Canada will be eliminated so completely as the buffalo, which, during the early settlement of this country, roamed the western prairies in great numbers. To-day there is only one herd of wild buffalo left in the world, which roams a territory in the extreme northeast corner of Alberta. The area was recently visited by the Topographical Survey of Canada and 4,870 square miles of terrain photographed from the air, the farthest north section of Canada mapped in this way. In addition to being the refuge of the last of the buffalo, the area includes much territory of historical interest, being traversed by the Slave River and having as its northwestern extreme Fort Smith. It was at the "Rapids of the Drowned" near Fort Smith that Cuthbert Grant, in 1786, lost five men, two canoes and some merchandise, while on his way to found the post on Great Slave Lake.

Devising New Ways

However rough the buffalo has been treated, the present generation is certainly not deficient in devising new and better ways of taking care of its cattle. According to the Canadian Dairy and Ice Cream Journal, a milking system has now been put in use that applies the well-known industrial principle of bringing the work to the operator instead of the operator to the work. In this case the cows are brought to the milker instead of the milker to the cows. And what fun it must be for the farmer to watch his cattle going through the process! No more aching backs and tired wrists. No more socks across the face with a wet soggy tail. Housed in a beautifully tiled building, which not only contains the milking system, but a complete set of offices an laboratories, is a revolving platform upon which are placed fifty stanchions. The cows are driven from a passageway onto the platform, which revolves slowly, completing a revolution in twelve and one half minutes. During the ride of the animals, they are washed, cleaned and dried, while the milk is drawn by mechanical milkers, without coming in contact with the atmosphere, human hands or other sources of contamination. As soon as one cow steps off the platform another steps on and with each revolution fifty cows have been milked. In the centre of this bovine merry-go-round is a large observation room glassed in, where observers may watch the milking process. This system, which has already been installed on a farm where 1,500 cows are milked each day is apparently the answer to the question: "How are you goin' to keep 'em down on the farm?"

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 2 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

For several weeks after the Russian had been taken aboard, the "Marjorie W." cruised up the coast. Chartered by a wealthy syndicate, she had been equipped with a laboratory and a staff of scientists and sent searching for new sources of a natural product heretofore imported expensively from South America. The work had brought the expedition to a lonely island off the coast of western Africa, where the ship was now anchored.

During this month's idleness the monotony of life had become trying to the crew, and so frequent permission had been given them for shore leave. Far from being grateful for his rescue, Paulvitch, as he recovered physically, developed a sense of dull hatred toward his companions. Still too weak to work, he was soon left to his own devices, tolerated by the sailors merely because they thought him mildly insane.

Today he, too, tiring of the blighting sameness of existence on the ship, had asked permission to accompany them ashore. The island was heavily timbered, a dense jungle running almost down to the beach. The scientists were far inland, prosecuting their search, while the ship's company separated to fish or hunt. The Russian, avoided as usual, wandered up the shore and at length lay down to sleep beneath a great tree's shade.

An hour after, he was awakened by the touch of a hand upon his shoulder. With a start he sat up to see a large anthropoid ape squatting at his side, inspecting him intently. Paulvitch shivered as he staggered to his feet, thoroughly frightened. The ape rose at his side. Nowhere was help in sight. The ape plucked at his shoulder, jabbering plaintively. Half doubled with fear, Paulvitch tried to escape. The ape followed, grabbing the man by the arm.

Half Relief Amount Is Paid In Cash

Returns to the Peterborough Relief Association are now over $12,000.00; half of this amount has been paid in cash. This sum has been received from a multitude of subscribers all over the city, and has been voluntary in every case.

No campaign for funds has ever been so successful as this one, as the matter of giving has been left entirely with the citizen. Not a day goes by but that much evidence is seen of the fine work being done by the Relief Association. No complaints of homes being without food or fuel and in many cases medicines, and have been supplied.

Through the three operating agencies—the Central Charity Board, the City relief work plan, and the Peterborough Relief Association, our needy citizens are receiving every legitimate consideration.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas in the stomach or a full bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and often affects the heart.

It is folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a little Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful or four tablets in water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

CONTROL SYSTEM URGED FOR R.I.

Republican Member Favors State Making and Selling 15 Per Cent. Beer.

PERMIT TO COST $2.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Mar. 3. (CP) Establishment of a control system similar to laws in force in some Canadian provinces, under which the State of Rhode Island would be set up in the business of manufacturing and selling 15 per cent. beer, is proposed in a bill introduced in the House to-day by Representative Frederick R. Hazard, Narragansett, a member of the Republican majority.

Payment of a $2 annual fee under the bill would entitle a resident to a permit on which he could be issued one quart of wine and six pints of malt liquors per day. The liquor would be sold at 100 stores, one in each of the State's 100 assembly districts, but not to be consumed on the premises.

An unusual feature of the bill is the stipulation that the purchaser of such liquor shall be deemed to have "mere custody and not possession" of such liquor provided he transports it from the store to the address given on his permit within three hours of the sale.

The sum of $200,000 would be appropriated to establish the system, to be repaid from profits of the enterprise. A state "Board of Control" in the Department of Health, named by the Governor would administer the proposed law.

SLAYER IS CALM AS DEATH NOOSE DROPS OVER HEAD

Last Words Are "Tell Mackenzie King They Will Soon Have Room For Another Immigrant."

AT FT. SASKATCHEWAN JAIL.

Dwernychuck Convicted Last December of Slaying Two Men and Three Women.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 3. — Standing calm while the hangman slipped the noose over his head, George Dwernychuk, convicted slayer of five persons at Smoky Lake on October 22 last, died at the Fort Saskatchewan jail at 4.30 a.m., to-day.

"Tell Mackenzie King and Mr. Forke that they will soon have room for another immigrant," he told his spiritual adviser, Major Hector Habkir of the Salvation Army, shortly before his death.

Four Victims Relatives

Dwernychuck was convicted of slaying two men and three women, four of them relatives by marriage.

The victims of Dwernychuk were John Walanski, Mrs. Helen Walanski, Mary Walanski, Mrs. Helen Huchaluk and Wasyl Darichuk.

The murderer went to the Walanski farm home near Smoky Lake, Alta., shot and killed the four residents there, and meeting Darichuk on a lonely road, as he sought to escape, murdered him. The murders were committed on the night of October 22, 1930.

Trial Lasted Only 8 Hours

Thirty-three days later Dwernychuk was convicted and sentenced to hang Feb. 11, but was later granted a reprieve until to-day. His was the shortest trial on record in the Edmonton judicial district, only eight and a half hours elapsing from the time the jury was empanelled until the sentence was pronounced by Mr. Justice Frankford.

THREE BOYS FACE THEFT CHARGES

Youths Appear in Police Court Charged With Recent Burglaries.

TWO TAKEN IN HAMILTON.

Charged with burglary, three local youths, one but 14 years of age, occupied Police Court docket this morning. Along with them in the crowded box was A. Hambleton, indicted as the receiver of goods stolen by the boys, and Wing Lee, local Chinese, charged as a dope addict.

One of the young prisoners, Arthur McDonald, 19, pleaded guilty to burglarizing one of E. F. Mason's Groceteria stores last November and stealing goods valued at more than $20. He maintained that while he had obtained his share of the booty he had not entered the store but merely stood upon the sidewalk while the store was robbed. He had no counsel, and was remanded for one week. Police state other charges will be laid against him.

Donald Gibbons, alleged to be another member of the gang which police claim have robbed many small stores in outlying parts of the city, was charged with breaking and entering by night the stores of H. E. Estabrook and S. Crowe and stealing goods valued at more than $80.

He pleaded not guilty, and through his counsel, A. L. Elliott, selected to stand trial before the judge. He was remanded for a week.

Another boy, who claimed to be only 14 years old, was charged with the same offences and pleaded guilty. He also was remanded for one week. His case was heard behind closed doors in Juvenile Court.

A. Hambleton pleaded not guilty to charges of receiving stolen articles. Bail was fixed at two sureties of $1,500 each.

Two other youths, Joseph and Gerald McClure, whom police allege to have been active members of the alleged gang, were arrested late last night by Hamilton police in the Ambitious City at the request of Chief Newhall. They will be brought here to face charges of burglary.

After five days on the hill on remand on a charge of vagrancy, a young man, who claimed the United States as his country, was allowed to go free. He was advised by the Chief "to get out of town as soon as possible."

Senator Robertson Urges No Wage Cuts

OTTAWA, Ont., Mar. 3.—(C.P.)—This is not the time to reduce wages in industry nor should employees make demands for increased emolument, declared Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, to-day in an interview. It had come to his attention, he said, that a small independent railway company contemplated reduction in wages.

Believing such a step would aggravate distress conditions in that part of the country, he had communicated with the company officials in an effort to forestall any action. Although he had not received an answer to his letter, Senator Robertson believed he had been successful and that no wage reduction would be made, at least not at present.

MRS. WILLIAMSON GIVES RECITAL AT ST. ANDREW'S

Several Assisting Artists Help Provide Enjoyable Program.

HALL IS FILLED.

(By Jeanette)

There was a spendid attendance in the Sunday School auditorium of St. Andrew's United Church last evening, for the Recital of Songs given by Mrs. Thursa Williamson, soprano, pupil of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, assisted by Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, accompanist; Miss Musa Cox, pianist, artist pupil of R. Gliddon, and Stanley Northrop, violinist, whose accompaniments were played by his brother, Harry Northrop.

The hall was filled with an appreciative audience that greeted each number with applause. The stage was arranged very attractively with bright screens, lighted floor lamps and tall palms. Mrs. Williamson wore a lovely gown of pale yellow with brilliant ornaments and was presented during the evening with two large bouquets of flowers, handed over the footlights by dainty little Ruth McNeely.

Mrs. Williamson's difficult program was presented with ease and skill. She sang a varied program of songs that ranged from the Italian measures of "Batti, Batti," from Mozart's "Don Giovanni," to the familiar strains of "Comin' Thro' the Rye." Her bright, flexible soprano has musical, lilting cadences that are attuned particularly to such attractive numbers of the Vaughan-Williams' arrangements of songs by Robert Louis Stevenson. These were two gypsy songs, the first, "Whither Must I Wander," being the lonesome song of the homeless wanderer, and the second, "The Road-Side Fire," a contrasting bit in the carefree chant of his more cheerful compatriot. In these songs, the lower pitch of Mrs. Williamson's sweet voice was especially attractive.

Three of the older and well-known compositions of famous composers opened the program, in Bach's "My Heart Ever Faithful"; Haydn's "With Verdure Clad" from the "Creation," and the aria from one of Handel's oratorios, "O, Had I Jubal's Lyre." These were exacting numbers, skillfully handled.

Mendelssohn's sweet song, "The First Violet" and the "Batti, Batti" number came next, followed later by two of the melodious, graceful compositions by Grieg, which were beautifully sung and made a distinct impression. These were "In the Boat" and "Solvieg's Song."

A quartette from the pen of modern composers came next, in the two compositions by Vaughan-Williams, Eric Theman's "The God of Love My Shepherd Is," and "A Spring Morning," arranged by Lane Wilson, with a delicate charm to the soft cadences.

A group of old British favorites closed the program: "The Ash Grove" (Welsh), "The Bailiff's Daughter of Islington" (English), "The Last Rose of Summer" (Irish) and "Comin' Thro' the Rye" (Scotch).

Mrs. Green provided her usual sympathetic accompaniment for the song program.

Miss Musa Cox played brilliantly and earned much applause from her audience, coming back to play a bright encore to the insistent appreciation for her rendering of Denee's descriptive composition, "Esprit du Soir" and its dainty companion "Valse," by Levitzki. Moszkowski's "Valse in E Major" was another brilliantly-rendered number.

Stanley Northrop's expert technical ability and sound musicianship was demonstrated in the violin numbers which were in addition to the program. He played the bright music of "Symphonies Espagnole" (Lalo) with much beautiful tone in the second movement, also a delightful "Romance" by Ries, and Musin's well-known "Mazurka de Concert."

TRIBUTES PAID TO JACK BACON

Ray Best and George Cairns Were Close Friends of His in Sport.

A TRUE SPORTSMAN.

"Jack Bacon was one of the most good-natured, even tempered curlers one could possibly find," said Ray Best this morning in a personal reflection and tribute based on their close association of recent years.

Death has separated Bacon and Best who harmonized in their game and personal relations so smoothly and agreeably that they frequently alternated as skip and vice-skip of their rink.

"Jack was the cleanest and fairest curler I ever played with," said Mr. Best, "and he was also the most graceful loser."

Some of their memorable games were played in Toronto, but there were others, many of them on the local ice, and in Oshawa, Lindsay, Lakefield, Bobcaygeon and elsewhere.

George Cairns was another of Bacon's pals, not only in curling but also in bowling. He usually played on the Best-Bacon curling rinks, and also on the bowling green, other partners being Walter Oke, Martin Chenhall and Mark Bredin.

"I have played with Jack Bacon on most of the greens and rinks between Kingston, Toronto and Orillia," said Mr. Cairns, "and whether we were winning or losing we never had an unpleasant incident. Everywhere he was respected as a sportsman and a friend, and he will be greatly missed in both the local curling and bowling clubs."

Break for Liberty Brings Heavy Penalty

12 YEARS APIECE IS GIVEN TO TRIO IN BARRIE COURT

Hard Labor is Added to Sentence Rising From Robbery With Violence Charge.

BEAT UP GOVERNOR.

Youths View Terms Lightly — Seven Years Handed Out For Jail Breaking.

BARRIE, Ont., March 4 (C. P.). — A total of 36 years' imprisonment was meted out by Magistrate Compton Jeffs in the Police Court here to-day to Aiexander Manson, 19, Leslie McLeod, 21, and William Moore, 24, each getting 12 years, with hard labor, in the penitentiary, for robbery with violence in connection with their jail break here last Saturday.

On the jail-breaking charge they were each sentenced to seven years, the sentence to run concurrently with the 12-year term. Each took his sentence lightly.

The prisoners beat the jail governor and his wife and a turnkey when they made their escape from the local jail on Saturday night. They were recaptured three hours later, having driven 30 miles south in the governor's car.

Heave Sighs

Both Manson and McLeod took their sentences with a heavy sigh while Moore stood gazing out a window as he had done throughout the hearing, although Manson, under his breath frequently refuted statements.

Under the impression that they were going down for nineteen years each, they roughly estimated the time they would again see the outer world, while committment forms were being filled in for their removal to county jail to await transfer to Kingston.

No new facts were brought in the hearing to-day. Governor Banting and Turnkey Weymouth each related the fight at the jail prior to the break, while Chief Alex Stewart and the Provincial Constable recalled their capture.

Would-Be King

Anthony Hall, 30-year-old Briton, has informed King George that he himself is the rightful sovereign of the British Empire, claiming the throne from an ancestor, Henry Tudor, who won the crown in 1485. King George has given no intimation that he will abdicate.

BROTHERS ELECT TRIAL BY JUDGE ON THEFT CHARGE

Additional Charges Are Laid By Police Against Alleged Burglary Ring.

ALL ARE REMANDED.

Juvenile Member Has Pleaded Guilty to Four Burglary Charges.

Additional burglary charges were laid today in police court against the six local youths held responsible by police for the series of store robberies extending from last November in and about the city.

The McClure brothers, Gerald and John, who gave their ages as 18 and 17, were each charged with participating in the burglary of H. Eastbrooke's store and H. Davidson's. The boys were brought here from Hamilton yesterday. Both elected trial by judge and were remanded until next Tuesday for preliminary hearing.

Guilty To 4 Charges

One member of the alleged gang, a 14-year-old boy, pleaded guilty to four charges of burglary. These robberies included thefts from Morrison's store at Phelan's Corners near Lakefield and from Davidson's store at the corner of Lock and Braidwood streets.

Donald Gibbons was also charged

ALBERTA SWEPT BY DUST STORMS BLANKETING SUN

Cities, Towns and Farm Homes in Darkness as Gale Passes.

PROSPECTORS IN PATH.

Farmer Badly Hurt as Forest Fire Rages in Clear Water Reserve.

CALGARY, Alta., March 4 (C.P.). — Cutting off sunlight and bringing early night to virtually the whole province, dust storms swept across Alberta late yesterday while a forest fire in the Clear Water Forest Reserve destroyed timber and brought serious injury to 'Sotty' Neilson, farmer trapped in the blazing area.

Included in the path of the storm that roared from the mountain-tops in the wake of the 45-mile-an-hour wind was the isolated district of Livingstone Valley where 50 prospectors are maintaining their search for gold, started almost a month ago.

Swirling dust from areas where little snow has fallen during the unusually warm winter, the gale carried darkness to cities, town and farm homes alike, spurred the flames in the Clear Water Reserve, and eventually brought snowfall that levelled the dust and checked the flaming forests.

Believing that the half-hundred men now searching for gold in the Livingstone Range are experienced prospectors and well equipped, little fear is felt for their safety. All 'tenderfeet' have staked their claims and left for home, while others are living in tents on the claims which they have registered.

Greenhill Refuses Medical Examination

TORONTO, Ont., March 4. (CP)—A. D. Greenhill, held at the local jail on a charge of murdering his foreman, M. J. Hamilton early in the week refused to allow the jail physician Dr. W. T. Parry to physically examine him. It was made known to-day until he had seen his lawyer. Following his unsuccessful attempt to examine Greenhill, Dr. Parry announced that he would make a further attempt this afternoon.

BANK MANAGER PICKS OUT BANDIT

Suspect Chosen From Police Line-up in Montreal Station.

CAPTURED IN HIS ROOM.

MONTREAL, Que., March 4 (C.P.)—In a police "line-up" this morning, the manager of a north-end branch of the Bank of Montreal and two of the bank staff identified John Vialongo, 28-year-old bricklayer from Brooklyn, N.Y., as the lone bandit who held up the bank branch yesterday, and made good his escape with $1,000 of the bank's funds.

Vialongo was arrested to-day at a rooming-house, and gave his home address as 1704 17th Avenue, Brooklyn, N.Y. He said he had been out of work for some time and had come here in search of work. A copy of "The Life of Al Capone" was found turned down on a table near his bed when four detectives entered and made the arrest. Police were unable to find any trace of the $1,000 in cash taken from the bank.

COAST INVADED BY TIDAL WAVE

HIGHWAY IMPASSABLE.

BOSTON, Mass., March 4. (CP)—The highest tide in 22 years aggravated by a strong northeast wind to-day invaded the New England coast, inundated streets, stalled automobiles and marooned occupants of waterfront buildings. Transportation service, both steam and motor, was a standstill in many sections and, because approaches were under water, ferry service in Boston harbor was suspended. Property damage was expected to reach a high figure.

The narrow gauge railroad to Lynn and Winthrop streets were deep in water and cellars flooded, while residents made their way about in rubber boots.

Highways Impassable

Row boats were employed along Boston's water front when docks and streets disappeared beneath the encroaching sea. Hundreds of automobiles were stalled throughout the coastal region, and the main highway from Lynn to Boston was altogether impassable. Serious damage to beach property at White Island, near Portsmouth, N.H., was believed inevitable.

Commander R. F. Luce, of the United States coast Geodetic Survey, reported that the tide reached a maximum of 13 feet 8 inches at 11.15 a.m.; of this height, 2 feet 8 inches was accounted for by the northeast wind, Commander Luce said.

MOTHER'S DEATH LEADS DAUGHTER TO END HER LIFE

Story of Shame of Vivian Gordon Proves Too Much For 16 Year Old Girl.

TURNS GAS JETS ON.

Audibon Police Read Details Leading Up to Benita Bischoff's Suicide in Her Diary.

AUDIBON, N.J., March 4 (C.P.)—Audibon police to-day read in the entries in her diary for the last four days the story of the shame over the life and death of her mother, Vivian Gordon, that led 16-year-old Benita Bischoff to kill herself.

The attractive high school girl was found unconscious in the gas-filled kitchen of her home yesterday by her step-mother, Mrs. Eunice Bischoff. She died shortly after reaching a Camden hospital.

Four Entries In Diary.

In her diary, which was found on the dresser in her bedroom, she had made four entries, the first on February 28, two days after her mother's body, with a knotted cord around her neck, was found in Van Cortland Park, New York. The entries were:

"February 28—What an awful mess mother got herself into; she has been found dead in New York, and they are saying terrible things.

"March 1—Every one is nice to me, especially mother (her step-mother). I guess I'll change my name from Bischoff to Frederica. (Frederica was her middle name).

"March 2—They are saying so many things. It is awful.

"March 3—I just can's live any longer. This has got to be too much for me. I am going to end it all. If any money is coming to me from my mother I wish that it be divided between my grandmother, Herbert Trout and Bill. I am in my right mind, and I am now going to turn on the jets."

Her grandmother is Mrs. Margaret Sanders, of Philadelphia. Trout was her schoolboy sweetheart, and "Billy" is Billy Walton, her 16-year-old stepsister. The authorities estimated that the estate of Vivian Gordon was worth $50,000.

Case Of Suicide.

Clifford A. Baldwin, prosecutor of Camden County, said he was convinced Benita had committed suicide. Windows and doors of the kitchen had been tightly closed and gas was pouring from open jets in the range. Scattered about the floor and table lay newspapers carrying in heavy headlines accounts of the murder of her mother, who police believe was slain because of testimony she had threatened to give in the New York vice investigation.

Mrs. Bischoff said Benita had been despondent since her mother's death and that she did not want to face her friends.

Falls 15,265 Feet Before Opening 'Chute

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 4. — (C.P.)—"Soud" Manning, 22, to-day claimed a new record for delayed parachute jumps after official calibration of the barograph he carried on a leap last Sunday showed he fell 15,265 feet before opening his 'chute.

The previous record was 9,600 feet, set by Rex Harker over Cincinnati, Ohio, August 4, 1929.

W. P. Baldersion, secretary of the Los Angeles Chapter of the National Aeronautic Association, said Manning's jump demonstrated that a flier could fall any distance without fear of death from air pressure.

"I got the worst jerk of my life when I finally did pull the ring to open my parachute," Manning said, "but it wasn't hard to do."

CONGRESS ENDS; SIGH OF RELIEF BREATHED IN U. S.

Business, Press, Man in Street Feels Things Be Better After Legislators Go Home.

STABILITY WILL RETURN.

Chief Measure Affecting Canada, Passed By 71st Session, Was Howley-Smoot Bill.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Mar. 4.—(By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—To-day the 71st Congress of the United States passed into history.

There was nothing particularly remarkable about the 71st Congress, but when it adjourned as the clock struck noon, the country, with a sigh of relief, murmured "requiescat in pace."

Stability Will Return.

Business, the press, the man in the street, and even the politicians feel that things will be better when the legislators go home and there is no further chance for the passage of billion dollar soldiers' bonus bills, bills for Government operation of Hydro-Electric projects, bills changing the tariff rates, or any other kind of bills. A feeling of stability will now be enjoyed by the people of the United States until the new Congress assembles in December.

What holds true for the United States people is more remotely true for Canadians. They may be assured for the next ten months that their southern neighbors will not increase the tariff rates against Canadian exports in any such drastic way as was done by the 71st Congress. The proceedings of this Congress were chiefly noticeable in the Canadian eye for passage of the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act, which largely increased the duties on Canadian products annually exported to the United States in the value of $80,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Other proposed legislation which would have directly affected the Dominion for the most part failed of passage. Among the bills presented was one to make a military force of the border patrol and to make it incumbent on a Canadian who wished to cross the border for any reason at all, to enter at "points designated by

Naval Accord Gives Italy 441,000 Tons

ROME, Mar 4. (CP)—It was learned on good authority to-day that the British-Franco-Italian naval accord gives France a global tonnage of 600 000 and Italy 441,000 as of 1936. The French quota includes 84,000 tons of obsolete ships and the Italian 5,000 tons.

This gives France an efficient tonnage of 566,000 and Italy 436,000. France a superiority of 130,000 tons.

It is pointed out here, however, that the Italian claim to parity has not been sacrificed since the accord is only a temporary measure.

Truce is Signed Halting Campaign By Nationalists

Terms Include Amnesty For All Political Prisoners—Salt Making and Picketing Allowed, Property Confiscated For Non Payment of Taxes to be Returned.

GANDHI WALKS MILES THROUGH DRENCHING RAIN TO GET NATIONAL CONGRESS' ASSENT TO AGREEMENT

Nationalists Participation Assured in Coming Conference — Text Sent to Wedgewood Benn—Sapru Claims Document is One Which May Alter History of British Empire and India.

(By James A. Mills, Copyrighted by the Associated Press)

NEW DELHI, India, March 4.—Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader, and Viceroy Lord Irwin, at high noon today signed a truce which ends the Nationalist civil disobedience campaign and secures Nationalist cooperation in working out a qualified Dominion status for India.

The formal truce culminated long negotiations of the past few weeks between the Viceroy and Gandhi which reached fulfillment in a complete agreement at 1:30 a.m. today. Shortly afterward Gandhi left the Viceregal Palace in a drenching rain to inform the Nationalist Working Committee at Old Delhi of the accord and to prepare for the formality of signing at noon.

While the working committee discussed the terms on which he and Lord Irwin had reached agreement Gandhi curled up on a straw mat at the side of the room and went to sleep. After he awakened he had his head and face shaved, donned a spotless white homespun chaddar and loin cloth in preparation for his noon meeting with the Viceroy.

Meanwhile the Working Committee had approved unanimously the draft of the agreement between him and the Viceroy. Thus when he left again for New Delhi and the Viceregal Palace, looking like an apostle of Biblical times, he carried with him the full authority of the All India National Congress, as the Nationalist organization is known.

The Terms

In return for abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign, which the Nationalists inaugurated just one year ago in an effort to gain independence from Great Britain, Gandhi obtained from the Viceroy an amnesty for all political prisoners held for non-violent offenses, the right of those residing on the seashore to make their own salt, and adjustments regarding the return of property confiscated for non-payment of taxes.

In addition to calling off the civil disobedience campaign, the Nationalists agreed to forego their demand for an official inquiry into alleged police excesses in quelling Nationalist demonstrations. Picketing will be kept within the normal laws of the country, which allow any citizen to discourage by peaceful means the sale of liquor, narcotics, foreign cloth, or any other commodity just as in any other country.

The boycott, which is not punishable under the normal laws of India, will be directed against foreign goods not necessarily British products, with the objects of promoting native Indian industries. All repressive measures and extraordinary laws and ordinances especially promulgated to deal with civil disobedience will be withdrawn.

The truce signed to-day to some extent was of a temporary character. It assured Nationalist participation in the forthcoming second Round Table Conference to be held in India, but Gndhi has said that if the Nationalist demands for India autonomy in finances and military matters are not granted by Britain there his followers will begin anew their agitation for separation from the British Empire.

PLAN PROPOSED FOR GREATER USE OF ROTARY CAMP

Suggestion is Made That Clear Lake Plant Might Be Available for Boys of District.

INTER-CITY MEETING.

Thirty Members of Lindsay Club Guests of Local Rotarians at Enjoyable Dinner.

A plan to make the Rotary Club summer camp at Clear Lake a district camp available for boys from all over this part of Ontario, was tentatively presented at an inter-city Rotary meeting at the Empress Hotel last night. Some thirty members of the Lindsay Rotary Club, headed by President James Mackey, were in attendance, and representatives of the Oshawa and Bowmanville clubs were also in attendance.

President Robert Abbott and Rotarian C. H. Rogers of the Peterborough club, briely outlined the summer camp activities of the local club, explaining that Peterborough Rotarians had a camp plant and equipment representing an investment of $10,000 and providing accommodation for 115 boys. It was desired to secure the maximum results from this accommodation and accordingly at the suggestion of a member of the Port Hope club, a plan by which other Rotary Clubs in the district would co-operate had been proposed with the idea that the splendid camp facilities available would be at the service of boys from various sections of Central Ontario.

Visiting Rotarians were invited to confer with Rotarian James Juby of the local club in reference to the matter, and after the dinner had an opportunity of visiting the Roy Studio and seeing a series of motion pictures illustrating camp activities.

Last evening's meeting was most enjoyable. An excellent dinner was efficiently served by the Empress staff and the program that followed was thoroughly appreciated. Community singing, enthusiastically led by President James Mackey of Lindsay, with Rotarian John Crane at the piano, featured, and John Smith and Bob Hendry both contributed vocal numbers that were much enjoyed by the Rotarians and their guests.

The speaker of the evening was Rotarian Thomas G. Rogers of the Toronto club, who delivered a most inspirational address on the subject, "Your Boy and Mine." Mr. Rogers' advice to parents, richly illustrated by many personal experiences both as a father and as superintendent of a large Sunday school, was of a most helpful nature. He reminded his hearers that a father was nearly always a hero to his son, and that the manner in which he lived and con-

The fire started near the chimney but the cause is unknown. The damage is partly covered by insurance.

Ida Herriot Passes; Reared Noted Jockeys

SEATTLE, Wash., March 4.—Ida Herriot, 97, who reared a noted British actress and three famous jockeys, though she had no children of her own, died here yesterday.

Albert Gettings, another adopted son, who lived with Mrs. Herriot until her death, said she counted among her foster children Grace Bellinger, star of the British stage, who died three years ago.

Tod Sloan, Dave Madison and Alfred Lyons were her adopted sons, well known on the United States turf. Sloan was once king of United States riders.

Mrs. Herriot was born in Illinois in 1833. Her husband died 30 years ago.

PRESS ATTACKS RAISE AGITATION

Law Suggested Forcing Publishing of Reply in Full of Person Rapped.

HANDED TO CHAMBERLAIN.

LONDON, Mar. 4.— (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—A suggestion that newspapers attacking Government Ministers or ex-Ministers should be compelled by law to publish without comment on a full reply from the person attacked, has been submitted to Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, chairman of the Conseravtive Party organization. The suggested penalty would be that the machinery of the newspaper should be liable to dismantling.

"The suggestion is not new to me," Mr. Chamberlain stated. "I am a good deal attracted by it. The practice developed in certain newspapers of distorting news and publishing only such items as happen to suit a particular piece of propaganda, has lately been carried to a really dangerous pitch, and if it continues I think we should have public opinion with us, and probably also the more respectable sections of the press, in imposing some such obligation.'

Albertans Approve $671,155 In Estimates

EDMONTON, Alta., March 4 (C.P.).—Progressing slowly through an interminable mass of figures, Alberta's legislators sat until midnight Tuesday in consideration of Provincial estimates for the ensuing year. When the session rose, figures totalling $671,155 had been approved.

With the passage of an appropriation of $19,000 for the Agent-General's office in London, England, it became apparent that this branch of the Provincial service would be maintained for at least another year.

PLEDGE TO ONTARIO CATHOLICS HAS BEEN BROKEN, PRIEST SAYS

Development of Factories Not Anticipated in School Pact.

REV. JOHN E. BURKE.

Quebec's "equitable division" with its Protestant minority of the school taxes collected from neutral corporations was contrasted with Ontario's "not one farthing" to Catholic schools in an address by Rev. John E. Burke, of Toronto, at an open meeting of the Knights of Columbus last night.

Examples of neutral corporations mentioned by Father Burke were the C.P.R. and C.N.R., the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, the Canadian General Electric Company, the Imperial Oil Company, the Toronto Transportation Commission, which is a public utility, an unnamed Peterborough factory and others.

The school taxes which such corporations pay in Ontario are allotted entirely to the Public schools, whereas corresponding school taxes in Quebec are pooled in a neutral panel, Father Burke explained, and are divided between Catholic and Protestant schools on the basis of attendance.

He stated that these minorities agreed to Confederation in 1867 on guarantees that their rights and privileges in matters of education and religion would be respected and perpetuated. That pledge had not been kept in Ontario, Father Burke declared.

"The guarantees of 1863 and 1867 have been lived up to in the breach ever since,' were Rev. Father Burke's words, and his emphasis rested on the phrase "in the breach."

Confederation Guarantees

MILLING FIRM IS SCORED IN HOUSE BY NORMAN HIPEL

Alleged Activities Are Exposed and Member Wants Something Done.

WORKED IN PRESTON.

Has More Startling Information to Supply Attorney General He Declares.

TORONTO, March 4—Alleged promotion operations of the Vitamin Milling Company of Canada, Limited a concern proposing to manufacture whole-wheat flour, and a firm whose activities to date have been identified chiefly with the Counties of Waterloo and Perth, were bared in the Ontario Legislature yesterday by Norman O. Hipel, young Liberal member for Waterloo South.

In severely criticising the stock sales of the company, Mr. Hipel stated that he had "further startling information" that he could give regarding it, and asked that the Attorney-General of the Province take action "before further sums of money are extracted from the public by such fraudulent methods."

Criticizes Campaign Methods

Mr. Hipel's revelations were made at the conclusion of a spirited speech in which he condemneed at length the campaign methods of the Government candidates and of Government Ministers in the last October by-election in which he (Mr. Hipel) was victorious. It came near the close of a dull, dragging day on the Address debate, and it helped to rouse the House somewhat from the lethargy into which it had slipped hours earlier.

"I have a matter of importance" said Mr. Hipel, "which I wish to bring to the attention of the mem-

Wreckage Of New Zealand Earthquake

HUNDREDS OF LIVES LOST IN CATASTROPHE

Reproduced above is one of the first photographs to reach here from the New Zealand earthquake area, which recently took a toll of hundreds of lives and nearly two thousand injured, when fire and flood swept upon Napier and other towns in the path of death-dealing tremors. Immediately after the first series of terrific shocks, Napier was evacuated in a dramatic manner, when some 10,000 persons were ordered out by the government to return, however, soon afterward. Photograph shows view of Napier's waterfront, showing crumpled and contorted piers in the foreground. Many of the city's fine docks were left in ruins by the earth's twisting. In background is H.M.S. JUDGE MORSON DECIDES TO QUIT POST ON BENCH

Been Member of York County's Judiciary Nearly 40 Years.

HEALTH FAILING.

Ottawa Announces J. A. Jackson, K.C., Appointed Junior County Judge.

TORONTI, Ont., March 4. (CP)—Judge F. M. Morson, who for nearly 40 years has been a member of the County of York's judiciary, is retiring from the Bench on account of advancing years, it has been learned.

J. Arthur Jackson, K.C., of Gananoque, has been appointed junior County Judge, word to this effect has been received from Ottawa.

The retirement of Judge Morson occurs in his 80th year. Last year he suffered a slight illness while visiting in the Maritime Provinces but on recovering he resumed his normal activities.

He presided over the Division Court at the City Hall, and in addition was a member of the Toronto Police Commission, which post his retirement automatically vacates.

Judge Morson was sworn in as judge of the Division Court in 1891. His was the last appointment to the bench made by Sir John A. MacDonald. During his career he has disposed of more than 200,000 cases.

Confesses to Deliberate Murder

"GLAD HE'S DEAD."

Ambrose D. Greenhill calmly walked into a Toronto police station, with a sawed-off rifle, on March 2, and confessed to the deliberate murder of his foreman, Montague Jack Hamilton, in full view of fellow-employees at a promient engraving plant He refused to give any motive for the crime other than to say, "He had it coming to him for a long time. I am glad he's dead." He prepared the gun on the Sunday preceding the crime and carried it out deliberately. At the left is shown Hamilton, the murdered man, and at the right his slayer, Greenhill. Both men came from Hertfordshire, England. They were color engraving artists.

OPPOSITION IS SHOWN IN HAVELOCK AGAINST MOVE BY COUNTY COUNCIL TO HAVE WORK ON HIGHWAY HALTED

Seen By Many as Political Dodge to Hold Up Construction Till Next Election.

SEND PROTEST TO HENRY.

School Board is Given Permission to Tap Village Drain.

HAVELOCK, March 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — At the regular meeting of the Village Council, held in the Council Chamber on Monday evening, the members were of the unanimous opinion that the action of the County Council in asking that work on Provincial Highway No. 7 be suspended, should be censured, and that the Minister of Highways be asked to ignore the request.

This highway construction, they stated, is the result of years of work on the part of all interested in the development of Peterborough County roads, and members of the County Council who seek to have the work held over are proving themselves very shortsighted, especially in consideration of the large number of unemployed, for whom some kind of relief will have to be provided.

All the members of the Council were present, and a large number of ratepayers were there to voice a protest against the action of the County Council. Reeve Sanderson stated that at the meeting of the Council held in Peterborough, he had expressed the opinion that it was a mistake to ask the Minister of Highways to abandon the idea of building the new highway at present. It would be a great mistake not to go ahead with the project. He believed that all work of this kind should go ahead now in the interest of unemployment relief.

Seen as Political Dodge.

In the opinion of some of those present, it is a political dodge to hold up the construction of the road until next Provincial election, when opponents of the present Government will be able to hold up as an example of unfulfilled promises the fact that the much-talked-of highway has not been constructed.

S. S. Joyce thought the County Council very unfair in their action of letting this part of the county down, after they have helped to build up the roads in other parts of the county.

It was suggested that a deputation of those in favor of the highway going through, organize and work to that end, and thus override the few objectors.

Mr Squires expressed the opinion that it is very poor financing and most inconsistent to spend money on township roads in place of county and provincial roads.

Rev. P. C. Howard thought it would be a disgrace to the County Council to try to break a link in the great highway. What would the rest of the Province think of this section if they broke this chain? Mr Howard, as well as all the others present commended Reeve Sanderson for his

U. S. Quiets Fears Of Washington Monument Decay

WASHINGTON, March 4. — Washington Monument is sound, and will remain so for ages.

Engineers of the Department of Public Buildings and Parks so declared to-day in commenting on reports that the 555-foot shaft is crumbling away in ten-pound chunks.

The part that crumbles occasionally is a marble facing that covers the granite bocks, and these blocks are fifteen feet thick at the base, it was pointed out.

The marble contributes no more to the structural strength than does paint to a building, it was explained.

Breaking Of Jail Rules Aided Break At Barrie

BARRIE, Mar. 4.—That jail rules were not strictly observed at Barrie Jail, was the finding of Provincial Secretary Hon. Leopold Macaulay, according to an official report released yesterday, dealing with the escape of Alex. Manson, Leslie McLeod and William Moore, three prisoners, who made their getaway on the night of Feb. 28, only to be captured near Thornhill a few hours later.

That any apparent laxity is offset by the gallant conduct of Governor Dr. J. D. Banting and Turnkey Weymouth, is an outstanding feature of the report, which holds up their courage as an inspiration to jail officials throughout the Province.

TEN DAYS IN JAIL IS SENTENCE GIVEN MEMBER OF FEDERAL HOUSE

W. F. Hanbury Fails to Appear in Court When Summoned.

ON WAY TO OTTAWA.

VANCOUVER, March 4.—An order committing Wilfred F. Hanbury, M.P. for Burrard, to jail for ten days was made in County Court today when he failed to appear in answer to a summons. Mr. Hanbury is believed to be en route to Ottawa.

It is stated that some time ago John Greed obtained a judgment against Mr. Hanbury for $217 in connection with a promissory note. A summons was issued requiring Mr. Hanbury to appear in court for examination when the judgment was not paid.

Yesterday the case was called, and when Mr. Hanbury failed to appear an order was made committing him to jail.

Member's Priviledge

OTTAWA, March 4.—Members of Parliament may be committed to jail only for a criminal offense while Parliament is sitting. They cannot be committed to jail for a civil offense within forty days of the assembling of Parliament or forty days after prorogation, or while Parliament is sitting, according to Arthur S. Beauchesne, K.C., Clerk of the House of Commons, an outstanding authority on Parliamentary problems. Mr Beauchesne's opinion was sought tonight in connection with the case of Wilfred Hanbury, M.P. for Vancouver-Burrard, committed to jail by the County Court for failing to appear in answer to a summons. Mr. Hanbury is supposed to be on his way to Ottawa to attend Parliament, and is wanted in Vancouver in connection with some dispute about a promissory note.

Mr. Beauchesne explained that Canada follows the British practice in regard to offenses under the civil law. Immunity of the members of Parliament dates back to the beginning of Parliamentary organization, and it has become a legal right, rather than a Parliamentary privilege. Privileges of members of Parliament, however, do not extend to offenses against the Criminal Code, either in Canada or in Britain. Some time ago a British M.P. was accused of a criminal offense, and was arrested in the Commons Chamber by the police.

Arson Gang Blamed For Fire In Theatre

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 4 (C.P.)—A score of persons received minor injuries in an explosion early to-day, followed by a $30,000 fire at Lincoln Theatre, a neighborhood movie house here.

Fire Chief Harry Callan, after questioning 15 persons, declared that the blast was touched off by the arson gang to which he attributes four other recent fires here, and 60 per cent. of the city's fire loss in the past year. He said that both gasoline and ether were used to-day.

The ideal height for women, declares a London physical training expert, is five feet six inches, with breadth in proportion.

New Rembrandt Painting Found By Dutch Expert

VIENNA, March 4 (C.P.).—The newspaper Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung has reported that Dr. Ludwig W. Abels, Vienna art expert, has discovered here a previously unknown signed painting by Rembrandt.

Rembrandt's sister, Lisbeth, was said to have sat as a model.

The newspaper says that another important painting, ascribed to Piero de Cosimo, representing a group of persons under an open sky, was also discovered by Dr. Abels.

TASCHEREAU BILL ADVANCES STEP

Measure Would Improve Status of Married Women in Quebec Province.

INTEREST RUNS HIGH.

QUEBEC, Que., March 4 (C.P.) — First reading was given yesterday by the Legislative Council to Premier L. A. Taschereau's bill to improve the status of married women in the Province. Interest is running high in legislative circles here as to the ultimate fate of the bill. Although it successfully got through the Legislative Assembly last week, feeling became apparent that it was hoped by some Assembly members that the Legislative Council would do the execution work, especially as regards the clause permitting a married woman who works to control her own earnings.

The Montreal Gazette's Quebec correspondent, commenting on this possibility, says: "The feeling is beginning to grow that if the clause is killed, the ultimate result, attainable in a comparatively short time, will be to give the cause of women's suffrage considerable impetus. Should it be impossible for a legislature elected and composed of males only to pass a provision to allow a charwoman who supports her children and even her husband, to keep her wages from a drunkard—the best illustration of the situation—the necessity of circumstances will force votes for women, even upon those most reluctant to go to such an extreme in this Province."

8 Daffodil Blooms From Single Bulb

When flower records are being considered, some of the things that flowers grown by J. A. Smith, 150 Benson Avenue, have been doing this winter can not be overlooked.

Eight blooms from a single bulb is the accomplishment of one of Mr. Smith's daffodil plants, while a single hyacinth bulb has six blooms. Mr. Smith offers no formula to explain the remarkable success of these flowers, but puts it down mostly to luck. The bulbs were purchased locally.

STUDENTS DEMAND THAT VARSITY BE ALLOWED TO BE PUBLISHED

Hand of Students Council Was Forced By Outside Influences.

COUNCIL CRITICIZED.

TORONTO, March 4.—Condemnation of the action of the Students' Administrative Council that resulted last Friday in the suppression of The Varsity, student paper, and demand that it be "immediately reinstated to its former status as a free undergraduates' newspaper," were contained in two resolutions passed at a meeting of the University College Literary and Athletic Society last night.

The first motion reads: "That, in the opinion of this society, the recent action of the S.A.C. in recommending that The Varsity be suspended was unwarranted and contrary to the wishes of the student body."

Asks Reinstatement

The second reads: "In the opinion of this society, the suppression of The Varsity being a distinct loss to the intellectual activity of the campus, this society expresses its urgent desire that The Varsity be immediately reinstated to its former status as a free undergraduate newspaper."

The first motion was opposed by A. C. Cochrane, sports editor of The Varsity, who explained that the S.A.C. was not directly responsible for the suspension.

"The S.A.C.'s hand was forced by the caput, and indirectly by forces outside the university," he said.

"The university is supported by the people of this Province, and if they thought it was a hotbed of atheism, which it is not, they would refuse to supply funds for the university," he declared.

Says One Waits for Other

"The Board of Governors waited for the caput, and the caput waited for the S.A.C., and the S.A.C. had only one thing to do. But I believe that The Varsity ought to be reinstated," he said.

Proposing the second resolution, Leo Malania said: "Whatever the views of an editor may be, he should be given perfect freedom of expression."

Chamberlain Flies 200 M.P.H. in Ruth Nichols' Airplane

NEW YORK, March 4.—Piloting Ruth Nichols' speedy red monoplane, Colonel Clarence Chamberlin yesterday staged a one-man air show over the North River that thrilled lower Manhattan for half an hour. The trans-Atlantic flier put the machine through a series of difficult stunts and speed trials.

As he landed at the Jersey City Airport, he said the plane attained a speed of 200 miles an hour. It is the machine in which Miss Nichols made a new woman's transcontinental record, and its speed has been increased by reconditioning and a change in the landing gear.

Chamberlin said he hopes to make the plane still faster and attempt to set several new records.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN WOOLLENS STAFF

R. Barrett, Formerly General Manager of Penman's, Joins Dominion Woollens.

TORONTO, March 4.—Announcement has just been made of the appointment of Henry Barrett, late general manager of Penmans Limited, as managing director of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Limited, the largest Canadian manufacturers of woollen and worsted yarns and fabrics, with plants located at Peterborough, Hespeler, Milton and Orillia, Ontario. Mr. Barrett resigned from Penmans Limited a short time ago after over twenty-eight years' active work with the organization.

He joined the Penman Company in 1902, was manager of the St. Hyacinthe mills from 1913 to 1919, was appointed assistant general manager in 1923, which position he has held up until now.

The various plants of the Dominion Woolens and Worsteds, Limited, are now working at nearly full day-time capacity, for the first time in several years. The worsted yarn spinning plant at Orillia, Ontario, which had been closed for upwards of two years, was re-opened last week, and it is expected that the worsted yarn spinning plant at Milton, Ontario, will be re-opened shortly. Competition from England and European countries continues extremely keen, but it is officially stated that the new tariff is proving greatly beneficial in the operations of the company, and has enabled it to give employment to a large number of additional hands.

The manufacturing end of the company's plants is now in charge of John W. Campbell, who was recently appointed manager in charge of manufacturing operations.

Thomas Mix, who has been sales manager of the company for many years was recently appointed assistant general manager in charge of sales.

Dr. Allen Rogers

Ph. D., University of Pennsylvania says: "As a Cleansing Dentifrice Colgate's has no equal."

Dr. Rogers Says;

"My tests reveal that Colgate's Toothpaste produces the lowest surface tension. Since surface tension determines detergent or cleansing action, it follows, therefore that as a cleansing dentifrice, Colgate's has no equal."

"The sole purpose of a dentifrice is to give the teeth and gums a complete cleansing. It must, therefore, have the ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods. A toothpaste that has a low surface tension is the one that gives the best results. My tests indicate that Colgate's gives these desired results."

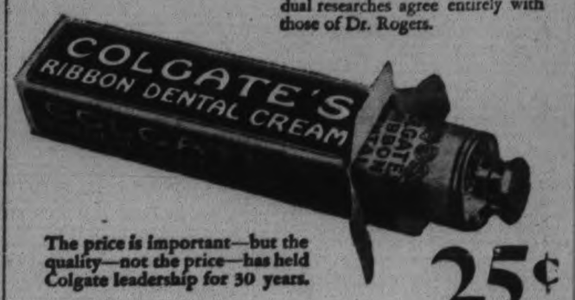
Allen Rogers

Dr. Rogers' tests on toothpastes and their action are of the highest interest not only to the public but to scientific circles as well.

WHEN a distinguished scientist like Dr. Allen Rogers announces without reservation that one dentifrice is vastly superior to all others, the world wants to know his reasons. And he gives them. Conclusive, scientific reasons. Backed by painstaking, impartial laboratory research.

Colgate's has no equal. Very well, why? It is a matter of low surface tension, as Dr. Rogers explains. The ability to get into the crevices between the teeth and remove the decaying foods. His tests indicate that Colgate's gives the best results.

Nothing need be added to Dr. Rogers' statement, but if one should ask further scientific proof of these facts, there are such noted scientists as Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Dean of the School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D.C.; Dr. Henry Leffman, and scores of others equally well known whose individual researches agree entirely with those of Dr. Rogers.



The price is important—but the quality—not the price—has held Colgate leadership for 30 years.

lotion in seeking to have the highway go through.

The Resolution.

The following resolution was passed by the Council:

Moved by Gordon and Spencer, and carried: "That this Council do censure the action of the County Council of Peterborough in asking that the Minister of Highways suspend building operations on Highway Number 7, and submit to the Minister and his Government knowledge of this Council's strong support, in the carrying out of the proposed work."

Members of the school board were present, as a delegation, to ask that the village council give permission to tap the village drain for purposes of installing a sanitary system in the school. In case of a shortage of water during a dry spell the necessary water can be drawn from the village drain, which is not polluted water, but clean spring water. Ordinarily the school well will be sufficient to supply the system, but in the event of a shortage water can be pumped from the drain. It was suggested by some of the members that the most fitting place for installing the pump would be in the basement of the Town Hall, which is across the road from the school. If placed there, it would be less likely to be tampered with, and would be just as effective. Mr. Leeson thought it should be placed underground, where they would be no danger of frost. It was decided to grant the school board permission to tap the village drain, and a by-law will be drawn up by the council as soon as the board has decided just what will be best, and makes it known to the Council.

Some correspondence was read. A letter from the Public Trustee regarding the property and children of a patient in the Hospital for the Insane. There was a letter from the village clerk informing the Reeve and Councillors that one of the children of this patient was in the village and under the care of the municipality, and that the municipality is responsible for this boy. This matter was referred to Mr. Edgar of the Children's Shelter at Peterborough.

A letter was read from the Provincial Secretary, regarding the pension of the man confined in the Insane Hospital. It stated that this man's pension is being used for the maintenance of his children.

Asks Reduced Rental

Rev. P. C. Howard was present, representing the Citizen's Committee sponsoring Chautauqua, which will be in Havelock on March 30, 31 and April 1 and 2. On behalf of the committee, Mr. Howard asked a reduced rental for the Town Hall for the Chautauqua Festival.

The Women's Institute have undertaken to sell tickets for the festival and any surplus will be turned over to the Institute, to be used for library purposes.

This year twenty-five citizens have signed up for the Chautauqua, and it is thought that since it is really a public benefit to have the entertainments here there should be some concession made in the way of reduced rental. This matter was left to the clerk, to use his usual good judgment in the matter.

There was an error in the charge made for license for pool tables. Some had been charged at the rate of $30 per table, some at $25. The rate should have been $30 for all tables.

The difference in the rate of pay for work on the village streets on the unemployment relief pay roll was explained. The foreman had worked overtime and used his own tools, which accounts for his rate of sixty-two cents per hour.

Mr. Squires drew attention to the assessment on the Barton property which remained the same after the building had been burned. A rebate of $6.75 was made on the taxes.

Councillor Seeney thought the matter for meals for tramps should be looked into, as there seems to be so many bills under this heading. The following accounts were ordered paid:

Ontario Rock Quarry account, $178.96; Hastings Foundry for machinery, $83.30; D. Vansickle, snowploughing, $12.50; Municipal World, $6.25; H. T. Spencer, fire engines to Jones' fire, $5; C. Dewey, caretaker, $30.60; Ontario Rock Co., $5.45; D. Vansickle, snow plough, $17.50; B. Wannamaker, $25.25; C. Dewey, fire hall, $10.20; Mrs. Hogan, Foley estate, $10; E. Derrett, opening drain, 90 cents.

bers of this House, and more particularly to the attention of the Attorney-General.

"During the early part of the year 1929 a limited company, known as the Vitamin Milling Company of Canada, Limited, which proposed to manufacture whole-wheat flour, came to the Town of Preston and negotiated with the officials of the town for a proposed site.

Tells of Securities Company.

"When this was all arranged, they opened an office and brought with them a company, known as Acme Securities Limited, which also opened an office in the town, and which undertook to sell stock for the Vitamin Milling Company of Canada, Limited. Quite a number of people purchased stock and paid for it with the understanding that the plant would be erected in Preston.

"A representative of the Vitamin Milling Company, Limited, engaged a local construction company to prepare plans, also engaged a local company to do some work on the site, such as grading, etc.

"However, the company decided, for some reason or other, to leave the Town of Preston, and move to the Village of Tavistock, which is outside of our county.

"When the company left Preston, the people who had paid for their stock demanded their money back, but couldn't get it until a writ was issued against the company. The local construction company that prepared the plans and supplied materials for signs and paid labor for preparing the site have not been paid to date.

Move to Tavistock.

"The Vitamin Milling Company and Acme Securities Limited then moved up to the Village of Tavistock and opened an office. I have been told by citizens and a member of the Council of Tavistock that the company made an arrangement something like this: If the village supplied the site and the people subscribed a certain amount of stock the plant would be built in Tavistock.

"Now I am informed that almost the whole amount requested was subscribed, and certain men were prepared to subscribe more than the balance required, as per the arrangement but these men said they would not hand over the cash, but were prepared to deposit the cash in a special account in the bank for the company as soon as the company had the building either partially erected or completed.

"But the stock salesmen would not accept such an arrangement, which would lead one to believe that there was no intention of building the plant in Tavistock.

"How many more innocent women are going to be victims for these brokers or stock salesmen? How many more men out of employment are going to be promised good jobs, provided they part with their cold cash? How many more farmers will be persuaded to part with their cash by these high-pressure stock salesmen with the promises of a ready market and better prices for their wheat.

"Startling Information."

"Now, Mr. Speaker, I have laid this case before the Hon. the Attorney-General rather briefly, but I can assure him that I have further startling information re these two companies, and I am prepared to give him or his department further information; but what we want is some action by his department before further sums of money are extracted from the public by these companies by such fraudulent methods."

"Dominion status with safeguards" given to India by Premier Ramsay MacDonald at the conclusion of the recent London Round Table Conference. The details of the qualified Dominion status were to be worked out in the second conference.

The Nationalists refused to participate in the Round Table Conference held at London beginning last November, but other shades of India life and opinion were represented. With the report of the Simon Commission on statutory reform as a basis the conference worked out what was regarded as a fairly liberal concession toward home rule and the British began their effort to secure Nationalist collaboration in a second conference to work out details, efforts which met with success to-day.

It probably will be published to-morrow, the exact terms embodied not to be made public until that time.

Run-Away Bull Causes Excitement

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 4 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent)—Most decidedly the pig got the worst of it. That is not to be wondered at when a run-away bull is encountered. Anyway, this pig went soaring over the fence and the bull wandered on his way along the Meyerburg road in Seymour township on Tuesday morning.

It all happened because the bull, the property of Ray Petty of Percy township, objected to be taken to Campbellford for shipment, the best place in the owner's opinion for it anyway, better than on his farm. The animal objected and breaking the ring in his nose broke loose from his keeper and caused great excitement on the highway until he was finally got under control and forced on its journey to the mysterious unknown.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 4.—Tempted by 18c a bushel price disparity between old and new crop wheat, numerous traders sought July yesterday, and caused a late advance. Much of the buying, representing wheat yet to be harvested, was against simultaneous equal sales of May, which stands for wheat already available for use. Corn and oats advanced also, but, not until both had outdone season bottom-price records.

Wheat closed irregular, ranging from ¼c decline to ⅛c gain, with corn ½c to 1c higher, oats ⅛c to ⅝c up, and provisions showing a rise of 5c to 17c.

Spreading Operations Stimulated.

Attractive profits for milling interests and others in a position to replace May delivery of wheat at the heavy discount prevailing for new crop months did much to stimulate spreading operations that lifted wheat prices after early downturns. The fact that the first cargo of corn for shipment from Chicago at the opening of lake navigation was purchased yesterday tended also to brace values. At first, however, all grades were dominated by weakness of Liverpool quotations and favorable weather for domestic winter wheat, especially by rain in Texas, and now in Kansas and Nebraska.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 4.—On the produce and dairy market here yesterday prices of potatoes advanced egg quotations were unchanged.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, gained 5 to 10 cents at 80 to 85 cents per 90 pounds bulk. To retailers prices were quoted up to 10 cents at 95 cents per 80-pound bag.

Carlot prices of fresh eggs were from one-half to one cent lower. Prairie extras and firsts, for shipment, declined one cent at 29½c and 26½ cents a dozen, while seconds were unchanged at 30½ cents a dozen. On spot they were quoted at 30½, 27½ and 21½ cents a dozen, respectively. British Columbia eggs lost one-half of a cent, extras being quoted at 31½ cents, firsts at 28 cents and pullets at 27½ cents a dozen, respectively. Quotations to retailers were unchanged. Receipts were 2,358 cases.

Regraded Eastern townships and fresh Western No. 1 butter were quoted at 31¾ cents a pound and to retailers solids were 34 cents and prints 35 cents a pound. Receipts were only 15 boxes.

Winter colored cheese was quoted at 14¾ to 15 cents a pound with receipts for the day totalling 199 boxes.

TORONTO, March 4—Lower prices prevailed on the local egg market yesterday. Brokers were quoting graded eggs in free used cases at 28c for extras, 26c for firsts, 22c to 23c for pullet extras, and 20c for seconds. Even at these prices, trade was not too brisk in comparison with supplies on hand. The demand was equal to previous days, but receipts were much heavier.

Wholesalers were quoting steady prices to country shippers for ungraded eggs at 26c for extras, 24c for firsts and 18c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned, and steady to retailers at 33c for extras, in cartons, 31c for extras loose, 29c for firsts loose, and 23c for second loose.

The butter market was very dull, few sales being made and these of small consequence. As one broker put it: "There was no pressure to buy and no pressure to sell." Prices were steady, however, at 31½c to 32c for No. 1 creamery solids and 30½c to 31c for No. 2.

There was little demand for cheese and prices were steady at 14¾c for new large, 15c for twins, and 15¼c for triplets.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 4. — Displaying alternate strength and weakness wheat prices here yesterday closed ⅝c to ⅞c higher for the day.

Trading was fairly active, but the offerings were never on a very liberal scale. A fair display of strength in the closing minutes was the result of short covering in a market that appeared to be cleared of supplies.

No estimate was placed on the amount of grain worked for export.

Offerings in cash wheat were very light and spreads were about unchanged.

A good export trade in barley featured coarse grain trading. It was estimated that 400,000 bushels had been sold chiefly to Germany. Prices in all commodities were firmer.

OBITUARY

MRS. JANE GREENLEY.

HASTINGS, March 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — The death took place on Tuesday morning, after a very short illness, of one of Hastings' most highly respected citizens in Jane Hermiston, widow of William Greenley. The deceased resided in Percy Township for a number of years, where her husband carried on farming. For the past eighteen years Mrs. Greenley has resided in Hastings at the home of her son-in-law, C. B. Plant.

There are left to mourn her loss one daughter and one son, namely, Mrs. C. B. Plant of Hastings and Alexander of Toronto, also one sister, Miss Hermiston of Hastings.

The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon from the residence of her son-in-law, C. B. Plant, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where Rev. D. A. Thomson, D.D., will conduct the services.

Interment will take place in Trent Valley Cemetery.

While only 1,000 passenger automobiles were produced in Austria last year, 2,000 trucks and motor busses were turned out.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1931

NOT THE TIME TO STOP.

The City Council has decided to lock horns with the county legislators and will urge the Ontario Government to continue the work on Highway No. 7, east of Peterborough—in fact, to speed up the completion of the undertaking.

As Ald. Phelan pointed out in bringing forward his resolution, which was unanimously endorsed, the construction of this road has been consistently urged upon the Government and it would be poor policy to ask that it be discontinued now.

From another angle, the present period of unemployment calls for the carrying out of public works—in fact, there are many people who believe that so far as is possible Governments should keep in reserve a building program that could be launched during periods of depression when other avenues of employment are closed.

Contracts have been let for sections of this most important road, the work on which will provide badly needed jobs for a number of men, and despite the Premier's statement of last week upon which the County Council is bolstering its case, there is every reason to expect that with the project so far advanced as it is at present there will be no let-up in the program, which will give the district east of Peterborough what it has long worked for, a modern highway and comfortable travelling conditions.

CRIME STATISTICS.

Figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that as Canadian cities become larger crime is more prevalent—in fact, the bureau points out that a calculation proves that between 1901 and 1929 crime increased approximately as the square of the population.

Rural Canada has by far the best record, for while the crime rate "in the larger cities runs from 300 to 500 per 100,000 population, the rate in the rural districts averages only 90 to the 100,000."

A comparison of the figures for 1929 with those for 1928 shows a marked increase in the number of convictions for indictable offences, the totals being 24,097 as against 21,720, with practically all types of crime showing an increase.

There is, however, nothing in the statistics given to create serious alarm; there were, for instance, only twenty-six murders during 1929, which, while an increase for Canada, is light compared with the homicidal records set up across the border.

And while crime has increased, there is comfort in the fact that law enforcement is proving remarkably efficient, as is shown in the fact that in 1929 the percentage of convictions to charges laid was 81.49, which is the highest to be registered in the past ten years and probably as high as that of any year in Canada's history.

BETTER VOTERS' LISTS.

While the resolution was withdrawn at the request of Premier Henry, who pointed out that no election was impending and that the matter might be introduced at a later session, the action of Russell Nesbitt, member for Toronto-Bracondale, in bringing before the Legislature the question of improvements in compiling voters' lists has served a very useful purpose.

It has had the effect of throwing considerable light upon the weaknesses of the present system, and paved the way for the later naming of a committee to study the whole question and to suggest reforms.

Mr. Nesbitt, in speaking to his resolution, thoroughly revealed the flaws in the present system by which the names of thousands of people which should be on the lists are omitted, while thousands of other names wrongfully appear.

The member for Toronto-Bracondale suggested that it should be made compulsory for all those desiring to vote to register within a certain time before polling day.

In brief, Mr. Nesbitt would take the responsibility of seeing that names are on the lists away from the Government or the municipalities, and placing it where it logically belongs—on the voters themselves.

Incidentally, he introduced an interesting viewpoint when he quoted from a letter to the effect that only one-third of the electors were interested in elections. These induced another third to go to the polls, while the remaining third were utterly indifferent.

Why, then, Mr. Nesbitt pertinently asks, "should one-third do all the work, all the thinking, all the urging to keep democracy alive?"

There is much food for thought in that sentence.

ENDORSE THE DOLE SYSTEM.

At a meeting of the East Windsor Citizens' Association held the other night and attended by more than 600 people the eloquence of several Communist orators resulted in the gathering endorsing a resolution calling upon the Federal Government to enact unemployment insurance, the establishment of a seven-hour day and a five-day week in all industries, and the providing of a guaranteed working week with a minimum wage of $25.

It is not difficult to get people to cheer for a program like that so long as they think somebody else will have to pay for it, but even so it is difficult to understand an audience of sensible Canadians voting blindly for a system of unemployment insurance that would be the dole in its worst form.

The Red proposer of the resolution included in his motion a section stipulating that "in no manner or form, either by compulsory or voluntary or other forms of contribution through their trade unions or other organizations nor as individuals shall the workers be assessed or levied upon to meet the cost of state insurance," and another to the effect that the Government must "establish an immediate fund, utilizing for this all budget appropriations and estimates for war armaments and military and naval cadet training subsidies, and must maintain the fund by a steeply graduated levy on all incomes exceeding $5,000 a year."

Workers, according to this nice little scheme, would be eligible for insurance on becoming unemployed or having "their living standard materially reduced by short-time and periodical lay-offs," or upon being unable to work through sickness, illness or old age.

In other words, what the East Windsor meeting endorsed was a dole system to which the workers would not contribute a cent and out of which, regardless of what they had done with the wages they earned in time of employment, they would be entitled to grab a substantial allowance when out of work or unable to work.

Canada will be a long time adopting that kind of unemployment insurance.

THREE BRITISH SOCIALISTS.

A curious trinity are three of the young men who propose to set up a form of British dictatorship—

"with enormous powers, largely superseding Parliament—Social Fascism, based on tariffs, with sweeping financial changes, including the cancellation of war debts."

Sir Oswald Mosley, Mr. St. Loe Strachey, Mr. Oliver Baldwin—who are they? Laborites and Socialists, the most injury ever suffered by their immaculate hands was probably through a tennis racquet—or a manicurist. All are of Tory lineage, of the Purple. Sir Oswald Mosley, who inherited his title, and, incidentally, some of the Chicago Leiter millions, is as rich as Montreal's Sir Herbert Holt, perhaps richer. Insolent, arrogant, superior, Mosley married Cynthia Curzon, daughter of Lord Curzon of Keddleston, who must often turn in the grave over the escapades of his son-in-law. Lady Cynthia herself, forgetting the atmosphere of her nursery, became a Laborite, now sits as a Socialist for Stoke. Mosley has been Conservative, Independent, Laborite. His father disowned him, abused him, and Mosley, in return, publicly abused his father. It was something the English didn't like. There are some things English gentlemen still don't do, even for the sake of politics, and Mosley, suspect by his Labor colleagues, became detestable to the Tories. One of them castigated him in a chapter of a book in a manner that must have made even Mosley wince.

When Labor last took office Mosley became Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, a portfolio whose chief toil is that the holder of it must draw his salary. Mosley drew his salary for a few months, became restless, started a campaign against his leader, resigned. Now he is out in open rebellion, scoffing at MacDonald and Snowden, wanting to have Fascism for Britain.

Mr. St. Loe Strachey is the son of the late Sir Edw. Strachey, the late great editor of the Spectator, most respectable and venerable old lady of British journalism. Strachey, like Mosley, was brought up in a good Tory home, but like his relative, Lytton Strachey, lost his reverence for a lot of tradition, became a Socialist, attached himself to the Labor party, got into the House. He has been no great figure at Westminster, but as he is but 30 years of age, and is a back-bencher, the explanation is simple. He is said to be a good speaker, has plenty of education, keeps in touch with family connections, is regarded as one of the "intellectuals." Whether he is of the revolutionary mould, and would wear a black shirt becomingly, only time can tell.

Young Mr. Oliver Baldwin is the son of the ex-Conservative Prime Minister, argues against the influence of heredity. Son Baldwin thinks sire Baldwin stupid and old-fashioned, has said so from the platform. He has been a Socialist for years, and believes in and lectures on Spiritualism. Married now, there was a time not long ago, when his father was Prime Minister, when he would dine at 10 Downing Street or Chequers, then go out to make an assault on his father's Government. He would call it silly, archaic, brainless, then go back home to sleep under the parental roof.

Son Baldwin, like Oswald Mosley, is not overly liked. There is a suspicion that if he were somebody else's son he would never have been heard of, and that he himself needs to become acquainted with this truth. Also there is a feeling that a little more respect for those who bore and educated him would be more in line with English tradition.

What effect Mosley, Strachey and Baldwin may have upon the future of British politics, it is not for outlanders to predict. Some irreverently liken them to the famed three tailors of Tooley Street, though that, conceivably, may be a mistake. There are admittedly a lot of other people in England who, at this time, think curious political things.

On the other hand, students of British history and politics and character will find it hard to believe that a day is near when black-shirted Fascists will rule the British people. A dictatorship might come, might supersede Parliament; but would it last? One fears that some morning would find a lot of the dictators hanging from the lamp-posts of Whitehall.—Ottawa Journal.

The Red-Headed Goddess

By

ALICE ROSS COLVER

"I followed with my eyes the sound of her bleating and saw her half way up. Then I hid so as not to scare her and watched her come down again to little Pearl, and as soon as she got down I went across to where she came out. It's way across the cove, Dirk, and so cleverly concealed we would never have found it. The path begins after you've scrambled over a perfectly smooth white rock, and even then it's hidden behind bushes. But there it is—a quite wide and perfectly clear trail!"

Dirk blinked at her slowly, but his response was so slow that the girl gave a sudden searching look at him. Then she laid a cool hand on his forehead and found it burning.

"Give me a drink, will you, Lorraine?" he asked. And as she brought it he nodded his thanks and dropped back with the look of one groping for wandering thoughts. "Oh, yes," he said at last while she watched him gravely, "that's great news, you know. Great news." He was searching carefully for each word, and bringing it up with an effort that hurt Lorraine to watch. "New path. Fine. We'll go up and see what's there one of these days. Not tonight—is it night yet, Lorraine?—not today. I'm not up to it today." He laughed. "Maybe tomorrow."

"Yes, maybe tomorrow," she said soothingly.

"Sleepy. Somehow—I'm so sleepy—"

"Yes. You're sleepy. You'd better take a nap."

She knelt beside him, stroking his hot face with her hand, while he murmured broken sentences for a while; but as soon as he had fallen into a heavy, troubled sleep her hand fell, and she stared soberly down at his flushed countenance. In a few moments she rose and went outside quietly, where she stood pondering.

At last she made a decision, and, stealing back to take another look at the sleeping man, she emerged once more, caught up the little slingshot and ran across the cove to the path the sheep had found for her. Inaction, she thought, scrambling up the trail, was impossible. It might be days and weeks before Dirk could explore with her, and if he were awake at this moment he might forbid her going up here alone. It was best to discover all she could now, while she had the chance, now, before the sun went down, now, before Dirk grew any worse. If she could find the place where the Indians lived, herself—well, she might have to stifle her foolish fear of them. She might have to ask help, because of Dirk. She couldn't tell. It was best to go ahead now—now—

She came to two huge trees, fallen on top of each other, the obstacle which must have stopped Mother-of-Pearl and which, for a moment, nearly stopped her, too. But at last she managed to climb over and go on up the ascending path. It was overgrown, to be sure, but not so thickly that she could not push her way through the underbrush, thankful for the thousandth time that Dirk had made her wear an aviation suit the night of their wild escapade—years ago. At last she saw an opening ahead of her, saw the sky widening out, and, in the next instant, she was standing, breathless but triumphant, on the desert's edge.

It lay golden and gleaming in the late afternoon sun, more quiet, more lovely than she had remembered it. The distant turrets and castles were wrapped in the faintest haze of amethyst, while a lilac veil delicately shrouded the garden of strange monsters, making them less hideous, more mysterious. Slowly she turned, seeking the white ruins of the Greek temple that had been their guiding sign as they tumbled through the sand storm, and, finding it, she stared frozen into immobility with the surprise of what she saw silhouetted against its shining pillars. The dark figure of an Indian on horseback!

He sat with his back to her, a diminutive statue, but clear and unmistakeable, and so immovable he might have been a figure cut from cardboard and pasted against the strange, still scenery, as much a part of it as the buttes or temple itself. While she watched, spellbound, he moved slowly, like a phantom, straight through the column of pillars, and disappeared down a dip in the ground.

For a long while she stood there gazing after him, half expecting to see him reappear on a higher level, but he had vanished utterly and so completely that she wondered if she had not dreamed him after all. Passing a hand across her eyes, she slowly recovered from her astonishment, and began to scold herself roundly for her stupidity. Why hadn't she shouted? It was for help she had struggled up here—to try and make some kind of contact with the Indians—and now she had let the only one she had seen get away.

But at any rate she could remember the spot where she had seen him—there by the Greek temple, which seemed not so far off, after all, as she had dimly remembered. And it was possible—her heart quickened at this thought—quite probable, indeed, that he was not riding on and on across the endless desert, as she had at first concluded, but had dipped down into a canyon neighboring theirs, neighboring the cultivated fields Dirk had found! What more likely?

Well, there was no use standing there any longer. The sun was sinking and soon it would be dark and cold. Tomorrow—

She went down the path as quickly as possible. By the time she reached the bottom it was dusk in the canyon, though she knew there was a glorious lingering sunset above. How long had she been gone? In some contrition at her neglect, she hurried to Dirk's shelter, calling out reassuringly on her way:

"Dirk! I'm here! I'm coming! Dirk! Did you worry? Dirk—"

She stood at the door of his shelter, breathless and suddenly frightened as her eyes made out the dark figure humped and moaning on the grasses. Silently, then, she went in, sought for the little cigarette lighter in Dirk's pocket, and, using that as a flashlight, held it above the sick man's face. His eyes were open, brilliantly shining in the little flare she held, but staring at her in a way that was at first stupid, then wild, and that made Lorraine's heart jump in fright, for Dirk did not know her.

Stifling her panic, she brought him a drink of cold water, soothed him as he began talking rapidly a string of incomprehensible things, tossed the leaves and grass under his head into a softer pillow, and then knelt beside him, bringing all her will to bear on the quieting of him. At last he fell again into sleep, his fierce grip on her wrist relaxed, and she was able to slip away outside.

There she drew a great breath and stared with wide eyes at the world about her. It was startling in black and white. A huge moon, early risen, made everything stand out as clearly as in the light of day. Pearl and Mother-of-Pearl were lying placidly beneath a rock. Every bird had nested for the night. There were only the tiniest stirrings to be heard, but they were reassuring noises to the listening girl alone in the big night. With her head bent to the faint, curious comfort of the hidden furred and feathered things, a little prayer lifted from her heart to the stars before she turned and went to her own shelter for the night.

But she could not sleep at all, for Dirk's feverish muttering, breaking occasionally to a shout, startled her to alertness every time she was ready to drop into slumber. Was he calling her? Did he need something? And she would spring from her couch to go, shivering, into the white night and hover over his restless figure.

By morning he seemed better, though his ankle pained him exceedingly, and that day his head throbbed in an agonizing way. Lorraine removed the saturated bandage, washed out the cut again as best she could, and bound it afresh, but its angry look disturbed her, and fear of infection lay heavily on her already burdened heart. Not a sign, however, did she give, as she told him, in one of his easiest hours, of her climb to the desert's edge and the Indian she had seen there.

"I'm sure," she concluded, "perfectly, positively sure he simply went down another canyon that's just beyond the Greek temple. And I'm sure, too, Dirk, that I could find him. The temple doesn't look far away—"

But he interrupted her, seizing her hand and speaking in great gravity.

"Lorraine, promise me—you must—that you will never do anything as crazy as that. Never go looking for that Indian alone."

"I won't promise, but—"

"You will promise!" he cried. "You'll drive me mad with worry if you don't. I'll never get well! Lorraine! The thought of you up there on that desert alone. I can't stand it!"

"Dirk, dear—"

"Silly. Of course I can wait! Lie down, Dirk. You mustn't get so excited."

"Promise!" he persisted, and at last she yielded. But she wondered that afternoon is she had been wise, if she mightn't have managed to evade, for his fever rose again that day, as it had the day before, and with it all her anxiety.

The next day Dirk was distinctly not so well, and it was clear to her that he was suffering from an infection in his cut as well as from the pain of his ankle. All through the long sunlit hours he was drowsy with fever, scarcely aware of her as she came and went, scarcely eating, but craving water—water—water. She spent most of her time beside him, not eating herself, but watching him with fear-haunted eyes and turning over in her mind a wild plan.

An incident, the fourth day, made it seem not so wild. The sheep escaped. Old Mother-of-Pearl, backing against the rickety fence for a scratch, knocked it down. In a second she was over it, her lamb following, and when Lorraine, hearing the rustle and clatter, looked up from washing her aviation suit in the stream, they were out of sight and sound, and it was perfectly useless to pursue them. Their loss left her dazed. In a second's time warm clothing and much needed food was gone, for already the vegetables and fruit Dirk had brought were used up, and she could not find her way to the place he had discovered, for more. Nor could she seem to acquire any proficiency in the use of the slingshot. Yet Dirk must be fed if he was to fight this fever, this devastating infection, and finally, and most of all, must he be fed if he was to regain his strength enough for a long trip.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY THE REV. CLARENCE N. WILSON, D.D. FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

THE LIFE-SAVING SERVICE.

"For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them."—Luke 9:56. (Read Luke 9:49-56.)

Meditation

Apparently these words do not belong here. But Jesus may have said them at another time. They sound like Him. The fiery sons of Zebedee proposed an old way of making the good prevail. It is the way of anger which is sometimes called a way of justice. It does not work. Killing criminals does not eradicate crime; laying waste wicked towns and countries does not make a little world. Jesus was come to sow words of life, not dragon's teeth. He would not add to the sum of human misery. For truly while there is life there is hope. To kill a man is to take away all his chances. James and John had not caught the spirit of the Master. Have we? Not when we cry out for vengeance. The first thing to be saved is life, just life.

THE REV CLARENCE N. WILSON, D.D.

Prayer

O God who art the Author of life, reveal to us the spirit that was also in Christ Jesus. Fill our hearts with compassion for the weak and the wayward that the lost sheep be not harried by wolves. In His name who was the Friend of sinners. Amen.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES"

If March 4th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a.m. to 10:45 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.

A rather unsettled atmosphere overshadows the morning hours of March 4th. The afternoon is good for saesonable action and activities. Some unexpected changes in your life may be anticipated. Such favorable conditions as exist chiefly benefit those engaged in official or artistic work.

A child born on this March 4th will have a winning disposition which, as time advances, will develop into a sympathetic personality. It will not achieve much along material lines, but will always be unselfish and considerate of others, and will radiate happiness and sunshine.

If you were born on March 4th, you are deservedly popular wherever you may go. You realize that nothing is saved by being economical in kindness. You give freely of yourself and your efforts to others, and rarely spend a thought on building up your personal interests. In every little action of life, you demonstrate clearly that your first thought is always for others. If misfortune overtakes you, your first reflection is how it will affect those who depend upon you. If success awaits you, your first reaction is to help others.

You are studious, without being a book worm. You are a hard worker, without being a drudge. You are good tempered, without being an extreme pacifist. You are intelligent without being intellectual. You are good, without being a prig. You are conscientious without being a martyr to convention. You do not participate actively in outdoor sports, although taking a keen interest in them. You are probably not an executant in music, although gifted with a keen musical sense.

Your horoscope does not presage any spectacular material achievement. It does, however, denote a life well and fruitfully spent, and full of sunshine and encouragement. As a husband or wife, and as a parent, you are destined to enjoy to the full the pleasures of a happy married life, undimmed by recrimination and undisturbed by jealousies and envy.

A Thought

HIS BOUNDLESS STORE

By Rev. F. A. Cosnett, Flint, Michigan.

Thou Gracious source of my repose,
Thou boundless Store of Love Divine
My sure defense from all my foes,
I would by all to Thee resign;
And now, from all my sin and shame,
I hide myself in Jesus name.
—Scripture reference Phil. 4:19.

PEG O' My Heart

(Examiner Correspondence)

KEENE, Mar. 4. — "Peg O' My Heart" came to the village on Friday night with "Michael", her terrier, her bundles, her "Sunday" dress and her Irish accent. She was Miss Dorothy Hall, leading lady of the Centreville Dramatic club who presented their latest play under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Knox Presbyterian church, Keene.

The play was given in the Masonic Hall the first time the newly-modelled building has been used for such a purpose. It was possibly the most ambitious piece ever attempted here by a club of amateurs and the response of the audience testified to its success. Much of the humor depended on the use of an English accent and it was noteworthy that none of the players lapsed from the softer tones.

Iva Campbell had the difficult role of Ethel, the haughty English aristocrat and when she became human under Peg's soft touch, she quite won her hearer's hearts. Miss Allie Berry as Mrs. Chicester, the designing mamma was quite helpless and convincing. Alaric, her son (Charles Anderson) was as amusing to the audience as he was to Peg. Harry Larmer as the pompous footman was hailed every time he appeared solemnly with "a ticket on a tray" with great applause from the children.

Donald Rutherford played the part of Christian Brent, Lemmuel Pammet was the solicitor, Margaret Larmer was the maid. Archie Deyell as "Sir Gerry," took the part of Peg's lover very charmingly.

Mrs. McKee Bingham of Millbrook who directed the production, received congratulations on all sides. Rev. Mr. Sutherland who spoke a word of appreciation at the conclusion said he had seen amateur plays in many parts of the world, but none with a greater display of talent. Recognition was given to the work of the ladies and gentlemen behind the scenes who produced moonlight and thunder storms, ad lib.

Between acts, Mr. Johnston entertained with two violin solos. The two "dumb" actors, Michael and Pet must not be overlooked. They were 'Teddy' owned by Miss Grace Johnson and 'Prince', owned by J. Porter. Altogether the comedy was a credit to the wide-awake rural community that had the talent and initiative to produce it.

The British coast now has 290 life saving stations.

District Churches

NORWOOD SERVICES

NORWOOD, March 4.—(Examiner Correspondence).—The Sunday services in Norwood Baptist Church were in charge of the pastor, Rev. G. E. Downing, the morning subject being: "The Realization of God's Salvation" while Rev. Mr. Downing took for his evening text, "The Second Word of the Cross."

St. Andrew's Church

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church observed Communion service on Sunday morning, Rev. A. C. Reeves, the minister, being in charge. The subject for the evening service was "The Impulse of Conviction."

United Church.

H. Thistlewaite had charge of the morning service in the United Church on Sunday morning in the absence through illness of Rev. R. F. Stillman. Mr. Thistlewaite gave a splendid discourse, taking for his text, "Search Ye the Scriptures." The evening service was withdrawn.

FENELLA

FENELLA, March 4 (Examiner Correspondence)—"The Rich Young Ruler" was the subject of the Sunday evening sermon in Fenella United Church given by Rev. R. W. Paton.

"This rich young ruler came to Jesus and said, "Master, What Shall I do to Inherit Eternal Life?" This young ma nhad high aspirations, was a deep thinker and of tremendous moral earnestness, but was not content with his new found possessions of wealth and felt there was still something lacking in his life. Thus his appeal was made to Jesus.

"The governing principle of this young man's life was wrong, for while he loved God, he loved his wealth more. While there was a fine showing in morality in the life of this rich young ruler, yet religion is more than morality. Morality is like the clear, well chisled marble of ancient story, beautiful but cold. Religion is morality touched with emotion, until duty becomes love and a good conscience becomes that peace which passeth all understanding.

"There was nothing self-centred about Jesus. He could say at any time, 'I am among you as one who would serve.' The only religion that counts for the coming of God's kingdom is a religion that stands on its feet and works with its hands.

"Jesus said to Nicodemus, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." At our natural birth we begin life with self as the centre; when we accept Jesus, we begin life again on a higher moral plan."

"If a man be in Christ, he is a new creature, old things are passed away all things are become new."

EXPLOSIVES BLOW UP

MILLERS FALLS, Mass., March 3. (CP)—Twenty barrels of gunpowder solution and gun cotton in a truck exploded in the centre of this town to-day and the driver and his helper escaped uninjured.

Warned by the explosion of one barrel, the two men leaped from the truck and were just out of range when the entire load blew up.

MUCH WEAKNESS IN OIL SECTION

NICKEL DROPS BELOW 18.

TORONTO, Ont., March 4. (CP)—Irregularity at the opening developed into general weakness on Toronto Stock Exchange market this morning as the local list reacted with New York. Lowest prices were made at midday, when the market gave some evidence of halting the decline.

Oils, in particular, were weak, though the reaction was not severe. Selling pressure was not heavy locally, offerings showing no increase in volume as the trend turned downward. In the oil section, B.A. Oil, Imperial, International Petroleum, McColl-Frontenac were each down ¼ point, Superfest Petroleum off ½ point. B.A. Oil was selling under 14, Imperial under 17, International Pete, under 14.

Nickel dipped below 18 in the second hour, Brazilian sold fractionally under 26, Ford reacted to 26½. C.P.R. dropped ½ point, Service Stations more than a point.

Yule Estate Duties Yield Govt $15,000,000

LONDON, March 4. (Wireless to the C. P. via Central News)—The British Exchequer will benefit to the extent of nearly $15,000,000 in death duties on the estate of Sir David Yule, head of Andrew Yule and Company, and probably the wealthiest Briton in India, who died in 1928. The Court of Appeal to-day ruled that Sir David was legally domiciled in the United Kingdom.

The British Crown claimed duties on the estate, which amounted to $35,000,000, while the executors contended that he had acquired domicile in India. The court held his Scottish domicile was never legally abandoned.

LINER HAS SIDE DENTED.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 4 (C.P.).—A survey of the liner Nova Scotia made in the dry dock showed that nineteen plates on the port side of the ship were dented for a distance of 150 feet when she struck Ruby Rock a glancing blow while passing through the narrows on the night of February 19. After temporary repairs here, it is expected the liner will sail Friday for Liverpool, where she will be docked.

ASSOCIATION DENIES REPORT

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., March 4. (CP)—Officers of the local Conservative Association deny knowledge of the predicted appointment of Hon. J. D. Chaplin, member of the dominion house for Lincoln, to the Senate. Rumour also has it that either Sir Henry Drayton or the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen would run in this riding to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Chaplin's elevation.

FIRMER TREND IS EVIDENT ON STANDARD MART

BARRY-HOLLINGER UP.

Small Declines Shown By Imperial, International Pet. and Home Oil.

TORONTO, Ont., March 4 (C.P.)—Though weakness in New York was reflected in action of interlisted stocks, balance of the list on the mining market displayed underlying firmness in dull trade in the forenoon today.

International Nickel dropped a quarter and Noranda nearly a half, but Coast Copper managed to sell up a half at $9.50. Sherritt Gordon also regained a point to $1.13.

Hollinger eased 10 to $7.80 and a point recession appeared in Kirkland Lake gold at 58. Dome and Lake Shore firmed 5 apiece, Barry Hollinger, whose annual meeting being held this afternoon, was up a cent to 17 and Mossand Eldorado gained a couple each to 38 and 70, respectively.

Nordon lost 4 to 41, and small declines were shown by Imperial, International Pete and Home Oil. B. A. Oil strengthened 15 to $14.40 and Chemical Research 10 to $3.70.

NEW YORK LIST PLUNGES DOWN

Two and Three Point Gains Retained With Difficulty in Later Trading.

IRREGULAR OPENING.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 4 (C.P.)—Shrinkage of railway dividends crowded more favorable developments out of speculative vision in wall Street today, and the stock market broke sharply.

Efforts to translate a bullish interpretation of the veto of the muscle shoals bill and the imminent adjournment of Congress, into a rise in Public Utility shares, made little headway against the downward trend of the list as a whole.

The mid-week business statistics disclosed mixed trends, although the steel trade reviews reported further gains for the 10th consecutive week.

After an irregular opening, the market plunged downward under heavy selling during the morning. Losses of 2 to 7 were numerous. Around mid-day, efforts were made to bid up the utilities, and gains of a point or two were recorded, but retained with difficulty. The market turned dull during the afternoon. Frisco, Atchison, and Union Pacific dropped about 4 to 7 points, then recovered half their losses. Such issues as Rock Island, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific and New York Central lost 2 to more than 3 points. A long list of industrials and utilities made extreme losses of 2 to 3 points, including U.S. and Bethlehem Steels, American Can, American Telephone, North American, Westinghouse, Dupont and American Smelting.

Favorable Weather Sends Wheat Lower

CHICAGO, Ill., March 4 (C.P.)—Rain or snow predicted for most of the United States wheat belt resulted in early lower prices on grains today. Big primary receipts of domestic wheat counted also as a bearish factor, and Liverpool reported pressure of offerings from Australia, opening 5-8 cents off to 5-8 up, wheat afterward underwent an all-round sag.

Corn started at 5-8 decline to ¼ advance, and later kept near to the initial range.

Financier Refuses To Testify At Probe

ROME, March 4 (A.P.).—Richardo Gualino, one of Italy's most spectacular financiers, whose own tangled affairs were instrumental in revealing the French Oustric Bank scandal, has refused to testify for the French Commission investigating the affair. There appears to be no chance of his prosecution in Italy for his part.

The Italian Government offered to put Gualino at the disposal of the French, but the former multi-millionaire said that he would not speak a word regarding the case either before French or Italian magistrates, and Italian law offers no means of compulsion.

PORTUGAL FORCED TO IMPORT WHEAT

LISBON, Portugal, March 4.—(AP)—Increased bread consumption has resulted in a serious wheat shortage in Portugal despite bumper crops, and the Government has decided to increase the import quota on foreign wheat.

Recently importation of 25,000 tons of Argentine wheat was authorized. It had been expected that the Portuguese output would meet the domestic demand but the drain on the supply was heavier than was anticipated.

Canada Wheat Export Shows Less For Week

WINNIPEG, Man., March 4 (C.P.).—Movement of Canadian wheat overseas, maintained at a rate better than 4,000,000 bushels weekly since the first of the year, slowed up last week and at the same time the drop in the visible supply was less than average. Exports for the week ending February 27 were given as 3,094,800 bushels in a report issued by E. A. Ursell, statistician to the Dominion Board of Grain Commissioners.

Visible supply of Canadian wheat decreased during the week by 1,847,-316 bushels and totalled 190,403,533 bushels. On the same date a year ago the visible supply was 211,141,277 bushels.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 4 (Special to Examiner)—Prospecting parties of the larger mining organizations are reported to be preparing for an early start into the bush. A number of prospectors are planning to hit the trail about six weeks earlier this year than last, and a season of widespread search is anticipated for both Ontario and Quebec. It is believed attention will be concentrated on many of the more accessible districts this summer, the Bannockburn find having engendered a feeling that while farther fields may look greener, the ore seeker is more interested in favorable formation where luxuriant vegetation is something of a nuisance.

A rich gold strike is reported to have been made on the Moss property in northwestern Ontario, south of Kashabowie. The find was made on the 400 level and occurs over a length of 25 feet, it is stated. The ore shows tellurides associated with visible gold and is said to have been found over a width of four feet. Installation of a mill has been financed and production is expected to start next fall.

Oriole Mines will start three more drill holes recommended by their engineer on the East Kirkland property this month. The results of these holes will determine the program of work to be carried out during the summer months. The company is at present negotiating for another property, and a deal is expected to be completed within the next few days. Oriole engineers also are examining groups in some of the newer fields.

Kirkland Lake Gold Mining Company Limited reports that the company's Toronto address has been changed from the Lumsden building to room 903 Canadian Bank of Commerce building.

According to Los Angeles advices the deepest oil well in the world was claimed today by the Shell oil Co. which announced a drill had been driven down 9,700 eet at a site 30 miles northwest of Bakersfield, Calif., and would go to the 10,000 foot mark. A standard oil well in the Midway field previously had been drilled to 9,629 feet.

The core drilling campaign by Cities Service on this block, he said, is well under way, two wells having already been completed.

GRAIN EXCHANGE WILL BE PROBED

PLANS NOT COMPLETE.

REGINA, Sask., March 4 (C.P.).—Grain marketing conditions in Canada will be probed by a Royal Commission appointed by the Dominion Government, Premier J. T. M. Anderson announced last night. His statement was the first official confirmation of reports that an investigation would be held into the operation of grain exchanges.

Arrangements for the inquiry were made at Winnipeg on Saturday, explained Mr. Anderson. At the gathering were Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, and the Ministers of Agriculture of the three Prairie Provinces. The session had been regarded as a seed-grain-relief parley.

The investigation will not commence for at least a month, it appeared from the statement by Premier Anderson, who said that plans for the probe would be discussed at a meeting following the conclusion of prairie legislature sessions. The commission, he said, would consist of three members—one representing the grain producers, one of the grain dealers, and a third member.

HOOVER FINISHES HIS SECOND YEAR IN STRONGEST POLITICAL POSITION SINCE STOCK MARKET CRASH 1929

STORMY REGIME TO DATE.

Improvement of Economic Conditions Would Be Big Feature in Re-election.

WASHINGTON, March 4 (By Ken. Clark, C.P. Staff Correspondent). — To-day President Herbert Hoover rounds out his second year in the White House. Politically he is in a stronger position than he has occupied since the stock market crash of 1929. He has two more years of the Presidency before again appealing to the people, and while in the new Congress, which will assemble in December, the Democrats will be equally as powerful as the Republicans, the incoming Congress can hardly offer more of a problem to the executive than he faced during the past two years.

The Three Questions.

The three questions of the moment in the United States, in order of their importance, are: Prosperity, prohibition and power.

With respect to the first, President Hoover's prestige, earned as Secretary of Commerce and as the head of large business and charitable enterprises since his entrance into public life, has undoubtedly suffered a staggering blow. However, it is gradually being borne in upon the minds of the people of the United States that the President cannot be held accountable for world-wide conditions of depression, and that Mr. Hoover's business conferences were perhaps more effectual in preserving the morale of the United States than was at first supposed. The fact that President Hoover signed the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Bill considerably raising the tariff wall, causes him to fall under the condemnation of low protection elements, but his signature gains for him on the other hand the support of powerful industrial interests. He has probably by this act enlisted as much, if not more, sympathy than he has lost.

To Drink or Not to Drink.

Undoubtedly when it come to the elections of 1932 the riotous issues will be to drink or not to drink. That is the question upon which observers agree President Hoover has definitely taken a stand and his stand is not to drink.

While at first observers, noting the result of last November's elections when Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Illinois, swung definitely to the wet side, were inclined to doubt the political wisdom of the President's attitude, it is now widely conceded that Mr. Hoover's move was as adroit as anything he has done since his election.

The President had a row recently with the Senate over the ratification of his appointees to the Federal Power Board. This was expected. Within the past weeks the Senate and House reached an agreement after years of controversy over the development of the Muscle Shoals Government-owned power project in Tennessee. The agreement was hailed as a victory for the proponents of government ownership and development of Hydro-Electric power, but Mr. Hoover effectually stymied the proposal by vetoing it.

One Experiment.

The Hoover regime has seen the beginning of one experiment which is in disinclination to old timid Republican indivdualism. This was the formation of the Federal Farm Board and buying with Government funds of wheat and cotton. President Hoover signed the Agricultural Marketing Act under which the Farm Board functions, and its operations, arousing the bitter opposition of both the wheat and cotton trades, have no doubt lost the President a number of supporters, moreover, wheat producers and cotton producers are not unanimous in supporting Farm Board policies. Nevertheless, there is no doubt that the President has gained a goodly number of followers in the wheat and cotton belts.

It therefore appears that upon the whole Mr. Hoover sits much more gracefully in the Presidential chair just now than he did eighteen months ago. If economic conditions improve, even the most hardy Democratic wet would not venture to predict that he would not be still sitting there in 1933.

MILLBROOK INSTITUTE BRANCH FIRST ORGANIZED IN EAST DURHAM

On March 22, 1901, Institute Branch Was Organized in Village of Millbrook.

30TH ANNIVERSARY

MILLBROOK March 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — Since the local branch of the Women's Institute observes its thirtieth birthday on March 22 of this year, the minutes of the organization meeting taken from the original copy made by Mrs. Mulligan, the initial secretary of the society, becomes of special interest.

The Millbrook branch was the 'mother' branch of all the Institutes of the East Durham district, as it was from here that departmental and local officials went out and organized other branches at many points in the surrounding territory. Those were the days of severe winters, and often through blinding blizzards, roads deep with snow and frequently almost impassable with drifts, the indefatigable workers made their way to outside points and held the scheduled meeting, that started another branch on its useful way.

Minutes of the organization meeting of the Women's Institute Millbrook.

On the 22nd of March, 1901, a meeting was held in the Town Hall, Millbrook, at 2 p.m., for the purpose of forming a Woman's Institute. It was advertised by the President, T. A. Kelly, and the secretary-treasurer William Vance, of the Farmers' Institute, who kindly assisted the ladies to organize. The number of ladies present was twelve.

Letters from Mr. Creelman, Superintendent of Institutes, were read by Mrs. Mulligan, and some other reading respecting the object of Women's Institutes.

1st resolution: By Miss Richardson and Mrs. Hassard: That a Women's Institute be formed in the district of East Durham and South Monaghan.—Carried.

2nd resolution: By Miss Earle and Miss Kelly: That Miss Ada Richardson and Miss M. S. Fair be the directors for Cavan municipality.—Carried.

3rd resolution: By Miss Richardson and Miss Kelly: That Mrs. C. Reynolds (Bethany P.O.) Mrs. John Vance (Bethany), and Mrs. William Hannah (Bethany), be appointed directors for the municipality of Manvers.—Carried.

4th resolution: By Miss Earle and Miss Fair: That Mrs. John Riddell (Bensfort) and Miss Lucas (Baillieboro), be the directors for the municipality of South Monaghan.—Carried.

5th resolution: By Mrs. Mulligan and Miss Smith: That Miss Henry Mrs. J. W. Martin (Canton) and Mrs. James Wood, be appointed directors for the municipality of Hope.—Carried.

6th resolution: By Mrs. Peacock and Miss Earle: That Mrs. W. G. Allen, Mrs. Hassard, and Miss Alice Vance be appointed directors for Millbrook Municipality.—Carried.

7th resolution: By Mrs. Mulligan and Miss Kelly: That Miss Ada Richardson be the President of the Women's Institute.—Carried.

8th resolution: By Mrs. Hassard and Miss Kelly: That Miss M. S. Fair be the Vice-President of the Institute.—Carried.

9th resolution: By Miss Kelly and Miss Richardson: That Mrs. Mulligan be appointed secretary-treasurer of the Institute.—Carried.

10th resolution: By Misses Kelly and Richardson: That Miss Smith and Miss Earle be appointed auditors for the Institute.—Carried.

11th resolution: By Mrs. Hassard and Miss Earle: That this Society be called the Women's Institute of East Durham.—Carried.

Mr. Kelly now vacated the chair, which was taken by Miss Richardson, the members applauding. The president gave a short and appreciative address.

12th resolution: That the secretary apply to the County Council for a grant of ten dollars, and solicit the support of the following commissioners: S. Ferguson, T. Donaldson, G. Staples, T. Leith and R. Fisher —Carried.

13th resolution: By Mrs. Hassard and Miss Earle: That the directors in each municipality apply personally to their respective councils for a grant of five dollars to the Women's Institute of East Durham.—Carried.

14th resolution: By Mrs. Mulligan and Miss Kelly: That this Society hold its annual meeting on Friday, June 7, the same date as the Farmers' Institute hold theirs.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned to the call of the president.

In connection with the observation of the birthday anniversary the Millbrook Branch is inviting all the other Institutes of the district to join with its members in attending divine worship at Grace Presbyterian church, Millbrook, on Sunday, March 22, the actual date of the time of organization.

The following Monday evening there will be a social gathering in the Town Hall, featured by a buffet luncheon, with as many as possible of the charter members present to give brief addresses reminiscent of the beginning of the Institute work in Millbrook and vicinity. A birthday cake will be a special feature of the luncheon table its quota of candles to be lit by original and present officers designated for this particular honor.

OBITUARY

JOHN McDONALD

DARTFORD, March 4.—(Examiner Correspondence). — The community was shocked to hear of the death of John McDonald a resident of Percy Township, which took place recently. The late Mr. McDonald was 77 years of age and was well known and highly respected. He leaves to mourn his loss, two sons and three daughters, William of Campbellford, Allen at home, Mrs. Hill of Michigan, Mrs. Ezra Cornelius of Percy and Miss Verna at home. The remains were interred at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Campbellford.

MARY EDNA HUTT.

LAKEFIELD, March 4—(Examiner Correspondence).—The death occurred on Monday night of Mary Edna Hutt, the thirteen months' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hutt, after an illness of only a few days. Last Friday the little girl, who was just able to toddle about, burned her hands very badly in the momentary absence of her parents, who were in the pantry, and never recovered from the shock. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the bereaved parents in the loss of their only child.

MRS. THOMAS HENDREN

LAKEFIELD, March 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon from her late residence, William street, of Hannah Webster, relict of the late Thomas Hendren and was attended by many friends and neighbors, who gathered to pay a tribute of honor and respect to one of the oldest residents of the community and one who had earned the regard of a very wide circle by her upright Christian character, her loyalty to her friends and her strong belief in God and the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Rev. T. M. Wesley was in charge of the service which was brief but impressive and included the reading of the 90th Psalm and part of the 21st chapter of the Revelation of St. John the Divine, and speaking of the new Jerusalem. Mr. Wesley spoke of the vision of the life after death, full and perfect in the presence of God who is our Father, and His dwelling place our true home, and there is rest, peace and freedom for sin and suffering, and life for evermore.

Rev. S. A. Kemp assisted at the service at the house. The cortege proceeded to Lakefield Cemetery for interment.

The pall bearers were six nephews: Messrs. James Batten Herbert Girven, Bert Hendren, Roy Hendren, Thomas Petrie, and James Webster.

The late Mrs. Hendren had been a resident of Peterborough County all her long life and of Lakefield for many years where her husband, the late Thomas Hendren, conducted the furniture and undertaking business now carried on by his nephews, Messrs. J. H. and Lorne Webster. All her life in Lakefield had been very closely associated with the Presbyterian Church and its activities, especially the Woman's Missionary Society, of which she was for many years president, and for a number of years honorary president, and these two ladies with their kindly welcome were a feature of all the W.M.S. meetings, until failing health made their presence impossible. Mrs. Baptties died seventeen months ago, and Mrs. Hendren bravely carried on alone till illness forbade her leaving her home. Both were made life members of the W.M.S., the double ceremony being a very delightful chapter in the annals of the society which will long be remembered by those privileged to be present.

Mrs. Hendren is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Grattan of Otonabee and Mrs. Cook of Iowa, and one brother, John Webster of Otonabee; three daughters, Mrs. B. Hunter, Mrs. James Walton and Mrs. James Rose, all of Lakefield; also three sons, John and James of Lakefield, and George of North Monaghan. Two sons predeceased her, Abel and Reginald, also her husband who died about twenty-seven years ago.

Until the last year Mrs. Hendren was able to take her accustomed place in her home and in outside activities and her erect carriage was often envied by younger women and her graceful acknowledgment of an address was always remarked. A lady of the old school, who leaves behind the sweet memory of a sincere Christian character, has passed in the person of Mrs. Thomas Hendren.

PATRICK WHALEN

TWEED, March 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — Patrick Whalen, a lifelong resident of Hungerford township, passed away recently after a long illness. He leaves to mourn his loss his bereaved wife, twelve children and one brother. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning to St. Carthagh's Church. Rev. Father Benedict Farrell of Kingston sang the funeral Mass and Rev. J. P. O'Riordan was in the Sanctuary. Interment was made in St. Carthagh Cemetery.

SOME COMMON SENSE ABOUT flu

Flu, colds, and pneumonia are again on the spread. And health authorities are everywhere urging all precautions.

Just what causes flu is not yet scientifically known. But a weakened, run-down condition may lessen our chances of escaping flu—just as it lessens our chances of escaping other winter ailments. So it's wise to keep our resistance high. Avoid worry and exposure. Eat wholesome food. Get plenty of rest, fresh air and exercise. And start at once to take a good, fortifying tonic.

MIDGET MAD

When summer comes, I drive
My Lilliputian car
Where pigmy golf is played,
And light a dwarf cigar.

Then eat a tin of shrimps,
And a small beer slowlysip;
Or peel ten oranges,
But only eat on pip.

I feed the tomtits croumbs,
Then play with grains of sand.
Or see the circus fleas,
And think them simply grand.

I read of germs and atoms
In tabloid books galore,
Or try to count the pebbles
Upon the sea's great shore.

I dote on words like "mite,
Jot, tittle, morsel, slip.
Snick, snack, drop, driblet, spark,
Grain, scruple, silver, chip."

Now, if it has no tail,
Is tadpole termed a "tad?"
But, gosh, I'll never know.
I'm going midget mad.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ATHEISM ACTION DRAWS CRITICISM

PRESS GETS LAUGH.

MONTREAL, Que., March 4 (C.P.). — Commenting on despatches from Toronto describing repercussions to an editorial on atheism published by The Varsity, undergraduate publication of the University of Toronto, the McGill University Daily in its editorial columns says:

"The Toronto papers have more or less taken leave of their senses. Streamers, head, and four-column stories describe how the Caput of the University demanded explanations, how the governors refused to act, and how the Students' Administrative Council has suspended its editor with a most illogical and analogous commendation. The whole business measures well up to the Varsity idea fo a real show.

"In Montreal the 'atheism editorial" would be considedeted tame and mild. At worst there might be a letter or two in the correspondence column. In Toronto things are far different. The hysterical press has taken the matter in hand. Hysterical fanatics have proposed the arrest of the ... ity editor on a blasphemy cha...

MINE CONFERENCE OPENS AT OTTAWA

Cabinet Ministers Address Annual Meeting of Canadian Institute of Metallurgy.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 4. (CP)—Mining men from all parts of the Dominion gathered here to-day at the annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines, tendered an official welcome at the opening session and Hon. George Black speaker of the House of Commons, himself an old miner in the days of the Yukon, addressed a luncheon at noon.

Canada's vast undeveloped iron resources was the subject of an address by H. H. Claudet. He stressed particularly the seemingly incrongrous situation whereby Canada, possessed of untold iron deposits, annually imported about 20 million tons. A national policy to remedy this situation was being investigated, Mr. Claudet said, and he foresaw the time when Canada would cease to be an importing country and develop her own iron resources.

Pessimism regarding the state of the Canadian mining industry need not be exhibited, declared Prof. W. G. McBride of McGill University. The industry, he admitted, was passing through a crisis but it was founded on basic strength. Canada possessing some of the greatest mineral deposits in the world. After reciting some of the reasons why copper, zinc lead and silver prices were depressed, Prof. McBride predicted an upward trend which, he believed, would not halt until a level was reached which would return a reasonable profit to the industry.

Technical papers bearing on many phases of mining operations were delivered at the afternoon session.

Case Was Settled By Mutual Consent

The case never came to trial before Mr. Justice Jeffries but a mutual settlement was made between the two parties and this settlement was approved byp Mr. Justice Jeffries.

TELEPHONE REMOVALS IN DISTRICT FEW-INSTALLATIONS NUMEROUS

Economists Regard the Telephone as the Barometer of Economic Conditions.

BUSINESS FLOURISHING

It is freely admitted by economists that the telephone has become, in these days of high-pressure business, a most delicate barometer of industry's ups and downs. In other words if the true picture of business conditions in a city is desired then the telephone office should be visited and the number of recent 'phone installations and removals obtained.

That's what The Examiner did yesterday and the data gained was only further proof that Peterborough is less hit by the depression than other cities of its size in Ontario.

H. H. P. Johnston, general manager of the local office of the Bell Telephone Company, was positive that his company's business was flourishing better here than in most cities. Mr. Johnson ought to know because he gets periodic reports on what the telephone situation is throughout the province.

There have been some telephone removals in city homes, he admitted, but only a few, and telephone business is forging steadily ahead here. On rural lines he considered the Peterborough district unique in that, despite the depression in agriculture circles, there have been more installations in recent months than removals.

When Peterborough citizens get the 'phone in it stays in, Mr. Johnston declared. Seldom do they come out. The telephone company term this "life of service" and in this regard Peterborough is unique, being far in advance of most communities.

Some few 'phones have been removed here at the request of house holders, but in most cases it was admitted to be only an emergency measure to meet a decreased budget. In these homes the 'phone is removed but the lines to the house are left intact ready for re-hooking as soon as things return to normal for this particular family.

Girl Died in Father's Arms.

MEXICO CITY, March 4 (C.P.).—The violets which pretty Lupe Rosales, Mexican vaudeville artist, loved in life were heaped about her casket by friends and admirers who sought to fulfill her last unwitting request.

Sunday night a fortune-teller known as "La Catalina" called at the Teatro Principal and read Lupe's hand. "Por Dios," she exclaimed after a quick glance at the lines. "Be careful. There is going to be a great calamity."

Lupe received the warning with a laugh and shrug of her shoulders. "What's the difference if I die?" she asked. "But if I do, bring me violets, lots of violets. I adore them."

Four hours later as Lupe, who at 16 was second leading lady of the Roberto Soto vaudeville troops, was taking her final bow, the curtain caught fire, trapping her and others behind it while the 178-year-old theatre burned.

It was late Monday before firemen found her charred body, clasped in the arms of the body of her father who, seeing her plight, had rushed back to stage to his own death in an attempt to rescue her.

Twelve bodies have been removed from the ruins of the theatre, but members of the Mexican engineering corps, clearing debris off the balcony part of the theatre to-day expected to find the remains of other victims. Great crowds followed the funeral processions of those victims who were buried yesterday.

Titled Englishwoman On Trial

The sensation of the hour in France is the trial of Lady Owen, widow of an English baronet, at Versailles. She is charged with the attempted murder of Mme. Gastaud, wife of a French physician who, Lady Owen says, paid her marked attention and went so far as to promise her that he would divorce his wife and marry her. His failure to keep that promise was the cause of the shooting. Lady Owen is shown above in court guarded by a smiling gendarme.

INSPECTOR MOWAT REVIEWS WORK OF PAST YEAR IN ANNUAL REPORT

NEW TYPE OF SCHOOL.

"One of the most difficult problems of elementary school education, is what is to be done for the over-age non-academic pupils," states A. Mowat inspector of Public Schools in the course of his annual report to the Board of Education. "The regulations", he proceeds, "require all pupils to attend school until they reach the age of 16. The result is that we have in our entrance classes, pupils ranging in ages from 11 to 16. It is coming to be generally accepted that even 14 is too old an age for public school pupils, and it can readily be seen that 16-year-old pupils should not be in the same class with 11 and and 12-year-old children".

"These non-academic pupils are not to be classified as defective in any way. They are practical-minded and learn by doing rather than by thinking. When they leave school they will join the workers of the world rather than the thinkers. They constitute the group that the Vocational Schools can do the most for; purely academic studies do not appeal to them".

New Type of School

"I believe", declares Inspector Mowat, "that the ultimate solution of this problem in Ontario will be the establishment of a new type of school such as has already been adopted in England and the United States".

"The course of study in these schools covers three years—the last two of the present public school course and the first year of the High School course. A wide variety of subjects is given—vocational, technical, commercial and academic. Many pupils leave at the end of this three-year course and only the better class of students continue their studies at the Senior High School or Technical School".

"It will be some years, at least before any radical change is likely in Ontario and in the meantime the problem presses for solution".

Inspector Mowatt believes that much is being done in the technical schools throughout the Province to at least, partially solve the problem. "These pupils can be admitted into vocational schools only upon the recommendation of the Principal and with the approval of the Advisory Committee. "I, understand," he says, "that it has been a matter of lack of accommodation that has prevented their recommendation here up to the present time. I hope the Board will provide such accommodation as will permit at least, the best of these pupils to be recommended for vocational training. The difficulty would be largely overcome if merely those candidates who make a good showing at the important subjects of the entrance examination are recommended."

Inspector Mowat notes a slight increase in the enrolled attendance as well as in the average attendance, in Peterborough Public Schools for the past year. The percentage for 1930 being 93 per cent, which he observes, "is unusually high as all half day absences have now to be deducted".

The number of pupils enrolled at each school was as follows:

Prince of Wales	635
Central	538
King Edward	520
Queen Mary	513
King George	442
Queen Alexandra	424
South Central	56

BOARD OF EDUCATION APPROVES OF FIVE ADDITIONAL TEACHERS TO THE STAFF OF COLLEGIATE Inspectors Report Two Needed in Vocational and Three in Academic Sections.

$200 FOR LIBRARIES.

Amendment is Made to Rule Respecting Renting of Collegiate Auditorium.

Recommendations from the Advisory Vocational Committee and from H. R. H. Kenner, principal of the Collegiate and Vocational School, which make provision for two extra teachers to be added to the industrial staff from September 1st next and three additional teachers for the academic department next year, were adopted at last night's meeting of the Board of Education held under the chairmanship of Mrs. W. R. Morris in the Library of the Collegiate Institute.

The communication read from Mr. Kenner conveyed to the Board the recommendations of Inspector Jennings of the Educational Department, for the need of three additional teachers in the academic department for next year. The matter was brought forward by I. P. McNabb, chairman of the Committee of Appointments which committee was given power to act.

James Dutton, chairman of the Advisory Vocational Committee, in his recommendation said that on the advice of Inspector Sorsoleil, two teachers should be added to the Industrial staff, one to teach either mathematics or science and the other to teach motor mechanics.

The committee's recommendations that A. J. Weames, teacher of electricity, should attend the Spring session of the Technical College at Hamilton (one half of his salary while absent to be borne by the Board and the balance by the Department of Education) and that the committee be authorized to secure a substitute if possible, during his absence, were also adopted without discussion, as also were the further recommendations that the committee be authorized to purchase fifty twentieth century touch typewriting books at an approximate cost of $60 and also an adding machine and calcul-

New Protest Raised By Auto Importers

MONTREAL, Que., March 4. (CP) A statement prepared and issued by the Canadian Automobile Importers' Association protested that it was being made to appear that the Department of National Revenue would benefit by the discount reduction on imported automobiles.

The executive of the Association point out that the Revenue Department recives only $27.20 of the $127.20 additional impost on a car selling in the United States for $1,000 nd subject to a 30 per cent. discount in the United States.

The statement explains that the American manufacturer benefits to the extent of $100, which under former conditions went to the Canadian importer as the United States manufacturer can now allow the importer only 20 per cent discount instead of the 30 per cent he used to receive.

ALWAYS SOMEWHERE a Druggist waits to serve you

Emergency knows no time. Health must be maintained at all costs. Long hours in the dispensery or behind the drug counter is part of the day's work of the druggist. Long after other stores have closed their doors for the day the drug store is open to meet necessity and emergency. The retail drug store's service to its community is as important as the fire, police and public health departments.

Here, too, the lesser desires are met when no other merchant has accommodation to offer.

The major service to the health of the community is supplemented in the drug store by many minor services to the neighborhood; not of necessity but for your convenience.

Always---somewhere---a qualified experienced druggist is ready to serve you.

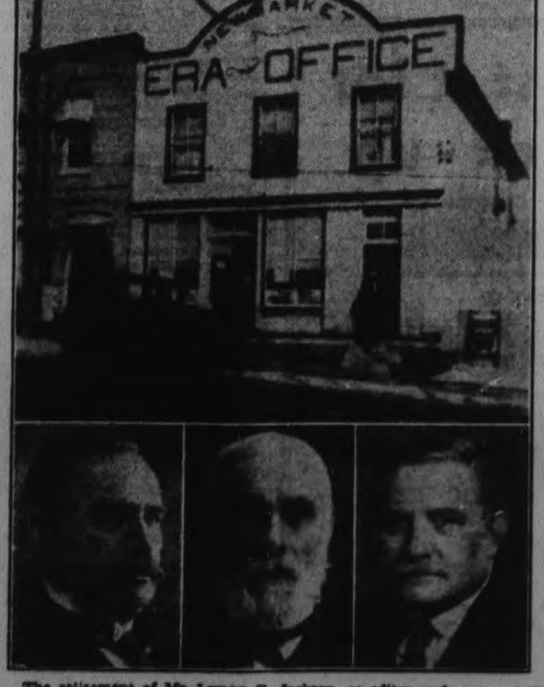
Canadian Newspaper Changes Hands



The retirement of Mr. Lyman G. Jackson, as editor and owner of The Newmarket Era, Newmarket, Ontario, announced this week, ends the unique record in Canadian journalism of a father and son having edited the same newspaper for seventy-eight years. Above is a picture of the home of The Newmarket Era, which has stood since Arastus Jackson (lower centre), became editor in 1858. Lyman G. Jackson (lower, left), who has edited the paper for the last forty-eight years, will be succeeded by Arthur Hawkes (right), well-known politician and journalist, who is returning to the newspaper field.

Convoy Of British Dreadnought Nelson

It is 25 years since a warship of the British Atlantic fleet has been received officially in an American port, but this is being remedied this month. Britain's latest super-dreadnough, H.M.S. Nelson is now en route to Colon, at the northern entrance to the Panama Canal, to pay British navy's greetings to that of the United States. Picture shows a rare happening in the navy—a destroyer alongside H.M.S. Nelson, collecting the mails by means of the Schermuly gun and line—which is here seen being fired from the Nelson to the Windsor ready for the mails to be transferred during Atlantic voyage.

An extension is planned to the Rhine Valley and Switzerland, with stops at Cologne, Heidelberg, Lucerne, Interlaken, Montreaux, and Geneva, while another three-week extension takes in Germany, Switzerland, Italy, and the French Riviera, with stops at Interlaken, Milan, Venice, Florence, Rome, Genoa, Nice, Mentone, Lyons, Paris and Cherbourg. Just Between Us Women

We very often hear the men folks grumbling about the many interruptions they have had during the day, but I wonder if they realize that a homemaker's day is full of interruptions?

• • • • • • •

And of course one can't expect to get all the work done when an interruption comes which sets one back five or ten minutes.

• • • • • • •

Of course there are interruptions which are necessary, and too, there are a whole lot that are not. And so when considering what can be done in a day, you must calculate the time for interruptions, if you desire to go as closely as possible by your schedule.

• • • • • • •

The arrival of the groceries means a few moments' interruption. Answering the door bell and attending to whatever summons it brings takes time.

• • • • • • •

But more insistent that the bell is the telephone ring, sometimes a wrong number, but more frequently meaning a long or short conversation on business and personal matters.

• • • • • • •

The interruptions caused by workmen who come to see about any one of the many things that must be attended to, also break into the attention to work that promotes quick accomplishment.

• • • • • • •

With all these interruptions, many of them unavoidable, you must guard against unimportant telephone calls upon a homemaker's time during the precious working hours of the morning, especially.

• • • • • • •

One doesn't seem to mind a phone call in the afternoon, when most of the work is done up, but it is unwelcome when there is a pile of work to be done, and everything seeming to go wrong, to set one back.

• • • • • • •

To break in unnecessarily on a homemaker's tasks is just as inexcusable as to break into a business man's time at the office. Most persons hesitate and rightfully too, to take a man's time during business hours.

• • • • • • •

But a woman is always expected to stop. Courtesy demands that she does since she is mistress of her own time, unless she has an appointment to keep or some imperative duty to perform.

• • • • • • •

What I am rally trying to get at, is that one should hesitate before telephoning a friend homemaker. Try to get her at an hour that will presumably be free, but avoid meal hours. She is needed at the table or prior to the meal and very often after the meal is over.

• • • • • • •

There is a time in the late middle afternoon when a telephone call is usually welcomed with pleasure. The main tasks are done and other work is not too insistent. Be considerate of other people's time.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

MUSCLE EXTRACT TO TONE UP YOUR SYSTEM

Some months ago the newspapers were quoting a physician who was recorded as saying, that systematic or regular excercise was of no value; that the only kind that was helpful was the kind that the individual liked. And so he recommended golf, horseback riding, badminton, and tennis.

Now I've always been of the opinion that this doctor was not quoted correctly because while it must be admitted that the kind of exercise you like would be stimulating to brain and muscle, nevertheless the majority of people cannot indulge in the above games, and these games, owing to weather and other conditions, cannot be indulged in regularly And, as we all know, regularity is the key-note of successful body building, or the maintainence of good bodily structure.

Further, it is a mistake for anyone to believe that good muscles, good carriage of the body, is not one of the signs of robust health. These muscles and this carriage cannot be maintained unless a little regular systematic exercise is taken. This need be but ten minutes once or twice a day, together with a walk in the outdoors. You can get your ten minutes exercise irrespective of weather conditions.

To show you how valuable your muscular structure is to your general health, some of the latest experiences with muscle extract are almost amazing. The extract of the muscles from a calf injected into the body to overcome that most dreadful malady "angina pectoris" has given most gratifying results. It has given immediate relief in many cases of old heart conditions where the patients were in bad condition.

And now physicians are using this muscle extract in nervous exhaustion, fatigue, in breathlessness after slight exertion, and even in advanced heart disease.

The muscle extract seems to give tone to the general muscular system, particularly the heart.

Now, of course, the reasonable thing for you to do is to be willing to give a few minutes daily to exercising your muscular system, outdoors with golf, horseback riding and so forth if you can, regular class work in a gymnasium where possible, but nothing can prevent you taking a little exercise at home daily. Do plenty of bending from side to side and forward and backwards, knees straight. If your heart is "safe," then a little jogging, running on the spot, will strengthen heart and lungs.

BOARD OF EDUCATION APPROVES OF FIVE ADDITIONAL TEACHERS

"That the standard for admission to one year special commercial class be raised from two to three years, was a further recommendation of the committee. At present there is a one year special commercial class open to pupils who have satisfactorily completed two years' work in the academic school.

Dr. A. Moir, chairman of the Supervision Committee, recommended that clause 12 of the rules and regulations respecting the use of the Collegiate auditorium, be amended. The amendment now provides that all excepting local organizations having the use of the hall be required to deposit a certified cheque for $100 as a security on renting the hall. The rules and regulations formerly made such a deposit binding upon all organizations, but the amendment adds the words, "Excepting responsible local organizations." The committee also submitted for the approval of the Board suggested forms to be used by all applicants who desire the use of the auditorium.

Re-appointed to Board

A letter read from the County Clerk confirmed the re-appointment of R. T. Lillico as County representative on the Board for a further term of three years.

A request by Inspector A. Mowatt for the usual grant of $200 for Public School libraries was granted, on the motion of Mr. Dutton, seconded by Mr. McNabb.

The annual reports of Inspectors M. A. Sorsoliel and L. S. Beattie and A. M. Hamill of their visit to the day and evening technical and vocational schools of this city on January 19, 20, and 21 were read by Secretary G. H. Thompson. The inspectors found that the division of duties among the teachers was satisfactory, while the present special class in the commercial department which numbers 45 pupils is too large for efficient work.

"The importance of office work as a commercial subject," the report points out, "makes it essential that the equipment for this work should be sufficient and modern. At least one adding machine and calculator should be added to the present equipment."

They are also of the opinion that "the principal and committee should consider the possibility of offering instruction to a class of pre-vocational boys and girls."

"Enrollment, attendance, and the standard of work," they found, "are all exceptionally good."

A brief report on the work in the Public Schools of the city for the year 1930 was also submitted by Inspector A. Mowat. The report is dealt with separately in another section of The Examiner.

Deputations were heard from Peterborough Ministerial Association and from the Session of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. In the former instance Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave and Rev. A. H. Going petitioned the Board asking that they authorize a system of religious reading throughout the Public Schools of the city. Rev. Dr. Blagrave stated he was aware that there was a form of Scripture reading in all the Public Schools each morning, but for years he continued, various churches of all denominations throughout the Province have desired to see this on a larger scale. The Government had always taken the attitude, "If you people will get together with a plan embracing all denominations, we shall be glad to support it." That work was done, with the consequence that there is now a system of religious reading adapted to the capacity of Public School students."

Rev. Mr. Going also spoke on the question, remarking that he had been a school principal in the Province of Alberta where this question was a real problem."

Mrs. Morris stated she was glad to meet the deputation and to see so much interest taken in such an important matter. It was a question which would need consideration, and the Board would communicate their deliberations on the subject at a later date.

Alderman G. A. Macdonald and ex-Inspector R. Lees, M.A., appearing as a deputation from the Session of St. Paul's Church, asked that they might have the use of a classroom at King Edward School in which to conduct Sunday School classes. Some other provision was badly needed in that section of the city for small children especially, who found it too far to make the journey from that district to St. Paul's Sunday School. Some other suitable premises had been looked for in vain, and the need at the present time was an urgent one.

Mrs. Morris reminded the delegates that the question had come before the Board on a previous occasion recently, the request having come from Rev. Mr. Ross. At that time the matter had been given every consideration and the Board had decided they could not accede to the request as there were many obstacles in the way.

Mr. Dutton pointed out that the chief objections were those raised by the principal of the school, who contended that any room used would necessitate the removal of books and their replacement in readiness for day classes. The attendance of the janitor would also be necessary. Having these difficulties in mind, Mr. Dutton said that when the matter was originally considered, the committee decided that it would be inadvisable to go to that trouble week after week in order that such a class should be held.

Alderman Macdonald stated a precedent had been set when the schoolrooms were previously given over to a certain church for the purpose of carrying on Sunday School while their own Sunday School rooms were undergoing repairs and structural alterations.

Inspector Mowat: That must have been twenty-five years or more ago. I have been here twenty-four years, and do not recollect such an incident.

No, replied Alderman Macdonald, it was not that long ago, but I know it to be a fact because I saw it in the paper.

The matter was referred to the Property Committee.

Of the 875 students now registered at the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School, there was during the month of February an average daily attendance of 829, or 94 per cent.

The academic section with a total enrollment of 483 students, had an average daily attendance of 460, while the Commercial Department with 245 pupils had a daily average of 232 who answered roll call. The Industrial and Household Arts Departents made a daily average attendance of 137, falling but ten short of the full enrollment.

Public Schools.

School Attendance Officer Abraham's report reveals a 92 per cent. attendance in the Public Schools of the city, the decrease over the first month of the year being accounted for by a prevalence of colds and influenza among the school population. Attendance is now back to normal, however, he states.

Of the 2,647 pupils attending the Public Schools, 180 were absent during February, the figures for each school being given as follows:

	Enrolled	Av. Daily Attend.
Prince of Wales	552	518
Central	478	439
Queen Mary	432	396
King Edward	417	379
King George	397	367

KEENE

Mrs. ames MacNeil left Friday for Montreal to visit her sister, Mrs. Scott of Westmount.

The Y.P.S. meeting of the United Church was in charge of Kathleen Nelson. The Bible reading was taken by Edith Nelson and the explanation by Jack Gall. A prayer was given by Ivan Fletcher and the topic was taken by Dorothy Gainor. This was followed by a general discussion as to whether matters of international importance could be best settled by peace or war.

"Listening-in" was the subject Rev. Mr. Sutherland of Knox Church chose for his address to the children on Sunday morning.

The number of hours which we sleep is not so important as seeing that our sleep is undisturbed, declared a European expert recently.

200,000 Finger Prints Filed at Ottawa

Experts at work in Finger Print Department at Ottawa.

They Tell the Tales of Crime

In a room at Ottawa, the Canadian Government has on file the finger prints of all known Canadian criminals. Also of many international characters. Filed with them are the records of the criminals.

When a crime occurs anywhere in Canada, and the criminal leaves a finger print, it goes to Ottawa for identification. Here are records which never tell a lie, ready to indentify the man if he has ever before been involved.

So with newly arrested criminals. Their finger prints are taken and sent to Ottawa. There, if they have criminal records, they are immediately produced. Sometimes crimes committed a thousand miles away are in this manner traced to the man in custody.

Thus finger prints, the marks we leave on everything we touch, are used to protect society.

Your Dangerous Prints

This is told to remind you of the dangerous prints you leave on whatever you touch. Not criminal prints, but prints laden with germs. You may pick up these germs from things others have touched with contaminated hands.

Your finger prints on food may be the means of carrying germs to your mouth. There they breed and multiply. Life Extension Institute lists 27 diseases which may be conveyed in this way. Colds are among them.

A hand becomes infected if it stops a sneeze. Then whatever that hand touches may convey those germs to others. The shaking of hands spreads countless colds.

The Pleasant Way

Lifebuoy Soap forms the pleasant way to do this. It is used by millions in every country in the world, for this purpose.

Here is an exquisite toilet soap, based on two palm oils — a creamy soap. No better soap was ever created for the skin and the complexion. But it contains, in addition, a germicide. Its application, as proved by tests, either kills germs or makes them inactive.

A bath with Lifebuoy, in a like way, stops body odour for many hours.

No perfume, but a refreshing scent of safety that disappears in a few minutes. It certifies protection to you. No fear of hand germs or of body odour. That fact will multiply your joy in a protective soap like this.

GRACIE MAKES "BIG TIME" HOCKEY DEBUT BY SCORING GOAL AGAINST PHILADELPHIA IN THIRD PERIOD

Primeau, Clancy and Bailey Are Other Marksmen in Leafs' Quaker Victory.

1-0 WIN FOR CANADIENS.

Sensational Display by Thompson Discourages New Yorkers as Rangers Lose Again.

TORONTO, Ont., March 4 (By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer).—Three of the championship contenders in the National Hockey League increased their prestige by clever victories last night.

Montreal Canadiens, present Stanley Cup holders, and Boston Bruins, league champions, who are heading their respective groups by handsome margins, registered hard earned triumphs over Ottawa and New York Rangers, while Toronto Maple Leafs rounded out a perfect evening for the favored squads by trouncing Philadelphia.

The Habitants encountered stubborn opposition at Ottawa and only extraordinary defensive play in the final minutes averted a stalemate. "Steamer" Leduc notched the only goal of the hard-checking game halfway through the second period by camouflaging a shot from the Ottawa defence. Two Canadien and one Ottawan were in the penalty box at the time.

During the last part of the contest the Senators swarmed about the Canuck cage in a valiant but fruitless effort to tally the equalizer. It marked the fifth straight win for Canadiens over the Canadian group cellar occupants.

While the Bostonians outscored Rangers, 4 to 1, the final count does not indicate the closeness of the game. The New York front line of the Cook Brothers and Frankie Boucher outplayed any combination Art Ross sent out against them, but they failed to penetrate the almost impregnable guard of "Tiny" Thompson, Bruin goal guardian, who played superbly.

It was the sixth and final meeting between the teams during the current schedule. The American group pace-setters have won four and tied two. This marked the third season the Rangers have failed to register a win over the Bostonians.

Last night the Rossman secured a four-goal lead in the first two frames on goals by "Cooney" Weiland, Eddie Shore and a brace by Marty Barry, before the losers tallied their lone market late in the final session.

Maple Leafs downed the Quakers, 5 to 1, after a poor start and consolidated their hold on the second rung of the senior loop.

Hib Milks notched the first counter of the game ten minutes after the start and the Duncanites seemed doomed to suffer defeat in the Quaker City this season. However, starting the second chukker they came to life and goals by Ace Bailey and Joe Primeau sent them to the front, where they stayed.

Gracie Makes Debut

Primeau, Clancy and Bob Gracie, making his debut in "big time" hockey, scored a goal apiece in the last session to put the result beyond doubt. The Leafs now hold a five-point lead over the third place New York Americans.

COMBINES MEET COGS TO-NIGHT

PLAY-OFF FOR 2ND PLACE

Norwood and Havelock fans are moving into town tonight for the big thrill promised at Brock street rink when Alex Kempf's Combines face the Cogs in the first of a home-and-home series to determine the opposition for Lakefield in the East Peterborough Hockey League finals. Goals will count on the round and both teams will be out after plenty of counters.

The game will start at 8.15 o'clock with Max Board as referee.

Local hockey fans whose demand for an artificial ice arena becomes more insistent should pack Brock street rink tonight to help things along. Artificial rinks are useless without hockey teams and leagues, and the East Peterborough loop is just another effort to emphasize the necessity for a new arena. So with the stage all set for a championship battle with the clever Norwood team as guests, it is up to the local fans to give the contest their united support.

Gore's Landing Wins From Garden Hill

BAILIEBORO, March 4.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A most exciting game of hockey was played on Gore's Landing rink, when the Garden Hill team met the boys from the Landing in a fast hockey tilt on Monday evening.

Gore's Landing had the best of the play throughout and well deserved many more than the two goals scored.

G. Harris in the nets for the Landing made many spectacular saves, while P. Harris and R. McDonald were outstanding men on the forward line.

J. Cantrell for Garden Hill was always on the job when the puck approached the visitors' net, and W. Jones, the veteran defence man, made some sensational plays.

P. Harris on a pass from L. McDonald scored the first goal a few minutes after the game commenced, and R. McDonald carried the puck through the defence about the middle of the second period and scored the second goal.

Penalties were handed out to several of the players who insisted on tripping their opponents regardless of the referee's warnings.

The teams lined up as follows:

Gore's Landing—Goal, G. Harris; wings, R. McDonald and P. Harris; centre, L. McDonald; defence, H. Harris and L. Wallace; subs, L. Harris, F. Harris and C. Harris.

Referee—Keith Barnard.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT

"THE PRINCESS AND THE PLUMBER"

Some of these days Charles Farrell intends to let the movies go to rack and ruin and devote himself to boating—for a summer, anyway.

One of the most enthusiastic yachtmen in the screen colony, Farrell owns the "Flying Cloud," a 45-foot racing yawl that is one of the fastest craft of its kind on the Coast, but as yet he has never had an opportunity to sail her in a race.

Half a dozen times he has planned on entering the vessel in the San Francisco-Honolulu classic, as well as in many of the shorter regatta cruises up and down the Coast, but invariably a week or so before the event, he is recalled to the studio to start work on a new picture, and his hopes of winning some silver cups are again postponed.

Again this fall, Farrell reconditioned his boat, only to receive orders two days before the big Los Angeles regatta, to report at the studios for the leading role in "The Princess And The Plumber," the Fox Movietone comedy romance, which is now attracting crowds to the Regent Theatre.

Playing opposite Farrell is Maureen O'Sullivan, the dainty Irish colleen, whom director Frank Borzage discovered in Dublin while he was filming John McCormack's Movietone, "Song O' My Heart." Miss O'Sullivan jumped right into the leading feminine role of that picture without any professional experience, and when critics stated that her charming performance was only a "flash in the pan," she discredited their judgment with her remarkable work in "So This Is London" and "Just Imagine."

H. B. Warner also enacts a feature role, that of the Prince of Daritzia, while such well known performers as Joseph Cawthorn, Lucien Prival, Bert Roach, Louise Closser Hale have the leading roles in Farrell's strong supporting cast. Alexander Korda directed the production from the Saturday Evening Post story by Alice Duer Miller, which was adapted for the screen by Howard J. Green.

KING WILLIAMS GET 3 GOALS

Calgary Forward Leads Cleveland to 5-1 Victory Over Yellow Jackets.

BISONS CLINCH TOP BERTH.

TORONTO, Ont., March 4 (C.P.)—A spectacular display of goal scoring by King Williams, the hurricane forward from Calgary, enabled the Cleveland Indians to trounce the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, 5 to 1, in an International Hockey League match played before a packed arena at the Ohio city last night.

Williams scored the first three Indian goals, two in the first frame, another in the second and assisted in the scoring of the fourth marker in the final frame. Ken Doraty ran Williams a close second for sniping honors by notching Cleveland's fourth goal and assisting in two other goal-scoring plays.

The victory checked the ambitious of the Smoky City hockeyists to secure sole possession of fourth place, which they are now sharing with London Tecumsehs and at the same time boosted the present league champions up the standing with a tie with Windsor for second place.

The league-leading Buffalo Bisons practically clinched the driver's seat by coming from behind to beat Detroit Olympics, 3 to 2, in the Motor City.

A goal by Frank Steele early in the first frame started the Olympics off on the right foot, but they were unable to maintain their advantage and the Bisons knotted the count some 13 minutes later. Ronnie Martin sent the Buffalonians to the front by scoring in the second session and "Dutch" Cain clinched the verdict half-way through the third. Jimmy Herberts scored Detroit's second tally in the last few seconds of play.

Carnera And Box Office 'In Agony' As Final Fistic Festival Under Palms Gets Underway

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor.)

MIAMI, Fla., March 4. — Weather and track conditions permitting, Primo Carnera, the big question mark of the prize ring, will gallop ten rounds or less against Jimmy Maloney, the Boston fish peddler, to-morrow night in the second and positively the last of this winter's fistic festivals under the Palms.

The Battle of the Cracked Rib, as it has been known since a fracture developed in the ponderous frame of Carnera a fortnight ago, will be run off in spite of a flock of obstacles and even if it takes a derrick and a hospital staff to get the ailing Italian into the ring.

The anguish suffered by Carnera, depending on the outcome of the bout, may be trifling by comparison with the acute pains in the region of the box office. The show faces financial failure, despite the optimism still manifest by promoter Frank J. Bruen.

Bruen remained confident today the "gate" at prices ranging from $3.00 to $15.00 would pass $100,000 and enable him to break even. On basis of an extremely disappointing advance sale, however, the total receipts may not go beyond $50,000. The recent Walker-Risko fight with a gate of $35,000, wrote off a loss of about $5,000.

Manitoba, Toronto and Quebec Win Both Games of Thursday's Schedule.

BARRIE HAS CLOSE WIN.

TORONTO, Ont., March 4 (C.P.)—After yesterday's easy two-game schedule the 10 rinks matching shots here in the fifth annual competition for the Canadian single rink curling championship and Macdonald Brier tankard found themselves confronted with a harder task to-day.

Morning, afternoon and evening matches will be played with prospects of the undefeated ranks being further depleted.

Quebec, Manitoba and the Barrie rink won both of their games yesterday. The latter had the narrowest squeak of the day when they barely nosed out the Montreal four by one shot.

Alberta, Ontario, Northern Ontario and Saskatchewan broke even in yesterday's double bill, while New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Montreal lost both tussles.

Bob Gourlay and his cupless champions of Manitoba test their mettle against Peter Lyall's Quebec four this morning, while the other undefeated rink, S. Meredith's Toronto representatives, oppose J. Nicholson's Northern Ontario shot makers.

In the other three games of the morning round, Alberta is pitted against Montreal, Ontario against Saskatchewan and New Brunswick against Nova Scotia.

LADIES' PLAY-OFFS START ON FRIDAY

St. Paul's and "Y" Seniors Clash in Opener With Senior and Westclox Next.

Commencing at 8 p.m. Friday evening, on the Y.W.C.A. floor, a smart basketball triple-header will be staged in the first round of the Ladies' City League play-offs.

St. Paul's and "Y" Seniors will clash in the opener and both these squads have been defeated but once in the current season, and the contest has aroused plenty of enthusiasm.

At 9.15, the Senior School will take on the fast moving Westclox quintet and both outfits will be working hard for a win. The Westclox were victims of the School team earlier in the year when they went down to defeat by a single point and they will be out for sweet revenge.

In the Junior section, the Blue Petes will meet the Wohelo Club and this fray is called for 9 p.m. and should provide plenty of thrills.

Cage followers are well advised to see these teams in action and be treated to an evening of fine basketball.

STAR ATHLETICS BLANK CANUCK JUNIORS 2-0 TO WIN ROUND FOR POSSESSION OF STEWART TROPHY

Athletics Beat Fosters 2-0.

Tiger Juveniles Take Permanent Possession of Mark Bredin Cup.

It's curtains for the South-End City League for another year, and what a grand finale it was! Three shut-outs ushered in the winning teams before a good-sized and enthusiastic crowd of rooters. The ice was only fair, but close-checking and plenty of action marked all three hotly-contested battles. Athletic Bantams and Star Juniors had to overcome a one-goal margin to emerge victorious on the round Tiger Juveniles by winning this year, took permanent possession of the Mark Bredin Cup.

The junior game went twenty minutes overtime, and what a battle! Stars overcame a one-goal lead and beat Canucks 2-0 to win the round and the J. A. Stewart Cup by 3 goals to 2. It was fast, rough and tight all the way, and kept the fans right on their toes. Canucks made it a tough session before they bowed out of the picture, and both outfits were dead on their feet when the final overtime finished.

The game started fast with very little combination in evidence. The boys began checking hard from the start and play was a little rough in the first frame. Both net-guardians had some hard saves to make as the players came through fast on lone thrusts. Neither squad scored in this stanza. Play was fast again in the middle chapter and getting rougher. Canucks had an edge in the second, passing the puck and following in on their shots. Stars, however, got the only counter when Tranter lifted a high one just before the bell. This goal was disputed, but the referee ruled it in. The third go started fast, the play going up and down continuously and even. Considerable slashing and hard bodying slowed them up, and toward the end, the boys were stalling for time. They came out for two ten-minute overtime periods, and early in the first, Padgett rifled a fast one from close in to give Stars the lead. There was one of the Stars' players off at the time of the counter. Canucks fought hard to get it back, but they were dog-tired and Stars managed to hold them off the rest of the overtime.

It would be unfair to single out any star player on either outfit, as every man gave his best, and they were very evenly matched. Both goalies shone, and the two defence lines worked like Trojans. All the forwards travelled far and fast throughout the tussle.

The teams:

Referee—"Gamey" Jarvis.

The opening game saw the speedy Tigers repeat the score of the first game, shutting out Canucks 1 to 0, and winning the round 2-0. The champs had the edge in the first two periods, outspeeding and outclassing their opponents entirely. The last last frame was more even and the losers made it plenty hot the final ten minutes, but couldn't score.

The fast-breaking and combining Tiger front line stared with a bang and kept most of the play on enemy ice. Watson shot from a sharp angle early in the first to score the only counter. The middle canto was again all Tigers. They buzzed around the net considerably and shot often but without bulging the twine. The final chapter found the play moving from end to end rapidly and both goalies making some classy saves. Toward the end, Canucks had all the best of it and threatened continually but close-checking and smart goal-guarding held them out. The winners were stalling for time and shooting the puck down the ice at the last bell.

Cournyea, Watson and Field looked particularly good for the Tigers, with McCarrol handling his shots with ease. The defense worked nice too. There was no outstanding player on the Canuck line-up, but Fleming in goal and Delpellaro and Hill never quit trying. Lefravre and Hallahan did some effective checking on the back line.

The teams:

Athletics blanked Fosters 2-0 to win the bantam honors and the J. A. O'Brien trophy. They won the round by 5 to 4 as the Foster boys had beat them 4-3 in the first play-off game. Manager "Shocky" Mein read his Athletics the riot act before the contest, and the boys came out with blood in their eyes. They outskated and outplayed their bigger opponents most of the way, and gallantly withstood a hard Foster attack in the last period.

Thew inners had four men up most of the first frame, and pressed steadily. They shot hard and often, but there was no score. In the centre chukker they again took the offensive and checked persistently to keep the rubber around the other's goal. Half way through, they scored twice within a few mintues to swing the balance of the round in their favor. McGovern got close in to beat the goalie for the first, and Kingdon following in fast for his own rebound to make it two. The third period was even and up and down hard but clean withal. Fosters got going and threatened the "A's" citadel often, but couldn't counter.

Vitarelli, Clark and Kingdon went great for the winners although there wasn't a weak player on the team. The Foster forwards tried hard and the goalie stopped some tough ones.

The teams:

Referee—"Gamey" Jarvis.

Pla-Mors and Shamrocks American League Winners

CHICAGO, Mar. 4.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Tulsa Oilers, leaders of the American Hockey League, and the third place Duluth Hornets today were recovering from rude buffetings accepted in the battle for play-off berths. Kansas City Pla-Mors, 1930 champs, now in second place, and Chicago Shamrocks, third, had the best to show after a three-game melee last night.

By setting back Tulsa 6 to 2, Kansas City moved up to within six points of the leaders, whose margin has been as wide as a dozen points. Duluth missed a chance to keep pace with Pla-Mors by bowing ignominiously to the tail-end St. Louis fliers, 3 to 1, as Chicago moved up to within two points of third place, lambasting Minneapolis 7 to 2.

ST. JAMES WINS ROUND 8 TO 6

GOING IS SLOW.

Mark Street passed out of the championship picture last night at the Brock when St. James beat them 3-1 in the final game for the Church Hockey League championship. They won the round 8-6, as the two teams had played two tie-games before. St. James deserved the victory on the night's play, the East City boys being unable to get going right on the slow ice.

The first period was somewhat slow and marked by a great deal of close-checking the play being mostly in the neutral zone. Not much shooting was done till near the end. Play was pretty even in this frame. The second was faster and saw the winners having a big edge at first. They ran in three big ones to give them a nice lead. Spence got the first on a hard shot from the blue line. Shortly after, Meredith stickhandled his way through for a swell marker. MacDonald notched the third one within a minute when he batted one in from close quarters.

Mark Street kept trying and were dangerous toward the close of the canto. The losers worked hard in the last session, and midway through Hoy passed one from the corner to Lipsett, who shistled in the first for his team. They sent four players up the ice in a desperate attempt to pull the game out of the fire, but the Saints held them off, and play was even up and down at the end. It was a fairly fast exhibition of hockey and remarkably clean throughout.

Meredith, Jamieson and Sloan were effective for the winners, though all the boys went great. The Mark Street forwards played a nice game, and kept the Saints worried. The defense too deserves mention for their hard work, especially toward the last.

The teams:

Mark Street—Goal, Ferguson; right defense, Wright; left defense, Forbes; centre Hunter; right wing; Lipsett; left wing, Hoy; alternates, Gardiner, Burton and Sager.

St. James—Goal, Sloan; right defense, Price; left defense, Spence; centre, Jamieson; right wing, Meredith; left wing, MacDonald; alternates, English and Grose.

VIGOROUS TRAINING THE RULE

The Cubs are shown here varying their training stunt by tossing the medicine ball around. It's a part of the routine of training by which the stouter Cubs hope to paraphrase the once popular song by warbling: "I left my paunch in Avalon, beside the bay, etc." Here we have a circle of Bruins limbering up by keeping the heavy sphere way up in the air.

CHICUBS GO TO SCHOOL; BOTTOMLEY HAS BATTLE

Rogers Hornsby Teaches His Bruins Fine Points of the Game —Chick Hafey Reported Dissatisfied With Terms Offered By Cards.

MORGAN SUSPENDED FOR FAILURE TO REPORT.

AVALON, Cal., March 4 (C.P.). — The Chicago Cubs went to school yesterday to Prof. Rogers Hornsby.

The Rajah sent the pitching candidates out to take turn in working on the art of holding runners on the bases; the catchers were tutored in sniping base runners, and the base runners were told how to outsmart the pitchers and catchers. While not occupied in running or throwing, the players sat in a row and watched, while Hornsby made comment on the quality of work.

MORGAN SUSPENDED.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 4. — (C.P.). — Eddie Morgan, erstwhile first-baseman of the Cleveland Americans, now honeymooning somewhere in the south, was automatically suspended yesterday when he failed to show up with the rest of the fielders. If he decides that after all he doesn't want to be a full-time business man, he will have to be reinstated by club officials.

WINS McKECHNIE'S PRAISE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 4.—(C.P.).—If Bill Walters, twenty-year-old Philadelphia sandlotter, does not make the National League this season, Bill McKechnie, Boston Braves manager, will be keenly disappointed.

McKechnie described the kid as "the most promising third baseman to enter the league in years."

The youngster, recommended by "Socks" Seibold, his neighbor, hoped to enter professional baseball two seasons ago with the Montgomery club in the South-Eastern League. A leg injury, sustained in basketball, ruined his chances.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 4 (C.P.). —James "Ripper" Collins, the young first baseman from Rochester, who is expected to give Jim Bottomley a battle for the first base job, reported to Manager Gabby Street yesterday afternoon. This leaves only five members of the St. Louis Cardinals absent and unaccounted for.

They are Outfielders "Pepper" Martin, Chick Hafey, Taylor Douthit, Ernie Orsatti and Second Baseman Frankie Frisch. President Sam Breadon said Hafey was the only player who had expressed dissatisfaction with terms offered.

WINSETT AT FIRST BASE.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 4 (C.P.). —The Boston Red Sox, with the idea of capitalizing John Winsett's long hitting, are trying to change the Tennessee youngster from an outfielder to a first baseman. The boy has an extraordinary length of arm and leg and a natural ease of adapting himself.

Despite these advantages, however, Manager Collins fears he will not be ripe for at least two more seasons. He is not a clever glove handler, even in his native outfield. Collins intends to develop him, for Winsett's hitting is just what the doctor ordered for the Red Sox.

RALPH KRESS REPORTS.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 4 (C.P.).—Ralph Kress, shortstop, arrived at the St. Louis Browns' training camp yesterday. He is the first member of the second squad to appear.

He has been playing baseball with a California team, and his first practice, cut short by rain, indicated he is well advanced.

LEFTY O'DOUL AND LOPEZ IN ROBINS' CAMP

MAKING THE CIRCUIT.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 4. — Frank Lefty O'Doul, up from the baseball depths for the fifth time—counting his escape from Philadelphia—is now completing his round of major league teams in the metropolitan district.

O'Doul is thirty-four years old today. He was with the Yankees as far back as 1919, rejoined them in 1922, reported to the Cubs for a cup of coffee in 1926 and enlisted with the Giants in 1928. He is tired of bobbing up and down and hopes to make Brooklyn his permanent address.

Arriving from California, he sought out John Gorman, traffic manager of the Robins, and inquired about his bats.

"Before I left San Francisco," he said, "I wired to Louisville for a stack of my favorite hickory and had it sent here. Has it showed up yet?"

Babe No Model

O'Doul snorted, "Who, that guy? Say, he learned how to hit watching me two years ago. I can't use his sticks."

O'Doul did not miss his batting practice altogether, as he was one of a golf foursome that set out after luncheon for the Clearwater Country Club. The downpour ceased at noon, but the practice game was ruined by wet grounds and only the batterymen were asked to report at the yard.

On some high spots back of left field sixteen pitchers exercised their soupers on four catchers. Senor Alfred Lopez having arrived late Sunday night to help out Picinich, Richards and Otto Miller. Jack Quinn was in uniform for the first time and worked so freely that Professor Robinson, who conducted classes from the clubhouse porch rostrum, asked for an explanation.

"Oh, I was heaving them around for a few days up at Hot Springs, replied the veteran. "I'm ready to go about five innings now. Just call on me any time."

Walter Johnson Expects To Lead A's and Yanks

BILOXI, Miss., Mar. 4. (AP) Walter Johnson has a healthy respect for the Athletics and Yankees, but there is a big "if" attached to even their pennant chances, as the Washington manager sees things.

"If they don't uncover some good pitchers, we'll beat them out easier than a lot of people expect" he said.

"Clubs like Detroit and Cleveland are going to knock off the good teams often, but they lack balance which is necessary over a long stretch.

"We'll have substitutes on hand this year almost as good as our regulars."

The Pas Dog-Mushers Enter Last Lap of Race

THE PAS, Man., March 4. (CP)—As the sun arrived over northland pine-tops to-day, half-a-dozen hardy dog-drivers raced over the treacherous muskeg-trails on the last half of the 200-mile The Pas dog derby. For Earl Brydges, Cranberry Port musher in the lead, meant two triumphs in a row; for Emil St. Godard, faorite son of The Pas, a win meant a clean sweep of the season's major runs.

One hour after midnight, the leading six of the events' eight entries sped away from the Flin Flon mining camp named half-way-house on the Long Derby trail. Brydges, who had reached Flin Flon with T. G. Dainard and Jack Robertson, both of Nipawin, Sask., left eight minutes in ahe van of his erstwhile first-place mates.

DEFENDS ITALIAN THEATRE

ROME, March 4 (C.P.)—Pope Pius' recent criticism of the "immorality" of the theatre and press in Italy, and the failure to respect Sunday as a holy day, was answered in the Chamber of Deputies to-day by Premier Mussolini's spokesman, Leandro Arpinati, Under-Secretary of State.

Signor Arpinati, presenting Mussolini's budget for the Minister of the Interior, denied the Papal allegations and said he did not want the theatre controlled by "professional masters of morals" or by "professional moralists."

SAFETY COMMITTEE GATHERS AT HUB

Disciplining Men Responsible For Accidents Makes Interesting Debate at Deloro.

MARMORA, March 4 (Examiner Correspondence).—Under presidency of R. A. Elliott the regular meeting of Deloro Safety Committee was held at the Hub on Monday evening with a good attendance.

J. A. Rice reported for the Suggestions Committee, giving details of three received during the past month. W. Mumby, who followed, stated that the Competitive Committee had made the award of two prizes for worthy suggestions. The flag was equally divided between the General Division, Oxide Plant and Engineers, while the first-named received the star. L. R. Rundle brought in a satisfactory report for the Inspection Committee. E. Hewitt was appointed floating member for the ensuing month.

Prone method practices at the Silver Plant were reported by Floyd Gray and H. Loveless was chosen to carry out similar practices at the Oxide Plant during March. C. H. Buskard having given the monthly statement of Benevolent Relief Funds, W. Reynolds reported for the Publicity Committee. Mr. Reynolds told of the interest shown by the employees in the Limerick contest, which recently finished with Michael Corrigan as the winner. He mentioned that Limerick No. 2, would appear on March 10th.

The concluding tem of the evening was the reading of a paper, "How should men responsible for accidents be disciplined?" George Brooks was the reader. The tone of the article was ably upheld by H. Rennie and P. Leal. C. T. Nicholson and H. Smith, who were assigned the roles of critics found no chance to make any headway, so well was the case presented.

GROVE BOYS IN TORONTO

LAKEFIELD, March 4—(Examiner Correspondence).—The first of the Lenten meetings of the A.Y.P.A. was held on Monday evening and took the form of a lantern lecture. There was a fair attendance including a number of children, who enjoyed very much the pictures which were in three distinct series, opened by an amusing episode of a bear hunt with an expected ending for both hunter and bear and continuing with a set of slides on the women of the New Testament including besides the Blessed Virgin Mary, Mary and Martha, Elizabeth, Mary Magdalene, Lydia, Dorcas, Lois, Eunice and many others. The third series was a trip through Palestine showing many places in the Hold Land familiar to us all by name as having been closely associated with the life of Our Blessed Lord

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Kingdon entertained about forty young people on Monday evening, friends of their daughter, Jean, and son, Arthur. The evening was spent very pleasantly in games, music and dancing, with refreshments served about midnight. The young people all voted Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon delightful hosts and enjoyed very much the jolly party.

Hockey Team in Toronto.

The Grove hockey team spent the week end in Toronto and played several inter-college games with credit to themselves and the "old school on the hill." They defeated the Upper Canada College team by a score of 6-2 and especial mention was made in the Toronto Star of the fine work of Stuart, one of the forward line and a local boy. The week end was a break in the routine of school and was a triumph of sportsmanship. Mr. Kenneth Mackenzie accompanied the team.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Welbourne have returned home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Welbourne in Cobourg.

Mr. T. H. Adams of Peterborough was in the village on Tuesday.

Mrs. James Minty, who recently celebrated her one-hundredth birthday in Aberdeen, Scotland, still takes pride in dusting her home.

A BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S ICE BOAT.

"There you are!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Well, I'm glad I'm not where I was!" gasped Baby Bunty as, dripping wet, she slid across the ice of the duck pond when the rabbit gentleman pulled her from the hole with his neck scarf.

"So am I glad!" said Uncle Wiggily. "And now I must get you into my warm bungalow as soon as quicker so you won't take cold. Keep away from that ice hole, all of you children!" called the rabbit gentleman to Buster, Custer, Duster, Jingle, Jangle and all the others who had been sliding when Baby Bunty broke through as I told you in the story last night.

"We'll keep away, Daddicums!" promised the animal boys and girls.

Then Uncle Wiggily picked Baby Bunty, all cold wet and shivering, up in his paws, he put her under his warm, fur coat and then he hopped, faster than he had ever hopped before, toward his bungalow.

"I'm almost as warm as toast now," said Bunty when Uncle Wiggily unbuttoned his coat inside the bungalow to take out the little orphan rabbit child.

"Oh, let me get your wet clothes off," said Nurse Jane, "and give you some hot carrot soup and bundle you up in front of the warm fire and then you won't take cold I hope." And as Nurse Jane was helping Baby Bunty, the muskrat lady housekeeper looked at Uncle Wggily and asked in a loud voice:

"Where is your neck scarf?"

"Oh, dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily in a little voice. "I guess I forgot and left it on the ice."

"What ice?" asked Nurse Jane, not so loud this time.

"Uncle Wiggily left his scarf on the ice of the duck pond after he pulled me out of the hole where I fell in when I was sliding," said Baby Bunty, "and please don't scold him."

"All right, I won't," promised Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. Then she popped Baby Bunty into a hot bath before putting dry clothes on the little orphan. Nurse Jane had been going to scold Uncle Wiggily when she saw him without his neck scarf. She had made him put it on when he went out, but Mr. Longears, not liking the tickling, itchy scarf had taken it off and put it in his pocket. Then he had used it to pull Bunty from the ice hole and he had forgotten it.

"But I'll go back and get my scarf as soon as I know Bunty is all right," Uncle Wiggily said.

"Bunty is all right," spoke Nurse Jane. "And don't you dare come home without that scarf around your neck."

"Oh, very well," answered Mr. Longears. He thought he could put the scarf on just before he got to the bungalow and so fool Nurse Jane into believing that he had worn it all the while. Dear me! I don't know what is getting into Uncle Wiggily of late; playing such tricks. I must speak to him about it. Or perhaps you will.

Anyhow, after rescuing Baby Bunty from the hole in the ice, by pulling her out with his long neck scarf as he did not dare go near the edge of the whole himself—after doing this and seeing that the little orphan bunny was nice and warm in his bungalow, Uncle Wiggily went back to the duck pond. All the other animal boys and girls, including the forty sixteen rabbits belonging to Uncle Wiggily, had left for home. Bur on the ice was the bunny gentleman's neck scarf.

"I'll put it in my pocket, as I really don't like to wear it," Mr. Longears to himself, "and when I get in sight of the bungalow I'll tie it around my neck. And now, as long as I am here, I may as well have a bit of fun myself," chuckled the bunny. I'll not slide too near that hole, though. Let me see, what can I do to have fun?"

Just then Uncle Wiggily saw a flat board the children had been playing with and, all at once he thought:

"I'll make myself an ice-boat and sail around the duck pond until it is time to go home to supper." No sooner said than done. The flat board made a very good ice-boat for a rabbit gentleman. For a mast he stuck a tree branch in a hole at the front end of the board. And what do you think Uncle Wiggily used as a sail for his ice-boat?

Why, of course! His neck scarf which he took from his pocket. He twisted the scarf around the tall mast and then, sitting on the board, the bunny waited for the wind to blow to give him a ride on his ice-boat. Pretty soon the wind began to blow very hard.

"Here I go!" shouted jolly Mr. Longears.

FORD MOTORS OF CANADA SPENT LARGE SUM IN CITY LAST YEAR

Expended Total of $116,676.77 in Purchase of Materials for Manufacture.

SUPPLY BRITISH DOMINIONS

The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, expended a total of $116,676.77 in Peterborough during 1930 in the purchase of materials used in the manufacture of the Canadian Ford car, Wallace R. Campbell, president of the company, revealed to-day in a letter to the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

This expenditure was Peterborough's share of the more than $17,700,000 spent in various Canadian cities in the purchase of materials and supplies required in the great Ford factory at East Windsor, Ontario, where Ford cars for Canada and the British Dominions are manufactured, and for its eight Canadian branches, Mr. Campbell explained.

In addition to this great expenditure for materials and supplies used in the manufacture of the Ford car in Canada, the Ford Motor Company of Canada, paid out more than $10,500,000 for salaries and wages of employees of the more than 5,000 persons employed at the main factory and its eight branches. Four branches —those at Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver—assemble Ford cars from parts manufactured at East Windsor.

Entirely Canadian

"These figures reveal what many Canadians do not realize—that the Ford car is made almost entirely in Canada, of Canadian materials, by Canadian workmen. "The Ford cars which are manufactured at our East Windsor plant supply our market not only in Canada but also in the British dominions—in Australia, New Zealand, Malaya and South Africa. Ford cars for the export field are manufactured at East Windsor and finally assembled at the plants of our associated companies in the overseas dominions.

"It is because of this world-wide market that the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, is the largest automobile concern in the British Empire and one of the largest industrial organizations in Canada."

Figures supplied by Mr. Campbell showed that the Ford Company spent in 1930 for materials and supplies more than $7,000,000 in the Border Cities—East Windsor, Windsor, Walkerville and Sandwich; $3,000,000 in Toronto; $2,000,000 in Hamilton; $1,200,000 in Montreal; $750,000 in Winnipeg and Chatham; $650,000 in Sarnia; $350,000 in Vancouver; $260,000 in Woodstock; $170,000 in Halifax; $160,000 in Niagara Falls; $140,000 in Calgary and $120,000 each in Peterborough, London and Regina.

75 Cities Affected

In all, more than seventy-five cities and towns in Canada contributed materials and supplies required in the manufacture of the Ford car. Among these were Aimonte, Belleville, Brantford, Dundas, Galt, Gananoque, Guelph, Ingersoll, Kitchener, Milton, Owen Sound, Rock Island, St. Catharines, Sinclair Mills, St. Johns (Quebec), Tilbury, Waterloo, Welland and many others.

In addition the Ford Company also expended during 1930 the following sums in payrolls at the main plant in East Windsor and the eight branches: East Windsor, $8,400,000; London, $100,000; Toronto, $900,000; Montreal $400,000; St. John, $70,000; Winnipeg, $350,000; Regina, $100,000; Calgary, $100,00; Vancouver, $80,000.

"With improved conditions in the automobile industry confidently expected during 1931, I am of the opinion that these expenditures both for materials and labor will be somewhat increased during the present year," Mr. Campbell added.

Wheeler Presents Bankrupt Petition

LONDON, March 4 (By Thomas T. Champion, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—A petition in bankruptcy has been presented by Sir Arthur Wheeler on behalf of the firm of stockbrokers of which he is the head. The firm's headquarters are in Leicester, and he ascribes its difficulties to heavy depreciation of stocks following the depression.

Sir Arthur, a director of many companies, is not a member of the Stock Exchange and therefore has been able to advertise and canvass for shares. This was done on a large scale by his firm, which employs more than two hundred clerks.

During the war Sir Arthur adapted his organization to the sale of the War Loan, and for his services in this matter received a Baronetcy.

FOSHAY TO FORCE CHARGE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 4.—(CP)—W. B. Foshay, erstwhile head of the W. B. Foshay Company and other enterprises, which went into receivership two years ago, yesterday came back to Minneapolis to face a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. He will answer a Federal Jury indictment in district court with a plea of not guilty. Mr. Foshay has been in Salida, Cal., where he has been working with a granite company. He said he will devote his life to "seeing that every one who lost money on any of these things is repaid, fully if possible." The losses in the Foshay collapse are estimated at $30 000,000.

SEWING MACHINES LOANED FOR WORK

Clothes Remade By Women's Section of Relief Association.

The Women's Section of the Peterborough Relief Association wishes to thank the many people who have sent in used clothing. The supply received numbers hundreds of garments for men, women and children. Much of it had been of superior quality and in splendid condition, and has been given to those who will take care of such clothing Many other articles have been most useful, in making over into garments for school children and those of younger age. The boots and goloshes have been a boon to many. At present, any boots needing repair and worth repairing are being put in order by a cobbler whose services, to the amount of fifty dollars, are paid for by a generous citizen. Bedding and beds, baby carriages and high chairs, and other articles of furniture have been sent in whenever appealed for. Mrs. Benton and Mrs. Millard are in charge of receiving and distributing, with assistants from the various societies co-operating.

The sewing rooms are in charge of Mrs. Harold Dunford, and much fine work is being done. A number of women are also sewing at home, and two groups have been supplied with material for layettes, many of which will be needed this spring.

There is still need of underwear, men's and boys' pants, women's dresses. If anybody has a few old-fashioned long skirts of firm material, they would be most useful for small boys' pants.

The Women's Section is indebted to Mr. M. Johnston for the loan of a desk, and to Mr. W. R. Morris for a typewriter and table. Machines, chairs, lumber, etc., have been acknowledged previously.

The four rooms in use were cleaned and put in order under the supervision of Mrs. Ada Craig.

Bailieboro Women's Institute—New patchwork quilt. The Record Store—36 articles, underclothes (new), and hose for men, women and children. J. Penrose, 10 lbs. tea. Kitney Bros., 10 bags vegetables. R. J. Wolstenholme, $50.00 worth of shoe repair work during months of February and March. W. H. Hamilton—15 bags of potatoes. J. Blodgett—15 bags of potatoes. Grafton Co.—woollen underwear for small boys. F. J. Meritt, $10.00 worth of milk, supplied to four families. De Laval—70 yards cheesecloth.

A sewing machine was donated to the Women's Section by Miss E. O. Simpson, College street, and three other machines have been loaned by Mrs. McKinley, 18 New Romaine street; Miss Miller, 221 George street, and Miss M. Mann, 435 George street.

LONDON, March 3 (C.P.). — The Government has withdrawn from Parliament the Trades Disputes Bill, a contentious measure which the Conservatives have been strenuously fighting and which was radically amended in committee by the aid of Liberal votes.

highest percentage of attendance for the year.

"There has been no overcrowding in any of the schools", says the report, "and all the buildings are in excellent condition. The Central School was much improved during the summer holidays, and extensive improvements were also made to the Queen Alexandra School."

"The progress of the pupils has been fairly satisfactory. The distractions of modern life are noticeable even in public school years and the teachers task is not an easy one. The number of pupils who passed the entrance examination was 168, a slight decrease as compared with the year 1929. The average of these 168 pupils was 14 years and 1 month. This is a little too old and was due to the fact that quite a number of over-age non-academic pupils wrote on the examination."

The Staff

"The staff now consists of 77 regular teachers and two supervisors; one of music and the other of art. Of the 77 regular teachers, 22 now hold full first class certificates and a considerably number more are qualifying for such certificates. A modern tendency quite noticeable in the class-room is for the teacher to do less talking and questioning and have the pupils do more independent and individual work."

The new members added to the staff during the year were Miss Bonnyeastle, Miss Staples and Mr. Northey.

Special Departments

The Provincial Inspector has reported on the fine work being done in the Household Science and Manual Training Departments. An equally good report was given to the Auxiliary Class teacher. Excellent work was done by Miss Rannie and Miss Going in the Departments of Music and Art. Miss Snider and Miss McKee are not members of the staff but their work in piano teaching is greatly appreciated by their pupils. The school doctor, the school nurses and school dentist have reported to the Board each month on the work of their departments. Their work is being done for the betterment of the health of the children. The ample playgrounds, supervised games, and cadet drills also help in this work.

Home and School Association

The Home and School Associations have been called upon for much more help than usual during the year. They have responded finely and have enabled many pupils to attend school who otherwise would not have been able to do so.

I think the Penny Bank is justifying its existence. The great object is to inculcate the habit of thrift rather than to accumulate any large sums of money.

The cost of education, he observes, is mounting year by year. The Education Department has recognized that urban centres have not been receiving adequate grants and this year these centres are promised more liberal grants. The public school rate for 1930 in this city was 9.41 mills. This was made up of 7.72 mills for maintainance and 1.69 for debenture charges. This compares favorably with most Ontario cities.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 3 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The huge ape clung to Paulvitch even when they came in sight of the returning sailors. It appeared to mean no harm, and evidently was accustomed to the association of human beings. Into the twisted brain of the Russian sprang a wild idea. This animal would be worth a lot of money in London! Even when the now curious men came running toward the oddly assorted pair the anthropoid showed no further signs of fear of fight.

Instead, it grasped each sailor in turn by the shoulder and peered long and earnestly into their face. What meant such strange behavior? Having inspected them all, it returned to the Russian's side, seeming to be greatly disappointed. The men were delighted with the placid, friendly animal and decided to add him to the "Marjorie W.'s" collection of pets. The ape clambered into the "long boat" with them and contentedly seated himself.

On the short row to the ship it grabbed an oar from a sailor and with easy skill helped the craft along, just as though the whole affair was no new experience to him. The sailors were amazed. Paulvitch's hopes ran high. He would train this ape and make a fortune! Aboard the ship, the ape examined each new face minutely, evincing the same disappointment. Even the scientists were unable to account for its strange actions.

After exploring every nook of the ship on her return voyage, Ajax, as they had named the ape, lapsed into utter indifference to all about him. Sometimes, though, his awe inspiring bulk would be seen in the ship's bow, gazing intently forward, seeking—WHAT? At length the "Marjorie W." came to England. Came also with the landing of Paulvitch and Ajax, a chain of strange circumstances destined to affect the lives of many people.

OBITUARY

MISS ELIZABETH O'BRIEN

The death occurred last evening in this city of Miss Elizabeth O'Brien.

She is survived by one sister, Sister St. Bernard, of Mount St. Joseph, a cousin, Archbishop O'Brien and sister-in-law, Mrs. C. O'Brien of Syracuse.

The funeral will be held on Friday morning at nine o'clock from the House of Providence to St. Peter's Cathedral.

MRS. JOHN A. GARDINER

Isabella Champ, relict of John A. Gardiner, passed away at her residence, 370 Hunter street, last night, at the age of 75 years 5 months, following an extended illness.

Following the funeral service to be held at the residence on Thursday afternoon at 4.30 at which Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of St. John Church will officiate, the remains will be conveyed to her native land for interment beside her late husband at Mount Jerome Cemetery, Dublin, Ireland.

The late Mrs. Gardiner came to Peterborough twenty-seven years ago, following the death of her husband, a wholesale druggist, who passed away in Chicago. They both came from Ireland about thirty-one years ago. During her residence in this city, the late Mrs. Gardiner had interested herself in all activities for the welfare and betterment of society, and was particularly concerned with the work of Peterborough Health Association. It is said of her that she would devote almost the entire summer to the welfare of the children. She was also prominently identified with St. John's Church during the entire period of her residence here and up to the time of her illness last summer, being a member of the Church Women's Association.

For many years she served on the Board of the local Y.W.C.A. and also claimed membership in the Thursday Night Club.

Rev. Dr. Blagrave, expressing his sorrow at her passing, said: "The late Mrs. Gardiner was a very sweet natured, Christian woman, whose death means a great loss to the city and district."

PLAN PROPOSED FOR GREATER USE

ducted his business could not help but have a powerful influence in the moulding of the son's character. His advice to fathers was to make allowances for the enthusiasm of youth, not to be too hasty in judgment or ready in punishment, and to give the boy companionship and leadership. Rotarian Rogers emphasized the desirability of teaching boys the value and use of money, of intelligent instruction at the proper time in regard to sex problems and, in general of so guiding and helping the development of the boy that parents would have the satisfaction of knowing that they were passing on for the benefit of the world, strong, able and capable sons.

Rotarian M. H. Winter of the Lindsay club, voiced the appreciation of the entire gathering to Rotarian Rogers for his kindness in coming to Peterborough and for his splendid address.

President Abbott, in expressing thanks to the visiting Rotarians, hoped that many more of such meetings might be held. They were helpful to even Rotarians, the Peterborough president pointed out.

Arrangements Discussed at Regular Meeting of Society—Good Attendance.

NORHAM, March 4 — (Examiner Correspondence.)— The Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. William Campbell on Thursday afternoon. The devotional period and business were in charge of the president, Mrs. Norham Gummer.

In response to the roll call each member quoted a verse of scripture containing the word "faith."

It was decided that the next meeting be a work meeting to make quilts for the Women's Missionary bale.

Arrangements were made for a St. Patrick's social to be held in the church hall on March 17, one of the main features of the program to be a debate.

The Program committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Douglas Knight, Mrs. Alex Peterson and Mrs. Clarence Brenton.

Mrs. Robert Mitchell, Mrs. Lewis Denike and Mrs. Marshal Wilson were asked to arrange the lunch for the evening.

Mrs. N. Gummer and Mrs. Lorne Evans then took charge of the meeting and the following program was given:

Mrs. W. Newman gave a reading, "Thankful," which was much appreciated.

Fern Wilson sang very sweetly, "Jesus Loves Me," after which everyone took part in old time songs.

A nut contest was won by Mrs. Douglas Knight and Mrs. H. Wilson, after which lunch was served.

Second Social Held.

The second of the congregational socials was held in the church hall on Friday evening when the ladies of the congregation were treated to a splendid evening of entertainment by the men.

Five games of crokinole were played early in the evening, prizes being won by Mrs. D. Knight, W. Wilson, Frances Lean and Kenneth Gummer.

A splendid program of old time music and songs was then given as follows:

Solo, 'My Old Kentucky Home,' Frank Muggridge; instrumental duet, 'Nellie Gray,' Harry Hutchinson and Dora Palmateer; solo, 'Lucky Jim,' Richard Knight; duet, 'Carry Me Back to Old Virginnia,' Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Knight; recitation, 'Casey at the Bat,' Mildred Curtis; duet, 'Down by the Old Mill Stream,' R. Knight and Mrs. H. Wilson; mouth organ solo, Richard Hinds; violin and guitar music, H. Hutchinson and Dora Palmateer; solo, 'Putting on the Style,' Fred Huycke; duet, 'Home Sweet Home,' Mrs. Harry Wilson and Miss Edna Evans.

At the close of the meeting a dainty lunch was enjoyed.

Male Voice Choir Welcomes Conductor

Last evening, at the rehearsal in the Paragon Hall there was a fine turnout to welcome Thomas Phillips, the newly-appointed conductor.

F. W. Skitch, president of the choir, in a few well-chosen words, expressed the pleasure of the members in meeting Mr. Phillips, and promised him active and hearty co-operation.

A brief response was made by the conductor, in which he stated his pleasure at meeting the members, and promised to use every effort to maintain the high position attained by the choir in the past.

The members then settled down to an intensive rehearsal of pieces chosen for public presentation.

It was unanimously agreed that in Mr. Phillips the choir had obtained a leader who would make his mark in the musical life of the city.

ROUTINE BUSINESS AT L.A. MEETING

Twenty-five Members Attend Regular Meeting of St. James' Church Society.

St. James' Ladies' Aid met for their March meeting in the Sunday School Hall on Tuesday afternoon, with twenty-five member attending.

The president, Mrs. W. D. Sargent occupied the chair, conducting both business session and the devotional program. The meeting was opened with the hymn "Let there Be Light" and prayer followed, offered by Mrs. Moorhouse and Mrs. Sargent.

The duett sung by Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Church was in keeping with the spirit of the service. Mrs. A. E. Moorhouse gave the scripture reading, taken from the Gospels John 12: 1-9 and Mark 14: 6-9 which was woven about the words "She hath done what she could" and Mrs. Davidson led in prayer.

The minutes of previous meetings were read and approved and the treasurer gave an interesting report of the society's finances. High tributes were paid to the memory of Mrs. Plunkett, whose useful and active life had been so suddenly taken from its work in St James United Church.

The business consisted largely in plans to be carried out by the various groups and committees who are adept in managing the work entrusted to them.

Mrs. Roberts reported for the visiting committee who had made a great many calls on the sick and shut-in members. She also reported having sent a sunshine basket which had given so much cheer, that immediate plans were made to duplicate the gift to another member. Letters of sympathy will also be sent to the bereaved families of members called to higher service.

A hymn and the Lord's prayer in unison closed the meeting.

the President." After considerable toning down this bill passed the House last July, but never got any further.

No Immigration Action

Aroused by unemployment conditions throughout the United States, the Legislators determined to make a heavy cut in immigration, and to that end a variety of bills were presented. They boiled down eventually to the measure drawn up by Thomas A. Jenkins of Ohio, which provided for a general cut of 90 per cent in immigration and would have limited annual entries from Canada for two years to 4,120.

It was a question whether the bill which had the support of the administration would get through, but coming up in the last days of the session it encountered unexpected opposition and after passage by the House died.

During the session Canada waited action by the Senate on three conventions ratified by the Canadian Parliament. The Senate ratified one of these treaties, the Pacific Halibut Convention, which slightly lengthened teh fishing season on the West Coast and gave to the International Halibut Commission wide powers to regulate the industry.

The treaty for the preservation of the sockeye salmon fishing industry which would have given to an international commission powers of regulation over fishing in the Fraser River, in the Straits of Juan de Fuca and Georgia and adjacent waters, did not reach the Senate. It is understood this treaty is not entirely acceptable to the political powers of the State of Washington.

Falls Treaty Rejected.

The treaty for the beautification of Niagara Falls was rejected by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee upon objection that it gave undue reward to the Niagara Falls Power Corporation in return for the construction of works in the Niagara River.

An act which indirectly affected Canada was the passage of the Agricultural Marketing Bill establishing the Federal Farm Board. The Farm Board took off the world wheat market some 150,000,000 bushels, pegged the price on Chicago at above 70 cents, and inaugurated a campaign for reduction in wheat acreage to put the United States on a domestic consumption basis.

PLEDGE TO ONTARIO CATHOLICS BROKEN

two minorities in Upper and Lower Canada. In Lower Canada (Quebec) there was a Protestant minority and in Upper Canada (Ontario) there was a Catholic minority. These groups enjoyed certain rights and privileges, and they were unwilling to enter into the commercial and material union of Confederation unless they were given guarantees of the continuance of their rights and privileges in educational and religious matters. Statesmen representing the nation that was to come into being made promises to these minorities that no right or privilege which they enjoyed then would ever be taken from them. In Upper Canada in 1863 Sir Richard W. Scott effected an amendment to the Assessment Act whereby the Catholic minority of Ontario were given a guarantee for all time that no rates levied for public school purposes would ever be levied on the property of Catholics. That pledge was incorporated in the British North America Act, the basis of Canadian Confederation.

"And that guarantee has been lived up to in the breach ever since", Father Burke commented.

"If you study the industrial development of our country you will find that the first factory, as we have come to know factories, was built in these parts in 1870; and with the coming of factories business began slowly to change hands. In the old days the man who kept a store lived over it or back of it. The man who was a carriage-maker had his shop probably in his back yard. Manufacturing was an individual affair in a general way until the factory system began to spread throughout the country. The drift from private to corporate manufacturing set in and it has continued ever since.

Taxes to Public Schools

From the outset of this industrial change, Father Burke said, these corporate companies began to be taxed for the support of public schools. Catholic people protested that they owned shares of stock in some of these companies. The amounts of this stock could be determined in some instances, but when the Catholic investors' stock could not be computed the entire amount of the school taxes from these companies was given to public schools. In 1886 after years of agitation a bill was passed in the Legislature of Ontario emphasizing the fact that the basis of tax distribution into public and separate school taxes was to be religion. The director of a company had to know the exact number of Catholic stockholders. No approximation no guesswork was to be permitted.

"Years have intervened," Father Burke continued, "and throughout the length and breadth of this province of Ontario all the great corporations, which Catholic people are helping to support, have paid their school taxes only to the public schools. We are not receiving one farthing from them.

The Canadian National Railway in Ontario pays over $500,000 a year in school taxes. You and I are just as much owners of that railway as are our neighbors. We help to support it. We own 38 per cent of its stock. We get not a farthing of its school taxes. Is that justice?

The Canadian Pacific Railway pays about $500,000 a year in school taxes in Ontario. Many Catholics are shareholders in that railway. Catholics help to maintain it, but Catholic schools received not one farthing of the school taxes paid by the C.P.R.

The Toronto Transportation Commission and the Toronto Hydro Electric Commission own $57,000,000 of taxable property. These two great public utilities, the street car system and the electric power system, are supported by Catholics, but our schools do not receive one red cent of the taxes they pay in Toronto.

When the Hydro-Electric system of Ontario was organized it was financed by bonds issued by various municipalities in the province and guaranteed by the Ontario Government. Catholic people owned property in all these municipalities. The Catholic man's property was mortgaged just the same as the Protestant's—as security for those Hydro bonds; but when the Hydro-Electric system began to pay school taxes it was forbidden by the Assessment Act to pay any money to Catholic schools.

A Peterborough Factory

You have suffered as much in Peterborough as any other city in Ontario because you are a manufacturing centre. One of your factories required a bridge to be built over your river; it wanted permanent pavement up to its property; it needed the extension of proper sewerage. This industry was exempted from a certain amount of taxation over a period of years. You understand that no industry is exempt from school taxes. This industry flourished. It employed Catholic workmen and Protestant; but whereas Catholic property was taxed to pay for the new bridge, for the construction of permanent pavement, for sewerage, and Catholic property paid its portion of the tax exemption which the company enjoyed, yet when that company paid its school taxes in the next year after all this was done, it had to shut its eyes to the wants of the Catholic schools because of the Assessment Act of Ontario.

Companies Would Be Fair

These companies desire to do the fair and right thing. In 1903 the president of the C.P.R. made that very declaration, but when the legal department of the C.P.R. enquired into the Assessment Act of this province, they found that it was impossible to pay any taxes to Catholic schools.

That is also true of the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Some years ago your former Bishop met the president of the Canadian General Electric Company. When he was told of the situation here in Peterborough, that none of the C. G. E. school taxes went to the Catholic schools of this city, the president said he would immediately write the general manager and have the state of affairs corrected. He was willing to do what was just and fair. Archbishop O'Brien told him it was no use writing.

The great fact is this, the Catholic people of Ontario were guaranteed exemption from the tax levy for public schools, but the story has been one of injustice ever since.

There are people who say that the legislation of 1863 and 1867 was final. What we ask is that the people of Ontario see that the legislation does what it purposed to do.

The Minority In Quebec

What about the treatment accorded the Protestant minority in old Lower Canada, the province of Quebec. There you will find equity and justice in the administration of school monies. Corporations which are neither Catholic nor Protestant, such as the Imperial Oil Company and the C. P. R. are regarded as neutral. The school taxes paid by these neutral corporations are put into a special panel, let us call it a basket, and these taxes are divided between the Catholic and Protestant schools on the basis of the school attendance in that district or section.

There is no injustice, and no recrimination because in 1867 the Catholic majority in the province of Quebec pledged their honor that they would treat the Protestant schools after a certain fashion, and in season and out they have lived up to their obligation in every particular.

Wouldn't it be a wonderful thing if we could say the same about the majority in this province! Here, the plighted word has been broken and it would seem that a contentious clique would glory in their disloyalty to the promises that were made in 1867."

Dr. M. E. Crough, Grand Knight, was chairman, Bishop O'Connor was present, his first visit to the K. of C. club, it was stated, also Rev. Dean O'Sullivan, Rev. Paul Costello and Rev. Father Guiry of Port Hope.

Father Burke was introduced by D. A. Costello. A musical program included selections by St. Peter's school orchestra, piano trio by Misses Dorothy Young, Josephine Collins and Edith Guiry, and a violin solo by Joseph Nolan, accompanied by Bernice Flynn.

Speaking briefly, Bishop O'Connor said he had every confidence in the essential fairness of mind of the non-Catholic majority in Ontario. When they understood the grounds of the Catholic appeal he believed they would acknowledge its justice.

Mrs. E. Grose, Princess Street, was hostess on Monday night to the South-End Euchre Club, when a very successful party was given. This club was organized some months ago for relief work and has met every Monday night at the homes of its members. A pleasing feature last evening was the presentation of a lovely silk bed spread to the hostess whose birthday also came this week. An address of appreciation was read by Mr. Jobe on behalf of the club members, while Mrs. J. J. Pollock made the presentation. Dainty refreshments were served, tiny lighted candles decorating the birthday cake and a merry evening was enjoyed.

75 INHABITANTS OF DEVIL'S LAKE IN GREAT PERIL

HIGHEST TIDE IN 50 YEARS.

Liner Rosalind Wallows Helplessly With Broken Propeller Off Sable Island.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 5 (C.P.). — The sharp sword of danger by sea and land swayed by an easterly storm of hurricane proportions, was poised above some hundred and fifty souls as a winter gale, backed by the highest tide in fifty years, prepared to blow itself out today.

As assistance from the shore was made ready for relief of the 75 sea-beleaguered residents of Devil's Island, when subsidence of wind and tide permit, word reached Halifax that the steamer Rosalind, bound from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Halifax and New York with passengers, was wallowing helplessly, without a propeller, 100 miles northeast of Sable Island.

Liner Asked to Help.

A brief radio message from Captain R. Kean to the ship's agents here, reporting the loss of the Rosalind's single propeller in a heavy sea, contained all the information as to her plight that has yet reached Halifax. Neither Government steamer is available to go to her assistance. The Lady Laurier, on buoy duty, is storm-stayed at Shelburne, and the Stanley, which has been ice-breaking at North Sydney, is likewise held in port. Furness-Withy officials, however, wirelessed the liner Newfoundland, nearing St. John's from Halifax, to go to the disabled steamer's assistance. The exact number of passengers on board the Rosalind is unknown here, though it is known that 20 are booked for Halifax, and the total personnel, passengers and crew, probably number about 75.

From Eastern Passage, near the entrance to Halifax Harbor, came word at noon of the demolition of St. Andrew's Parish Hall by waves which carried away eight small fishermen's wharves. The tide there this morning was said to be the highest in half a century.

The steamer Concordia, eleven days out from Glasgow, was hove to off the mouth of the harbor this morning. She was signalling for a pilot, but it was impossible to get one aboard owing to the severity of the storm.

Facing Death.

The 75 inhabitants of Devil's Island, a three acre sand dune rising out of the sea on the eastern side of the entrance to Halifax harbor and used as a lighthouse and life-saving station, are spending to-day in imminent peril of their lives. Mrs. Henneberry, wife of the coxswain of the life-saving crew, told the Canadian Press over the long distance telephone this morning that the Government breakwater, jutting out from the island in the shape of an L, was all that stood between the little col-

TEGART GUARDED LEAVING INDIA

FEAR ATTACK.

CALCUTTA, India, March 5 (C.P. Cable via Reuters).—With the utmost secrecy, Sir Charles Tegart, Chief Commissioner of the Calcutta Police, left to-day to sail for England. The station was heavily guarded as a result of fears that the Commissioner, who has had a brilliant career in the Indian Police since 1901, might be attacked.

About a month ago there were persistent rumors that Sir Charles would succeed Lord Byng as Chief Commission of the London Metropolitan Police and head of Scotland Yard. At the time, Lord Byng denied that he would resign.

An authoritative statement as recently as last Monday said no decision had been reached on the date of Sir Charles' departure or on the question of a successor. He was attacked while riding in a motorcar last August, when a bomb wounded his driver and damaged the car, but he escaped without injury.

COAL INDUSTRY BOOST PLANNED

Glace Bay Board of Trade Adopts Resolution of Recommendation For Expansion.

DUTY ON IMPORTED COKE.

GLACE BAY, N.S., March 5 (C.P.)—With a view to rehabilitating the Maritime coal-steel industry, claimed to be at a low ebb due to tariff and freight-rate disabilities, the Glace Bay Board of Trade has adopted a resolution making six recommendations for its future expansion. They are:—

(2)—Cancellation of Tariff Iem No. 1040, allowing a 99 per cent. drawback on the duty on imported coal for use in by-product ovens for the manufacture of gas and coke for domestic use.

(3)—Duty on imported coke.

(4)—Duty on anthracite screenings.

(5)—Increased railway subvention on water-borne coal to Montreal, so that Maritime coal may penetrate by rail farther west of Montreal than at present.

(6)—Increased purchase of Maritime coal by the Canadian Railways, and if possible, by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

CRIPPLED TANKER UNREPORTED

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 5 (C.P.).—The Italian tanker Alabama, which reported at 10 a.m. yesterday it was 400 miles from Chesapeake Bay with broken steering-gear, has not been heard from since, the United States coastguard said to-day. No anxiety was felt as it was believed repairs had been made.

The tanker left Houston, Tex., February 24. One of two messages yesterday said it did not desire assistance at the moment.

TORONTO, Granite Curling Club, March 5.—(CP)— With six straight victories without a defeat, Bob Gourley's Winnipeg rink practically clinched the MacDonald-Brier tankard for the single rink curling championship of Canada today, by defeating J. M. Nicholson's Northern Ontario quartette, 17 to 6. Unless the Winnipegers show a serious reversal of form in the remaining three games, it seems quite probable the tankard will go to Winnipeg for the fourth successive year.

J. Miller's Saskatchewan rink in second place at the end of yesterday's play with one loss—that to anitoba—and four victories, lost to Willie Brown's Montreal rink today, and dropped to a tie for second place with Sam Meredith of Barrie, Toronto bonspiel winners, and E. HOPE FOR EVENTUAL INDEPENDENCE FAR FROM GIVEN UP GANDHI STATES

Claims Help of All Indian Parties as Goal is Far From Reached.

TRUCE HAILED IN COMMONS.

NEW DELHI, India, Mar. 5.—(A.P.—Mahatma Gandhi has not relinquished his hope for eventual Indian independence, he indicated today in an address to newspaper correspondents.

Speaking for an hour, he said the Congress Party would participate in the projected Second Round Table Conference for the purpose of achieving its goal of independence.

Help of All Needed.

The Help of other parties in India is needed as well as that of Indian Princes and Britishers, he said, declaring that the Round Table Conference at London had not carried India and Great Britain even half way to their goal.

A Federation between an undiluted autocracy and an undiluted democracy would lead to an explosion, he said, and at the forthcoming conference the Congress Party will represent the cause of all India in any scheme of Federation.

The Mahatma appealed to the country to support the settlement between himself and Lord Irwin, urging anarchists to suspend their activities and give him a chance to attain his goal without violence.

CHEERS GREET BENN.

LONDON, Mar. 5.—(A.P.)—The Rt. Hon. Capt. Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin asked that a day be set aside next week for debate on the Indian question. Rt.

All Farmer Members Be Invited To Caucus

CALGARY, Alta., Mar. 5.—Farmer members of the Dominion House will be invited to attend a caucus two or three days preceding the opening of Parliament, said Robert Gardiner, M.P., for Acadia, and leader of the Alberta farm group, when he left for Ottawa last night.

While declining to divulge what the caucus agenda would be M. Gardiner said it was hoped to decide upon a policy to be followed during the session. He intimated the Alberta members would press for the investigation into presen grain trading methods as suggested by the recent convention of the United Farmers of Alberta, at which he was elected president. Tariffs will be another question to be debated at the caucus.

Leaping Women Along Michigan Avenue Prove Startling Sight for Detectives

CHICAGO, Ill., March 5.—A puzzled pair of detectives stood on Michigan Avenue yesterday, scratching their heads in a fog of mental bewilderment.

Detectives Sergeants Frank McNamara and Henry C. McNurnee had seen boys playing leap frog and they had witnessed lots of other jumping games in their days, but leaping women on Michigan Avenue was a sight they had never before beheld.

The peculiar part of the matter was that all of the leaping was done in front of No. 2626. After each woman would leap she would eye the policemen with suspicion and then move away. One of them threatened to get another policeman and have one of the detectives arrested.

Then the detectives got busy.

Mounting the stairs at No. 2626 they pushed into a room unannounced and found Beardsley Sperry, 26, who had been taking a correspondence school course in marksmanship and was getting in a little practical experience with his new air gun by using the pedestrians as moving targets.

He will have to explain certain things to a judge.

1931 ESTIMATES FOR USE IN NAVY SHOW DECREASE

TO START 22 VESSELS.

Personnel of Naval Services to be Reduced by 3,400 Officers and Men.

LONDON, March 5 (C.P.)—Naval estimates for the forthcoming financial year, forwarded to-day to the House of Commons by Right Hon. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, show a net total of $258,025,000, a decrease of $1,701,000 under the 1930 estimates.

Simultaneously to-day a supplementary estimate for 1930 of $2,475,000 was issued without its being made clear whether it had been included in the 1930 total used in comparing last year's estimates with this year's. A previous supplementary estimate of $1,041,000 last July 4 was mentioned in a footnote as included in the 1930 total.

3,400 Less Officers and Men.

Under the estimates published today the personnel of the naval services will be reduced by 3,400 officers and men to a total of 93,650. The new program for the year includes provision for commencing the following ships: Two cruisers of the Leander class, one cruiser of about 5,000 tons, one leader and eight destroyers, four sloops, three submarines, one shallow draught gunboat, one mining tender, and one gate vessel.

Mr. Alexander, in an accompanying statement, said that the Government action in curtailing the 1928-1929 programs continued to affect provisions for new construction which were less than $1,205,000 than in 1930. He commented that the provision of the London Naval Treaty relating to earlier scrapping of capital ships had been the main factor in saving £400,000 on the cost of the personnel.

As a consequence of the Naval Treaty, five capital ships are being removed from the effective list.

TUG GOES DOWN CREW REACH SHIP

Sailors Battle Waves Over Two Hours to Make Safety.

FOUNDERS ON BAR.

WOODS HOLE, Mass., March 5. — (C.P.).—A radio message received at the coastguard station here to-day said the tug boat Roger C. Sullivan, out of New York, had sunk off Hen and Chickens Lightship early to-day. The crew of 12 had taken to lifeboats and rowed to the lightship. They later were transferred to a dredge which was taking them into New Bedford.

The message said the tug foundered at four o'clock this morning, and that it rested on a bar so that only the pilot-house was showing. It took the crew two hours and a half to row to the lightship.

The tug was owned by the Great Lakes dredge and Dock Company of New York, and was on its way to New Bedford to assist in dredging operations.

Woman Musher Last In Pas Dog Classic

THE PAS, Man., March 5.—(C. P.)—First woman to brave the hazards of the long 200 mile dog derby trail, Ida Carriere, sturdy daughter of the north country, was back in The Pas today after more than 47 hours on the treacherous icy route to Flin Flon and return.

She was the last of the eight entrants to finish in the dogdom classic won by Earl Brydges, who swept across the course in a little more than 26 hours.

At 10:30 o'clock this morning, the woman-musher reached the finish line of the derby to be accorded one of the greatest welcomes of carnival week Tired but smiling, Miss Carriere told of the hardships of the trail. For more than six hours she was lost in the wild north country skirting the shores of Lake Athapapuskow, and before she had regained the derby course the other teams were miles ahead of her wire huskies.

CONFIDENCE PAIR SWINDLE CLERK

SWITCHED GOOD NOTE.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 5 (C. P.). — One of this town's prominent jewellers is to-day bemoaning the loss of a $300 diamond ring and $700 as a result of a clever confidence scheme which was worked on him yesterday. The principals in the case were an elderly man and a young girl who posed as his daughter.

Walking into the jewellery store the girl spotted a lovely diamond ring, and after the clerk had exhibited the ring, the girl tried it on. Meanwhile, the man walked toward the door, but after the daughter had coaxed him to buy it, he gave in, and took a $1,000 bill from his fold, tendering it to the clerk in payment.

Offering the excuse that he would have to arrange for change the clerk hurried to a nearby bank to have the bill examined. His absence offended the vistor, and when the clerk returned, after finding the bill genuine, he was rebuffed.

"Evidently my money does not appeal to you," the man declared. "Come daughter, we do not have to be insulted," he added, stuffing the bill in his packet. He walked angrily toward the door. Then a sob of disappointment. He turned and handed the clerk a $1,000 bill, this time from his pocket, saying, "Get the change" The clerk did not discover that he had switched bills in his pocket until the visitors were well away with the ring and $700.

Room for Improvement Seen In Australia

CANBERRA, Australia, March 5. — (C.P. Cable via Reuter's). — The fact that Australia has motor cars worth $1,000,000,000 and that 643 race meetings were held in Victoria State alone last year were cited as examples of national extravagance in the report of the Auditor-General to-day.

Stating that a million workers do not pay income tax, the report suggests a reduction in the exemption figures. Old age, invalid, and war pensions, together with the mothers' allowances act, costs $100,000,000 annually, and the report suggests a cut of $1.25 in each pension would save at least $5,000,000.

CROWN PRODUCES NEW FEATURE IN NOGARET TRIAL

Letter Purported to Have Come From Real Murderer is Read at Trial.

GODON NOT CALLED.

Says Murder Was Committed in Shed—Brother Dosithee Not Guilty.

MONTREAL, Que., March 5 (C.P.) —The spotlight of interest in the trial of Brother Dosithee, otherwise Albert Nobaret, for the murder of 7-year-old Simone Caron, to-day swung from the fainting witness, Antonio Godon, to a new and startling development.

Godon, dishwasher at the Roussin Academy, who has fainted seven times in the witness box, was not called to the box this morning. Instead, the Crown produced a new feature.

It was a letter scrawled on an envelope accompanied by a tiny ring from the finger of the victim, whose body, bearing signs of criminal assault and fatal knife wounds, was found in the cellar of Roussin Academy last September.

The letter purported to come from the "real murderer" of the little girl, and was delivered to detectives on October 14 last, almost a month after the accused had been arrested.

Murdered in Shed

"Murder was committed in a shed near the school," the letter reads. "I placed a knife in the cellar. It was not with this, but with a pair of scissors that I killed her. She deserved it, the little one. I then fled from Montreal."

"Liberate this Brother, who is as innocent as the snow which will soon cover the housetops. It is the assassin who writes you. I send you the victim's ring, and if you don't believe this, show it to her parents. None of you are any good." The letter was unsigned.

Ernest Bertrand, counsel, conducting the case for the crown, then exploded another bombshell. He brought into court Albert Charpentiers, a guard from the Montreal jail. Charpentier quickly mounted the stand and said that on one occasion he had seen a torn and dirty envelope such as the one produced, pass between Nogaret and Joseph Hean, defence counsel. It was a cheap envelope, blue within and white on the outside. His story remained unshaken by vigorous cross-examination by the lawyer concerned. Interest reverted to the letter, illiterate and filthy, scrawled

HYDRO WILL PROBABLY ERECT FIVE ADDITIONAL POWER LINES

Reeve of Otonabee Suggests Organizing Farmers' Right-of-Way Association.

OTHERS ORGANIZED

Organization of a branch of the Farmers' Right-of-Way Association in this district is suggested by Reeve F. D. McIntyre of Otonabee township as a means of obtaining for farmers increased compensation from the Hydro-Electric Commission for towers which will be erected on their farms to carry four or five additional power transmission lines which, it is understood, are now being surveyed through the southern part of this county.

Reeve McIntyre has been in communication with F. M. Chapman of Pickering, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers' Right-of-Way Association of Ontario.

A recent letter from Mr. Chapman says in part: "We have already two parallel lines across our township, and surveys are made for two more alongside these. Settlements have been unsatisfactory particularly with the first line. The result is that farmers of Pickering, West Whitby, Whitby and Darlington townships met at Brooklin and formed an association to deal with the Hydro-Electric Commission We had a committee meet them, and I think the terms of settlement now will be more equitable. The Commission has already offered to pay as high as $175 per tower on the fourth line with a graded schedule for the former lines. They promise to make it retroactive Our farmers contend that this figure will not handle the depreciation of their property in all cases.

We passed a resolution stating

"Red" Throws Salt In Policeman's Eyes

BURY, Ont., March 5. —(CP) —Charged with assaulting Police Sergeant L. Campeau by throwing salt in his eyes Hilja Kratz was placed under arrest today. The case against this woman will be heard in police court with others who today elected summary trial in connection with charges of "unlawful assembly," in the demonstrations of Feb. 25. Eight men are named in the charges which range from vagrancy to obstructing the police. The men defendants have elected summary trial and have pleaded not guilty.

Tactics Are Explained By Soviet Captives

MOSCOW, Mar. 5.—(A.P.)—Three of fourteen defendants on trial here for sabotage against the five year plan to-day gave a partial explanation of a shortage of goods and commodities which caused considerable criticism of the Soviet Government last year.

These men, who were connected in various capacities with the State planning Commission, said they had so arranged shipments that goods would go to sections already plentifully supplied while other places in need of the same goods were neglected.

The idea was to cause discontent in those sections in a general campaign to build up anti-Soviet sentiments. The prosecution introduced documents supporting these statements by the defendant.

Madoc Children Crash Into Car While Coasting

Smith McQuigg, 12, Was Instantly Killed Yesterday Afternoon When the Sleigh on Which He Was Riding Crashed Into an Automobile Driven By Kenneth Gordon, Madoc.

HELEN PIGDEN, 10, RECEIVED BAD BRUISES AND SEVERE FRACTURE OF HER LEFT ARM

Driver of Car Was Not Held Responsible and Coroner Dr. S. Eagleson Has Decided That an Inquest Will Not Be Necessary—Returning From School.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, March 5.—One child was instantly killed and another severely injured near here yesterday afternoon when they rode their speeding sleigh down a steep hill and crashed into a motor car.

Smith McQuigg, aged 12, son of Stephen McQuigg, farmer of the Madoc-Eldorado road, suffered injuries that almost instantly ended his life, and Helen Pigden, 10, daughter of Oscar Pigden, farmer of the same district, received bad bruises and a severe fracture of her left arm.

The driver of the motor car, Kenneth Gordon, of Madoc, was not held responsible for the fatality, and Coroner Dr. S. Eagleson, of Madoc, stated that an inquest was not considered necessary and will not be held.

Returning From School

The two children along with young companions were returning home from school. As was their custom in their after-school frolicking they began sleigh-riding on the high hill on the road that crosses the main road from the east near the Hematite bridge and cheese factory.

Kenneth Gordon was driving along the main road from Eldorado. The two children, both on the one sleigh raced down the icy side of the hill. The car and sleigh collided at the intersection of the two roads.

View of the road down which the children were sleigh-riding is concealed by a row of trees, and Mr. Gordon stated that he did not see the sleigh until it was right upon him. He tried to avert the accident by applying the brakes and veering quickly to the side. The little McQuigg boy, who was steering the sleigh, strove vainly to miss the car as it suddenly sprang into his vision, but on the hard-packed snow he could not change the course of the sleigh in time.

The accident occurred about 4.30 in the afternoon, and Dr. Eagleson attended. He said that the boy's death was due to a fractured skull and other injuries. The little girl suffered only bad bruises and the fractured arm and will recover quickly, he said.

TAX EXEMPTIONS GIVEN WINDSOR Y.

ARREARS ARRANGED FOR.

TORONTO, Ont., March 5.—Following a brisk battle before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature to-day the City of Windsor and the Border Cities Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association reached an agreement on a bill granting the Association exemption from payment of certain taxes. As finally approved, the bill provides for exemption from taxes in future except as respects local improvement and school taxes.

The City and Windsor and other border municipalities are empowered to make grants to the Association and Windsor is given permission to enter into an agreement for payment of arrears of taxes since 1927, the payment not to extend for more than five years.

The city strenuously opposed the bill in its original form, which provided for exemptions from all taxes retroactive to 1927. Arrears amount to about $21,000. It was stated other similar associations in different cities obtained exemption from the beginning and the only reason it was not done in this case was because the association did not want to ask for a private bill until the experment of joining the men's and women's associations had proved a success.

POLICE GUARDING BISCHOFF'S HOME

Action Follows Threat on Life of Former Husband of Vivian Gordon.

Daughter's Funeral Friday.

The guard was placed after Bischoff revealed he had received letters threatening his life.

"I believe most of the letters are from cranks," Bischoff said. "A man in my position has many enemies."

Bischoff is a deputy marshal at the District of Columbia Reformatory and jail at Lorton, Va.

"Some of the writers threaten my life and others threaten to ruin me," he said. "I have no theories about my former wife's death. I have been before the Grand Jury and answered all questions. I would have done anything to spare my little daughter all this torment since her mother's death. I would gladly have laid down my life for her. I protected her from the disgrace of her mother all these years."

Meanwhile, arrangements for Benita's funeral were being quietly made. It was understood a private funeral will be held from a mortuary in Collingswood, with burial to-morrow.

200 HOMELESS IN REVERE CITY; TRAFFIC TIED UP

Sea Walls Ineffective as Surf 60 Feet High Pours Into Many Towns.

DAMAGE SET AT $3,000,000.

Further Destruction Expected From High Tides To-day—Boston District Suffers.

BOSTON, Mass., March 5 (C.P.). — Twice within 12 hours extremely high tides have been churned into raging floods by a powerful onshore gale to wreak tremendous damage along the New England coast.

Damage from yesterday's flood was estimated at $3,000,000. The loss was greatly increased by a second flood shortly before midnight last night, and additional wreckage was feared from the peak tide at noon to-day.

More than 200 were left homeless by the battering, storm-tossed ocean in Revere. The Red Cross supplied 200 cots and the city furnished food for the refugees, many of whom had not been able to return to their homes from work or school. Police and fire reserves were stationed at Revere Beach to aid sufferers and 10 State troopers were sent to the city to aid local authorities.

Pours Over Sea Walls.

The rising waters poured over sea walls and into streets, demolishing homes and bringing traffic to a standstill shortly before noon yesterday for the first time.

With the receding tides the shores were strewn with debris, and only an occasional building remained in many of the summer colonies along the north and south shores. Hundreds were made homeless, and thousands slept in unheated homes with from two to six feet of water in their cellars.

While the affected towns, which included the north shore communities of Winthrop, Revere, Lynn, and Nahant, and on the south shore, Hull, Nantasket and Pemberton, were quartering the homeless in public buildings, the water rose again.

A full moon brought the tide to a record high shortly before midnight, and again the water flowed through the streets with an increasing toll in damage.

Surf 60 feet high demolished the seawall along the beach at Winthrop, the shore drive was flooded and houses were torn from their foundations. Similar conditions prevailed along the Lynn Shore drive, to Revere Beach and Nahant.

Old Schooner Shifted

At Nantasket Beach, on the south shore, the five-masted schooner Nancy, which went ashore in a storm years ago, was driven far here inshore and dropped on the roadbed of the Boston-Nantasket Railroad. Her spars tore away telephone lines.

Portland, Lynn, Gloucester, Marblehead and scores of other communities felt the fury of the gale, but the brunt of last night's damage was apparently centered in the vicinity of Boston. Other points along the coast reported decreased winds, with consequent lessening of damage.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

This evening President Uriburu will entertain them at an official banquet at which 160 guests will be present.

BILL TO ABOLISH INCOME TAX GETS SECOND READING

Premier Henry and Attorney General Price Are in Favor of Bill.

BUSINESS BENEFIT.

Toronto and Hamilton Members Strenuously Oppose Measure.

TORONTO, March 5.—With Premier Henry and Attorney-General Price expressing at least sympathy with the principle, the bill to abolish municipal income tax in Ontario passed its second reading at the Legislature yesterday.

The proposal to abolish the tax was vigorously opposed by representatives from Toronto and Hamilton. But what was considered the most significant develepoment in the discussion was the attitude revealed by the Government benches.

Attorney-General Price said: "It is my personal opinion that if municipal income taxes were wiped out it would prove beneficial to municipalities during the next ten years by attracting more business."

Would Benefit Labor.

Premier Henry noted the argument that there was at present a discrimination on the part of industries against Ontario and in favor of Que-

POLICE ROUND UP FORMER BAD MAN

WITNESSES DISAPPEAR.

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 5. (CP) — A pistol toter of long ago, who retired to a dude ranch in Colorado rather than continue as a figure in Chicago gang activities, to-day was faced by the perplexing question of whether he should talk about the financial affairs of Alphonse Capone.

He is Leland Varian, better known as Louis Alterie, said by police to have been a member of the old Dion O'Banion-Torrio-Capone gang, who went west at the suggestion of Capone back in 1925 when members of the combine came to a parting of the ways.

Alterie was brought to Chicago but investigators who questioned him said his answers were vague and he was jailed last night on a charge of perjury. Officers intimated that unless he can see his way clear to become talkative they may dig up an old prohibition law charge against him. Meanwhile Capone was free on a vagrancy charge, with the hearing postponed until March 20. Capone's attorney objected to the nickname "Scarface" in the complaint, protesting the name is Alphonse and nothing more. Harry Ditchburne, assistant State's Attorney agreed.

The arrest of Alterie was the second major development of the day in gangland circles. The other was the disappearance of three or four witnesses in Ditchburne's prosecution of William "Three-Fingered" White, on trial for slaying a policeman.

(1)—Abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign.
(2)—Abandonment of the boycott as a political weapon.
(3)—Release of prisoners held for non-violent offenses.
(4)—Recognition of right of salt area residents to make their own salt.
(5)—Picketing of non-aggressive nature to be permitted.
(7)—Where property confiscated for taxes has been sold to a third party the transaction is to be regarded as final so far as the Government is concerned.
(9)—Sale and purchase of British goods is not to be interfered with.
(10—Return of unsold confiscated property.
(11)—Participation of the Nationalists in a second Round Table Conference on the principles of federation, central responsibility, and financial and military safeguards.

Prepare for Parley

Preparations were already being made to-day by the Nationalists and their moderate friends for participation in a forthcoming Round Table Conference to work out details of the proposed Indian Constitution. Some look to London as the site of the meeting, but the Nationalists hope that it will be held in India.

The Bombay Chronicle, Nationalist newspaper, to-day described the Delhi agreement between Lord Irwin and Gandhi as an honorable truce representing an achievement by non-violent methods unparalleled in history. But truce, or no truce, the paper said, the boycott on foreign cloth must continue until the last package of the cloth and yarn have been eliminated from the country in favor of khadder, or homespun.

SOVIET WHEAT IS BEING SOLD AS CANADIAN

Russian Wheat Shipped to European Countries Under False Certificates.

TWO COUNTRIES.

OTTAWA, March 5 — Evidence that Russian wheat is being shipped into certain European countries under false certificates comes to Canada from those countries where Russian wheat is not desired. Two countries in particular, Czechoslovakia and Belgium, do not want Russian wheat, yet it is being shipped into them from other countries as Canadian, American, or Roumanian.

In Czechoslovakia Canadian wheat and flour has always been very popular. This country does not want to trade with Russia, and complaints are made that Russian wheat is entering it from Germany designated on false certificates as the Canadian product.

A leading Rotterdam, Holland, newspaper calls attention to the speech of Dr. Joris, Antwerp, in the Belgian Parliament, in which he says that Russian wheat accompanied by false certificates of origin is entering Antwerp, and the following telegram was sent to the Belgian Minister of Finance:

"Your custom house officers should see that no Russian grain is imported. Antwerp daily paper stated yesterday that barge Betsy arrived with 200,00 0kilos of grain said to be of American origin, but which in reality was Russian wheat."

It is further stated this wheat arrives at Rotterdam, as Russian grain and is then transhipped to Antwerp, Belgium, as American or Roumanian. It has been recommended that all grain to Antwerp from Rotterdam be examined by experts before permission is given to unload it.

HONG KONG FEELS UNEMPLOYMENT

Condition Created By Repatriation of 400,000 Laborers From Strait Settlements.

BLAME SLUMP IN TIN.

HONG KONG, Mar. 5. (AP)—Repatriation of more than 400,000 Chinese laborers from the Straits Settlements has created an unemployment situation in this city and Canton unparalled in modern times. There is little between them and starvation.

Thrown out of work by slumps in tin and rubber on the Malay Peninsula, these jobless Chinese were deported to their own country by the British authorities at Singapore.

About 90 per cent. of the deported men on arrival here had only the few dollars given them when they left Singapore.

QUEENSBORO, March 5 (Examiner Correspondence) — Silas Holmes was seriously injured while working in the woods here yesterday when he fell and staked himself in the groin. With several others, Mr. Holmes was getting out wood a mile east of the village. He tripped and fell on a snag. Doctors Nickle and Eagleson were called and had him rushed to the Belleville General Hospital where an operation was performed a couple of hours later. He is reported as resting nicely.

End India's Civil Disobedience Campaign

VICEROY AND NATIONALIST LEADER SIGN AGREEMENT OF PEACE

India's civil disobedience campaign came to an end on March 3, when an agreement of peace was signed by Lord Irwin, Viceroy of India, and Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, both of whom are shown in the photographs reproduced above. The Viceroy, it is understood, acted upon full power and acquiescence from London. Under the agreement permission was given natives to make and sell salt, thus ending government monopoly, while Gandhi relinquished his claim to the right to boycott British goods.

GRANTING OF KEYSTONE STATE TO PENN IS BEING CELEBRATED

COST 16,000 POUNDS.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Mar. 4. — Pennsylvania to-day observed the 250th anniversary of the granting to William Penn by Charles the Second, of the territory that is now the tain territory "in the parts of America not yet cultivated and planted" lying between the 40th and 43rd parallels, north latitude, and between the Delaware river and a line five degrees west of that stream.

William Penn was to "have, hold, possess and enjoy" all the fields, mountains, hills, lakes and rivers "together with the fishing of all sorts of fish, whales, sturgeons and all Royal and other fishes in the sea, bays, inlets and rivers."

Although history says that Penn was deeded "Pennsylvania," as it was spelled in the charter, for sixteen thousand pounds sterling, the amount of debt owing to Penn's father, the charter did not mention any monetary consideration, but stated that the son desired the tract "to enlarge our English Empire," and to "reduce the savage natives by gentle and just manners to love of civil society and Christian religion."

The only payment to be made, the charter provided, was two beaver skins to be delivered at Windsor Castle the first of each year and one-fifth of the gold and silver from time to time.

Seventy miles of railways in Austria were electrified last year.

LITTLE DAMAGE IN CHIMNEY FIRE

Blaze in Home of Harry Chamberlain at Warsaw Soon Extinguished.

BETHEL Y.P. PLAN SOCIAL

WARSAW, March 5.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A blaze started around the chimney of the house occupied by Harry Chamberlain and family on Monday afternoon. Little damage was done, as the men of the sawing gang at Ernest Batten's saw it and put out the blaze.

To Buy Hymn Books.

Representatives from the various organizations of the United Church met at the parsonage on Monday evening and decided to buy fifty of the larger type hymn books for general use, and books with music and words for the choir.

Many members are sending for their own supply of books at the same time, so that there may be enough books for all to use on May 3, when the new United Church hymn books are supposed to be used in the United Church throughout Canada.

To Hold Social.

Bethel Y.P. plan a box social on Friday evening of this week. The entertainment is a debate, "Resolved that the freedom of modern young people is good for them." Zion plans a social on March 11. HYDRO WILL ERECT FIVE POWER LINES our grievances and our wishes. Our township council also passed a resolution calling upon the Hydro to compensate fully the farmers, over whose farms the lines passed, for the depreciation to their properties. I believe there is no similar situation in the world where four power lines parallel each other across farms, and the farmers are entitled to a fair deal."

Through Lot 20.

Two transmission lines already traverse eastern Ontario from Ottawa to Toronto. They are in parallel and cross through the Peterborough townships of Belmont, Asphodel, Otonabee and North Monaghan. Four more lines are being surveyed, and probably an additional single spare line will also be erected. The route of these four lines through Otonabee township lies entirely within lot twenty, passing about a mile norch of Keene and Mather's corners. It is also stated that a new telephone line will be included in this provincial power service.

The prospect of seven power lines crossing Otonabee farms impresses Reeve McIntyre with the need of concerted action by the affected municipalities to safeguard the interests of the propety owners.

A Protective Association.

"There is no intention of trying to embarrass the Hydro Commission," Reeve McIntyre said this morning. "The first pair of lines were serious enough, but when the total looks as if it is going to reach seven it is surely time for the farmers to get together so that they can act as a body in any representations that may be made to the Commission.

It seems to me that the reeves of Cavan township in Durham county, and of Marmora and Madoc townships in Hastings might unite with Belmont, Asphodel, Otonabee, North and South Monaghan so that we would be in a position to co-operate with the farmers' association in Ontario county. Other municipalities may be interested in this movement, and as Peterborough is a central point we might call a meeting here in the very near future."

Hydro's Big Program.

The Hydro-Electric Commission is planning to receive a total of 500,000 h.p. within the next five years. The two transmission lines now erected have a capacity of 260,000 h.p. from the Gatineau; and contracts call for 200,000 h.p. from Chats Falls, 200,000 h.p. from the Beauharnais power company, and an additional 125,000 h.p. from the Beauharnois Power in the province of Quebec. It is presumably a five-year program providing for the increasing consumption of power in Ontario.

Pair Pass Air Test On Silver Wedding

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

TORONTO PRODUCE.

TORONTO, March 5. — Brokers on the local market lowered their prices for creamery solids yesterday, in an attempt to clear receipts that have been piling up. For the past few weeks buyers have been taking only small quantities, as needed, and then holding back and waiting until necessity forced them on the market for some more small lots. Brokers, however, presented a firm front during all these movements and held prices steady, but yesterday many evidently figured that it was time to move some stocks, even if the price was a little lower than they would have liked. Sales were made at 31¼c to 31¾c for No. 1, and 30½c for No. 2.

Cream.

Cream prices were steady to country shippers, but with the fall in butter prices there might be lower quotations in the near future. Yesterday shippers were quoted 31c to 32c for special, 30c to 31c for No. 1, and 27c to 28c for No. 2, f.o.b. country points.

Cheese.

The demand for cheese was only fair, but prices held to previous quotations at 14¾c for large, 15c for twins and 15½c for triplets, to the shipper, and 16c for new large, 16¼c for twins, and 16½c for triplets to the retail trade.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Mar. 5.—Enlarged demand for corn and scarcity of offerings lifted grain prices yesterday after early declines. Reports said western corn marketings would soon sharply diminish, the present movement being at the expense of country elevator stocks.

Prospects for rain or snow over the corn belt tended also to stimulate buying.

Corn closed unsettled, 3-8 to 1 3-8 cents higher, wheat 1-4 off to 1-2 up; oats at 1-8 to 1-4 decline to 1-4 gain, and provisions showing 7 to 15 cents advance.

Prospects of Light Movement.

Prospects of only a light movement of corn from rural sources were emphasized by indications that the bulk of current receipts in Chicago had been applied on to arrive contracts. Likelihood that corn shipments from here at the opening of lake navigation would be fairly large counted also as a situation. Recent speculative sellers turned quickly to the buying side when the market started upward, and the close was at almost the day's top figure.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 5. — A burst of buying in the final hour of trading in the Winnipeg wheat pit yesterday halted a decline and steadied the market somewhat. Prices at the close were unchanged to ¼ cent higher for the day.

Weakness at Liverpool and Buenos Aires together with a dearth of export business was responsible for the decline in the early stages. Scattered buying, however, near the close, traced to southern interests, and the strength at Chicago added strength to the local market.

Export demand overnight and yesterday was disappointing, only a small trade being worked.

Cash wheat demand was narrow and spreads showed no material change. Coarse grain trading was light with prices steady.

BILL TO ABOLISH

bec, because in the latter Province there was no municipal income tax. "If this argument is sound," he said, "then removal of the income tax by Ontario municipalities would benefit the workingman. It would induce more industries to settle here and afford more employment to artisans and laborers."

Premier Henry expressed the hope that when the bill went to committee it would be "viewed in a large way, and not from a local aspect."

The bill was introduced by Arthur Ellis (Conservative, Ottawa South). In support of the measure, Mr. Ellis declared that 50 per cent. of the municipalities ignored the income-tax law at present. Municipal tax, he said, was to provide municipal services, such as police and fire protection, waterworks, streets, etc. The proper method of raising funds for these services was a property tax, he continued, which though paid directly by the owner, was paid indirectly by every one living in the community. Under the present law people were taxed on income who did not even live within the municipality levying the tax.

Check on Extravagance

Wilfrid Heighton (Conservative, Toronto-St. David) asked if municipalities ignoring the income tax could not be made to comply by a court mandamus. Mr. Ellis agreed that this could be done. If removal of income tax threw the burden too heavily upon small property owners, Mr. Ellis continued, such municipalities could avail themselves of law already existing to exempt small property owners from taxation. On the other hand, said Mr. Ellis, if municipalities thought they would be forced to curb expenditures if incomes were not taxed for revenue, that would be a real blessing in disguise. Municipalities, he said, had been running wild on expenditures in recent years, and any move that checked the tendency would be good.

Mr. Ellis was followed by Attorney-General Price, who said that in some Western Provinces the income tax was collected by the Provinces rather than the municipalities. Worthy of some consideration, he said, was the proposal that there should be only one income tax in Canada, and that the Federal income tax, a portion of which might be distributed through the Provinces to the municipalities. Colonel Price referred to the fact that there was no municipal income tax in Quebec, and expressed it as his personal opinion that the abolition of the tax in Ontario would bring more business enterprises to municipalities in this Province.

Cause of Irritation.

W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal House Leader, expressed the view that the time had come when something should be done to adjust municipal income tax assessments. An income in Toronto was assessed on the general mill rate of about 33 mills, while in Oshawa it was assessed around 46 mills, owing to the varying relations between the realty assessment and tax rates in the two communities. The municipal income tax was a cause of irritation, he averred

CATHOLICS TO BUILD INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Government Accepts Offer of Christian Brotherhood of Canada.

TORONTO, March 5. — The offer of the Christian Brotherhood of Canada to build an industrial school for boys at Alfred, 40 miles from Ottawa, at a cost of $200,000, was accepted by Cabinet Council of the Government last night, and it was agreed that the proposed school be recognized for commitment of Roman Catholic boys.

Hon. W. G. Martin, Minister of Public Welfare, placed the matter before the Cabinet, and recommended that the offer be accepted. The school would accommodate 100 boys and provision would be made for enlargement if such became necessary in future years.

The brotherhood offered to provide adequate agricultural and vocational training for the boys and to take every possible step to rehabilitate boys entering the institution.

The proposed industrial school will be patterned after the style of the Bowmanville School for Boys, but it will be for boys of the Roman Cath-

DAIRYMAN URGES MARKING CATTLE AFFLICTED WITH TUBERCULOSIS

John Reid Believes Move Would Mean Great Improvement in Industry.

SURPLUS MILK A PROBLEM.

TORONTO, Ont., March 5 (C.P.). —Marking of all cattle found to have tuberculosis was advocated before the Agricultural Committee of the Legislature to-day by John Reid, of Ripley, Ont., as a means of improving the dairy industry. Continuing its examination of different branches of agriculture, the committee to-day heard representative dairy farmers.

At present, Mr. Reid said, farmers supplying milk to city dairies had their herds inspected by local veterinaries. Animals found to have tuberculosis were shipped away and sold on the markets with no mark to indicate their condition. Local veterinaries should not be employed for this work, said Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture. It should be done by the Health of Animals Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Reid thought steps should be taken to capitalize further the advantage Canadian cheese had in the British market. A study should be made of the best way of packing and putting up cheese to reach the home market.

Improve Cheese Quality

The quality of cheese might be improved by a system of sanitary inspection, said Frank Davidson, Winchester. Farmers might resent inspection of their barns, said Mr. Kennedy. He thought an educational campaign might work better.

The problem of surplus milk was serious, said T. B. Griffin, secretary treasurer of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association. He had hopes of reaching a satisfactory understanding with the dairy companies and he thought the Government should not intervene. The farmers were being paid a lower price for large quantities of surplus milk when there should be no surplus milk in Ontario. An excessive difference between the price of milk for consumers and the price for manufacturing purposes led to quantities of milk being diverted from its proper channels.

Transportation of milk to cities from too large an area was breaking up cheese factories and creating a surplus of milk, said W. H. Acres, (Conservative, Carleton). Mr. Griffin said everything possible should be done to keep the cheese factories going and maintain all branches of the industry.

WARNING ISSUED BY CHURCHILL

Claims Continuance of Present Confusion Will Reduce Britain to State Like Holland.

NEED CHANGE IN COMMONS.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, March 5 (C.P.). — Right Hon. Winston Churchill, British statesman, delivering the Rectorial address at Edinburgh University to-day, warned that continuation of the present "confusion and disintegration" would reduce Britain within a generation—perhaps sooner—to the degree of states like Holland and Portugal.

His address, which he entitled "The Decline of Parliamentary Government of To-day," was devoted to viewing with eloquent alarm the trend of British affairs. "Never was so great a community in so precarious a situation," he said.

"We are in the van and forefront of the human race, but at the same time we are the most artificial, the most delicately established, and the most fundamentally insecure of all great nations. There we are perched aloft, and the structure itself disintegrating, loosening and crumbling—and what are we going to do about it?"

Mr. Churchill did not make clear exactly what is to be done about it, but he urged a reform of the House of Commons.

THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1931

A THIRD PARTY POSSIBLE.

While the agenda of the annual convention of the Ontario Prohibition Union, to be held next week in Toronto, contains no reference to political action, it is considered certain that the question of a temperance party entering the provincial arena will occupy a prominent place in the deliberations.

The feeling will not down that "bone dry" prohibition workers will refuse to be satisfied with the present situation, which finds both the old parties in favor of the prevailing system of Government control and leaves the prohibition cause without political championship.

The action of the provincial Liberal convention in tearing the prohibition plank out of the party program has led to a demand from many prohibitionists that a new political organization composed of those who favor the complete banning of the sale of alcoholic beverages should be placed in the field, and it is stated that the movement has already made sufficient progress to justify the formation of provisional committees for organization purposes.

All prohibitionists, of course, are not convinced of the wisdom of direct political action, but it would seem that there is a sufficiently strong sentiment in favor of the formation of a bone dry third party to cause the question to be the most important matter with which next week's convention will have to deal.

THERE'S PLENTY OF "KICK" NOW.

With the objection raised by Rev. Dr. A. J. Irwin, secretary of the Ontario Prohibition Union, to the proposal that manufacturers of native wine should be allowed to "fortify" their product by the addition of brandies or other strong liquors, The Examiner is in thorough accord.

It is our belief, based on statements of law enforcement officers and on observation of conditions throughout the Province that even in its present form native wine is responsible for a good deal of the drunkenness with which our police courts have to deal.

This powerful drink, which, strange to say, the Ontario Temperance Act allowed to be sold with very few restrictions in the days when other alcoholic beverages were banned, has a sufficiently high alcoholic content to make it a fruitful source of intoxication, and the suggestion that its "kick" should be further stepped up by the addition of other strong liquors is one that cannot be entertained by any Government that is seriously concerned with minimizing the effects of intemperance.

It was a mistake to have allowed the unrestricted sale of native wine during the prohibition regime; it was a mistake (now fortunately corrected) to have not put it under control when the present system was introduced, and it would be a still greater mistake to increase the alcoholic content of this already powerful beverage.

MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES.

A municipal deputation from Sandwich East waited upon J. A. Ellis, K.C., of the Railway and Municipal Board, on Tuesday to urge that the property qualifications for municipal candidates that were wiped out by the Drury Government should be restored.

It will be remembered that up to 1920 candidates for municipal office were required to have certain property qualifications, the idea being, of course, to shut out from municipal governments persons who were without a definite "stake" in the community.

The Farmer Government removed these qualifications and changed the law so that the municipal field was open to any property owner or tenant, regardless of the value of the property they offered.

The objection to the former law was that it was class legislation; on the other hand, there was strong opposition to the change on the ground that it would facilitate the entry into municipal councils of irresponsibles who, having nothing to lose in the shape of taxes, would plunge municipalities into wildly extravagant schemes.

A ten-year trial, however, has revealed the fact that such fears were groundless, and it cannot be said that the decade's experience with the absence of property qualifications leaves a great deal of justification for demanding a return to the old restrictions.

A SMALLER LEGISLATURE?

Reports from Toronto in reference to a redistribution of provincial electoral districts in Ontario contain the interesting statement that there is strong support among members of the Cabinet for the proposal that membership in the Legislature should be reduced from 112, as at present, to 85.

There are many arguments in favor of a smaller House, and any move to cut down governmental overhead by a reduction in the number of members would be sure of the support of a large measure of public opinion.

Can any one possibly justify the small army of members that at present represent Toronto in the Legislature? similarly, is there any reason why it should be thought necessary for Essex County to have three representatives?

As a matter of fact, these and other unnecessarily large quotas from various districts could be cut in two without injuring in the least interests of the people of the districts affected, and there is every reason to believe that public business could be more speedily and efficiently transacted by a Legislature of 85 members than by the present House.

To do away with twenty-seven seats would be a heroic operation, obviously difficult for the Henry Government, inasmuch as to further reduce rural representation would cause a tornado of protest along the sidelines, while reducing urban representation would hit the administration in its safest territory.

For all that a smaller House would seem to be directly in line with a more businesslike and economical administration of public affairs.

HOW WILL BRITAIN ANSWER?

Russia made an offer to buy ten million dollars' worth of agricultural machinery from Canada, and the basis of sale was that Canada was to accept several million dollars' worth of coal and the rest in gold.

The answer of the Canadian Government is that this country will not do business on that scale; it goes further and intimates that Canada has no desire to trade with Russia at all.

It was a place where a decision had to be made quickly, and it was one that had to be clear cut and final.

When the present Russian regime took possession of the country and killed all of the Romanoff family to wipe out any trace of the former reigning house, all existing indebtedness was renounced. The Soviet was willing to take over all the assets, but would not recognize the liabilities as having any relation to them.

A country which does that at once comes under suspicion, and that feeling of suspicion has been growing ever since. Russia produces wheat under a plan which the free men of this country could not tolerate, and she has dumped it on the London market at a price which knocked millions of dollars from the holdings of Canadian farmers.

We have no doubt that Russia could lay down coal here at a price which our miners could not meet.

Russia is the directing influence and the financial power behind all the Communism with which the world is bothered now. It is not taking a very drastic course for Canada to say that she does not desire to do business with Russia.

The position of this country is made less tenable by the action of British buyers of grain, many of whom have said by their actions that they prefer to buy Russian wheat while huge supplies of the Canadian article remains in storage.

Canada would prefer buying Welsh coal rather than taking the Russian article, and by the same token strength and substance would be given to Empire trading were Britain to say that she preferred to buy Canadian wheat.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

RUSSIA IS URGING WAR.

(A Letter by Col. W. G. MacKendrick in Toronto Globe.)

To the Editor of The Globe: Russia has engineered an intensive and diabolical war against the British Empire for years past. She has stirred up China against British goods and British citizens; she has been and is busy to-day stirring up strife and ill-will against British cotton goods and against the British Raj in India, and in fact is fomenting actual war there.

The peace of Persia, Afghanistan and Egypt Russia is stirring into hatred of Anglo-Saxondom. Even Canada and the U. S. A. are not exempt from her paid emissaries of strife and ill-will. Russia is at war against the Christian ideals of free men, the sacredness of home and the freedom to worship God.

Because Canadians are not being killed in the trenches our press—with notable exceptions like The Globe—fail to point out that Russia's war against our Empire is deliberately aimed at our downfall, and in the end is as deadly as if this war was fought with bayonet and bomb.

The British Isles cannot live without trade nor can Canada; but Russia with diabolical cunning has adopted a new manner of making war and so has conscripted her man-power at wages less than an army wage, and backed by poor and insufficient rations.

She is producing (under practically slave conditions) lumber, timber, coal, oil and wheat at prices that no Christian nation can possibly meet.

No Christian nation could or would allow her citizens to work under the terrible conditions, and at the low wages and limited food rations that now pertain in Russia.

The usurpers of power in Russia control the food of the nation and use that control with Satanic ingenuity to compel workers to do their will, or they will get no bread. Work for us or starve, leaves no freedom in Russia.

This war that Russia is waging, if Russia wins, means the downfall of the Christian basis of our civilization.

We will have either to adopt Russian conscriptive methods to meet her low cost of production by taking all freedom from the subject, by reducing food rations to Russia's standard of living and by paying labor only a small fraction of their present wages; and only when we get upon that low basis of living will we be able to meet Russia's low cost of production.

The only other method open to us is to refuse to do business with the present debauchers of Russia at any price and thereby limit the infection of this Godless anti-human campaign against humanity. They have sown the whirlwind, let them reap the crop due them.

So materialistic are some men they would sell their country's welfare for the profit to be made doing so. They would trade with Satan himself for the prospect of a profit. Money is their God.

They shut their eyes to the relentless war being waged against our Empire, and they even advocate trading with the enemy knocking at our gate. Beware the Greeks bearing gifts. Russia's suggestion re conferring about pegging the price of wheat is just as reliable as has been her conferring about their paying their debts. The men who befooled Britain's Labor rulers into believing that they would quit propaganda are utterly unreliable, and no good or profit can come of trying to do business with those who repudiate their debts and break their plighted word to the Motherland; no spoon has a long enough handle for Premier Bennett to use dealing with such pledge-breakers.

In the late war men were shot for dealing and having commerce with the enemy. Is Canada so lost to the reality of the present deadly economic war being waged for our downfall, that she is willing to help our deadliest enemy accomplish our own and our Empire's destruction?

Supplying Russia's needs hastens the day when the present economic war will be replaced by the drive the chief ruler of Russia will make for Palestine and world dominion. Should Canada help Russia arm for Armageddon?

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The response to the Relief Fund appeal shows that Peterborough's heart is right when a worthy cause seeks support.

The Legislature better make the best of the publicity it will get this week. The Dominion Parliament will soon be stealing the show.

Havelock Council adds its voice to the chorus from this district that is demanding that Highway No. 7 be proceeded with despite the County Council's protest.

A compulsory left-turn signal is to be included in an amendment to the Highway Traffic Act to be introduced in the Legislature on Friday. It is hoped that women drivers will be able to remember which is their left hand.

The Ontario Legislature spent most of Tuesday discussing the troubles of the farmers. But when the talk was all over, prices hadn't advanced a cent and agriculture was just where it had been in the morning.

The Red-Headed Goddess

By

All that afternoon Lorraine paced the cove in an agony of doubt. She had promised Dirk she would not go up to the desert and hunt for Indians alone. Yet Dirk had been sick when he exacted that promise. Was his judgment in the matter necessarily correct? And didn't the present circumstances alter the case? Mightn't he, now, revoke that exaction and bid her go? Their need seemed extreme. Dirk was seriously ill. They were without medicine, almost without food, without any disinfectants, without bandages. Each night was getting colder and colder and their clothing, scanty enough at the start, was by now pretty ragged. It would be a matter of two weeks at least before Dirk would be well enough to make the smallest attempt to move, if indeed, he was able to then, if he was not worse by then.

If he was not worse by then!

The thought was terrifying. She went quickly into the shelter where Dirk lay moaning and tossing, and hung over him in an agony of doubt. Reluctantly she left him, and went out to wander restlessly up and down in doubt. But he could not help her now. At last she struck her hands together sharply, lifted a desperate face to the night, and spoke aloud in the keen anguish of her mind:

"Oh! I've got to go! I don't dare not go! I don't dare leave a thing undone that I can possibly do to help us now. It's no good drifting, and trusting to time—"

Once more she went in and knelt down by the unconscious Dirk. If she could tell him! But he was out of her reach. Perhaps it was better so, she thought, rising at last with a lump of tears in her throat. This way, he would not worry, or make any crazy attempt to follow her and she would be back before morning. Yes, she would slip away now in the moonlight, which was so much less blinding and wearying than the heat of the sun, and she would go to the Greek temple and find where the Indian had disappeared. She would find their encampment, and get help, and be back with Dirk before dawn broke.

Her preparations did not take long, once she had made up her mind. Food—all that was left—and water within reach of Dirk's hand, a note scribbled on the soiled little folded map, her slingshot, the little cigarette lighter for a flashlight, some money folded into her moccasins, and she was ready. She wished most earnestly that she had not washed her aviation suit that day, but she had done it to pass time, and now it was still too wet to wear. She would simply have to keep moving fast enough so that she would not feel the cold. Just as she was ready to start, her eye lit on the little amber bead, gleaming like an eye beneath the moon's gleaming.

"Keep it," Dirk had said. "The Indians like baubles. You might need it for a bribe sometime."

It was a crazy idea, perhaps, but after all the whole escapade was crazy, and no little touch could make it more or less so. She snatched the trinket from the tree where it hung, and slipped it over her head, tucking it inside her dress so that it might not catch as she climbed up the path. And at last she was on her way.

It was a strange sight that the old moon looked down upon that night, as strange a sight as it had seen in a long time. A little figure, bareheaded, barelegged, but clad in the most modern of evening dresses, with leather strips bound onto white feet, was running swiftly across the silvered sand, running, stumbling, pausing to walk, running again. Her pace was uneven but her direction was steady enough as she made in a straight line for the immaculate white pillars of the gleaming Greek temple.

She had no idea how long it took her to reach them, for the moonlight was even more deceiving as to distances than the bright light of day, but she never dreamed of abandoning her project, and eventually she found herself standing breathless and awed, in the black shadows of the ruins, touching the cold surface like one in a dream. Indeed, as she paused here to gather herself together, she felt as though nothing she saw or felt or did was real, as though she—Lorraine Kent—were no longer flesh and blood but a creature of a dream world moving vaguely in space somewhere between heaven and earth.

A strange mysterious world lay about her, its white reaches lost in dim shadows its solemn silence broken only occasion ally by a lonely coyote's howl, that crept down her spine like ice. The high, frozen moon glittered far above her. The air swept across her bare arms like a cold stream of water. Nothing was close. Nothing was human. Nothing was warm or familiar. She was an infinitesimal speck on a vast and utterly lonely expanse, an unseen and disregarded fragile girl in a terrifying breadth and depth.

And the canyon she had felt sure she would see just beyond this temple was nowhere to be seen. There was merely a dip in the ground ahead and, far off, a long, low promontory of rock, and all about that—the desert. The Indian had, indeed, gone on and on and on.

Discovering this, Lorraine awoke as from a trance, and spoke aloud, shivering.

"I'm crazy," she said. "I'm crazy to be here. I'll go back."

But as she turned about, and looked over the way she had come, her heart sank suddenly within her, and a swift realization of her predicament fell like a physical blow upon her. There was behind no Greek temple to guide her back. The land spread out before her in undulating waves of a terrible, monotonous similiarity. Not a single spire or turret thrust up its head, on which she might fix her glance, by which she might set her direction. There was nothing—nothing.

Lorraine began shaking like a leaf. Like a frightened bird she darted out a little way on the desert, but its immensity caught at her throat, and she came running back to cling like a child to the hard, solid pillar of the temple. Its permanence and solidarity gave a curious comfort to the distracted girl. It was friendly. It was tangible. It was—there—not forever eluding her in misty distances.

She wondered if her own footprints might not be legible in the sand by daylight. The hope of that thought restored her courage somewhat, but her anxiety over Dirk did not lessen. Dirk, sick, helpless, alone—Dirk, sick, helpless, alone—It made a minor refrain that jammed unceasingly through her mind.

In order to keep warm, she prowled about and about the temple, her excitement and haunting fear of animals, of Indians, of everything unknown that might lie hidden in this veiled, mysterious, awful desert, preventing her remembering her own weariness. But at last her aching limbs demanded a rest and she sank exhausted at the foot of one of the pillars and stared over the sand.

"I don't even know," she thought with forlorn whimsy, "whether I'm on the back porch or the front porch of this thing."

For she could not tell, now, whether she was facing the way she had come or not. All sense of direction had gone from her completely and a sudden fear that her own maze of tracks about the temple might be confusing in the morning made her resolve to move no farther that night.

So she shut her teeth hard and leaned back again the stone, a waxen image in the moonlight, her big eyes dark in a white face, her hair wild about her shoulders and paled, in the shine, to a silvery tone like the world about her. Her dress, too, was blurred to white. She sat there a small, frail, delicate little figure, so small, so immoveable that she seemed after a while to melt into the moonlight, to become, in a strange way, a part of the old temple, a little statue toppled into the dust.

And while she sat there, half hypnotized by the night, wholly lost in it, a miracle happened. The desert came to life. Figures emerged out of nowhere and moved in a solemn single line across her vision and disappeared. She blinked and stared and blinked again, scarcely breathing, not daring to lift a hand to pass it across her bewildered eyes. It couldn't be true. Yet it was true. For there they were, a dozen or more shadowy shapes, slipping in Indian file across the white sands. Ghosts. They made no sound. They looked neither to right or to left. They simply appeared and disappeared.

Where had they come from? Where had they gone? Long after she had seen them the question hammered at Lorraine's brain, but still she sat there, stiff with cold, stiff with weariness, and now stiff with a new terror of the weirdness of this hour.

Where had they come from? Where had they gone? What were they doing? Why were they so silent? She stared and stared into the desert ahead, trying to fathom its mystery, to pierce its dreamy distances. At last her eye rested on the promontory of rock ahead and it came to her, with a shock, that the Indians had vanished into this! They had walked into its face and gone from sight!

Instantly with this realization she sprang up and, before her courage could forsake her, she sped across the desert toward the rocky projection. It was, of course, farther than she thought, but it did not recede and when she at last reached it she was so relieved that she burst into tears and laughed and cried in the solitude until the sound of her own hysteria checked her. Then, sobering, and screwing herself up to vigilance and wariness, she began to look about her carefully for an entrance into the cliff.

To her intense disappointment, she could discover none. Search as she would, not a hole was to be found in the broken stony face of the little hill, yet she was sure her eyes had not deceived her, and that it was here the Indians disappeared. At last, discouraged, but grimly tenacious of her purpose, she dropped down, determining to wait here until some Indian came out, if it took days of waiting.

But a cold draft of air blew upon her where she sat, seeming to issue from the very rocks behind her. At once her immense fatigue was forgotten again as she turned to investigate, and now, at last, she discovered a small fissure between two big stones. When she pushed against them, one yielded readily, revealing a hole in the wall big enough for her to creep through, and, as she knelt staring at it, there came faintly to her ears, through the aperture, a rhythmic sound of primitive music.

Startled, she drew back. What had she come upon? The next instant she knew she had inadvertently stumbled upon the Indians she sought, and her ignorance led her to believe that they were cliff dwellers and that she was at the entrance to the first of a series of rooms such as she and Dirk had explored. All she had to do, then, was to venture into this passage and she would find, at its other end, the Indian settlement, the women, the children, people who would help her, would find Dirk, would nurse him back to health, would start them both back to California and Dad and—life.

Oh! It must be! So ardent was her wish, so resolute her courage, so determined her hope, that, in that fevered, desperate moment, it was an easy matter to snap on the little cigarette lighter for a torch and, with it flickering feebly on the black walls of the narrow passageway ahead, creep through the opening.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES"

If March 5th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

March 5th, according to the ruling configurations, is propitious for almost every purpose and action. The signs especially favor business investment and settlement of financial affairs. Professional people will gain prestage while others will be in a fair way to attain their ambition.

Children born on this March 5th will cause considerable worry in their early years, as a result of physical ailments. Once this trying period is overcome, they will rapidly develop along normal lines. Their characters will be strong, their dispositions affectionate, and their ideals high.

If you were born on March 5th, you forget that conceit is a balloon at the mercy of any pin prick. People are quite ready to appreciate your good points. It is not necessary to emphasize them, in season and out of season, by use of the first personal pronoun. There is no call for anyone to "hide their light under a bushel", on the other hand, there is no need of permanent conflagration.

You are well informed, although not a deep thinker. You are a great reader, but not a student. You are considerate—chiefly, however, of yourself. You are more superficial than fundamental. You are ambitious, but not over industrious. Any undertaking, in which you are not called upon to play the star role, is not pleasing to you. Fate has not destined you to be a leader. You, however, think otherwise, as you want to be the wheel, not merely a cog.

Your convictions are strong, and always loudly voiced. You are always going to do something worthwhile, but never succeed in "going over the top." You tire just as the limelight ceases to play on you, and just as soon as you realize that others take you at their valuation, and not at yours. Your home life does not hold any great hopes of harmony or happiness. Your mate, whoever he or she may be, will never be willing for you to be the entire orchestra. Contentment with yourself and discontent with others is revealed in your horoscope. (Copyright, 1931, The Bell Syn., Inc.)

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY THE REV. CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D. FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

THE LAYMEN'S CALL.

"And he said unto them, The harvest is plenteous, but the laborers are few."—Luke 10:2. (Read Luke 10:1-20.

Meditation

Only Luke reports the sending out of the seventy. The twelve had already been sent out, but they were not enough. The harvest called for more. The service of The Kingdom is no exclusive prerogative of a priestly caste. It is laid upon all who follow Christ and long for a better world. In no community are there reapers enough for the human harvests. The ministry is plainly breaking down under the burdens laid upon it by an indolent but exacting church. A distribution of tasks is called for, which means an enlistment of the men and women who have already signed up if they will remember it. The way to save the church is clear and plain. But the greater question is how to save the harvest, which is plenteous. The seventy are called for. Are you one of them?

THE REV. CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D.

Prayer

Lord of the living harvest, we pray that Thou wilt dens more laborers into the field. Give to each one of us the grace of obedience that he may say "Here am I, Lord; send me." Amen.

Great Stretches of Northern Caucasus' Steppes Will Be Sown.

STATE FARMS INCREASE.

LONDON, March 5 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent)—Over the fields of the Soviet Union of Greater Russia, about 353 million acres will be brought under cultivation in the coming season, according to Soviet estimates. This is an increase over 1930 of 39 million acres; over 1929, an increase of 62 million acres.

Soviet plans call for a production in agricultural equipment this year—agricultural machinery and so forth—to the value of approximately $515,000,000. Last year the production of agricultural equipment in the Soviet Union, again to cite Soviet returns, was of the value of approximately $166,000,000. Before the war it was $33,000,000.

In the working out of its five year plan the Soviet Government has sought to stimulate its agricultural production in two ways: by creating vast state farms—grain factories as they have been called—largely on the hitherto uncultivated steppes of the Northern Caucasus, and by merging the holdings of peasant proprietors into collective farms. Forty per cent of the peasant proprietors, whether willingly or under duress, have joined the collective farms: Sixty per cent remain outside but the work of persuasion and propaganda is proceeding. Other and larger state farms are planned. The largest, situated in the Northern Caucasus, is stated in Soviet literature to have an area of nearly 500,000 acres. It is destined to produce grain, largely wheat.

Atlantic Sugar Leads Montreal Curb Trading

MONTREAL, Que., March 5. (CP)—Atlantic Sugar common took the lead in the trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange, this morning and scored a net advance of 1¼ points in its rise to a new high level for the stock at 37¼. The balance of the list moved slowly with gains and losses well distributed. The sales volume was at a moderately low level.

Brazilian Traction was strong from the opening and at one time during the morning reached a high of 26¾, while the noon price of 26½ showed a gain of ¾ over last night's close. International Nickel, Dominion Bridge, Montreal Power, National Breweries, Shawinigan, Steel of Canada and a number of others were either unchanged or showing small fractional losses.

Antonio Godon, shaken and trembling by his ordeal on the witness stand and by evident fear, was placed in the care of a constable, who will live with him at a local hotel until the trial is over. Brother Rosaire, of the academy, is still in custody. His turn to testify has not yet arrived.

Crowds besieged the courtroom to-day in an effort to obtain seats for the hearing.

LIVINGSTONE RELIC IN RAGS

Mixed in with rags, a comb once owned by David Livingstone, the African missionary-explorer, was found recently in a rag market and presented to the Livingstone Memorial Museum at Blantyre, Scotland. A paper which proved its genuiness was found between the teeth. The comb was given to the missionary who had pulled it out of his wife's hair just before the presentation.

GENERAL LIST IS IRREGULAR ON STANDARD

Macassa Advances Four Points Following Street Announcement.

MINING CORP. UP 10.

International Nickel Somewhat Stronger at $18.25 But Noranda is Off Quarter.

TORONTO, Ont., March 5. (CP)—A few specialties among the gold stocks had the floor from the opening on the mining market to-day, balance of the list displaying an irregularly lower tendency in listless trading.

Macassa got an early start on reports an announcement is pending in regard to the company's affairs, price standing up 4 at 21 when taken at midday. Eldorado advanced another 3 to 75, and Moss gained a cent or so to 40.

Mining Corp. featured the higher priced golds with a gain of 10 to $2.39. Reports from Bannockburn' statin shaft sinking had started. Teck Hughe firmed 5 to $7, and other members of th group were steady. Small recessions appeared in Bib Missouri, Barry Hollinger and Siscoe.

International Nickel sold somewhat stronger at $18.25, but Noranda was off a quarter to $17.50 and Hudson Bay 15 to $5.10.

Peninsular Pete was called on the unlisted section and saw brisk turnover around 17 to 18. Chemical Research lost 5, Home Oil a couple and Nordon a point.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 5.—(Special to Examiner.)—Peninsular Petroleums, Ltd., with holdings in Ontario and Western Canada, was called for trading on the unlisted section of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day and enjoyed fairly brisk turnover. The company, which recently took over the Wainwell undertaking in the Wainwright field, plans rehabilitation of the refinery there and cleaning up of Wainwell wells. Peninsular controls, a large gas flow which will find a ready market through Tri-Cities, should that company complete present plans for supplying Moose Jaw and other western cities.

Mining Corporation also was active and higher, word being received from Bannockburn that the latest drill hole, no 10, on the Ashley vein shows a width of 11 feet, plus a five foot width of material so completely fractured as to be lost. The lost core probably contains considerable quartz, it is believed, and may be presumed to be vein material, although sludge assays will have to determine this point. This hole lengthens the showing to 808 feet. Shaft sinking has started.

It is interesting to note that the National Metal Exchange of New York is planning to trade in silver futures. Proposals for such a market are now under consideration by the board of governors. Inauguration of a future market for silver does not appear to be any solution for the silver problem. There is at present a good market for silver bars over the counter. When silver is listed on an exchange it loses its status as a precious metal and becomes a mere commodity. That late is one of the reasons for recent swings in price. When silver is again on a more stable basis and resumes its position as a precious metal, the demand and supply will not be so apt to govern price as they do now.

Notice of the annual general meeting of Acme Gas and Oil, to be held here on March 11, was received by shareholders to-day. Besides general business to be considered, a by-law increasing the board of directors from five to seven men will be put before the gathering.

At the Ottawa meeting of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy to-day a paper was presented by John Drybrough of Winnipeg dealing with development of an interesting nickel-copper deposit on the shores of Rankin Inlet at Hudson Bay north of Fort Churchill. Work is being carried on by the Cyril Knight Prospecting Co. The ore is richer in nickel than in copper, and is reported to have promising platinum contents. It will be a number of years, of course, before any large quantity can be blocked out.

The new lease secured by oil selections in the East Texas pools has been acquired without payment of cash, both lease and cost of drilling of first well being paid for by capital stock of the company. Operations have already commenced and it is expected the average depth of other wells in the field of 4,000 feet should be reached in about sixty days. The company owns extensive oil tracts in western Ontario and Western Canada.

Winnipeg Review

The wheat market displayed heaviness during the first half of yesterday's session and prices declined one cent under the close Monday night with locals and Chicago selling based on the weakness in Liverpool and to the fact that export sales overnight were insignificant only a few odd loads being worked. During the last half of the session the Chicago market turned strong and Chicago interests were buying Winnipeg July, which brought about a wave of short covering while at the same time offerings were very light with the result that all the earlier losses were recovered and prices climbed well over the previous close. There was no particular reason for the upturn outside of the strength in Chicago which was credited to short covering, as explort sales were confined to a few odd scattered loads, and no new business came in this morning. The market was probably somewhat oversold as a result of the decline of about nine cents from the recent high mark. Even on the bulge the offerings were light and they were easily absorbed in the short covering movement. The demand for cash wheat was fair, shippers and terminals taking the odd cars that were coming out. Offerings, however, were quite light and spreads were practically unchanged. The flour trade continued without any special feature with export business very quite. Liverpool closed ¼ to ½ lower and Buenos Aires was 3-8 lower at 3 p.m. On the extreme break local prices were one cent lower but this was not held the market closing unchanged from Tuesday's finish.

Coarse grains—The firm undertone continued to show itself in coarse grains however, there was not going on. No new business could be confirmed in barley or rye for export but there is some demand for barley in the west and this is understood to be for feed purposes which the municipalities are supplying in the areas that were dried out last season.

Liverpool cables due ¾ to 7-8 higher based on Winnipeg.

NEW YORK LIST DEVELOPS HEAVY TONE THIS NOON

Further Selling Sends Rails and Miscellaneous on Downward Plunge.

LATER TRADING FIRMER.

U. S., Bethlehem and Republic Advances Point or More in Steel Section.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 5. (CP)—The bear forces, after having things pretty much their own way for five days, were forced to yield before a bull offensive centering in the steels and utilities in to-day's stock market.

Further selling in the rails and miscellaneous shares gave the list a heavy tone in the morning, but selling soon shrank to meagre proportions, and the market turned emphatically upward in the middle of the day. In the steels, U.S. Bethlehem and Republic gained a point or more. Among the smaller independents, Superior Rose more than 3, and Williams about 5, more than doubling their January prices. American Can was soon brought forward as a leader of the principal industrials, selling up more than 3. Allied Chemical made a similar advance. A wide assortment of shares showed advances of a point or two.

The money market remained firm. There was no call money available under 1½ per cent, and loan calling was fairly heavy.

URGE DEVELOPMENT OF CANADA'S ARCTIC

Development Officer Gives Reasons For Maintaining Posts in Arctic Circle.

MONTREAL, Mar. 5.—(By the Canadian Press)—Reasons why Canada should explore possibilities and make efforts for the development of the islands in the archipelago to the north were discussed recently in the course of a lecture on "Canada's Arctic Empire," by G. P. Mackenzie, of the Northwest Territories and Yukon branch of the Department of the Interior, before the Women's Canadian Club. Mr. McKenzie, who has commanded the annual expedition of the Beothic to points of settlement in the Arctic Circle for the last five years, showed moving pictures of the voyage last year, which covered 9000 miles from Sydney, C.B., to the Bache Peninsula, the "top of the world," then westward among the islands, and return.

The lecturer gave several reasons for continuance of work in the north. First was the necessity to occupy and govern the islands in accordance with the sovereign rights of the Dominion. Second was the economical development of the potential value of the islands. The third reason was the care of the Eskimos, of whom there were 7000 in scattered groups. The Eskimos, the lecturer declared, are a people that it is worth while to look after. He mentioned that among the Eskimos the woman has a full share in the family council, and while her lot is hard she is not downtrodden.

FILM STUDIO ACTING DIFFERS FROM STAGE

Sir John Martin-Harvey Finds This Out in His Film Experience.

LONDON, Mar. 5.—(By the Canadian Press)—That film studio acting is different from stage acting has been realized recently by Sir John Martin-Harvey, actor-manager, who at the Twickenham studio is working on "The Lyons Mail," which one of his old pupils, Arthur Maude, is producing. Speaking to a correspondent of the London Edition of the Manchester Guardian, Sir John said.

"I take my work on the stage to be my opportunity to convey whatever message I wish. Never highterto have I produced a single play without feeling the imperative need of getting its message over to the audience. My conviction, based on some experiences by now, is that good acting is largely dependent on the response which the audience makes to the actor. The responce may be favorable or it may be unfavorable, but the audience is essential. There is a human touch in stage work which has its influence on those on the stage.

"Here, however, there is no audience and consequently no reaction, and one is dependent for inspiration largely on one's own imagintaion. The main advantage of screen over stage work is that facial expression counts for so much more. In the ordinary theatre there is generally such a distance between the audience and the actor that the actor depends for effect on voice only. In the film, however, facial expressions are reproduced with such wondrous exactness that they count for very much more. Science has succeeded in reproducing the words but not yet the variations in tones, and so certain personal characteristics of the actors are lost in the film. But this I believe will be remedied in time, and that time may not be so distant as some imagine. But I cannot help feeling that as a religious service over the wireless is only a poor substitute for the human touch of worship in a church, so at best the film is but a substitute for real acting."

A.B.C. Case Judgment Deferred For Week

LONDON, Ont., Mar. 5.—By consent of both the Crown and the defence, judgment will not be handed down until one week from to-day in the preliminary hearing against former officials of the Amalgamated Builders' Council. C.G.E. TEST BEATS GRAFTON'S 32-30

Tied at Full Time 24 All, Teams Forced Into Overtime For First Time This Year.

It was only after a ten-minute overtime period that the final decision went to C.G.E. Test over Grafton's with the score 32-30, in an evenly contested basketball game in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium last evening. At full time the score was 24-all, and for the first time in this years' leagle it was necessary to tack on an overtime period.

Both teams were in excellent form and showed good combination throughout the game. Passing checking and shooting were all done in professional style. The teams were so evenly matched, with a provincial champion on each team, that the final score came only as a lucky break to the Test men.

McKeagan did the most scoring for C.G.E., making 12 points in all. He was followed by Tracy's 11 and Mahood's 7. The major scorer for Grafton's was Rhodes who tallied 10 points. Williams and Dundas both did well for their team, making 9 and 8 points respectively.

DEFENDANT'S CAR TAKEN BY CROWN

Judgment Delivered in the Buller Vs. Windover Case By Judge Huycke.

NO ALTERNATIVE.

"In my mind I have no alternative, if I read the section aright, but to read and obey the Statute literally and declare the car forfeited and confiscated to the Crown, although I do this with some regret," states His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke in the course of his written judgment recently delivered in an action, Buller vs. Windover, in the First Division Court of the County of Peterborough.

The defendant, Clarion Windover, was recently convicted of an offence under the Excise Act, and was arrested with the illicit liquor in his possession. He and the liquor were in a car which was duly seized by the authorities. A claim was put in, and I am informed, states His Honor, that proper notices were given by Thomas H. Windover, who claims to own the car and is an uncle of the accused Clarion Windover.

"At the time of the trial the ownership of the car was not brought into question, and the determination as to it was reserved for future evidence and argument, which have since been heard."

"Documentary evidence was produced showing that the car does legally belong to Thomas E. Windover, but at the time of the arrest the car was in the possession of the accused."

Word Vehicle Defined.

"Objection is taken by counsel for the accused (J. A. O'Brien), that a motor car does not come within the statutory category of the section, that the word 'vehicle' is intended to be a vehicle used with a horse. It was strongly urged, remarks the Judge, that a motor car therefore was not a vehicle any more than a railway train should be so described if the accused had possession of liquor on such train, I then expressed my opinion adversely, and now find that this objection does not prevail, that a motor car is a vehicle, it being universally known that it is the most generally used vehicle in the country at the present time."

His Honor proceeds at some length to review the evidence which was placed before him at the trial, and goes deeply into the technical and legal aspects of the Statute under which the confiscation of the vehicle was made. He remarks, "If Parliament does not mean what it says, it should, I most humbly and respectfully suggest, revise the section in question, and say what it means. I should be very glad to see this, or some other similar case, taken to the Appellate Court and have it interpreted clearly and definitely for the guidance of these who administer the Acts throughout Canada."

His Honor concludes by stating, "The Department has full power and authority under the Statute to consider the circumstances and restore the car if deemed to be fair and just under the conditions, and I do not think it will willingly do an injustice. I would suggest if the Crown take this car that fuller and further enquiry should be made so the head of the department should make up his mind either one way or the other, and to avoid injustice, if reasonably possible, restore it to the claimant; but under the Act, as I read and understand it, it is not open for me to do so at the present time and under existing conditions as shown to me."

W. F. Huycke appeared for the Crown.

In another action Buller vs Delbert Freeburn, concerning the question of the confiscation of a boat, His Honor's finding was, "I have no other alternative but to declare the boat forfeited to, or confiscated by the Crown."

N. Somerville, K. C. and J. R. Corkery appeared for the Crown, and A. L. Elliott for the accused.

BANQUET AND DANCE FINISH COURSE IN AGRICULTURE, HOME ECONOMICS FOR MADOC DISTRICT MEMBERS

Young People Pay High Tribute and Present Gifts to Principals.

OVER 140 ATTEND.

Prizes Are Awarded — Reeve Whytock is Toastmaster— Fine Address Given.

MADOC, March 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—At a banquet and dance which closed the three months' course in Agriculture and Home Economics at Madoc, members of both classes united on Monday night, March 2, and acquitted themselves with credit in proposing toasts and entertaining their friends. The banquet was held in the basement of St. Peter's Church. The Women's Missionary Society of the church catering to about one hundred and forty seated at the tables. After the program was completed the gathering adjourned to the town hall to dance for the rest of the evening.

Several speakers estimated the value of the course to the young people of the community. The keynote of the evening was given in this respect by Charles Thompson, Reeve of Madoc township, and Warden of Hastings, who stated that the course is giving the boys and girls something to keep them on the farm.

Prize Winners

Prizes were awarded to the boys and girls who distingushed themselves in their studies and diplomas and pins were presented to 28 members who secured the required standing in the examinations.

The prize winners were: For proficiency in domestic science, Helen Caskey; for highest total marks, Keitha Reynolds; and for the best attendance, Jennie Ketcheson. In addition to the above, the following girls secured certificates: Elsie Fox, Helen Ludbrook, Mary McCoy, Norma Fair, Bernice Ellis, Ruby Doughty and Kathleen Bird.

Earl Sager secured the J. Rutherford prize for the highest general proficiency in the Agricultural class.

In presenting the prize to the winner, Mr. Rutherford stated that in winning, Sager reflected credit, not only on himself but on the community in which he resides and serves. The other prizes were presented by Mr. McLeod. Robert McCaffery won the second prize in general proficiency. Ernest Holland was best livestock judge and Je... Thompson obtained the award for grain and seed judging. Leonard Trotter kept the best set of notes. In addition to the prize winners, the following obtained the diplomas and pins: Kenneth Rollins, Patrick Walsh, Cecil Woods, Edward Hart, Daniel O'Connell, Kenneth Rollins, James Golan, Wilfred Forestall, Allan Ketcheson, Leonard Graham, Stafford Cosway and James Miller.

Tribute to Principals

Before the guests left the banquet hall, the girls and boys paid tribute to the principals of their schools. Norma Fair and Helen Ludbrook, on behalf of the girls, presented Miss Cameron with a silver flower basket. Dan O'Connell and James Miller, on behalf of the boys, presented Mr. McLeod with an address and a gift. The recipients replied that they had enjoyed the work with the pupils and appreciated the tokens of esteem and friendship. "It was such a pleasure to work with the girls' class," replied Miss Cameron, "I felt I was one with them. I don't believe any of the girls enjoyed it more than I."

During the banquet hour G. L. Clute, who instructed the class in music, led in community singing. He accompanied Miss Bessie Conley of Stirling, who sang several solos, and he sang with her in a duet, Charlie Allan assisting. Helen and Kathleen Ludbrook rendered a guitar and tenor banjo selection.

Walter Whytock, Reeve of Madoc village, the toastmaster, commented in humorous vein on the various departments of study in the course. He suggested that he had been invited to be the toastmaster, but that the Warden would appear to make a better speech. He said he did not think the boys would favor the course in nursing for the girls. When a man gets to be 35 or 40, he doesn't want his wife for his nurse. He wants somebody younger.

Toast List

The toast were: "Our Country," by Earl Sager, responded to by Charles Thompson. Warden of Hastings; "Girls' Home Economics Class," by John Thompson, and responded to by Norma Fair and Miss Cameron; "Agricultural Class," proposed by Keitha Reynolds and responded to by Robert McCaffery and Joseph Wilson; and "Our Guests," by Leonard Graham and responded to by Mrs. J. B Hough.

Earl Sager, leading student among the boys, proposed the toast to "Our Country." He declined to compare Canada with other countries, as comparisons will avail us nothing, he said, but we know that the natural resources and the possibilities of the Dominion are great. "We have everything," he claimed, "with which men build nations and empires." Commenting on the failure of the country's population to increase as was predicted when the railroads were built, he maintained that slack immigration has been better for the country, in that the foundation has been laid more slowly and more securely.

Norma Fair, in reply to the toast to her class, expressed high regard for the members of the staff, from each of whom the class had gained much. Nursing, dressmaking, home decoration and domestic science are all important, she said. Miss Fair admitted that the most important class was cooking for "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach," she quoted.

Miss E. Cameron, principal of the girls' school, claimed that the foundation for agriculture had been laid in 5000 B.C., by woman in Syria. The living of the people was threatened by the scarcity of game. Miss Cameron said, so that women gathered seeds and sowed them in a fertile spot. Later, she carried on the work by preparing the food from the grain. The girls in the class were taught about foods; how to buy, and how to keep house. "Try out the girls," she challenged, "and see what they have learned."

Work Analysed

Joseph Wilson, Agricultural Representative for Hastings County, who arranged the course under the Department of Agriculture, analyzed the work of the school. It is not a school in the ordinary sense, he said. The students were not pressed to apply themselves. The instructors prepared a course of lectures and demonstrations, and gave them. Some pupils took an interest in certain work but not in the rest. But this class has been outstanding in many respect. The instructors spoke highly of them; the boys applied themselves and wrote their examinations in earnest.

Mr. Wilson referred to courses held previously in the county. Similar schools have been held at Stirling, Trenton and Foxboro. He said the class at Foxboro was a success. "The members are now a unit in the district," he said. They co-operate. That is what I want to see you boys do. Times are changing and you want to look into the future. He cited instances where similar courses had brought out hidden talent in the pupils and suggested that at some future time some of the Madoc boys might hold responsible positions. Mr. Wilson regretted that Dr. J. B. Reynolds, President Emeritus of Ontario Agricultural College, was unable to get to the banquet.

Warden in Jovial Mood

Warden Thompson was in a jovial mood when he replied to the toast to Our Country. He related that since his son had been taking the course, they had found out that there was hardly anything that they had been doing right on the farm. He advised the boys to see if the girls can bake better cakes than their mothers. He suggested that the country girl could prepare a meal with more certainty than her city cousin. "You never are stuck in country the way you are in the city," he said. "You can always go out and kill a hen."

Mr. Thompson extolled the natural resources of the county, especially in the mineral region of the north, and hinted that with the development of this section, the southern townships would have no complaints about paying higher taxes than those in the north, because the northern lands will be made far more valuable through its mineral resources. Urged by the toastmaster, the Warden repeated a statement he made formerly that with the natural resources of the county and their developments and the distillery at Corbyville, Hastings people should be the happiest in the world.

Mrs. J. B. Hough said that the young people deserved credit for their effort to improve themselves at these courses. A community is only what its members make it, she said. It is only by efforts such as these people are making that freedom, justice and equality would continue to be the watchwords of this great country.

LEAGUE MEETS.

St. John's Young People Hold Regular Gathering at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 5 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—The regular meeting of the Young People's League of St. John's United Church, Campbellford, was held on Monday evening in the Sunday School room with Miss Rita Palliser presiding.

The meeting opened with a hymn, scripture reading and a prayer by the Rev. R. C. Tait. Miss Neta Tucker, convenor of the Devotional Committee, occupied the chair for the program. This included the topic, which was given by Elsie onnor, a piano solo by A. Hazell and a reading by Ruth Palliser.

The report of the progress of the car contest showed that the Cadillac was still keeping ahead of the Ford. A lower committee was also appointed.

A fun period was enjoyed which included a word contest and games. The meeting closed with the benediction.

U.S. DEMOCRATS STUDY PLATFORM

Hinted That Al Smith May Make Gesture for Party Nomination.

YOUNG MENTIONED.

WASHINGTON, D.C. March 5 (By Ken Clark, C. P. Staff Correspondent)—The Democates of the United States should know more to-night about the prospects for a platform and a presidential candidate for the lection of 1932. Assembled in Washington to-day was the National Democratic Committee under Chairman John J. Raskob. Among those present was Alfred Smith, Ex-Governor of New York, Democratic candidate in 1929, the same 'Al' Smith who made the brown derby famous in that year. To-day he wore a beautiful, new pearl-gray fedora.

The Democrats are having one of those little party rows which sometimes, minor as they appear at the moment, lose elections. Raskob and Smith are apparently not adverse to having the committee lay down some general plans of campaign. Governor Franklin B. Roosevelt of New York, who may be the party's candidate, prefers to leave this business to the National Convention.

Smith's Action Uncertain

It is not clear that the candidacy of Governor Roosevelt will have the support of Smith. There have been rumors Smith, the titular head of the party, and Raskob its financial angel, may put forward the name, Owen D. Young. It is hinted that Smith may himself make some sort of gesture for the nomination whether for the purpose of receiving it or as a bit of strategy designed not in the interest of Governor Roosevelt is a question.

Last night the committeemen all cried, "Hagmony." But with such controversal issues as prohibition, confronting the party their cries placed a certain conviction.

The wise men of Washington have always considered Mr. Young a logical nominee for 1932, and to-day's gathering of Democratic leaders rather adds weight to their prophecy.

APPROVE OF NAVAL ACCORD.

WASHINGTON, D.C., March 5. — (C.P.)—The Franco-Italian naval agreement was praised yesterday by President Hoover and Secretary Stimson in the first formal comment by United States officials since the accord was reached.

PLEASING PROGRAM AT Y.P.A. MEETING

Miss Hazel Davidson in Charge of George Street Church Society Gathering.

With Miss Hazel Davidson as chairman, the regular meeting of the U.Y.P.A. of George Street United church, Tuesday, opened by singing "In the Garden", followed by A. McMullen reading a beautiful little poem entitled "The Church." Miss Doris Kelly led the responsive reading and the Scripture lesson after which Rev. J. E. J. Millyard led in prayer.

The subject for discussion was "My Friend's Church and Mine." In their remarks dealing with this, Homer Borland and Miss E. Clysdale mentioned, first, the various churches in the world to-day, and second, their different characteristics. Mr. Borland, in his splendid address pointed out why there is a need for a common church rather than the multitudinous beliefs which exist at the present time.

During the time devoted to recreation ,the president, Homer Borland introduced a new singing game which was enjoyed as thoroughly by the members as the "human" croquet relay, and the Biblical baseball game which ended up with a score of 33-5.

After a brief sing-song, Miss F. Allison read a short poem and the meeting closed with a hymn and the Mizpah.

JUSTICE MOVES FAST IN ALBERTA

Ten Hours After Robbery Youths Caught and Sentenced.

GETS TWO YEARS EACH.

STAVELY, Alta., March 5 (C.P.). —Ten hours after raiding a store in Stavely and failing to escape a posse of citizens and police, four Calgary youths were sentenced to two years in Prince Albert Penitentiary on robbery charges yesterday. The four were James Kelly and Frank Becker, Earl Flae and Lawrence Braniss.

With the nearest police constable stationed 15 miles away, townsfolk recently installed their own system of burglar alarms. Early yesterday the system worked perfectly.

As the four entered the store, the alarm rang in the proprietor's home. He signalled the telephone operator, who in turn buzzed 'phones in every dwelling, bringing out about 40 residents.

Kelly and Becker were captured in the store. Flake dodged shots from rifles and revolvers for a while, but was cornered at the outskirts of the town. Braniss bowed to police at High River after they had punctured his automobile's tires and riddled the back of the car with shots.

FREE FOR ONLY TWO HOURS.

Three young men carried out a vicious and desperate jail break at Barrie, Ontario, on February 28. They brutally assaulted Governor J. D. G. Banting, V.S., cousin of Dr. F. G. Banting, of insulin fame, and his aide, Chief Turnkey John R. Weaymouth, beating them into unconsciousness. They then locked them up, looting the Governor's home, threatened to kill his wife, and escaped in the Governor's car, bound for Montreal. Less than two hours later in a thrilling 70-mile-an-hour chase, the trio, Alexander Manson, Barrie, Leslie McLeod, Toronto, and William Moore, Dalston, Ont., were recaptured. Picture shows William Moore, LEFT, and Alexander Manson leaving the Barrie jail after recapture. They are handcuffed together.

TRENT WATERWAY DISPLAY WAS HUGE SUCCESS AT PHILADELPHIA

132,000 SIGHT-SEERS.

The Trent Waterway-Iroquois Trail exhibit at the Philadelphia Sportsmen's and Motor Boat Show proved to be a great success, even though it was the local Association's first exhibit at that show. The Ontario Department of Highways, who shared the booth with the Association, also signified their satisfaction at the results.

During the Show February 23 to 28, some 132,000 people paid admission of 50 cents each. This was despite the fact that one-eighth of the working population of Philadelphia was unemployed. Business was off, and for this reason many business men decided that they could afford to take a holiday this year as business profits would not show a very great decrease through their absence. George Washington's birthday was a public holiday, and therefore there was a large attendance on that day. Many students of the University of Pennsylvania were present at the show. They were interested in the local exhibit, and thinking the Trent Canal wonderful, expressed a desire to make a trip over it.

Among the special guests at the Trent exhibit was Rev. Wm. Allan of Peterborough, who also preached at a Philadelphia church on Sunday, Mar. 1. Another visitor was Lorne Mills, formerly of the Peterborough Canoe Company, and at present proprietor of the Keystone Boat Works, Philadelphia, who wished to be remembered to a host of friends in this city: Bruce Patterson, R. M. Glover, Enos Maybee, Chris. Graham, Claude Rogers, W. A. Richardson, Morley Lyle and Robert Matchett.

The Show was not entirely one of motor boats; there were also many exhibits of wild life, stuffed fish and game specimens, fishing tackle and accessories. There were many fish and game protective exhibits and state forestry showings. Almost every variety of American live animals were shown: Bison, elks, deer (Virginia and Pennsylvania), mountain lions, peccary, skunk, porcupine, wild cats and opossum. There were also stuffed specimens of mountain sheep, moose, wolves, elephants and rhinoceri.

In the centre of the Exhibition building was a tank, 120 feet long, 40 feet wide and 4 feet deep. In this was given exhibits of casting, fly and plug casting, of log rolling, and water cycling. There was also a tug-of-war between two canoes manned by New Brunswick men.

There were three Canadian exhibits —the Governments of the Provinces of New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario.

The Maritime exhibit was a very elaborate one. Many live animals were shown, including a full grown moose (minus horns), deer, beaver, mink and otter, and there was also a wide range of mounted fish. The booth was done in rustic style, centered by a log cabin, and many beautiful framed pictures graced the walls. In attendance at the exhibit were six guides from the bush, one of whom was a V.C., who went to the Prince of Wales' dinner in London last year.

The Quebec exhibit was of the conventional type at which scenes and mounted specimens were shown to advantage.

The booth of the Trent Waterway Iroquois Trail Association has previously been described. Throughout the Show there were as many as 60 visitors inside of the enclosure and as many again outside viewing the films. Many were interested in the Algonquin Park, but at the same were desirous of coming by train or car. For this reason many tourists were diverted to this district. There was also a great interest in New Brunswick, but the Trent system is more accessible and is nearer, and so many signified their intention of coming here instead.

The Show ended at 10.30 Saturday evening, and the material of the booth was packed and shipped on Sunday to Detroit for the Sportsmen's and Motor Boat Show from March 21 to 28 (inclusive), where it is hoped that success will again attend the exhibits held for the purpose of increasing the tourist trade in Peterborough, the Kawartha Lakes and the Trent System as a whole.

Sir Oswald Mosley

MAY FORM NEW PARTY

Sir Oswald Mosley, well known in British society and politics, who recently made known his intention to form a new "National Socialist" party. It is expected that many strong men of Prime Minister MacDonald's Labor party will go over to the new party. Sir Oswald is advocating mild tariffs.

REFORM MEASURE ADVANCES STEP

Vital Clause Passes Committee Stage by Vote of 277 to 251.

TORIES OPPOSED.

LONDON, March 5 (A.P.) — The vital clause in the Electoral Reform Measure which the Labor Government has introduced into the House of Commons, presumbaly as the price of continued Liberal support, has passed the committee stage by a vote of 277 to 251.

The Conservatives voted solidly against the measure. Many Labor members abstained and twelve Labor members voted with the Conservatives. More than forty Liberals voted with the Government.

The vital clause is that which aims to give a measure of proportional representation to the House of Commons through the use of the alternative vote system, by which, in a three-cornered race, the voter designates a second choice to get his vote in the event his first choice is low man.

The result would be that the Liberal party, which recently has polled a popular vote much out of proportion to its small Commons representation, would under the scheme find its membership in the Commons greatly increased at the expense of the two larger parties.

The voting on the measure in the Commons last evening was attended by uproarous laughter and cheers at occasional Conservative quips at alleged intriguing between the Labor Party and the Liberals. If the measure embodying the alternative vote finally passes Parliament it will bring about the most sweeping reform in the British electoral system in many decades.

The resignations from the Labor Party to join the "New Party," captained by Sir Oswald Mosley, continue. William Brown, a hitherto Labor M.P., to-day forwarded his resignation to the party.

QUEEN'S STOCKINGS IN PLAY

Stockings once owned by Queen Victoria were featured by Renee Kelly on the opening night of her new play in London. Publicity has made the stockings famous, and she appeared in them in a bedroom scene. Immediately afterward they were taken off and placed in a fireproof safe. "Indeed I hardly had a chance to look at them myself," said Miss Kelly, "but I did see signs of almost a ladder so that I shall be afraid to wear them again."

WOMEN WIN BATTLE

MONTREAL, Que., March 5.—(C.P.)—Stating that it was the greatest conquest that had been made in Women's legislation in the past few years, R. L. Calder, K.C., described the right of married women to administer their own salary, now before the Quebec legislature in a bill to amend the civil code, as the "charter of the salaried married woman," at the Conservative Women's club here yesterday.

HOPELESSLY CRIPPLED CANADIAN WINS FAME IN THE FIELD OF ART

Both Arms and Legs Paralyzed, Maritimer's Work Attracts Attention.

HOLDS BRUSH IN MOUTH.

(Special to the Examiner
Copyright, 1931.)

LUNENBURG, N. S. Mar. 5 th.—Absolutely incapable of using either his hands or feet, yet a landscape painter whose work has attracted many artists of no te—such, in a very few words is the story of Earl Bailey, of Lunenburg, whose victorious battle against almost insurmountable handicaps tells a tale of indomitable will and almost unbelievable patience.

Here, briefly is the story of his life. Mr. Bailey was born in Lunenburg, the home of hundreds of deep-sea fishing vessels, twenty-eight years ago. Shortly after his birth, an epidemic of the much-dreaded infantile paralysis swept the town, and among the crippled victims it left in its wake was tiny Earl Bailey, doomed never to be able to use either his arms or legs.

As he frew from infancy into childhood many must have seen the heartaches as he watched his brothers and sisters at play, and could not join them. Particularly great was his interest in their childish drawings, and his greatest longing was to be able, like them, to draw.

When he was five years old, a happy idea came to him. Although he could

When he was five years old, a happy idea came to him. Although he could not hold his pencil in his withered, useless hands, why could he not hold it between his teeth, and draw that way? He tried it, and experienced the thrill of accomplishment that come to us only in childhood.

From a pencil, he graduated to the use of crayon, and as he became older, he attempted the use of oils, still holding the brush between his teeth. The success of his efforts was remarkable, and he was greatly encouraged in his attempts by artists who visited Lunenburg in search of the beautiful marine landscapes which the south shore of Nova Scotia holds in such abundance.

Through boyhood and into manhood Mr. Bailey persisted at his seemingly impossible task, until at last, wider and wider recognition of his work as true artistry, instead of just the interesting work of a seemingly impossibly handicapped boy, came to reward his labors.

Today Mr. Bailey is thoroughly self-supporting through the sale of his remarkable land and sea paintings, and regular exhibitions of his work are held in Halifax. Besides this, individual paintings of his have been hung in larger nation-wide Art Exhibitions.

Perhaps a more complete idea of Mr. Bailey's handicap may be formed through the realization of the fact that he is almost as helpless as an infant— can not feed or dress himself, or look after himself in any way.

This remarkable achievement prompts one to think that while the Bluenose skippers, admittedly the best navigators and seamen the world has ever known, have become almost a matter for the history-book, the spirit which made them the men they were is still strong among their descendants in the Province by the sea.

SCOTCH HAVE TALKIE CRAZE

Talkie fever in virulent form has gripped the dwellers along the west coast of Scotland. It is a common thing for people of Dunoon to cross the Firth of the Cloch by motor boat in the evening, travel by bus to Greenock, spend two hours in one of the three talkie theatres, and return home in an open motor boat after 11 o'clock in a cold, frosty night. A special late boat has been added for talkie enthusiasts.

Snowed-In

Jim Kendick, on his way home after a long business trip, was delayed by a snow-blockade. His wife would be expecting him. Jim remembered the telephone. He got in touch with her at once; he would be "about three hours late." And a piping-hot dinner was waiting for him, when he arrived!

RUSSIA SATISFIED WITH ACCORD TERMS

Soviet Believes Neither Germany or Italy Satisfied With Agreement.

MOSCOW, March 5 (A.P.).—Soviet Russian is satisfied with the terms of the British-Franco-Italian naval accord, the newspaper Izvestia said to-day.

"Russia realizes," the editorial said, "that the agreement was brought about under pressure applied by England, and does not really satisfy Italy or France. Therefore the Soviet Union has nothing to worry about. If everybody were satisfied, then Russia would regard seriously statements in the French press, that the agreement will help the offensive against the Soviet Union."

SIMPLICITY.

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—"Hid from the wise and prudent, revealed unto babes."

A clear conception of this truthful declaration is essential to moral development and saneness. Not to recognize this fact is one of the greatest misfortunes of life. The child is moved by a happy curiosity and this curiosity must be kept awake; and if well-trained it becomes in the man thirst for knowledge.

Common sense in reasoning integrity of life and even the secret of genius itself are in simplicity. Those who have searched, thought, striven and had the power to keep the childlike spirit are men of broad comprehension, retaining all the freshness, ingenuousness and sweet good faith, that is the charm of the child.

A false simplicity may transform this splendid and truthful declaration into a source of error and imposture. Behind such a statement, being misunderstood, the pretension of ignorance, defy knowledge and gross superstition laughs at authentic faith.

There are circumstances in which those who have learned nothing have more assurance than those who have taken the pains to study. Men with no idea of the origin and composition of the Bible defy those who have toiled piously over the question of criticism. The experienced and competent man of patient research, a questioner of facts, is a truly humble person. It is from diligence in patient labour, that men have been able to lift a corner of the veil and learn something.

Those who have the disposition of mind which does not admit of enlightment, are sectarians beset with prejudice; and have nothing to learn; they know it all; they do not search for truth, they think they possess it. Every pioneer of the future finds this class of people in his way. Simple childlike minds are susceptible of truth.

MORE ABOUT RUSSIA

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Originally capital was capital and employed at labour wages to carry on its business. Gradually public opinion decreed that too large a show of the profits went to capital and demanded an increased share (higher wages) for labour — and shorter hours.

The public opinion declared that capital still got too large a share of the profits whereupon succession duties were devised which took a share of a dead mean's capital for the benefit of the people (The State) and all sorts of taxes were devised to give the people a still greater share of capital's profits.

Except for the poll tax, all direct taxes are paid by property (capital).

The such schemes as government-owned Hydro-electric took all the profits and put them back into the business and lowered the cost to the people.

Gradually the idea spread that if the people (the socialistic state) did all business itself, all the profits would go to the people and Capital instead of taking all the profits as formerly would share up with the people (Labour). This is the Russian system. So you see that the Russian system is only our own system carried out to its full and complete conclusion.

Had the old system (the capitalist-employer system) met the conditions of business as it used to do there would never have arisen any trouble but suddenly there came a crash of world-wide unemployment, with the result that notwithstanding all that capital has done for Labour, Labour found itself face to face with soup or starvation.

When the slump came capital was in no such trouble. It had laid up such an enormous reserve fund out of its practical monopoly of the profits as to be able to wait, which Labour cannot do.

To fill up this gap between capital and Labour it is now proposed to add unemployment insurance to all the other efforts to help Labour over its difficulties (workmen's compeensation, Mother Allowances, Old Age Pensions, etc.).

If they are sufficient then well and good but if Labour still cannot make it go then Labour will have to provide means which during slumps will save it from starvation and find products for its own consumption. Russia has adopted the whole system of turning in all profits to the State What right have we to refuse to deal with Russia on that account? It might just as well be argued that because we are a socialistic state in so many ways as I have pointed out therefore other nations shouud not deal with us.

If dealing with Russia interfered with Protection I would say we should put a tax on her goods but where it does not, why in the world should we refuse to take her money, simply because we are afraid she has a new scheme that will upset ours?

Let one say here that capital in its strict sense is only a reserve but the capitalist-employer system is another thing altogether. Russia's conduct toward our religion, is, of course, all wrong. So is that of at least half the people we deal with every day. If she goes too far then make war on her but not on our own people, but what has that got to do with trade? If her 'trade' is not immoral, why refuse it?

The fact is that if we mix up our religion and our trade we at once adopt the Mohammedan's idea of spreading the gospel with an axe. However, one thing is sure and that is Russia has beaten us all to it and we cannot give our people employment by refusing to trade with her or with other people whoever they are.

Piracy is piracy and is wrong in itself, but the Russian socialistic state has nothing in it wrong as such and it should not be put under ban as a punishment as we are doing now. We are punishing Labour, not Russia.

If you insist on banning trade because you don't like the system (half of which you have already adopted) then put up a better one and be quick about it. The U.S. offers to dump cheap wheat on Europe. Is that wrong? No. but Europe says U.S. is worse than Russia and will have to be banned too. This ban business is likely to become ridiculous. When western wheat was guaranteed up to 60 cents and fell to the fifties there were loud cries of alarm and they continue.

The mass of the people knowing nothing of public business get like a herd of yearlings, an idea (if such it can be called) and run wildly in a body first here and then there and at last nowhere. That the business public and private of a whole nation should depend on childishness such as that is bad enough but that it should depend on the self-interest of other people who have no plan for giving the idle employment and seems to be willing to keep it that way, is a little too much especially when it is now seen that Britain is actually financing Russia whose offer of money for our goods we "ban."

COMMENDS COUNTY COUNCIL.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

In Monday's issue of your paper leading citizens of the City have made some comment on the action of the County Council re No. 7, King's Highway, through this county.

Mr. Duffus is to be congratulated on his very fair expression. I believe he realizes the position agriculture is in and appreciates the fact that the council knows what they are not able to pay. I would like to tell Mr. Matthews that the C.P.C. is paying a price for hogs to their shippers that nets the farmer, "this week," $5.50 a hundred. Eggs are netting twenty-two cents; butterfat is thirty cents a pound and cheese on the Montreal market is worth twelve and a half cents.

In the face of those prices, how are Peterborough County farmers going to pay another $300,000 in taxes? Mayor Denne seems to think the County Council should ask him his opinion regarding their appeal to the Minister of Highways. I wonder why?

Are fifteen farmers, representative of every township in this county, "except Belmont", not informed as to the ability of the taxpayers to pay?

Our council is to be commended for their efforts to stop the ever-increasing rise in our taxes and all our elected representatives would do well to heed the warning that they have given, farmers of this county are paying more taxes now than their income warrants.

If the Government and City feel that the immediate building of this road is so important I think we are satisfied for them to go ahead, but our representatives in the County Council are to be commended for giving the warning that the Townships are paying the last dollar in taxes that they are able to pay.

Thanking you for his space, I am,

Yours truly,

E. N. McDONALD.

President, Peterborough County U.F.O.

MORE WORK AND BETTER TIMES

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Recently I was in Peterborough and noticed the terrible condition of some of the roads and sidewalks.

I wish to state that instead of giving charity to people, why not prove what they are by giving them work to do. Those who are looking for what they can get will refuse, and by that way one could find out who really want work. The city streets would be kept clean and the people would not be receiving charity.

Both my husband and myself have tried to get work and I advertised for a position in your wonderful paper, but work is so scarce that it isn't obtainable anywhere. We are better off than some people as we have a little pension, my husband being a returned man, with war disabilities. He has good references and was once on the police force at Peterborough, but he cannot obtain work now because we have moved to the country so we could live on our pension and by so doing we have barred ourselves from getting work, as they say, "You do not live in the City." They forget that you spend every cent you have to spend in Peterborough and then they say, "Don't let the money out of the city." My husband would do any work, and doesn't matter what it is. Our pension doesn't allow us any luxury, but recently my four children were very ill with a serious attack of the flu and with the doctor calling, the pinch is felt the harder and when the children suffer you cannot do much to help as you cannot afford it. When you pay your way from the cheque you have nothing left.

My husband has tried everywhere to get work, but being out of the City, has failed every time. Well, here's for more work and better times.

Yours truly,

British Canadian.

THE HIGHWAY QUESTION

Editor of The Examiner,

Peterborough,

Dear Sir,—As was to be expected there is a big howl over the action of the County Council in petitioning to have work delayed on the proposed highway through Peterborough County. It is not very becoming in the men interviewed by The Examiner to be so much in favor of pushing this highway through at all costs. Any one of them can well afford the extra taxation involved, but what of the poor beggars in the country who are nearly losing their places now owing to the burden of taxes?

As stated the city bears an equal amount of taxation, and I would suggest that The Examiner interview some of the fellows who are struggling now to meet the tax demands, and who won't welcome any added burden. Explain to them just how much their tax bill will be increased and see if they are willing to have the work go on. There are not many men employed on the work anyway, in proportion to the money spent, most of the work being done by machinery. There are hundreds of acres of land in this county that is not producing enough now to meet the taxes already on it, and if more is added, where is the money going to come from? The system of raising money for roads from the county is most unfair anyway. There are scores of farmers living in this county who are paying the highway taxes, who never saw one of them have got no good of them and never will, but they pay exactly the same rate as the man with a car on the roads every day. What earthly use is a highway to men living in Harvey township? The farmers who are supposed to get such benefit from this new highway, have always managed to get their produce to town without any trouble in the past, and I imagine they can do it for a year or so yet without any great hardship. The other counties mentioned as having a greater highway system, have better conditions on the farms in those counties. There is a great deal of waste land in Peterborough county, and nothing can be raised from it. It would make a big difference if the total area was under cultivation and assessed accordingly. You in the city may think you are badly off, but you don't know what tight money means compared with the farmers right at your doors. Just because they arn't making a big noise and asking for relief, it does not necessarily follow that they are enjoying the comforts of life.

I would suggest to the gentlemen who are so much in favor of continuing this highway at the present time —and that includes The Examiner— that they look around them a little first, and see if the whole city is behind them as they seem to think. The city has no right to impoverish the county to make a speedway for their citizens, and it is perfectly evident that the County Council knows its business and the conditions within the county better than a few men whose only stake is in the city.

HOWARD REPLIES

Peterborough Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Permit me to reply to Maurice J. McCarthy who asks that I again peruse his first article on Unemployment Insurance. This has been done, and still I find nothing which was not thoroughly understood in the initial reading.

It is evident that M.J.M. fails to realize that when Lloyd George introduced this measure in the House, hundreds of thousands of war worn veterans were returning to England, Scotland and Wales to again resume civil life, and it was imperative that some IMMEDIATE solution be adopted to avoid civil war (such as we in Canada will face unless we get busy and find a remedy).

Each week, every employable person of both sexes, paid 3 pence and the employer 4 pence, and the total sum of seven pence was affixed in the nature of Stamps in a book provided by the Labour Exchange, and it was only after one had paid in for at least 6 months that benefits were available. The Government at the outset did not contribute one cent toward this venture, it was a scheme solely between employees and employers.

The Government did however find work for thousands and thousands of its people by building roads across country, new canals, new subways, but M.J.M. fails to realize the size of the population over there, and that London alone has a bigger population than the entire Dominion.

Does M.J.M. wish to infer that if a stockholder of C.P.R. or other R.R. stock after investing his money with same, that rather than pay dividends, the said railway company should tell their subscribers that they should go and lay rails or saw ties in place of receiving dividends on their investments? Certainly not.

The benefits obtained from Unemployment Insurance are the returns on moneys invested by the people, for the people, with the stipulation that one must report daily at the Labour Exchange to ascertain if a position or job suitable awaits him, and if he fails to do so, then he forfeits his dividends, or insurance benefits.

M.J.M. says that Idleness causes Vice and that is what he seems to be afraid of. Well, then if we are to take that as being true, I would suggest that all the policemen available should be detailed to watch Golf and Country Clubs, Fishing Clubs, Curling Rinks, etc., etc., because you will find all kinds of idle persons there, but I doubt very much if you will find vice. I do agree that Idleness with Poverty is the breeding ground for crime, and it is to avert that, that some sort of Unemployment Insurance should be IMMEDIATELY introduced, and it is with that view uppermost, which prompts me to write this article. I trust M.J.M. will agree that it is far better to have a nation that "INSURES" against poverty, than have soup kitchens, bread lines, etc. It is better to pay the price, than pay the penalty.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for your valuable space.

Yours truly,

W. H. Howard.

OTHER BUSINESS

HAVELOCK, Mar. 5.— (Examiner Correspondence.)—The regular meeting of Havelock Women's Institute was held in the Council Chamber on Monday when there was a good attendance of the membership. The president, Mrs. Huble, occupied the chair.

Some letters left over from last meeting were read and after some discussion, it was decided to file these letters for future reference.

A communication re Ontario Prohibition Union convention was read and filed.

The secretary was instructed to write a letter of thanks to Mr. Allan for his kind assistance at the Institute dance, on Feb. 13.

A letter of condolence to Mrs. Hagerman who has suffered a bereavement will be forwarded by the secretary.

The president suggested that it would be a friendly gesture to invite the members of Belmont Women's Institute, for the June meeting. On motion it was decided to invite them to be present at the June meeting.

The subject of the school dental clinic came up for discussion. Mrs. E. Cross and Mrs. Lancaster were appointed a committee to interview the dentist and ascertain the number of children requiring work done. This committee will report at the next meeting. In cases where a family cannot afford to pay for necessary dentistry, it was suggested that the Institute might undertake the cost. This of course will depend on the number requiring such assistance.

A meeting of the Library Board was called for Saturday evening in the Council chamber at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Allan offered her home for a series of progressive euchre parties, ten tables to be played at each session, and ten members in order on the roll call to be responsible for the tables. The proceeds from these card parties will be used for Library purposes.

The business being concluded the program convenor took charge and a very interesting entertainment was enjoyed. Mrs. Watson gave a humorous recitation, and Mrs. Wilson gave an interesting paper on a trip through the mountains.

Rev. P. C. Howard addressed the ladies on behalf of the Chautauqua committee. The ladies were asked to undertake the sale of tickets for this Festival. It was decided to divide the village into sections, and have the members in pairs canvass for the purpose of disposing of the tickets.

A dainty lunch was served, and a social half hour enjoyed. Hostesses for the day were Mesdames Cross, Lennox, Davies, Watson and Southward.

STRAY PIGEON CAUSES FIRE

That a pigeon has caused a fire in a house has been reported by the fire department of Paisley, Scotland. The stray bird flew into a kitchen window during the absence of the housewife and alighted on clothing spread on a rod before a fireplace to dry. One of the articles fell into the fire, setting the other garments ablaze and melting a gas pipe. The escaping gas fired the house. Firemen found the bird with badly singed wings, fluttering about the floor.

LIFE OF CARMEN ABLY DESCRIBED BY F. J. A. MORRIS

EARLY CAREER VARIED.

Real Insight is Given Audience Into Life of One of Canada's Poets.

"Bliss Carmen drank of the life of Nature with spiritual eagerness" declared F. J. A. Morris, English Master at the Collegiate Institute in an address on the Canadian poet before the A.Y.P.A. and guests in St. John's Parish Hall last evening. Mr. Morris is a member of the Bliss Carmen Memorial Committee.

The speaker outlined the life of the beloved poet, mentioning that Carmen owed much of his poetic personality to the environment of the Maritimes where he was born in the middle of the 19th century. The poet drank deep of English poetry, from Spencer to Wordsworth, and imbibed freely of the verse of American moderns. Graduating from Fredericton Collegiate, Carmen went to the University of New Brunswick. He did well there and graduated with Latin and Greek honors. From here he proceeded to Edinburgh University for post-graduate work.

Following this Carmen was alternately lawyer, school teacher and surveyor. It was not until 1887 that he settled down to literary studies in Harvard where he wrote his "Vagabondia" in the following year. In this volume is depicted the joys of a free life of wandering.

Cousin of Charles Roberts

The poet found great pleasure and inspiration in spending his summers with his cousin, Charles G. D. Roberts, at the latter's home in Windsor, New Brunswick. From 1890 to 1895 Carmen was on the editorial staff of leading journals and magazines, as the "New York Independent", "Current Literature" and the "Atlantic Monthly." He spent his winters in Washington, New York and finally in New Canaan, Connecticutt.

Through depressing years of hard times and anxieties, Carmen managed to publish a sheath of poems every year. Representative of his poetry are 'Ballads and Lyrics" of his early period, "The Pipes of Pan" of his middle period, and "Later Poems". The speaker also referred to a splendid commentary and critique on Carmen's work written by Professor Odell Shepherd.

Mr. Morris read Carmen's preface to his "Pipes of Pan" wherein he speaks of a tavern keeper whose wines are of such good quality that he does not need to advertise them. With an unsophisticated smile, the keeper, (or the poet himself) bids the traveller enter and taste of his wind. "Lord of my Heart's Elation" and "At the Great Release" were read as being poems representative of the volume.

Attraction for the Sea

Strength of thought marks "Ballads and Lyrics" although this thought is often obscure. In this collection Carmen speaks of the sea and its attraction for him. The mysteries of life are portrayed, too, and are based on Shelley's "Ode to a Skylark" and Browning's "Rabbi Ben Ezra." "The Captain of the Press Gang" is a typical example of the poet's work. It is reminiscent of seashore life and sounds the call to the sea. "The Heart of the Hills" was also read by Mr. Morris and "Spring Song — Make me over, Mother April" was mentioned.

Carmen's 'Later Poems" are marked by their serenity, ease and beauty. "The Ships of Yule" is a famous boys' poem, wherein his imagination takes him out to sea. "Garden Magic" is a Nature theme, and the different flowers remind the poet of his lover. "A Wood Path", "An April Morning", "Blood Root", "Roadside Flowers", "The Deserted Pasture" and "By Still Waters" are beautiful little poems, showing the poet's originality, and his love of flowers and the month of April.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Morris, and this was seconded by Rev. Dr. Blagrave who also thanked the speaker for giving his audience a real insight into one of the greatest of Canadian poets. The church orchestra played several numbers, and refreshments were served by the members of the A.Y.P.A.

Canadian Tenor Gives $1,000 To Opera Fund

MONTREAL, March 5. — Edward Johnson, the celebrated Canadian tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has subscribed one thousand dollars to the Guarantee Fund of the Canadian Opera Company, and Wilfred Pelletier, distinguished conductor of the same organization, has subscribed five hundred dollars, it is announced.

HANGAR IS RAZED 8 PLANES BURNED

$200,000 DAMAGE.

WINNIPEG, Man., Mar. 5.—(CP)—In blackened, twisted ruins, the year-old hangar and seven planes owned by Western Canada Airways today lay totally useless on Stevenson Field after an explosion and fire late yesterday that caused damage believed likely to near $200,000. Loss in aeroplanes alone is estimated at $120,000. A privately owned fairchild cabin machine also was destroyed.

Early investigation into the spectacular blaze failed to reveal its cause, though workmen in and near the large frame hangar opined an explosion in the gasoline tank of a plane had set it.

Flames quickly advanced along the gas-soaked ground to consume the entire structure and its contents.

Three automobiles and modern meteorological equipment, recently installed by Western Canada airways for the prairie mail service, also were destroyed. The weather-checking instruments were valued at $4,000. Damage to valuable workshop tools was figured at more than $10,000. All the company's property was insured, W. L. Brintnell, operating manager, stated.

ST. PATRICKS DAY TO BE BONE DRY

Pending Liquor Bill Allowing "Drowning the Rock" Again Postponed.

WILL PERMIT OPEN SALOONS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 5 (C.P.).—St. Patrick's Dry again will be bone dry in the Free State, as successive postponements of a pending Liquor Bill have so reduced the time available that it cannot become law by March 17.

The bill was introduced that citizens of the Free State might be able to observe the ancient custom of "drowning the rock" in alcoholic beverages on this great day, for in recent years there has been prohibition over St. Patrick's Day, Good Friday and Christmas.

The new measure, which is supported by the Government, Farmer and Independent Deputies, but vigorously opposed by the Fianna Fail, would permit licensed saloons to again open for two hours on March 17.

JOHN M. BACON IS LAID TO REST

LARGE FUNERAL CORTEGE.

"In our departed brother we have a worthy example of a man who played the game of life alright," exclaimed the Rev. Wm. McDonald in the course of the funeral service at Knox United Church yesterday afternoon, previous to the interment at Little Lake cemetery of John N. Bacon, who died with tragic suddenness at the local Curling Rink on Monday morning.

Simple and impressive, the service fittingly marked the passing of a "good sportsman and friend"—a man widely recognized as one of the Dominion's outstanding exponents of the games of curling and lawn bowling.

Testifying to the esteem and affection with which the late Mr. Bacon was regarded by his fellowmen, the church was filled with people representing all walks of life. His fellow members of the Peterborough Curling Club and the Lawn Bowling Club, as well as numerous representatives of district clubs attended in very strong numbers, while his brethren of Otonabee Lodge No. 13 I.O.O.F. were also present about fifty strong, taking an active part in the funeral services both at the church and at the graveside. The Oddfellows were marshalled by R. R. Ford, P.G., while Wm. J. Bull, V.G., and J. A. Goodwin, P.G., Acting Noble Grand, had charge of the service. The deceased was a member of Peterborough A.M.O.S. and of the Weyburn (Saskatchewan) Lodge I.O.O.F.

The casket was borne into the church, and rested during the service at the foot of the main aisle, Immediately following it walked the bearers, Messrs. J. J. Howden, president of Peterborough Curling Club, J. D. Fitzpatrick, president of Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club Limited; and George Cairns, Ray Best, Walter Oke and Jack Mayneord, all close associates of the deceased on the rink and greens.

The immediate family mourners followed. They were his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Ryan of New York, Bernice and Wanda, and son, Ray, along with his wife, also Mrs. Barber of Toronto, Mr. and Jean Brethour and Robert and Max Brethour and P. B. St. John, all of Sunderland.

As the cortege proceeded down the aisle, Martin Chenhall, A.R.C.O., at the organ console, played "Abide With Me." Mr. Chenhall and the Rev. Wm. McDonald are both ardent curlers, the latter being chaplain of the club, while the soloist, Douglas Carlisle, who sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar", is also a prominent curler.

During the course of the service three of the late Mr. Bacon's favourite hymns were sung. They were "Onward Christian Soldiers", "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

At the outset of a short address Rev. Mr. MacDonald expressed the satisfaction it gave him to place the church at the disposal of the Oddfellows and members of the Curling and Lawn Bowling Clubs, "who are assembled to express their sympathy with the immediate relatives of the late Mr. Bacon and to pay a tribute of respect to one so suddenly called out of activity in our midst."

"We remember our brother as a fellow sportsman, a man who gave of the very best that was in him. It is sometimes said of life," he exclaimed, "that it is a great game, and I say that in the best sense of the term. It is a game bounded by rules and directions given by the great Master of all men, and we are expected to enter into the game of life with all our hearts and determine to make the best of that game. We have in our departed brother a good example of a man who played the game worthily."

After leaving the church the cortege proceeded to the cemetery via Rubidge street, north to Charlotte street, east to George street and thence south on George street. As the first car reached the C.P.R. station the last car in the long procession was passing the premises of the Peterborough Curling Rink.

Lindsay Curling Club was represented by Messrs. F. Nugent, G. Brooks, S. Beale and B. Morey; Millbrook by John Steele, Robert Edmunds, and M. E. Challis and Cobourg bowlers and curlers by Messrs. James Watson, Jack Skitch, and Captain McCulloch.

TOWN OF NAPIER IS NOW IN RUINS LETTER STATES

George Burfoot Gets Letter From His Sister Describing Earthquake.

LIVES IN AUCKLAND.

From the City of Auckland, N.Z.—Five hundred miles from the scene of the recent devastating earthquake at Napier, George F. Burfoot of 431 Bethune Street, this city, has received the assurance from his sister, whom he has not seen since he was eleven years of age, that she and other relatives were spared any loss or personal injury. "The earthquake," she states, "was felt very badly in many parts of New Zealand but fortunately only very slightly in Auckland."

This correspondent from 'away down under', who has herself been in some bad earthquakes, vividly describes the desolation and damage which these convulsions of nature can inflict in a very short space of time.

"Napier was a very beautiful town, flowers growing everywhere and lovely esplanade and bathing beaches. Its pretty residences mostly of the bungalow type, and the business houses were nestling under the sunny skies, when on a Tuesday morning, with the bustle of the to wnat its height, with trams and motor cars full of people, there was a loud report like the firing of a battery of artillery—and then a great shock as the earth rose and trembled."

Continuing to describe the terrible phenomenem, as related to her by friends who are now rendered homeless as a result, she tells of how the buildings, those built of stone particularly, come tumbling down. (The wooden buildings are better capable of bearing the strain), and of the consequent outbreaks of fire due to the ignition of gas from broken gas mains. "Hundreds of poor souls were burned—some alive—it has been the most dreadful tragedy that has ever occurred in New Zealand, hundreds of people are homeless and have lost all their possessions. The city is now desolate, a ruined city, the work of years all destroyed in a few hours," she relates.

"In volcanic countries one must expect such terrible occurrences," she concludes resignedly, "we have several active volcanoes—Tongario and Narihoe, both always active. Many years ago there was an active volcano, Mount Eden, in the city of Auckland, but it has not been in eruption for some time, and is now a beautiful mountain with trees and shrubs growing on its slopes in profusion."

'How did you get breakfast so quickly?"

"Why, I'm serving Shredded Wheat, of course. I just take the biscuits from the package and serve them with cream or milk; sometimes I add fresh or stewed fruits. If you'd like a hot breakfast I can prepare it in a jiffy: Shredded Wheat crisped in the oven while I heat some milk to pour over it. Oh, I'm a friend of Shredded Wheat! It's ready cooked, ready to serve; and it's just as delicious and nourishing for lunch as for breakfast."

MILLBROOK L. A. IS ENTERTAINED

Mrs. M. Challice Acts as Hostess for Afternoon Tea After Business Session.

DISCUSS GARDEN PARTY.

MILLBROOK, March 5 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mrs. Milton Challice was hostess for the afternoon tea, sponsored by the Ladies' Association of Saint Andrew's United Church, and held at her home, King street east, on Tuesday afternoon immediately following a short business meeting of the organization mentioned.

Mrs. J. Albert Brown took the chair for the business session, and among the matters coming up for discussion was arranging for a home in the centre of the village where the flatware belonging to the Association could be kept. It was felt that some member should be responsible for counting the silverware each time it was lent out for use by any organization of the church, and for that reason it was not wise to have it kept in the kitchen of the church basement, but that, for convenience in carrying, it should be stored within a comparatively short distance from the church. The parsonage was finally decided upon as the most suitable location providing this was agreeable to the minister's wife.

Garden Party

The matter of holding a garden party early in July was also fully discussed, Mrs. J. L. Byam having kindly offered the use of her home and grounds for the event, and on motion it was decided to carry through this out doors' gathering the exact date to be decided upon at a later meeting, when the necessary committees will also be appointed.

The April meeting will be held at the home of this quarter's president, Mrs. J. A. Brown, Tupper street, and following the benediction, the committee in charge adjourned to the dining room to arrange details for the afternoon tea to be served.

Receiving the guests at the door were Mrs. Challice and Mrs. Brown, while in charge of the tables in the dining room were: Mrs. Weston Fallis, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. Maud Hetherington, and Miss Burnham. Others who assisted with the tea included: Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. F. A. Kidd, Mrs. E. Thornton, Mrs. J. McKnight, who was convenor of the tea committee, and Miss May Duncan, who acted as cashier.

The large rooms of Mrs. Challice's home, with their bright outlook, were particularly suitable for an event of this kind, and among those contributing to the enjoyable musical program during the afternoon were Miss Estelle Hetherington who played a number of piano solos; Miss Beatrice Jones, whose reading, "A Toy Shop Romance," was particularly enjoyed, as was also the one given by Audrey Garside, "Curiosity," and by Gordon Jones, whose two selections were, "The Measles," and "My Mother's Only Boy." Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones was the accompanist for the readings, and Miss Beatrice Jones played piano solos, while piano duets were contributed by Bryar Edmunds and Mary Burnham.

Financially, as well as socially, the afternoon was a decided success, and it is probable the Association will include another similar event in its program of activities in the not too distant future. The hostess was warmly thanked for her generous hospitality, and Mrs. Challice's mother, who is a confirmed invalid and never able to leave her room, had a share in the social side of the gathering as a number of the guests visited her upstairs, and had time for a pleasant conversation either while waiting to be served in the tea room, or later in the afternoon before they left for their several homes.

Classes Inaugurated By Madoc Institute

MADOC, March 5 (Examiner Correspondence)—Madoc Women's Institute held their monthly meeting on Friday, at the home of Mrs. Chris Henderson with a good attendance, the president, Mrs. C. N. Whytock, presiding. After the opening exercises, correspondence was read, including thanks for cash sent for Red Cross relief. Mrs. Connor, chairman of relief, gave an excellent report of bales packed and sent during January to the very conservative value of $80.

Arrangements were made for the Demonstration-Lecture Classes in Food Values and Cookery, started last Monday, March 2, under the tuition of Miss E. Cameron, who has had charge of classes in Girls' Short Course during the winter.

After some discussion, it was decided to ask for the Demonstration-Lecture Course in Household Art for the coming year.

Some discussion regarding finances, led to several suggestions, and it is planned to hold a progressive euchre party during the week of March 9, for which Mrs. A. Kincaid kindly offered the use of her home, and the necessary committees were appointed.

Names were received for membership in the class. Roll call was answered by Aunt Het's sayings, provoking much laughter. Current events were reviewed very capably by Mrs. R. Wellman, after which Mrs. Kincaid gave a delightful vocal selection, "Don't yu cry, ma Honey," which was greatly appreciated. Mrs. S. S. Ashley then followed with a comprehensive review of the "Early Days in Madoc Township," which showed patient research and careful sifting of news items. This is the second paper that Mrs. Ashley has prepared, and will be a splendid addition to the Research Department of the Institute.

In order that the Library may suitably serve the public, more funds will be needed and it is hoped that the citizens who are not present subscribers will have their names placed on the list.

Presented with Purse

On Wednesday evening about fifty friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Joseph McConnell to bid her and her family farewell before leaving for their new home in Fleetwood. The evening was pleasantly spent in playing cards and when lunch was being prepared, Mrs. McConnell was called forward and presented with a beautiful purse containing a sum of money and the following address was read:

Dear Friends,—It is with sincere regret that we have learned of your removal from our midst.

We feel it would not be right or friendly to allow you to depart from us without the expression on our part of the loss we sustain but we are assured our loss shall be gain to others.

In whatever sphere of life you may be engaged you shall always have our sympathy and we trust where you are going you will find friends."

The address was signed on behalf of those gathered by Mildred Williamson and W. Brockley.

FAMILY HONORED FAREWELL PARTY

Presentation and Address Read Mr. and Mrs. Bert McCarroll of East Emily.

FARE MATTER CLEARED.

EAST EMILY, March 5 (Examiner Correspondence) — A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McCarrol on Friday evening when the members of St. James' Church along with neighbors gathered to bid farewell to Mr. McCarrol and family who are moving to Peterborough. Arnot Boate read the address and the presentation was made by Pierle Lowes.

The following is the address:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. McCarrol,—As you are soon to leave our community to take up your residence in Peterborough, we thought it our duty as well as our pleasure to offer you a slight token of our affection and regard.

During the many years we have lived here together you have proved yourselves of sterling worth to us as friends and neighbors. In all church and social activities we always had your earnest and unselfish support so it is with absolute truth and sincerity that we say we will miss you.

We hope you will like your new home and have every success in your new field of labor and that you will always keep a place in your memory for your friends in East Emily. What we offer you is a poor symbol of our feelings but we know you will receive it kindly as a simple indication of our attachment to you.

Please accept this purse and our earnest good wishes for future health, happiness and prosperity."

Mr. McCarrol replied, thanking his friends for their kindness after which everyone joined in singing, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, followed by the service of refreshments.

Matter Cleared

There was some misunderstanding with regard to the rate fare from McCague's Station to Peterborough, which was sixty-five cents. A number of residents talked the matter over and communicated with R. F. MacLeod, manager traffic and ticket bureau, of C.N.R., Montreal, who replied that he would look into the matter. A further communication was received on February 26, saying the correct railway fare from McCague's to Peterborough is 30 cents and one month's return trip, fifty-five cents.

WHY THE COMMON COLD IS DANGEROUS

I spoke recently about what was likely the oldest ailment known—rheumatism. If you were asked what was the commonest ailment, the one met with most frequently, you would say, the comon cold. This is true.

Now, although it is so common, and although most people now recognize the importance of taking care of a cold, nevertheless the actual cause of a cold, the organism that really causes the cold has been very difficult to locate. From time to time different organisms have been thought to be the cause, but further investigation has always proven that the real organisms has not yet been located, or isolated as it is called.

What has been discovered however, is that a person suffering with a cold can set up a cold in other people with whom he comes in contact.

Drs. G. S. Shibley, K. C. Mills, and A. R. Dochez, New York, have been studying the cause of the common cold for a number of years

They secured some young, healthy men, and after observing them for five days, and no colds appearing, they were given a thorough physical examination.

The washing from the nose of other individuals suffering from colds was injected in to the nose of nine of these olunteers. In four cases well-marked colds developed with red eyes, profuse discharge from the nose, inflammation of nose and throat, sneezing, coughing, some obstruction of the nose, and swelling of glands about the throat. The colds lasted about one week.

While this is interesting, the most important thing discovered was that colds actually stimulated other organisms that were lying harmlessly in nose and throat to great activity.

Now these other organisms are the ones that are associated with pneumonia, influenza, and other dangerous ailments, and it is these that may make the common cold one of the most dangerous enemies of mankind.

You will reember that overeating, underexercising, wearing too much clothing indoors, constipation and so forth, together with chilling of the body by dampness and cold, cause the "cold" organisms to become active

Remember the treatment of cold is to keep the intestine clear, and the body warm.

Remember also what may follow a neglected cold—pneumonia, influenza, pleurisy, tuberculosis.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

When referring to one who mends garments we do not refer to the person as a "healer of clothes" and yet that is the term that was used years and years ago.

• • • • • • •

But somehow that term indicates to us the excellence of the work which was raised to an art.

• • • • • • •

We don't consider mending an art, at least the majority of us don't. We try to do it to the best of our ability, which is in some cases, excellent, and in others not so good.

• • • • • • •

Years and years ago, the putting on of patches was an actual bit of artistry—there was no attempt to conceal the patches as is the case nowadays.

• • • • • • •

Instead of trying to conceal the patch it was made all the more conspicuous by lavish embroidery on the fabric and on the patch itself.

• • • • • • •

As you all know, the ancient peoples excelled in the craft of the needle. Their embroideries and inset piece work, their fine stitchery and appliques were accorded a place among the fine arts.

• • • • • • •

When the homemaker of today has to mend and patch, she may be consoled with the fact that this is a type of work that is very old and has ranked among the decorative crafts.

• • • • • • •

Recently I read of a lady having her frock mended while in France and the modiste told her it must not be made to look like a mended spot. Instead, she took great care to make it show.

• • • • • • •

She put in two patches, instead of one, in order that symmetry should be preserved. The idea of intentional use of the new pieces as part of the original design was remarkably carried out.

• • • • • • •

You, perhaps, are often puzzled to know just what to do when a sleeve wears out at the elbow, or the waist gets threadbare under the arms.

• • • • • • •

Then is the time to have the patches accented. Applique a band or some shaped patch on both elbows, or under both arms. Turn in all edges with care to make them regular.

• • • • • • •

Machine stitch these pieces down close to the edges. In sleeves cut away the textile beneath the patches and in the underarm mending also, unless the textile adds strength without bulk as is occasionally the case.

Dairying Increases Across Prairies

VANCOUVER, Mar. 5.—Increased attention being given to dairying on the prairies is revealed in the fact that butter supplies from the prairie provinces are almost meeting Western Canadian requirements.

Attention is drawn to this new condition by the relatively small imports of butter from Australia and New Zealand at the present time.

Vancouver dealers report that Alberta supplies are meeting requirements in Vancouver, and that most of the butter imported since November is still in storage. Under an agreement between the importers and the Canadian Government none of the Australian butter can be sold at a price below 32 cents a pound, and Alberta makes are being marketed just slightly under that figure.

LAST VOYAGE OF THE DOVE

Captain LeDrew Discusses Series of Misfortunes Encountered By Schooner.

NORTH ATLANTIC WATERS.

St. John's, Nfld., Mar. 5.—(By the Canadian Press)—A typical instance of the fortitude inherent in the men who ply North Atlantic waters in sailing vessels appears in the Daily News, in the form of a description of the little schooner Dove's last voyage. In the fall of 1921, bound from Halifax to Change Islands, Northern Newfoundland, with coal, the Dove survived one terrific pounding off St. Pierre, only to find her last resting place on the Fogo shore almost within sight of home.

The story of the Dove's voyage is narrated by Captain Leo LeDrew, but an editorial supplement points out that Captain LeDrew has failed to point out one incident. "During the last eight hours, when the sea was sweeping over the ship, and the captain had ordered the crew aloft for safety, he himself remained on the deck, andreeved his arms through the spokes of the wheel, held fast to it thus for eight whole hours while the seas broke over him continually. It would hardly be believed were it not for the testimony of the crew."

The Dove sailed from Twillingate with 1000 barrels of herring for Halifax, making the trip in twelve days with several calls enroute. On the return trip, 150 tons of coal were taken on at North Sydney. On the third day out "our deck cargo was washed away and we hove up under a double-reefed foresail, we lost the bulwarks and it got so bad that I decided to run before the gale, and try to get to land before our craft foundered, the night was dark and black with fog and we were running on a lee shore." Finally, on the following day, after the lifeboat had been smashed, the skylight washed from the cabin, and the log lost, land was sighted to port. It proved to be Harbor Buffett in Pacentia Bay, but the vessel was unable to make that port, though haven was found in Little Harbor East.

After repairing sail, obtaining a new log, and securing a new jumbo at St. John's, the other having been blown away, the Dove sailed for home.

"We passed in by Fogo Point where we met a blinding snowstorm and a hard gale of wind which smashed our sails, booms, and gaffs. What followed is beyond my power to describe for eight hours our little vessel, encumbered as she was by her heavy cargo, was like a breaking rock, and we were still aboard her unable to escape. After eight hours the storm abated somewhat and with the greatest difficulty we launched a dory which alone remained to us, and got to the shore, but the Dove found her last nest on Penny's Point near Fogo Island."

DANES BUILD APARTMENTS

Denmark has an apartment-building boom. In Copenhagen recently 4,144 apartments were under construction and 1,405 more were planned. Those under way consisted of 551 with one room, 1,589 with two, the others ranging in size to eight rooms. In Frederiksberg 643 apartments were being built at the time. Other cities report as great an interest.

WALES—LAND OF SONG

By P. T. MOSLEY.

March the first, was a day very dear to the Welsh people. It is the day dedicated to their patron saint, that great Welsh Bishop St. David. As the newly formed St. David's Society of Peterborough gathered for the first time to thus honour the Saint, it is fitting that something be written so that others can gain a better knowledge of the Principality.

Mor O Can is what Welshmen call their land.

Wales, that little known and seldom visited portion of Great Britain, as the acknowledged Land of Song. The name 'Mor O Gan" translated is "Land of Song," and if there were no other reasons to advertise the fame of the country, Welsh singing has established a reputation that is world-wide.

The country is a small one, the people are short in stature, the rivers, glens and mountains—with the exception of Snowdon, the highest in Great Britain, are smaller than are to be found elsewhere, yet as the summit of Snowdon lifts its head unto the skies, so does the music of the people lift up the name of Wales to the far corners of the earth.

Welsh people are natural singers. It is unnecessary to ask anybody from Wales "Do you sing?" the proper thing to ask is "Will you sing?"

Wherever there is a Welsh settlement there is song.

Wherever the Welsh troops were stationed during the war, it was a noticeable fact that their camp was alive with song.

Community singing is no novelty in Wales. It is an institution of great age and in no style of singing is the Welshman more at home than in singing hymns. There is something about he singing that is difficult to describe. It has the ring of the mountain, the mocking laughter of an April morn born to tears, the fragrance of the dew upon the rose, and the stimulus of old wine that goes to the head and knocks cold criticism clean over.

Welsh choirs do not always win the prizes at the great musical festival the National Eisteddfod, but they give the best music. At a recent Eisteddfod, it was a choir from the United States that took the prize. They had been training for months, thinking, working and living for one object, that of winning what is considered the greatest honour in the musical world, the chief choral prize of the Welsh National Eisteddfod. This particular choir certainly demonstrated the value of American efficiency even if the result was mechanical.

Hymns are Given First Place.

Hymn singing cannot be bettered anywhere and visitors to the "Land of Song" attending church for the first time hear with pleasant surprise he wonderful way the hymns are rendered.

It matters not what size the building be, it is the same in effect, perfect harmony and a correct observation of the rhythm. Probably the visitor would hear the announcement made that a new tune was to be sung to the words of a well-known hymn. This would be played over in the usual way and before the end of the first verse, all the congregation would be found singing it, in unison, yet perfectly correct. Before the end of the second verse it would be noticed that the unison had given place to four-part harmony, four distinct voices singing in time. More than likely, the organist is the only person in the building with a written copy yet such is the natural gift of harmony, that it would be found that one voice near the door would be singing exactly the same notes as a similar voice near the pulpit. Surely, a most priceless gift! Another memory the visitor cherishes is that of remaining a block away from a church and hearing the singing of the congregation being carried on the air, leaving the listener with a sense of something mystical.

George Borrow, the famous missioner and writer, named the country "Wild Wales" a fit description, yet it has a charm not easily forgotten.

Patti, the greatest singer of all time—of the Italian race, born in Spain, trained in America—was Welsh by choice. In South Wales, the district usually associated with coal, she built her beautiful home the castle of Craig-y-nos, the Rock of the Night, set amid the exquisite scenery of the Tawe valley, with delightful waterfalls, legendary fairy rings and caves. A spot where there is always wind or rain, beetling crag and the melody of tumbling waters and here Patti was happy. Wild Wales indeed, but divinely wild.

Welsh people have always been singers and the love of song is hereditary. Giraldus, the great Welsh historian of the 12th century, records how the ploughman of his day mitigated his labours with song, a custom that is still in practice. The Welsh have songs for war, songs for peace, songs for sorrow and songs for joy. Every phrase of Welsh life has a song fit for the occasion.

Welsh Language.

A standing joke of the Welsh people is to say that the language is the language of Paradise. It is certain that the Welsh people are gifted with the only language the angels are recorded as using, the language of song, also, the national instrument is a heavenly one, the harp. Certainly the tonal qualities are beautiful in the Welsh singing voice and it has been proved that the language has much to do with this. English-speaking people look upon Welsh as an unsurmountable, tongue-twisting language, whereas it is a most expressive one.

Singers have been recommended to practice the reciting of the Welsh alphabet in addition to their other daily exercises. To those who are not familiar with the formation of the alphabet, this seems a dreadful task the double consonants, dd, ff, ll, and etc., offering difficulties which are purely superficial, as the pronunciation is easily acquired. This may explain why so few of the outstanding Welsh singers have not found it necessary to be trained in Italy.

OLD DIVINING ROD LOSES ITS PLACE

Electrical Apparatus Made to Detect Type of Minerals Under Earth's Surface.

METHOD DESCRIBED.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 5—(C.P.)—Taking the place of the old divining rod, an electrical apparatus that determines the type of minerals lying under the earth's surface, was described to the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy to-day in a paper written by two brothers, C. and M. Schlumberger, and presented by E. G. Leoardon. In its general effect, the method consists of measuring the electrical conductivity of the rock formations, and from this determining the mineral characteristics of the area.

Ordinary rocks, the Institute convention was told, are capable of conducting electric current only by means of the water they contain. The most conductive rocks are sands and marls saturated with salt water. Between these and the sand-stones, which are the least conductive of all, there lies many classes of rock formations, all differing in the amount of electricity which may be passed through them. The method of determining the rock formation of an area, as described to the convention, was to place two ground wires in the soil and to pass through an electrical current, of a known intensity. By measuring the amount of current that has passed through the earth and comparing this with the intensity of the original current, it is possible to determine the resistivity of the ground. From this is deduced the rock formation lying below the surface.

Through the process, the convention was told, a resistivity map of a mining claim may be made to include all the rock formations to a considerable depth.

CANADA'S CONFEDERATION RAILWAY CELEBRATES JUBILEE

Plays Important Role in History of Dominion

Early Struggles Beget Inalienable Spirit of Faith and Determination and Building and Operation of System Unites Provinces from Sea to Sea.

Fifty years in the life of a corporation is a very definite and important period in its history, particularly when considered in relation to the development of a young and progressive country, in whose fabric it is an essential factor. Thus the Golden Jubilee of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company is more than a mere date in the organization's records. It is a national event; a milestone in the history of Canada.

On February 16, 1881, the company was incorporated by letters patent, with a capitalization of $25,000,000 and land-grants in the then practically unpopulated Prairies totalling 25,000,000 acres, to undertake the completion, within ten years, of the railroad from ocean to ocean, promised by the Government at the time of Confederation.

The first sod was cut on May 2, 1881; the last spike driven on November 7, 1885 and the first train from Montreal to the Pacific Coast left on the evening of June 28, 1886, arriving at Port Moody 5½ days later.

EPIC OF COURAGE

How the work was carried out, in half the allotted time, is an epic of courage, resourceful ness and faith in Canada, which must ever hold an honored place in the Dominion's story. Without the C. P. R., Confederation would have been impossible of achievement, for one of British Columbia's basic conditions, when agreeing to become part of the union, was that a railroad be built to make her membership in the great family real, as well as political.

Lord Mountstephen

The project, when the Canadian Pacific syndicate embarked on it, had already been unsuccessfully approached by the Government of Canada. The task was no easy one, for the wild countryside of Western Ontario, to the north of Lake Superior, and the towering Rocky Mountains presented natural barriers not to be lightly ignored..

Nor was this all. Opponents of the plan spared no effort to discredit it and found ready supporters. The North West Territories, with their great stretches on uninhabited country and the Ontario and Rocky Mountain obstacles already referred to, were used to the utmost. The undertaking was classed as "a mad scheme" and "Truth" told its readers that the road "would not pay for axle-grease."

But opposition by the forces of nature, or otherwise, meant nothing to the intrepid little band whose hearts were set on the attainment of the end—the railroad that was to serve all Canada.

As long as the Dominion endures, George Stephen, (later Lord Mountstephen); William Van Horne, (afterwards knighted); and Thomas Shaughnessy, (subsequently a knight and a baron); will have their niches in its hall of fame, for to them and to Donald Smith, (afterwards Lord Strathcona); R. B. Angus and J. J. Hill, it owes the great Canadian Pacific Railway Company of today.

Sir William Van Horne

STERN BATTLE

The building of the road, as may be readily imagined, was a long, stern battle. Money had to be found and properly spent. The men aforementioned found it, often with the greatest difficulty and indeed by sinking their joint and several resources in the venture. That it was properly administered is proved by the manner in which the work was driven to completion, five years ahead of time. Whether it was Stephen and his followers in the West, wherever the most difficult part of the work happened to be, or with Shaughnessy in the purchasing office in Montreal, each member of the combine spent his money, his time and the best of himself for the consummation of the scheme in which they all had such implicit faith.

Lord Shaughnessy

No need to give the actual building of the road more than passing mention here. It is part of the nation's history. Suffice to say that the great Ontario wilderness at the Great Lakes was beaten into submission for the building of the line along Superior's shore, at a per-mile cost rivalling the $500,000 expended on certain of the Rocky Mountain reaches, the steel unrolled across the Prairies, the Selkirk settlers found themselves once more in touch with the rest of the world and towns sprang up, phoenix-like, from the half-cold ashes of the camp-fires of the contractors.

Time after time, obstacles were overcome, financing arranged, men and machines set to do seemingly super-human tasks, yet failure played no part in the great enterprise. Dogged determination, based [illegible] through and the driving of the last spike at Craigellachie, fully described elsewhere in this page, crowned one of the greatest railroading tasks ever completed.

GROWTH WITH COUNTRY

It may be that the spirit of devotion to duty, of faith in an ideal, of the determination not to fail, which imbued the builders of the line in the early '80s, permeated its operation, when the trains began to run. Assuredly that same spirit is to be found in the very bones of the company's structure today.

In the years between, the Canadian Pacific has grown with Canada, and Canada with the Canadian Pacific. The road is, and has always been, just as necessary to the country as a back-bone, and its numerous branch-line developments and network of telegraph lines have contributed generously to its consolidation.

Three of the original group of pioneers were, successively, presidents of the railway: Lord Mountstephen; Sir William Van Horne and Lord Shaughnessy, through years in which the development of the system played as vital a part in the nation's career as did its construction. The great grain areas of the West; the rich mineral territories of British Columbia, Ontario and, more recently, of the Prairie Provinces were all brought into closer and more efficient touch with the great industrial centres and export ports. Following this development of interchange of products and commodities, it was only natural that the people of the various provinces should begin to have a better knowledge of each other and of one anothers' needs. This process of mutual knowledge has been developed to a marked degree, and still is being developed, largely through the system's instrumentality.

PRESENT DAY STATUS

Today, under the chairmanship and presidency of E. W. Beatty, K.C., the Canadian Pacific is the greatest transportation company in the world, with properties of two billion dollars value, and operating over 21,000 miles of line, of which more than 16,000 are in Canada.

Originally solely a railway, the corporation's interests today are widespread. It is the largest Canadian hotel company, with a chain of up-to-date hosteiries from the Maritimes to British Columbia. It is the second-largest mining company in the Dominion. It is a lake, river and coast steamship company. It is a telegraph company; a townsite and housing company; an irrigation company and it owns and operates experimental farms.

Its steamships are second to none on the Atlantic and Pacific. The "Empress of Japan", which entered the trans-Pacific service last summer, has established herself as the fastest and most comfortable ship running between the Orient and the American continent.

Next summer, the Atlantic will see the biggest and fastest ship plying between Empire ports in the new giant "Empress of Britain". The company also operates numerous cabin-class ships, which have become a tradition in the St. Lawrence trade and winter cruises.

It will therefore be appreciated that the claim of the company to an honored and important place in the Dominion's affairs is fully justified. Its ramifications extend to the ends of the earth, through countless agencies; its checker-board flag is known on the seven seas and its service as an ambassador of Canada to other lands is self-evident. At home, it is a very important national institution and, directly and indirectly, a great influence on the lives of the Canadian people.

VETERAN OF THEM ALL

Contribution to Canada's Treasury Stands at $334.44 Per Mile for 1929—Income Tax $25,471,197 From 1916 to 1929

When a corporation pays taxes totalling more than four times the amount of its original capitalization to the Dominion of Canada during 48 years of its activities, it is a very fair indicaton of the place that it holds in the nation's affairs.. And when that first capitalization was $25,000,000, the affair assumes even greater interest.. Such is the story of the tax-bill of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which paid $105,813,924 to the Government, from the time of its incorporation, on February 16, 1881, to December 31, 1929.

It will be readily seen, therefore, that the organization is not only an important factor in the country's life, as a transportation system, hotel, telegraph and express company and not merely a huge payroll for the people of Canada and the means of encouraging a host of allied industries, but also an outstanding source of revenue for the nation.

Even in a great and growing country, such a sum as the above is one which cannot be overlooked. It is a vast contribution to the public coffers from an institution which, in itself, both by name and performance, is essentially Canadian.

INCOME TAX

An interesting measure of the company's contributions may be taken through its Income Tax. When the Act came into force in 1916, the Canadian Pacific came under it in the same manner as all other organizations throughout the country, and from July 1 of that year until December 31, 1929, paid $25,471,197 to the Dominion Treasury, on that account alone.

Figures in themselves are apt to be uninteresting; just the expression of so much value or quantity. But taken as related to and in measurement of the wide extent of a concern's activities, they become eloquent indeed. Here we have an institution, whose very birth took place in fulfilment of the Canadian Government's promise at the time of Confederation. It serves the country from sea to sea, linking the peoples of the various provinces closer to each other, taking their goods to market, bringing visitors to their towns and countrysides. Yet it pays its way in the nation, to the tune of over $100,000,000, to be devoted by the Government to the [illegible] the Dominion as a whole.

Perhaps one of the most interesting figures available in regard to the tribute paid by Canada's Confederation Railway to Canada's Government is to be found by considering only the taxation paid solely in connection with rail operations.

For each mile of its gleaming steel highways, in the year 1929, the Canadian Pacific Railway paid $334.44 in taxation; a total of $5,089,082.

HAMMER-BLOWS ECHO ACROSS DOMINION

At the little mountain station of Craigellachie, B.C., on November 7, 1885, Donald A. Smith, later Lord Strathcona, drove the last spike in the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in the presence of a little knot of officials and workmen who had contributed to the construction of Canada's Confederation Railroad.

History Was Made at Driving of Last Spike of Road in 1885

THE driving of the last spike in building of the Canadian Pacific Railway across Canada remains one of the outstanding events, not only in the history of the road, but in that of the country. The ring of the hammer that day marked the beginning of a new era for Canada. It set a definite seal upon Canadian Confederation and turned it into an actual accomplished fact.

Photography has made permanent the memorable scene enacted at the little station of Craigellachie, British Columbia, on November 7, 1885, when Donald A. Smith, afterwards Lord Strathcona, in the presence of a little knot of officials and workmen, gathered in the morning mist, drove the final spike, completing the line of steel from Atlantic to Pacific.

"It was a quiet and serious group," says one who was present. "They stood as though stunned by the enormous significance of the event, and then someone gave a shout — perhaps it was the little water boy—and in a perfect frenzy cheering broke out again and again. The event might rightly be termed 'The Birth of a Nation.'"

Thus was completed a task for giants. None but men of tremendous vision and courage would have put their hands to it. A Dominion Government had tried and failed. Time and again the men who finally succeeded found themselves faced with failure and with it complete ruin. Time and again they staked their all and pledged their credit to the limit, in active opposition to those both in Canada and in Europe, who said that the line could never be built and that if it were it would run through unproductive barren lands and "never pay for its axle-grease."

And ever since that memorable day, the traffic over the steel highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific has increased steadily; British Columbia fruit has become well-known on Eastern markets; Ontario manufactures have found their way through the Rocky Mountains and across the seas through the ever-growing port of Vancouver and the peoples of the various provinces of the great Confederation have become more and more conscious of one another till the nucleus of a great nation has been formed.

Those largely responsible for the completion of the truly heroic task which made these things possible have, many of them, found eternal recompense, but their work is being pursued with the same sane and courageous spirit which they inculcated into the very foundations of the great structure which they sponsored.

GIANT LOCOMOTIVE CONQUERS ROCKIES

Motive Power Marvel Revolutionizes Traffic Through Mountains

Designed for heavy duty through the Rocky Mountains, where a fleet of 20 is now doing the work of 40 or more lighter engines, the Canadian Pacific Railway's "5900" locomotive, as it is popularly called, stands out in modern transportation history as an achievement in motive power.

Technically known as the 2-10-4 type, with two wheels on the leading truck, ten 63-inch drivdriving wheels and four wheels on the trailing truck, the engine has cylinders 25½ inches in diameter and possesses a tractive effort of 77,200 lbs. The tender has a capacity of 12,000 Imperial gallons of water and 4,500 gallons of oil. The boiler, which is of nickel steel and designed to withstand a pressure of 280 lbs., contains over two miles of piping. Engine and tender measure 98 feet over all and weigh 750,000 lbs.

USES "BOOSTER"

A feature of the machine is the "booster," which furnishes extra power for getting a heavy load into motion and developing speed up to 12 miles an hour, after which it ceases to function. This is a separate power unit and acts on the wheels of the trailing truck of the engine.

The "5900" is 80 times heavier than Stephenson's "Rocket," develops 4,200 horse-power, or about 85 times that of the "Rocket" and coats about 45 times as much.

The accompanying picture shows one of these monsters. It will be noted that the size of the boiler is so great that the cowl on the smokestack has to be folded back to allow the locomotive's passage through tunnels.

It is interesting to compare this great locomotive with the Canadian Pacific's first engine, the "Countess of Dufferin," which is pictured elsewhere on this page.

But this is not all. A locomotive is now building in the Angus Shops, Montreal, under guidance of the company's experts, which is designed to give a tractive effort of 83,200 lbs.

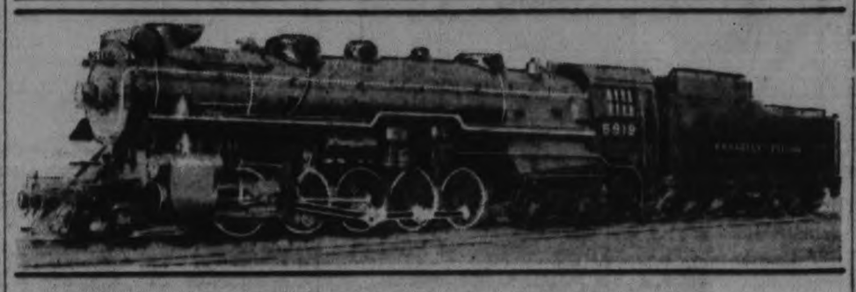
BIGGER STILL

This new engine, in which Canadian materials will be used, with the sole exception of materials not procurable from Canadian manufacturers, will weigh 466,500 lbs. without tender. With the tender, the weight will be 764,000 lbs. or 14,000 lbs. heavier than the "5900."

Steam will be used in the cylinder of the new giant at 830 lbs. pressure. The locomotive will operate under multiple pressure, through a new superheated steam process, power being developed through three cylinders, the centre, high pressure, one being 15½ inches in diameter by 28 inch stroke and the two outer, or low pressure cylinders 24 inches in diameter by 30 inch stroke.

The tender will have an oil fuel capacity of 4,100 Imperial gallons and a water capacity of 12,000 gallons.

"5900" LOCOMOTIVE IS EMBODIMENT OF POWER



The great locomotive shown above is one of a fleet of 20 now in service through the Rocky Mountains, where their enormous tractive power has revolutionized traffic conditions. Note the turned back cowl on the smokestack. This is necessary to allow passage of the monster of the rails through tunnels.

MAINTAINS CHAIN OF MODERN HOTELS

Great Hostelries Are in All Important Centres

BUNGALOW CAMPS

Visitors Find Excellent Quarters Amid Beautiful Surroundings

As the measurement of a journey in the good old coaching-days was calculated by the inns where "good accommodation" was a fact as well as a precept, so to-day, when iron-horses course along steel highways, it is fitting that their stopping-places should be provided with first class hotels.

Just such a policy has been developed by the Canadian Pacific Railway the largest hotel-company in the Dominion of Canada, in its great chain of hotels from Atlantic to Pacific, aligned to the high standard of efficiency and service characteristic of every branch and department of the world's greatest transportation system.

COAST TO COAST

The Empress, in Victoria, the Vancouver, in Vancouver, and the Chateau Frontenac, in Quebec, all offer the traveller from the company's great fleets the same standards of hospitality.

In Toronto, the British Empire's largest hotel, the Royal York, is the last word in accommodation for the travelling public, while the Royal Alexandra, in Winnipeg, the Saskatchewan, in Regina, and the Palliser, in Calgary, each stand for the heart of social activity in their respective territories.

Canada's Rocky Mountains have become the Mecca of thousands of visitors, annually, through the Banff Springs Hotel, at Banff, and the Chateau Lake Louise.

VAST CHAIN

In the Maritime Provinces, The Algonquin, at St. Andrew's-by-the-Sea, has long been famous as a resort for golfers from all over the continent; the Pines, at Digby, N.S., also has a fine new golf course, while the new Cornwallis Inn, opened last autumn at Kentville, N.S., is being followed by the Lakeside Inn, at Yarmouth, as the most recent member of an important family.

The Lord Nelson, at Halifax, the Admiral Beatty, at Saint John, and, in Montreal, the Place Viger, are all established stopping-places for Canadians and visitors from other countries.

In addition to its great hotel system, the Canadian Pacific Railway accommodates thousands of guests each summer in various bungalow camps throughout Canada. These settlements have become very popular as summer resorts, wherever they are found. They offer a delightful combination of "getting back to nature", coupled with modern comforts and special facilities for hunting and fishing.

COMPANY CONDUCTS VARIED ACTIVITIES

THOUGH primarily a railway company, the world's greatest transportation system comprises many widespread activities. The Canadian Pacific Railway is the second-largest mining company in Canada; the largest hotel company; an express company; a telegraph company, which also handles radio-broadcast distributions; a townsite and housing company; an irrigation company and it also owns and operates its own experimental farms. Its steamships are second to none on the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and also in world-cruise and other cruise services and its flag is known throughout the seven seas.

Agencies throughout the world constitute not only representation for the company but also for Canada, in whose life the corporation is a very important factor.

EXPRESS COMPANY USES AIR SERVICES

Combines Planes With Railway —European Passenger Bookings

TRUE to its policy of developing and maintaining the most up-to-date methods, the Canadian Pacific Express Company, itself part of the world's greatest transportation system has been fully alive to the use of the airplane, both as an independent unit and also in connection with the trains and steamships of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

To-day air express is in common use throughout Eastern Canada and also in the Prairie Provinces. In the East, the service runs between Windsor, London, Hamilton, Toronto, and Ottawa in the Province of Ontario, and thence to Montreal for Quebec and Rimouski, in the Province of Quebec, to connect with incoming and outgoing liners.

In Western Canada, daily air express service is in operation between Winnipeg and Calgary, via Regina, Moose Jaw and Medicine Hat, and also between Regina and Edmonton, via Saskatoon and North Battleford.

The Canadian Pacific Express Company, with a highly organized "ground service," not only in Canada from coast to coast, but also in Europe and in the Orient, is in an excellent position to take the fullest advantage of air service.

Thus 16 European air lines are.. now linked with the Company, and parcels may be routed from Canada to London and relayed thence to practically any country on the continent by air express.

In addition to this the Canadian Pacific Express Company acts as passenger agent for the various air lines, and passengers can book air tickets at its London and Paris offices, or hire air taxis for private trips in Europe.

1930 WIRE FIGURES SHOW GROWTH OF COMMUNICATIONS

Telegraph and Cable Traffic Assumes Huge Proportions

RADIO BROADCASTS

Concert Transmission Important Feature of Company's Service

Modern communication methods, as interpreted by telegraph, cable and radio-broadcast, form an important part of the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to the public of Canada and other countries, and have been steadily developed to keep abreast of the requirements of the day.

In 1930, through 1,642 offices in Canada, 5,761,694 messages were sent and 5,512,446 received, exclusive of service messages in connection with the company's operations. Cables sent totalled 340,408 and cables received 313,854. The total wire mileage, including carrier system, was 234,404 miles. The pole mileage was 17,718 miles, or a total of 708,720 poles.

It is interesting to note that while the number of telegrams quoted above is the number actually handled, the average relay on a message is 5½; therefore the true total of "operations" would be 31,524,317 for telegrams sent, and 30,318,453 for those received. The total personnel of the Telegraph Department is 2,681 officers and employees.

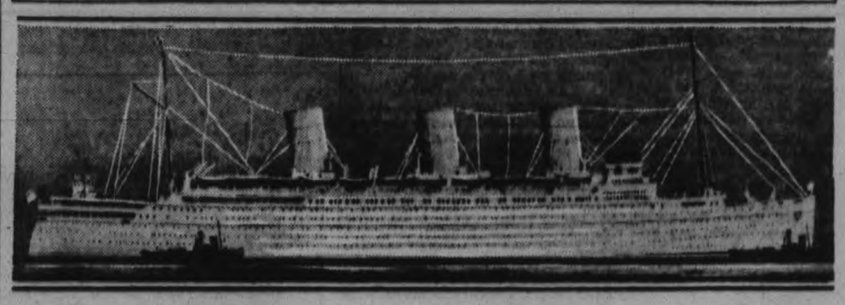
Train telephones are operated over 8,965 miles of the company's wire and this arrangement enables any train crew to make immediate connection with the train dispatcher at any time, by means of portable equipment carried on trains.

RADIO PROGRAMS.

Outstanding among the accomplishments of the year which has just closed is the installation of the radio program transmission system, covering the Dominion from Halifax to Vancouver, comprising a total of 37 repeater stations, serving a chain of 21 broadcast stations, which bring to the public the programs originated by the company through its various troupes of artists, outstanding among which are "The Musical Cruisaders" and "Melody Mike's Music Shop."

Growth of the telegraph system, keeping pace at all times both with the needs of the railway and of the public, has been something of a phenomenon, when it is realized that the year 1887 saw only 435 offices in operation, handling a total of 567,480 messages, as against the astounding figures for the year 1930.

NEW QUEEN OF "WHITE EMPRESSES"



The new 42,500-ton "Empress of Britain", of which a scale model is shown above, due to enter the St. Lawrence route service this spring, will be the last word in travel comfort, as well as speed, and is expected to be a strong contender for the pennant of the trans-Atlantic run against the giant ships in the New York trade.

Checker-Board House Flag Well Known on Seven Seas

White Empresses Lead Great Fleet, Serving Atlantic and Pacific Oceans and operating Numerous Cruise Services.

Rapid though the growth of the Dominion of Canada has been an even more rapid development from small beginnings is shown by a study of the great ocean fleet of the Canadian Pacific Steamships. This line, now accredited leader in vessels of 10,000 tons and upwards on the Atlantic and Pacific, with a tonnage today of 427,028 is 2500 — 2526 to be exact — times the size of the nucleus of its fleet, the brig "Jean", in 1819.

Old records show that 112 years ago an advertisement in the Glasgow papers announced that the brig "Jean", Alexander Allan, master, would sail for Quebec. This was the start of the Allan Line which was later absorbed by the Canadian Pacific. Still another comparison may be drawn. The "Jean" was 76 feet long, had a beam of 22 feet and her tonnage was 169. Her youngest sister, the "Empress of Britain"—due to enter service May 27, has a tonnage of 42,500.

Led by the "Empress of Britain" the Atlantic fleet consists of 18 vessels. Three of these are de luxe vessels sailing between Quebec, Cherbourg and Southampton known as the Empresses of Britain, Australia and France. Next comes a quartette of ultra-modern cabin class ships, the "Duchess" class.

With a tonnage of 20,000 gross register, the Duchesses are the largest and fastest vessels to trade between Liverpool, Glasgow and Montreal. They are 600 feet long, 75 feet wide. In service to Montreal, Southampton and continental ports is a trio of "Mont" ships, the "Montcalm", "Montclare" and "Montrose", popular ships that have earned high praise. Glasgow and Liverpool are served by the "Melita" and "Minnedosa". Five fast freighters of the "Beaver" type complete the Atlantic fleet. These freighters are 10,000-ton, 15-knot ships that frequently equal the speed of smaller passenger liners on the St. Lawrence service. They lack, however, the speed of Canadian Pacific passenger liners, although they hold all records for freight speed.

On the Pacific as on the St. Lawrence service, Canadian Pacific vessels have captured all speed records. Serving Honolulu, Japan, China and the Philippines from Vancouver and Victoria a fortnightly service is maintained by four Empresses, the "Empress of Japan", largest, fastest and newest liner on the Pacific and the Empresses of Canada, Asia and Russia.

Cruises are operated during the winter months around the world, to the West Indies, two from New York and one from England, to the Mediterranean, and to the Isles of the Blest from England, and the "Duchess of York" maintains a weekly service from New York to Hamilton, Bermuda. Only Empresses and Duchesses are employed in the cruise services.

Records of trans-Atlantic traffic during 1930 by all lines showed that the Canadian Pacific carried more passengers than the combined carryings of all other lines.

"EMPRESS OF BRITAIN" HAS MANY FEATURES

THE new "Empress of Britain", the largest ship built in Great Britain since the war and the largest trading between Empire ports, has a number of special features for the comfort and accommodation of her passengers. She is the only ship on the seven seas which has a squash-rackets court; she also has a full-sized tennis court and her public rooms, in addition to their decoration by outstanding British artists, will all bear distinctive names. The dining room will be known as the "Salle Jacques Cartier", the ball room as the "Empress Room" and the already-famous Heath Robinson cocktail-bar as the "Knickerbocker Bar". Her advent into the Canadian trade on May 27 will be an epoch-marking event and her speed something of a revelation, both to her passengers and to the shipping world generally.

Stirling Evens T.V.L. Title Series With Madoc

RED SHIRTS WIN SECOND TANGLE BY 3 TO 1 COUNT

Teams Give Brilliant Display of Hockey, Winners Score in First and Second.

MUCH BACK-CHECKING.

Third Game of Series Will Be Played on Monday Nght in in Belleville.

(Special to The Examiner)

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Mar. 4.—Stirling Red Shirts evened the series. At one game each with Madoc hockey last night by defeating the northern aggregation 3—1, the periods being 1-0, 2-0. The third and deciding game will be played on Monday night in Belleville arena and special trains will be run from both Campbellford and Madoc. The game last night was attended by the largest crowd of the season over, 2,000 seeing a contest that bristled with fine defensive hockey, keen combination efforts, deadly shooting and paprika enough to satisfy the most blood thirsty fan. Stirling displayed more finish in practically all departments although it can be said that the red shirted clan were lucky to win. Hullin in the Madoc net did not by many leagues turn in the game he exhibited the last time out and two fluke goals were registered against him. One he dragged into his own net, the other bouncing over his stick into the twine.

The game was fast from start to finish Stirling being more aggressive. In one department they excelled, that being back checking. They were consistent and persistent in this catebory. Madoc on the other hand lacked coherson most of their thrusts being of the individual variety. They roamed from their positions on the front line and the defense was called upon the work overtime and did it nobly. Norm Johnson was the shining light for the losers with Andrews a close second, Lheureux was outplayed in centre ice by Davis.

Morton saved his team time and time again with brilliant saves, the one that beat him being an impossible shot to get to. The Little brothers played well with Davis, breaking up many plays in centre ice. Ingram was undoubtedly the hero of the game with his two goals. He was a threat both going and coming.

First Period.

From the face-off Stirling forced the play, but Andrews made a rush and tested Morton, and Henderson and L'Heureux combined to test him with another. Stirling was checking better in centre ice, but did not have the punch. Johnson drew a penalty for kicking an opponent's stick, but Stirling could not press home their advantage. Morton made two perfect saves in succession. McGuire followed for a trip, but Stirling could not make any headway against Madoc's defence. Andrews drew a rest for giving "Deb" Little the knee. In a scramble in front of the Madoc cage, the rubber was neatly cleared, but in another drive "Ty" Little poked one in after Davis had forced Hulin to his knees. Fifteen minutes of the period had elapsed and Madoc was playing short-handed when the boot heel was sunk. L'Heureux brought Madoc supporters to their feet with a solo rush. Davis was sent to the "cooler" for hooking. The torrid pace slowed down and only a few dangerous rushes were seen, the play being confined to centre ice for the last few minutes of the period.

Beatty at the opening of the period saved a sure goal against Stirling when he threw his stick, when Andrewws was inside, and got three minutes. Davis followed him to the "hoosegow" for tripping and Madoc rammed home their advantage. Stirling resorted to the old Spanish custom of shooting the length of the ice to relieve the pressure. Both erring players returned without damage being done. Madoc missed their own big chance. L'Heureux followed through on a Johnson rush and Morton made a perfect save. The game became rougher, high stick, elbowing, and butt ends being frequent. McGuire went inot the cooler, and Ingram followed soon after. Johnson was handed a perfect pass by Andrews and muffed the open net. Henderson was benched for boarding Little. Ingram rushed through centre and drifted a long one. Hulin got his hand on the disc but failed to hold it and the gypsum dropped over the line. Nearly fifteen minutes had elapsed. The goa ooked like a soft one. McGuire was benched for throwing Little over his knee. With the two-goal lead, Stirling laid back on the deefnce waiting for the breaks, and Madoc was continually carrying the play.

Third Period

The teams did not go as fast at the opening as in the other frames, both waiting for the breaks. Madoc had what little advantage there was by carrying the play in nice combination efforts, but Stirling set up a rugged defense with consistent back-checking. The ice became sticky and the rubber was hard to control and Stirling nearly secured when the gypsum just bounced over the nets. Madoc came back in the running when Andrews handed Johnson a perfect pass outside the defense, and he went in close to give Morton no chance. It was easily the prettiest goal of the night.

The time was just five minutes. Davis was benched for tripping, Madoc pressed home their attack. Ackers was hurt in a scramble, but continued. Little drew a rest for tripping. Davis broke away and missed an open net. Madoc had the best of the play. Ingram clinched the pastime, when he rounded the defense on a solo effort and drove a wicked one at Hulin. He tried to make the save with his stick but it bounced over the hickery into the hemp. Madoc moved the full team up, but Stirling simply protected their lead.

Line-ups:—

HAMILTON WINS SENIOR HONORS

Port Colborne Fails to Hold One Goal Lead—Tigers Win Second Game 4-2.

BRILLIANT DISPLAY.

HAMILTON, March 5.—Hamilton Tigers, Allan Cup semi-finalists of last season, captured the O.H.A. senior championship here last night when they defeated Port Colborne by a score of 4 to 2 to win the round and championship by a single goal.

It was the best thrill-producer witnessed here this season, and productive of enough clever hockey to keep more than five thousand fans in a state of excitement for almost the netire sixty minutes of play. Just eight minutes before the game ended Morrill beat Marsh with Port Colborne's second goal of the night, and that counter left them one up on the round. Hamilton applied the pressure, and with five minutes of playing time left McGowan, centre ice player for Hamilton, and the outstanding player of last night's contest, worked his way past the Port Colborne defense and lifted the puck high into the corner of the net to put Hamilton even on the round.

An Enthusiastic Crowd

The goal sent the Hamilton crowd into high glee and it required several minutes to clear the ice of hats, programs and coppers. Port Colborne went on the attack and gave Marsh some hard shots to handle, but with only twelve seconds of playing time left, Shannon got a penalty for cross checking Farrell and while he was in the penalty bench, Hamilton made a three-man attack that resulted in the winning goal. Hayhoe secured the rubber near his own net, carried it to centre and then passed to McGowan, who skated in close to the Port Colborne defense before slipping the rubber to Louch, who tallied.

It was a grand finish to oen of the most exciting hockey games witnessed here this season. With the lead changing hands on no fewer than three occasions, the fans found plenty to enthuse over.

OWEN SOUND EARNS LEAD OF TWO GOALS

West Toronto Juniors Beaten 3-1—First Game of Semi-finals.

OWEN SOUND, March 5.—Judging from the play here last evening, when the Owen Sound Greys and West Toronto met in the first game of the semi-finals, it would appear that the Owen Sound juniors, twice winners of the Dominion championship, will meet the Niagara Falls Cataracts for the 1931 O.H.A. junior championship.

The Greys attained a two-goal lead here last night when they downed the West Torontoites by a 3 to 1 score, a lead which has often been overcome in the past. But, from the play, that lead should have been much more than two goals, while the West Toronto lone counter could be largely attributed to luck, the puck bouncing off a Grey man's skate after a shot from out of the corner, with a West Toronto man, Hearn, getting n the final poke.

Belleville Eliminated By R.M.C. Cage Team 35-21

BELLEVILLE, March 5.—Belleville Y's men, local entry in the intermediate basketball were eliminated by Royal Military College of Kingston 35 to 21. The first game played in Kingston was also won by the Cadets by three points, which gives them a margin of 17 points on the round. The visitors played a perfect defensive game, opening up the play only when Belleville seemed to lag. Ward was the big scorer of the game, netting no less than twelve points. Kalkner, with nine points, led the local quintet. It was thought that the small floor would handicap the Soldiers, but they soon became accustomed to the conditions and simple swept the Belleville squad off their feet in the second half.

Promoters Disappointed As Cash Customers Fail To Crowd Box Office For Battle of Cracked Rib

MIAMI, Fla., March 5. (Associated Press).—To the somewhat fantastic fistic history of this famous winter playground, the boys were prepared to aid the 10-round battle of the cracked rib to-night, featuring the ponderous puncher from Italy, Primo Carnera, and the Irishman from Boston, Jimmy Maloney.

Miami and its ocean front neighbor, Miami Beach, have known the peak of boxing's boom days, where two years ago the Stribling-Sharkey bout drew over $400,000. The downward slide since then has been marked by the Sharkey-Scott fiasco, a losing venture of 1930, and the financial distress attending the Walker-Risko show a week ago.

For various reasons, despite his prominence as a gate attraction everywhere he has been on display, Primo Carnera's return joust with Maloney has failed to stimulate either the local fistic pulse or the cash customers from elsewhere. It was not until a week ago, in fact, that attempts to call off the show, following the development of Carnera's fractured rib, were abandoned.

Under such circumstances, Promoter Frank J. Bruen found the ballyhoo and the build-up difficult, despite the aid of a seasoned metropolitan staff. He continued optimistic to-day, even in the face of a disappointing advance sale, in the hope he might at least break even. The chances, however, were decidedly against it, with no last-day rush for the box offices in sight.

OLD ENGLAND SUPREME IN SPEED

In giving the record books the once over I find the fastest time travelled on land, sea and air have been made by Britishers. The latest record is, of course, that of Captain Malcolm Campbell in his new racing car that set up the new mark of 245.730 m.p.h., which bettered the time made by the late Sir Henry Seagrave of 231.36 miles per hour, about four miles to the minute. In the air the official record was made in the Schneider Cup races in 1929, by Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar, who attained a maximum speed of 357.725 miles per hour, and confident predictions are made that the British will hit 390 miles per hour this year in the Schneider Cup races. The United States have failed to enter. Segrave held two world's records—that by automobile, averaging a mile in 15.56 seconds and by motorboat, at 99 miles per hour, at a mile in 36⅕ seconds. He was killed doing this. Fastest miles yet travelled by any human being on any of their transporation means are as follows:

The method, the time and the performer:

Seaplane, .19.2, Orlebar.
Automobile, .15.42, Campbell.
Motorcycle, .26.38, E. Henne.
Motorboat, .36.28, Miss America VII
Motorboat (outboard) 1.10.58, Pregenzer.
Bicycle, 1.04.2, Bedell.
Horse, run, 1.38.4, "Roamer."
Horse, pace, 1.55, "Dan Patch."
Horse, trot, 1.56.75, 'Peter Manning'.
Ice skating, 2.27 1-5, F. Dix.
Running, 4.10.4, Nurmi.
Walking, 6.25.8, Goulding.
Swimming, 21.43.3, Brog.

STRATFORD TIES GUELPH FOR LEAD

Nationals Beat Terriers 2-1 While Pats Hold Leafs to Tie.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 5.—(By the Canadian Press.) — By nosing out Galt Terriers, 2 to 1, while the Guelph Maple Leafs were being held to a 4-all overtime tie by the last place Oshawa aPts, Stratford Nationals secured a tie with the league leaders in the Ontario Hockey League standing last night.

Niagara Falls als otook advantage of the Guelph tie to down Kitchener Silverwoods, 4 to 0, and move up into second place, one point behind the pace makers.

ONE UNBEATEN RINK IS LEFT

R. J. Gourlay's Winnipeg Strathconas Have Won Five Straight Matches.

LEADS SASKATCHEWAN.

TORONTO, Ont. March 5. (CP)—Eastern exponents of the draw shot appear destined to fall once again before the Western Canada fast runner artists in the fifth annual Canadian single rink curling championship here.

Only once has the title and the accompanying MacDonald Brier tankard been won by an Eastern Canada four and with R. J. Gourlay's Winnipeg Strathconas leading by a one game margin over the Saskatchewan rink Eastern curling enthusiasts have just about given up hope of bringing the championship back this year.

The Strathconas have won five straight matches and are the only undefeated four. Three games are on to-day's schedule and Gourlay's men are favored to breeze through to a triple triumph.

This morning the Winnipeg representatives faced J. Nicholson's Northern Ontario champions, who have won two and lost three games. This afternoon Gourlay's sweepers clash with Nova Scotia, who have lost three and won two matches. The evening draw brings Manitoba's famous cupless champions up against the Montreal Four.

Other games this morning are Toronto vs. Quebec, Saskatchewan vs. Montreal, Nova Scotia vs. Ontario and New Brunswick vs. Alberta.

Three extra end games and numerous one shot victories marked yesterday's fine curling display. The Western rinks figured in two of the extra-end tilts. Gourlay's men nosed out S. Meredith's Toronto four in an exciting game which went an extra end before the Manitoba champions won, 11 to 10. New Brunswick's representatives put up a great battle against the Saskatchewan four in another 13-end game before losing out 9 to 8.

CLUBMEN BLANK COMBINES 1-0 IN FIRST GAME FOR RIGHT TO MEET LAKEFIELD IN CUP TILT

Indians Have Chance To Annex 2nd Place

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 5.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Cleveland Indians, who have been winning with great reguarity since the International Hockey League race approached the final stages, have a splendid chance to annex the second place honors when they meet the lowly Detroit Olympics in to-night's only scheduled game.

Even when the Olympics were at their strongest earlier in the season they were no real match for the present titleholders who have been fighting an uphill battle since the start. The Indians are tied with Windsor Bulldogs for second place, but a win or tie will edge them in front.

Eddie Williams Scores Lone Marker Midway Through Second Period.

SOFT ICE HINDERS PLAY.

Visitors Make Better Showing Against Homesters in Second and Third Frames.

Cognawagas have a one-goal lead to carry into the second game of the East Peterborough League's semi-final series at Norwood to-morrow night. That single counter was the whole fruit of the battle staged at the Brock street arena last night, the Cogs scoring the only goal of the scuffle on soft ice to defeat Alex Kempt's collection of ice competitors 1 to 0.

Even those who have not followed the doings in the E.P.L. all season admit that it is a slim margin on which to pin any certain hopes that the Cogs will dispose of their eastern rivals and be the team to clash with Lakefield for the silverware and the league championship. While the city outfit opened up the bigger share of the scoring chances last night it was a tidy and active affair and gave sure promise that on better ice the teams will give a smart display.

The lone marker came halg way through the second period. Eddie Williams, fleet-footed defence man, did the trick. It was on a play typical of the whole contest. Snarling the rubber near his own goal, Williams pushed it along the soft ice, over and under several grappling sticks, and then with a golf-stroke of the old hickory whammed it past the sprawling goalie.

Despite the poor state of the ice the players rode into the affray as though a big bank-roll was at stake. National leaguers couldn't have given a better account of themselves under similar conditions.

Cogs had a market edge in the first stampede. Wright opened it with a winged-shot on Foley's cage. Minutes flagged by with the teams juggling the puck around centre ice. Then Cogs opened an offensive that kept play in Norwood's area. Williams carried the rubber down and slipped a pass in front of the hemp but Cripps couldn't ease it. Dallin gave Jarvis two beautiful passes right on the door mat but the shots were off the mark.

McLaughlin and Ware opened some nice chances with Ware's smart marksmanship from the right boards forcing Foley to show his stuff.

Tide Changes In Second

The tide changed when the second stanza opened and with Norwood combining better on the offensive they had the better of the going. Wright, Brennan and McLaughlin burst through for several close heaves at Foley. When Cogs did work the rubber down to the other end they tore in behind the blue line and staged hot attacks from that vantage point, Halfway through William did his act.

The Combines were on the defensive most of the final period, although Wright, McLaughlin and Ware did carry the rubber down for shots that several times threatened to shake the hemp. The Cogs maintained a steady pressure and missed some hard-earned chances. Cripps tore in on one of Williams' rebounds but Beavis got his foot on the second shot. Cripps later was right in front of the nets he fell. Williams sunk the puck in when he picked it up from Cripps but it was offside by something less than a foot. Later Cripp tossed the rubber in on a close play right on Beavis' door mat.

Well-Played Game

Considering ice conditions it was a well-played and hard-fought game and was clear of rough play, there being but five penalties.

Ware and McLaughlin were best for the Combines. The Port Hope player was tricky all through and he with Wright packed nice shots.

The Cogs sub-line of Jarvis, Dallin and Rooke were every bit as good as the regular forwards. Both were unfortunate in losing opportunities. Williams and Lebarr did considerable rushing with the former doing some speedy action.

Both goalies were good, Foley being called upon on well-aimed shots and Beavis having to handle many tricky close-in pots.

The teams:

Cognawagas—Goal, Foley; defence, Lebarr and Williams; centre, Maudsley; wings, Cripps and Jones; alternates, Dallin, Jarvis and Rooke.

Norwood Combines—Goal, Beavis; defence, McLaughlin and Shannon; centre, R. Wright; wings, Ware and Brennan; alternates, Hill, Jacks, Stevenson and Voyer.

Referee—Max Board.

Summary:

First Period.

No score.

Second Period.

1. Cognawagas—Williams, 11 mins.

Third Period.

No socre.

Penalties— Cognawagas: Lebarr; Combines: Shannon 2, McLaughlin 2.

LEAFS TO MEET MUNROMEN FOR SIXTH TANGLE

Maroons and New York Americans Continue Battle for Third Place.

SMYTHES FAVORED TO WIN.

Gerard's Amazing Amerks Face Difficult Task in Subduing Speedy Hawks.

(By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 5—Resumption of the feud for third place in the Canadian group of the National hockey hockey league features to-night's three game program.

The teams striving so mightily to edge into this coveted position Montreal Maroons and New York Americans—are faced with a difficult task on foreign ice. The Maroons journey to Toronto where they clinch with the Leafs for the sixth and final time in the regular schedule.

Results of the previous five tilts indicate the Montrealers will have to be at their best to down the Duncanites who have beaten them thrice, tied once and lost once.

While the Munromen have been showing improvement in recent games they will be facing an even stronger Toronto squad than formerly. The Leafs have signed up two promising amateurs, Alex Levinsky, husky defenceman and Bob Gracie, flashy forward. The latter notched two goals in his professional debut at Philadelphia on Tuesday, although press despatches credited him with only one.

Eddie Gerard's Amazing Amerks are confronted by an equally difficult task at Chicago. Speed artists like the Chicagoans have little difficulty as a rule in triumphing over the defensive playing Gothamites.

A victory for the Americans will give them a three point margin in the race for the last play-off berth providing, of course the Maroons lose. Should both the third place aspirants win they will advance uncomfortably close to the second place Torontonians who at present hold a five point lead over the A's.

New York Rangers are striking a tough section of the schedule these days. After losing to their nemesis the Boston Bruins Tuesday they encounter the Montreal Canadiens in the Forum tonight.

The Flying Leaders of the Canadian section have beaten the New York blue shirts twice in three games this season by one goal margins. The Montrealers suffered one of their most humiliating defeats at the hands of the Rangers in their second meeting and have been seeking revenge ever since.

Lester Patrick's hockeyists hold a three point lead over Detroit Falcons for third place in the American section but as the motor magnates are idle tonight's game leaves the blue shirts with only four remaining fixtures while the Falcons have six. Therefore victory is almost imperative as far as the Rangers are concerned. The two points will also boost them to within one point of the second place Chicago Blackhawks should the Windy City representatives meet defeat.

Bowling Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

The ten-pi game seems to be making a strong bid for a substantial comeback despite the scoffing of a lot of would-be prophets who declare the big ball game will never make any headway against the popular five-pin sport locally. Plenty of whoopee was made this week when the eight teams in the City League mowed the maple in their regular weekly battles.

The Greenhorns were right on edge and smoked up the alleys in a heavy set-to with the Rubes who absorbed the small end of an 8-0 decision, and although neither team turned in any startling scores, the winners had a noticeable edge. Fred Reed was high with 195-496.

Vince Anthony's Bowlrites stepped along to a 6-2 win over the Brinton Carpet in a rather closely contested affair. Tommy Holyman led the parade with 206-557 for the Bowlrites with D. Galbraith, his team-mate, right at his heels with 198-548. L. Anderson kept the Carpet makers in the fray with 171-436.

The Jokes turned in a nice card against Gimblett's formidable Has-Beens, taking 8 points with 2436 pins against 2156. This win keeps the victors nestling near the top rung. Perver and Laing ran a close race for high honors, the former winning by 1 pin over Laing's 517. Perver also took single honors with 214. Al. Heckman for the Has-Beens hewed 517 pins also, which included a single of 196.

2,562 pins fell before the clever gunning of the Lucky Strikes who were able to defeat the De Laval 6-2. The Separator crew only spilled 2,259 pins, but won the first game when they bunched five fairly good singles. Walter Firth for the Strikes turned in the feature score for the day when he collected 222-567, while Fred Hickey and Steve Elliott also hit a fast canter, spilling 180-524 and 208-510. Shiner Johnson and Leo Martyn with 479 and 482 respectively for the winners also exceeded the highest triple of any De Laval player. Fitzgerald 473 and Low 471 led the latter team.

MACHINE GUNNERS BEAT RANGERS "B"

Garrison Softball League Fixture Ends in Close Decision 13-12.

Machine Gunners revenged themselves on Rangers "B" Company for their previous defeat, by nosing the latter out 13—12 in a close game played in the Garrison Softball League at the Armouries. Cavalry and "B" Company were to have played, but it was postpon d till eight next Tuesday night, followed by "A" and "C" Companies at nine.

Machine Gunners started right off smacking the apple around, and ran in six runs before they were retired in the first. The losers could only get three back in their half. Play was even enough after that, with both outfits collecting a couple each inning. "B" Company tried hard to even it up, getting two runs in the last go, but snappy fielding put the third man out. It was a close and exciting game all the way with a little bit of everything in evidence. Hitting, pitching and fielding were all fair, though none very spectacular. Vinette and Hope pitched fair ball but were nicked for quite a few singles.

The teams:

Rangers, "B" Company.—Mintz, c; Guppy, 1b; Hamilton, 3b; Vinette, p; Thompson, 2b; Montgomery, m; Ellis lf; Gauld, ss; O'Brien, rf.

Umpires.—Nixon and Calladine.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT

"THE PRINCESS AND THE PLUMBER."

Ripples of unaffected and hearty laughter greeted the presentation of this delightful talkie, on its first presentations yesterday at the Regent Theatre.

"The Princess and the Plumber" is one of those charming pictures that aim to entertain, rather than to point to a moral or outline the terrors of modern life in its various phases. Filmed in the imaginary and picturesque little principality of Daritzia, it has all the elements of a fairy tale. It has a gay and ex-vagant Prince Conrad (H. B. Warner), a demure and lovel little princess, Louise (Maureen O'Sullivan), and a daring and gallant hero, the good-looking Mr. Peters who is a plumbing engineer and who, through the mechanism of a kindly Fate, is enabled to capture the princess and make off with her in a borrowed airplane.

And it has also the amusing Joseph Cawthorn in a lot of roles. He is just about everything of importance in the little village and is a host in himself. He has the laughable combination of parts of burgomeister, postmaster, chief of police, traffic cop, messenger boy and plumber, and he gets more real, unaffected laughs than have fallen to the lot of a comedy actor in many a larger production than this entertaining picture.

Maureen O'Sullivan is as dainty as ever, and Charles Farrell is the hero who carries everything off in just the way he wishes, even the princess.

It is a comedy romance of a most entertaining type and very good fun. The comedy itself is an extra good one, with the elongated Ellen Greenwood providing plenty of laughs.

—Jeanette.

AT THE GRAND

"STRANGE INTERLUDE"

John Stewart of the theatre management interested in the Theatre Guild's presentation of the Eugene O'Neill's nine-act play, "Strange Interlude" to play at the Grand Opera House on Monday, March 9, has been in conference with Melville Hammett, special representative of the Guild, completing the final details of the engagement.

"Since September," said Mr Hammett this afternoon, "Strange Interlude" has been on its present tour. There is only one company doing this play this season and consequently it has a big lot of territory to cover. So far practically all of the South, Texas as far as Wichita Falls, Kansas and Iowa have been visited. Now the tour is through Pennsylvania, New York State, New England, Canada and afterwards once more into the central western states to visit certain cities not yet played.

"That the road is dead as so many actors and producers who never get a hundred miles out of New York are so loudly shouting, is the veriest rot. The road is very much alive if productions are sent to it but the plays and the companies sent must be first class productions in every particular. No more of number 'twos' and 'threes' for the people of the so-termed hinterland. They want the best only and are willing to pay good prices to get what is worthwhile. There are plenty of places adequate in size, both in regard to stage and auditorium in which plays can be presented. "Strange Interlude" has been given in a variety of auditoriums, city, shrine, high schools, Elks and stage. Larger of the picture houses, where the movie entertainment has been suspended for a night in order to permit the legitimate theatres scattered around in the one and two night stand cities where attractions can go and get good results. In the five months that we have been playing this sort of territory I have come across but two other attractions doing the same touring and each was getting grosses which I am sure exceed the average present day weekly return in the so-called week stands of the country. Despite the condition that has been brought about by the country-wide business depression, the grosses of "Strange Interlude" on this tour has been uniformly large. In certainly one instance, at the Municipal Auditorium in San Antonio what is probably an all time record in receipts for a dramatic attraction in one night. Over 5,000 people witnessed the performance that night."

Mr. Stewart reports that up to date the mail order sale of seats for "Strange Interlude" is the largest ever held in this city.

Chess Champion Will Give Exhibition Here

One of the world's greatest chess players, the Jugo-Slavian master, Boris Kostich, will give a demonstration of his powers in the Peterborough Y.M.C.A., this evening, final arrangements for the exhibition having been completed during the past few days. It is proposed that Mr. Kostich will first play simultaneously all the players in Peterborough who may desire to take part. Afterwards, it is probable that he will give a demonstration of play while blind-folded, playing a number of players at the same time. Most of us have read about such feats but few of us have ever seen them carried out. To-night will be the first occasion on which citizens of Peterborough have ever seen a word-famous chess master display his powers in this direction.

For the sake of those who do not know how these games are conducted, it might be explained that the chess tables are arranged in a square, the players sitting on the outside and Mr. Kostich being on the inside of the square. Mr. Kostich will have the white chess men, giving him the privilege of making the opening move. In Toronto last week, he generally moved Pawn to King 4 and then Pawn to Queen 4, varying his second move on occasion depending upon the opening move of his opponent.

Each player is supposed to be ready to make his move whenever Mr. Kostich reaches him. Moves must not be made until the chess master reaches the table and the move must be made so that he may see it.

Curling For Season Nearing Conclusion

The balmy air of a beautiful March morning, although signalising the rapid approach of Spring, came as a keen disappointment to the members of the Curling Club who gathered at the rink to-day in anticipation of resuming play for the Sturgeon Trophy in the mixed 'spiel. The weather of to-day also came as a reminder that the curling season is now nearing its conclusion. From data chalked up on the board in the club room, it is noted that curling has rarely extended into the month of April. The only occasions on which it did, being in the year 1908 (the year that Brock Street Rink was opened) when curling was enjoyed until as late as April 19th, again in 1923 there was curling on the local rink on Easter Monday, April 3rd. The record including the period from 1909 to 1925 gives the earliest date of the end of the curling season as March 10th in the years 1921-22, although last year the roarin' game made its exit on March 3rd.

Mrs Darcy 10, vs. Mrs. Carr 9.

Mrs. H. Comstock 4, vs. Miss Fanning 7.

Mrs. Carlisle 8, vs. Mrs. M. Comstock 10.

Mrs. DeGraw 14, vs. Mrs. Beal 2.

A BEDTIME STORY

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY IN THE WOODS

All of a sudden one morning, when they were getting the little rabbit children ready for school, Mrs. Longears and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy heard loud shouts in the room where the bunnies were eating breakfast.

"Give me that!" cried Jingle.

"No, no!" yelled Jangle. "I want it myself!"

"Dear me! What can be happening?" asked Mrs. Longears, who had just finished spreading the seventh hundred slice of bread with carrot jam. Oh, those bunnies ate lots of bread and jam.

"I'll go see what the trouble is," offered Nurse Jane. The muskrat lady housekeeper crept into the dining room, holding up the end of her tail so it wouldn't make a swishing sound on the floor. She saw Jingle holding one end of a pink ear ribbon and Jangle the other end and the little rabbit girls were having a tug of war to see which would get the ribbon.

"Give me that!" shouted Jingle.

"No, I'm going to wear it!" cried Jangle.

Jingle and Jangle were twin rabbits and they very seldom had a quarrel like this. But when they did Uncle Wiggily used to say there was more jangle than there was jingle about it.

"What does this mean?" squeaked Nurse Jane. "You dear, naughty little rabbits! Stop it, Jingle and Jangle!"

"No!" said Jingle most impolitely. "It's my ribbon and I'm going to have it!"

No, I'm going to wear it.

"I saw it first and I always wear it so I'm going to have it!" shouted Jangle. Then they both pulled so hard on the ear ribbon that it broke in two and each one had half.

"Now I hope your satisfied!" said Nurse Jane, glad that the quarrel had ended in this way so the little bunnies could finish their breakfasts and hop away to the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School. But as Nurse Jane started back to the kitchen to help Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady mother, finish spreading the seven hundred slices of bread and jam, all of a sudden Jingle cried out:

"Jangle has a bigger half of the ribbon than I have! Boo, hoo! Make her give me the big piece!"

"No!" shouted Jangle. "She can't take this away from me," and Jangle jumped out of her chair and hopped under the table to hide. But Jingle jumped after her sister and they got tangled in the tablecloth and pulled it off and with it all the dishes and the cabbage pancakes and everything else. Oh, such a racket as there was! Baby Bunty and all the other little rabbit boys and girls yelled and shouted and in came running Mrs. Longears and just then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily came sliding down the stair banister from his room. And when the rabbit gentleman heard the noise and the clatter and bang of dishes and the shouts of Jingle and Jangle, why, he just put on his hat and coat and hopped away to the woods.

"Oh, Wiggy!" called his wife after him. "Where are you going?"

"I am going away!" answered Mr. Longears. "I can't live in a hollow stump bungalow where my little rabbits quarrel so! I am going away to the woods!"

"Children!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "Did you hear that? Your father has gone to the woods!"

"Won't he ever come back?" asked Baby Bunty, who, though Uncle Wiggily was not her real father, loved him just the same. "Won't Unkie Wig ever come back?"

"I don't know," answered Nurse Jane. And all at once, Jingle and Jangle stopped disputing about the ear ribbon. Jingle gave Jangle her piece, and Nurse Jane sewed it together. Then the bunnies helped pick up the scattered dishes and when they had finished their breakfasts, they were ready to go to school.

But they had sad faces and Jingle said, "Oh, I am so sorry! Poor Daddicums ran away without his breakfast!"

"All my fault, too!" sighed Jangle.

"No, it was mine!" said Jingle, politely.

"No, I say it was mine!" cried Jangle, and then Baby Bunty said:

"Please don't start another quarrel, even a polite one. Unkie Wig has gone to the woods and he may have an adventure and never come back."

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" cried all the other little rabbits sadly.

"But I know what we can do," went on Bunty. "After school is out we will go to the woods to look for Unkie Wig and we'll ask him to come back home and we'll promise always to be good, won't we?"

"Yes," said Jingle and Jangle. So the little bunnies hopped on to school and Uncle Wiggily kept on hopping through the woods.

The Best Gift

Milly recalled that it was her chum's birthday. "It's hard to be original about birthdays," she sighed. "If I only knew what she wanted!" Then she realized what she herself would want — her friend, or her friend's voice. "Why, that's easy; I'll telephone!" So Long Distance carried Milly's gift to her distant chum.

Employment in the automotive industry in Britain is increasing.

PLANS MADE FOR O.B.A.A. MEETING

Amateur Baseball Moguls of Ontario Will Gather Here on April 4th.

WILL HOLD DINNER.

Arrangements for the annual meeting of the O.B.A.A. which will be held in Peterborough, Saturday April 4, are gradually taking shape in the hands of the local meeting.

Another meeting of the local committee was held last night in the Duffus building with Bill Kay presiding. Other members present were Edgar LeBarr, M. G. O'Brien, Max Swanson, Alex Kay, Jim Coursey, Bill Prindible, Charlie Curtis and Jack Deannard were absent.

Details of the civic dinner at which the delegates will be guests of Peterborough are practically complete. It will be held at noon Saturday at the Empress which will be the convention headquarters. Gordon Matthews is being invited to act as chairman for the hour of oratory, and several outstanding speakers are expected to be on the postprandial list.

Robt. A. Elliott of Deloro has been president of the O.B.A.A. this year, and it is out of respect to him that the convention is being held in Eastern Ontario. Because this city may be outside the orbit of some of the western ball club representatives the attendance may not be quite as large as usual, but it is expected that 65 or 75 men will be here.

Max Swanson was appointed chairman of the entertainment committee last night.

J. F. STRICKLAND INTRODUCES BILL

any of the trustees appointed by it dying or resigning or becoming incapable of acting or disqualified, to appoint some other resident ratepayer to fill the unexpired term of office caused by such vacancy."

The preamble of the Bill sets out that an application has been made to the city of Peterborough for a grant of $300,000 for the purpose of erecting an addition to and otherwise improving the Nicholls' hospital, "it is proposed that a by-law for such purpose be submitted to the qualified ratepayers of the city."

The Bill also authorizes the city council, with the assent of the qualified ratepayers, to pass any by-law for the issuing of debentures for any sum to be expended in permanent improvement, enlargement, extension or addition to the hospital, and to levy a rate to pay the principal and interest of such debentures, the rate to apply on the taxable property except that of Roman Catholics.

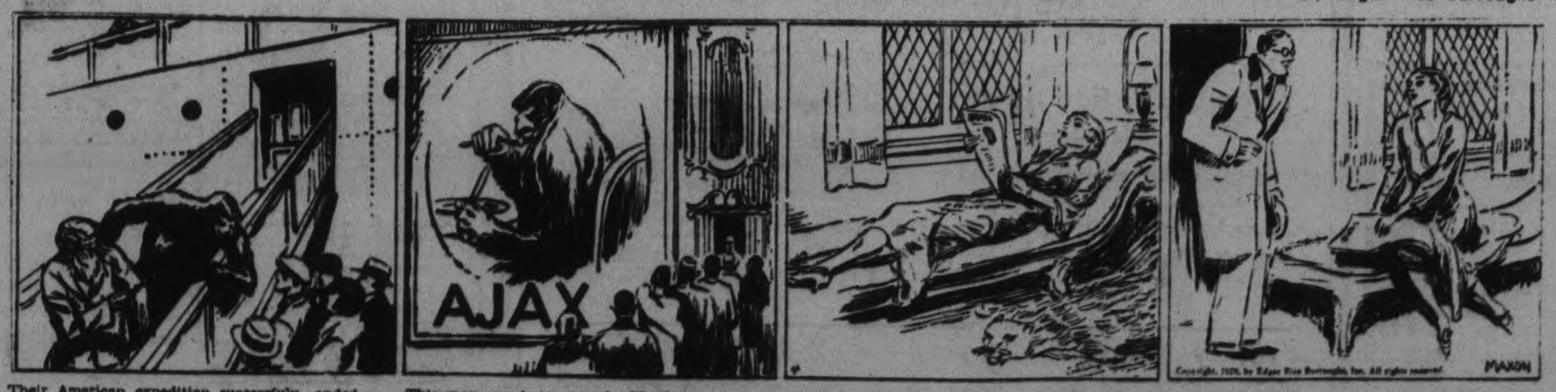
THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 4 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Their American expedition successfully ended, the officers and scientists, filled with compassion for the pitiful wreck of a man they had rescued from the jungle, gave Paulvitch money and wished him and his Ajax good luck. Back in civilization, the Russian had his hands full with the ape. Each new face must be carefully scrutinized, much to the horror of many of his victims. In London, Paulvitch took his prize to a famous animal trainer.

This man, much impressed with the ape's intelligence, agreed to train him for the lion's share of the profits of exhiting him. Meanwhile, he would provide for the keep of the ape and its owner. It was not many weeks before Ajax was taught to ride a bicycle, eat with a knife and fork, count up to ten and do a number of remarkable stunts. One of the leading music halls booked the act, and AJAX became the public'c latest fad.

Lady Greystoke lingered over the "Times" as she breakfasted in her cheerful boudoir and awaited an appointment with her son's tutor. A glowing account of the marvelous Ajax's "debut" had idly caught her attention. What memories that ape's picture conjured up to the beautiful, cultured woman! Romance, thrills, danger and LOVE in the untamed jungle! What contrast—those experiences with the happy, even tenure of her present days.

Rarerly did she speak of those years now, even to her husband. That was the past. Few indeed, knew that the handsome Lord Greystoke had been the savage Tarzan of the Apes. Next to her deep love for her husband, Lady Greystoke's thoughts centred about her twelve year old son. A light tap at the door brought her abruptly from the brief reverie induced by Ajax's picture. Smilingly she greeted the worried-looking young tutor.

DR. BARNARDO HOME CLUB IS ORGANIZED

Will Lend Aid to Welfare of Young People Coming From Great Britain.

A new bond between young people coming from Great Britain was forged last evening with the formation of Dr. Barnardo's Home Boys' and Girls' Club. The meeting was held at the home of Frank Degan, 173 Westcott street. Taking into consideration that 93 per cent. of the population of Peterborough is of British origin, the importance of such a club is a foregone conclusion. A similar organization was formed in Toronto some time ago, but has fallen away and disappeared. Therefore, the Peterborough club faces many difficulties, but with the co-operation of English young people of the city, these may be surmounted.

Although no constitution has been drawn up as yet, the primary object of the club is to unite people who have benefitted from the work of Dr. Barnardo in the Old Country or who are pioneers to this country. It has been intimated that a copy of the rules of the old Toronto club will be secured, and the local organization will base its constitution on these.

At the meeting yesterday, officers were elected to the Club as follows: President, Frank Degan; Vice-President, William T. Driver; Secretary, Jack L. Bean; Treasurer, Isaac Harrison; Chaplain, appointed each meeting. A sick committee was formed and comprises the following: Sisters Degan and Allan, Summers, Brown and West, and the officers of the club.

The club's membership is by no means completed as yet, but the following have already joined: Frank Degan, William T. Driver, Isaac Harrison, J. L. Bean, J. G. West, Harry Summers, Albert Hillier, W. F. Reeves, Frank Brown, Clifford Chapman, Bertram Emmerson of Peterborough; Stewart Craib of Lang P.O.; Robert McKittrick of Lakefield, and James Dallman of Norwood, and Sisters Reazin, Allan and Degan.

CORNWALL INDIAN ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Winnipeg Rink Beaten By New Brunswick

GOURLEY RINK SUFFERS FIRST LOSS OF PLAY

New Brunswick Quartet Winners By 13-10 Shots This Morning.

WINNIPEG WINS CUP.

Ontario and Toronto Rinks to Battle it Out for Second Place Honors.

TORONTO Ont., March 6.—(CP)—New Brunswick's rink, skipped by N. Thibodeau, administered the first defeat suffered by the Manitoba Rink, Skip R. J. Gourley, when curling continued today in the Canadian single rink championship. New Brunswick won by 13 to 10, but the Winnipeg rink had already made sure of the Macdonald Brier Tankard last night.

The honor of second place to Manitoba will be fought out between the Ontario rink skipped by E. H. Brower and the Toronto rink of S. Meredith, as a result of Toronto's extra-end win over Ontario today, 13-11. Ontario had been second to Winnipeg and Toronto third, but today's result tied up the Ontario and Toronto rinks. They are playing off this afternoon. Meredith counted three to tie the score in the 12th end and gained the game when Brower was too strong on a draw for shot in the extra end.

Northern Ontario finished strongly by defeating Montreal 14-8.

Alberta scored six on the last five ends to win from Quebec.

Saskatchewan scored a six end on Nova Scotia, winning 18-6.

The Meredith-Brower rink battle for second place honors was the feature of the first series today.

Railwaymen Expected To Accept Decision

LONDON, Mar. 6.—(By Thomas T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.—The railway workers of Great Britain are expected to accept, with fairly good grace, the findings of the Railway National Wages Board, recommending a wage cut of 2½ per cent., as against the 10 per cent. reduction sought by the companies. The Board also recommended merger of the four leading systems in the interests of economy.

"The decision represents a sincere attempt to maintain peace," declared C. T. Cramp, General Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, to-day. James Bromley, secretary of the Locomotive Engineers' Union, admitted the findings had not destroyed any principle in the existing working agreement.

Death is Winner In 10-Hour Fight For Worker's Life

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 6.—A ten hour battle for a man's life, fought at the bottom of a 40 foot caisson of the Canadian National Railways Lachine Canal bridge construction, was lost last night when Joseph Tremblay, 45, succumbed to "bends" or gas infiltration. The man, employed on the caisson work, became ill after his Wednesday night shift. As soon as his diseas was diagnosed yesterday he was taken back to the caisson and placed in the same atmospheric pressure in which he had been stricken. The form of treatment involved slowly raising the man to the surface and this was repeated numerous times, but the disease had been too far advanced.

KINSMEN CLUB DONATES $303 TO AID RELIEF

Two Relief Funds in City Are Helped From Proceeds of Hay Fever.

CHEQUES PRESENTED.

Members of Cast Present Cane to Adrian Macdonald the Director.

Members of the Peterborough Kinsmen Club had as their guests at their regular bi-weekly dinner held in Hooper's Palm Rooms last night the members of the cast "Hay Fever" and all those who so ably co-operated in putting on the play to make it such a success. President Dr. Ralph Honey, on behalf of the club, presented to R. M. Glover two cheques, one for $203 which will go to aid the work of the Peterborough Relief Association and another for $100 to The Examiner Relief Fund.

The club cleared $:09 at its play, and after the two cheques had been paid the remainder was placed in the service fund of the club, which will be used entirely for service club work and devoted to needy cases which the club is taking under its own supervision.

The Peterborough club has only been organized about one year, and in that time almost $1,000 has been contributed to worthy causes in the city.

Mr. Glover thanked the members of the club on behalf of the Relief Association and The Examiner, and congratulated them on the splendid work which they were doing. "It is

WARM RECEPTION IS GIVEN PRINCES AT BUENOS AIRES

British Heir Tired From Long Trip Hurries Through Reception.

ATTEND STATE DINNER.

Long Line of Functions Face Royal Brothers Before Opening of Trade Shaw.

BUENOS AIRES, Mar. 6.—(A.P.)—Buenos Aires gave the Prince of Wales and his brother George one of the warmest receptions o their career upon their arrival here, but it was the warmth of a broiling sun as well as that of an enthusiastic public manifestation.

Thousands turned out to greet the two Princes when they arrived at El Palomar airdrome from Mar Del Plata yesterday afternoon, but the British heir, burned and tired from a ride in an open plane, hurried through the formalities of reception.

A long round of receptions, public functions and British olony entertainments await the two brothers as they prepare for the principal event of their trip from England—inauguration next Saturday of the British Trade Exposition.

Call on President.

The Prince of Wales, shortly after reaching Buenos Aires, went to the Palace and called upon President Uriburu, who a half hour later returned the call at the British Embassy.

At a State dinner given at the Palace last night the Prince replied in Spanish to the President's welcome, remarking that he and his brother were very happy to find themselves again in beautiful Argentina and to renew acquaintances he had made on a previous visit in 1925.

He said that he considered the forthcoming trade exposition a remarkable event in the history of Anglo-Argentine reciprocal commerce and he thanked the Government for aid given the exhibition officials. He concluded with a toast to President Uriburu's health and the Argentine's ever-growing prosperity.

10 MEN CAUGHT WHILE FISHING

Charges Under the Game and Fisheries Act Will Probably Follow.

FISH BEING SOLD.

Ten men, nine of them Indians, were caught by a Game and Fisheries patrol during the past two days on Little Mud Lake and Buckhorn Lake fishing illegally through the ice. Charges under the Game and Fisheries Act will likely be laid.

Reports of a great amount of illegal fishing in this district reached the department and on Tuesday, Game Inspector R. D. Windsor, of Lindsay, led a party consisting of Overseers G. Richardson, of Campbellford, B. Gooderham, of Port Perry and R. Hills of Port Hope into the district about Little Mud Lake.

It is reported that eight Indians occupied in fishing on Mud Lake were caught the first day the party was out. A white man was later in the same day caught near the Buckhorn Falls and the next day another Indian was caught near the same place.

The Examiner learned this week on good authority that bass and lunge are being peddled extensively to homes in the city. The patrol of the Game and Fisheries men is likely the answer to this illegal practice.

Porto Rican Debaters Defeat Manitobans

WINNIPEG, Man., March 6 (C. P.). — Visiting debaters from the Island of Porto Rica scored a victory over a team representative of the University of Manitoba here last night. They took the negative side in a debate on the resolution: "That this house condemns the growing domination of the United States in the affairs of this hemisphere."

Victor Manuel Gutierrez and Antonio J. Colorado were the Porto Rican representatives, while Kenneth Bolton and Sol Kanee contested for the Manitoba body.

The visiting team is engaged in a tour of the Dominion and the United States.

SURVEY OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION MADE TO KIWANIANS BY A. M. MOON

First Real Attention Was Directed Towards Industrial Training in 1910.

ONTARIO LEADS.

A brief but interesting survey of the development of vocational education in Canada, and Ontario in particular, was given the local Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon to-day by A. M. Moon, master at the Peterborough Vocational School.

The first real attention directed toward industrial training in the schools, according to Mr. Moon, came in 1910, when a Royal Commission was appointed by the Federal Government to study this educational development. During three years the Commission delved into the situation visiting Europe, the British Isles and the United States finally submitting a report. On the strength of the recommendations in the report the Government voted $10,000,000 to the establishment of vocational schools in Canada. This money, however, was held back until the conclusion of the War, not being used until 1919.

With promised financial assistance from the Federal grant, Mr. Moon explained with graphs and impetus given vocational training throughout Canada. When the $10,000,000 began to be distributed schools were established in every province and the attendance of pupils mounted rapidly. Ontario leads all other provinces in vocational schools, now having 270 of this type of school.

Peterborough, Mr. Moon stated, compared most favorably with other cities of its size in the size of its Vocational School and its courses.

Proof to Show Earth is Flat

NEW YORK, N. Y., Mar. 6.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva, owner and overlord of the religious Zion City, Ill., presented "proof" today that the earth is flat.

Here it is:

"If the earth were a globe, there would have to be 8 inches curvature in the first mile from any given point, 32 inches curature in two miles, ten and a half feet curvature in four miles. The curvature increases as a square of the distance. In 400 miles the curvature would amount to 20.2 miles.

"A ship or train might be able to slide down such a hill, but you can imagine how you would ever get up the other side."

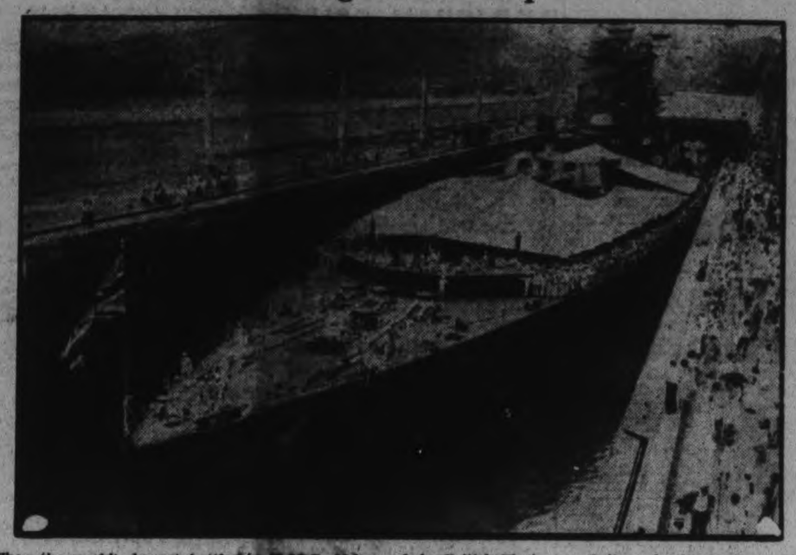
Mr. Voliva is on his way back to Zion city after a trip around the earth.

FRIENDS WORRY ABOUT POINCARE

PARIS, March 6. (AP)—The slow progress of Raymond Poincare, French statesman, toward complete recovery from his illness of last Fall and this Winter has begun to disquiet his friends.

Dr. Boidin continues to visit his patient regularly. It was denied today, however, that the former president was any worse or had undergone a serious crisis yesterday.

World's Largest Battleship



When the world's largest battleship, H.M.S. The huge vessel is shown above passing through Pedro Miquel Locks.

Type of English "Tommy" is Improving; Decline in Recruiting Noted in England

LONDON, March 6 (Canadian Press Cable). — The estimates for the Army and Navy Air Force for the coming financial year, made public to-day, bristle with interesting points. A decline in recruiting kept the Army 10,000 below the established personnel, it was shown. The fact that the whole of this shortage fell upon the Army at home is taken to mean that the task of finding the necessary drafts to maintain overseas forces was only accomplished with difficulty.

Recently, however, there has been an encouraging improvement in recruiting, while the individual "Tommy" as a type is steadily improving. Ninety per cent. of the total strength now possess certificate of education, while more than 14,000 hold a certificate equivalent to matriculation honors.

The Air estimates contained an echo of the disaster to the R.-101, wrecked with 45 men losing their lives in France last October. Under the heading of airships is a passage that only $250,000 is allocated, to maintain the Royal Airship Works at Cardington until the Government has definitely decided on the future airship policy. The R-100, which visited Canada last August, has been laid up for some months.

Build Newer "City" In Gotham Limits

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 6 (C.P.).—A complete model and almost complete plans for a gigantic, ultra-modern, $250,000,000 "city" which radio, lusty youngster of the 1920's and the ancient buskined stage have joined hands to build in the heart of New York City, were displayed last night for the first time.

The city will house 50,000 people, cover a dozen blocks, include broadcasting studios, vaudeville, pictures, television, possibly the finest opera building in the world, banks, stores, offices and subways. Even a church will be in the city's limits, though not a part of it.

Work on the central skyscraper of the "city" will be begun in May, it is announced.

O'BRIEN STARTS TRIP TO PRISON

Police Take Extra Precautions —Prisoner Handcuffed to Four Others.

WILL SERVE 20 YEARS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 6 (C.P.).—Handcuffed to other prisoners and guarded by a number of local police officers, "Two Gun" Jack "Babe" O'Brien, alias Elmer Geller, started for Portsmouth Penitentiary to-day where he will serve 20 years for armed robbery. Threats made by O'Brien that he would never be confined in Portsmouth caused the officers to take extra precautions as they hurried him to the train. O'Brien's companions are Mike Gobus, Donald Unwin and Joe Keller, three Toronto youths who were sentenced to seven years when they were convicted on charges of carrying concealed weapons, while Keller was guilty of stealing packages from express wagons while on parole.

O'Brien, along with his companion, "Sunny" Jim Lass, were convicted in the recent Assizes of robbery while armed and were both sentenced to 20 years in Portsmouth Penitentiary.

The influenza epidemic in Cork, Ireland, recently caused the closing of all national schools.

ATLANTIC STORM SLACKENS FURY

Nova Scotia Fishermen Lose Hundreds of Thousands in Tackle and Property Damage.

NO LIVES LOST.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 5 (C.P.).—Its turbulence gradually dying as the hours pass, a grey sea swirls today around the headland and in the coves of Nova Scotia's coastal outposts, its violence all but spent in a forty-four hour assault that wrought damage running into the hundreds of thousands to the property of Nova Scotia's fishermen. The storm of yesterday and the night before left no known dead in its path, but the wharves were carried away, buildings undermined, fishing gear destroyed and small craft sent to the bottom.

The 75 residents of Devil's Island, near the entrance to Halifax Harbor, were able to take a long breath this morning as the sea went down and it was apparent that the "L" shaped breakwater, which protects the island, would hold.

Liner Awaits Tug.

At a point one hundred miles north-east of Sable Island the steamer Rosalind, with thirty-five passengers from St. John's, Newfoundland for Halifax and New York, rolls in the swell and awaits the arrival of the Dutch tug Rhoode Zee from St. John's, to tow her into Halifax. The Rosalind lost her propeller at the height of the storm.

The Liverpool fishing schooner Katrina, which sailed for the Banks on Tuesday, was safe at Sandy Point, Shelburne County, this morning without so much as a ropeyarn displaced, Captain Wesley telephoned his owners.

At Digby the Princess Helene from St. John, which had been held for forty-eight hours under the lee of the North Mountain at Port Wade, was able to dock to-day. Passengers last night organized a dance on board to break the monotony of waiting for the storm to go down.

Herring shipments from Newfoundland to the United States in the season just closed were one-fourth greater than in the previous season.

REPORT UNLIKELY ON DOLE REFORM UNTIL NEXT MAY

Unemployment Insurance Fund Dragging More Heavily on National Exchequer.

SOLUTION PROVING HARD.

Problem Complicated By Silent Revolution Working Its Way Through British Industry.

BY GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 6.—Reform of the dole is proving difficult. The Royal Commission appointed to make recommendations holds out no hope of presenting even an interim report before May. Meanwhile the unemployment insurance fund drags more and more heavily on the national exchequer. According to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the country is now finding $500,000,000 a year out of national funds, either by taxes or borrowing, for the unemployed.

$5,000,000 Borrowed Weekly

Five million dollars a week are borrowed to make up the payments of those who have an insurance qualification Pending the report of the Royal Commission, the borrowing power of the unemployment fund has been increased by another $100,000,000. The period of transitional benefits (benefits not fully covered by contributions from the insured) has been extended.

The problem is complicated by the silent revolution that is working its way through British industry. Old, basic industries, once the mainstay of British trade, are stagnant. New industries are fighting their way forward. When the unemployment insurance scheme was so widely extended in 1920 it was made applicable to workers whose unemployment risk had been almost nominal. They were "good risks."

Coal mining was one such class. The amount of unemployment among miners had been so small that at one time it was thought the industry would contract out of the scheme and establish a special scheme in order to get the advantage of its superior conditions. Today, there are depressed areas among mining villages once pulsing with industry. The good risk is a good risk no longer. And, in depressed areas, long unemployment has, in the opinion of the Ministry of Labor "robbed many men both of the physical fitness and of the attitude of mind which would enable them to hold employment under ordinary industrial conditions."

Training Centre Set Up

To restore such men's employability, ten transitional training centres are now at work. The average course is about ten weeks. The centres are capable of handling about 9,000 men a year and, since March 1930, unemployed men may be required to attend an instructional centre as a condition of receiving unemployment benefits.

And the British taxpayer looks forward to the next budget with growing apprehension.

JUDGE JEFFREY STATES EVIDENCE INSUFFICIENT FOR MURDER COUNT, MIGHT HOLD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Crown Attorney Indicates Case Be Dropped—Go Down as Unsolved Crime.

ONLY ONE WITNESS.

Son of Former Chief Accused of Murdering Companion in Row Over Boat.

CORNWALL, Ont., March 6 (C.P.). — A Criminal Assizes jury to-day acquitted Louis Jocko, resident in the Cornwall Indian Reserve, and son of a former tribal chief, on a charge of murdering Ernest Gatien here last June. The jurymen were told by Justice Jeffrey, presiding at the Ontario Supreme Court Spring Assizes, that there was insufficient evidence to convict on the murder count, but might sustain a verdict of guilty of manslaughter.

Napoleon Lefebvre was the sole witness to declare he witnessed Jocko strike Gatien over the head with an oar during an argument over the ownership of a row boat. The accused admitted striking Gatien with his fist, but denied an oar was wielded.

Jocko is in his twenties. At his first trial for murder the jury disagreed.

Crown Attorney J. G. Harkness indicated the case would be dropped. All the facts of the case have been brought out he said, adding: "It will go down as an unsolved crime."

Negri Paris-Bound To Hasten Divorce

MANCHESTER, England, March 6. — Pola Negri, screen actress, will depart for Paris on Monday in connection with her divorce from Prince Serge Mdivani, which is due to be made absolute there. She said to-day:

"The decree will be made final at any moment, and I'm going to try to hasten matters."

Prince Mdivani is now in the United States.

C.G.E. WILL PAY EVERK WEEK NOW

Announcement Was Posted in the Canadian General Plant To-day.

TWICE A MONTH FORMERLY.

Pay day at the Canadian General Electric Company's local plant has been changed from twice a month to once a week.

The announcement was posted in the factory to-day as follows:

"Employees of the Peterborough Works will be paid each Friday, following March 6, 1931, for services rendered during the previous calendar week.

Payroll books will close Saturday afternoon of each week to provide necessary time to complete the payroll."

Obviously this innovation increases the work of the accounting department, but on the other hand it should be a distinct accommodation to the employees, and an economic benefit to the whole community. The weekly payment of wages is the more general practice, although the bi-monthly issuance of pay checks at the local factory of the C.G.E. Company had been an old custom as regular as the calendar itself, and seemingly as immutable.

Henceforth, employees will receive their wages fifty-two times during the year instead of twenty-four. This will probably mean that the baker and the grocer and other merchants will be paid for their supplies weekly, and in turn should be able to meet their obligations more conveniently. The money spent by C.G.E. employees will circulate more frequently, and the employees will be in a position to take advantage of attractive sales, especially of the many offerings by the merchants of the city. No doubt their plans for saving money will also be assisted by the new payroll system of the C.G.E. Company.

The general benefits which will accrue to the employees individually depend of course upon themselves and their prudent readjustment to the new method.

One Blow Upon Jaw Is Fatal To Arguer

WINDSOR, Ont., March 6 (C.P.). —John "Jerry" Riley, 26, is being held by Windsor police following the death of Clifford Cameron, 46, as the result of a street brawl.

Cameron was struck on the jaw and died shortly after being admitted to the Hotel Dieu Hospital. It is alleged that Riley struck the blow. Joseph Taylor, said to have been a witness of the scrap, is being held as a material witness.

According to information secured by the police there was a drinking party in Taylor's room which six men attended. Riley alleges that Cameron kept calling him names and aggravating him and that he struck Cameron but once.

Coroner Dr. H. Crasweller has ordered an inquest.

MOSCOW, March 6 (C.P.). — Despatches from Black Sea ports to-day told of heavy storms in which a number of trawlers had been driven aground. All shipping was reported tied up.

UNITED FARMERS TAKE TROUBLES BEFORE AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE

Bruce McNevin, Omemee, Believes Gov't Should Give Lead in Cutting Expenditures.

EGG TARIFF AIDING.

TORONTO, Ont., March 6.—When a group of officials of the United Farmers of Ontario appeared before the Agriculture Committee of the Legislature to-day, H. A. Darville, Alvinston, said the increase in the tariff on eggs was having a good effect. Prior to the increase cold storage house filled up with eggs from the United States which kept prices down.

H. A. Gilroy, Lambton County, thought expenditures should be kept down all along the line by Government, corporations and individuals. He commended the Government for its cornborer campaign.

Stresses Economy

The need of economy in the present depression was also stressed by Bruce McNevin, former President of Omemee. The Government, he thought, should give a lead in cutting expenditures.

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture said he expected a deputation to ask for increased grants to rural affairs and asked if he should offer them a 25 per cent. cut.

"I would go further and offer a 50 per cent. cut" said Mr. McNiven.

Farmers could get along on the present scale if the cost of the goods and services they had to buy were

Love Pair Separate After Honeymoon

NEW YORK, March 6 (C.P.).—The New York Daily News said to-day that Miss Betty Compton musical comedy actress, and her husband, Eddie Dowling, parted ways at the conclusion of their honeymoon.

Returning from Havana last Thursday, The News said, Miss Compton went to the home of friends in Westchester and Dowling hied himself to his mother's apartment. They have denied themselves to interviewers, and the cause of the purported separation could not be learned.

Miss Compton was said to be contemplating a trip to California, possibly to Hollywood. Dowling was reported seeking a job, though he has been employed as a scenario writer by the Paramount Studios. They were married secretly February. 16.

Cobourg Citizens Behind Secession Move

DEPUTATION IS GOING TO HOUSE TO SUPPORT BILL

Town of Cobourg Wishes To Succeed For County of Northumberland.

CITIZENS MEET.

Saving of From $15,000 to $20,000 Annually it is Announced.

COBOURG, March 6.—Councillors, members of the Chamber of Commerce and citizens crowded the council chambers last night at a meeting called to discuss Cobourg's proposed secession from the counties. Not a single voice was raised against the proposal, those present supporting the proposition unanimously.

A deputation of over 100 will interview the private bills committee at Toronto next Thursday. A private bill prepared for the purpose, if passed will give the town permission to take the necessary steps towards separating from the counties.

Councillor Dr. Willoughby, ex-mayor of Regina, and originator of the movement, announced that a saving of from $15,000 to $22,000 would be effected. It was pointed out that the town's contribution to county taxes was $1,250 in 1906, and this year will be $36,000. The town's share in the bonded debt will be assumed if the separation goes into effect.

Room for Improvement Seen In Australia

CANBERRA, Australia, March 5. — (C.P. Cable via Reuter's). — The fact that Australia has motor cars worth $1,000,000,000 and that 643 race meetings were held in Victoria State alone last year were cited as examples of national extravagance in the report of the Auditor-General to-day.

Stating that a million workers do not pay income tax, the report suggests a reduction in the exemption figures. Old age, invalid, and war pensions, together with the mothers' allowances act, costs $100,000,000 annually, and the report suggests a cut of $1.25 in each pension would save at least $5,000,000.

48 Leghorns Make New Laying Record

A flock of hens with a very high laying record and owned by Mrs. William Spencley, of 150 River Road, has been brought to the attention of The Examiner. The flock consists of 48 Ferris White Leghorns, who from November 11 to February 28 laid 2,460 eggs. On January 24, the coldest day of the year, the hens laid 40 eggs. ... ...

There is now a lull in their egg-laying activities, and they will be fed so that they can start producing again to supply the incubator. The birds are beautiful ones, and the owner has stated that anyone interested may inspect her flock at any time.

WINNIPEG AGAIN CAPTURES CUP

Gourley's Famous Cupless Wonders Victors in Eight Straight Matches.

BATTLE FOR SECOND PLACE.

TORONTO, Ont., March 6 (C.P.)— Bob Gourley and his Winnipeg Strathconas journeyed more than 1,000 miles before winning a cup in late winter curling competitions, but when Manitoba's famous cupless wonders did win one, they chose the best.

Competing in the fifth annual Canadian single rink curling championship at the Granite Club here the Westerners won eight straight games and with only one more on their schedule cannot be beaten. In addition to the Dominion crown, the Stratahconas won the Macdonald Brier Tankard from nine other classy rinks, representing Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswck, Alberta, Manitoba, Northern Ontario and the cities of Montreal and Toronto.

While the Winnipeg four decided the 1931-32 destiny of the single rink crown last night by defeating Montreal, 22 to 6, the winner of second place is far from decided.

Gourley's rink opposes N. Thibodeau's New Brunswick rink in the final game to-day. But the feature will probably be the tilt between E. H. Brower's Ontario representatives and the Barrie rink, skipped by S. Meredith and representing Toronto. Victory for the latter will tie them for second place and necessitate an extra game this afternoon.

The Saskatchewan and Quebec rinks are tied for fourth place. The Westerners oppose Nova Scotia while Quebec matches shots with Alberta. In the other game Northern Ontario is pitted against Montreal.

KENORA MEMBER IN BITTER CLASH WITH FINLAYSON

Labor Member Scores Northland Policy of the Ontario Government.

CAMPS UNHEALTHY.

Minister Denies Road Camp Charges, Says He Made Thorough Probe.

TORONTO, March 6.—Assailing the Government for northern highway expenditures, conditions of workmen engaged in highway work, lack of educational advantages, inadequate distribution of relief funds and failure to aid labor through the Department of Labor, Earl Hutchison, Kenora, lone Labor member of the Legislature, yesterday brushed with the Cabinet benches during his address on the Speech from the Throne.

He accused the Department of Northern Development of failing to aid settlers and prospectors by fulfilling request for appointments of justices of the peace. Men were forced, he stated, to travel 100 miles to swear an affidavit. In 1928 and 1929, he said, representations were made to the Government for a remedying of this condition, but nothing was done.

Mr. Hutchison stated that men employed on highway work were forced to live in camps which were unhealthy. To support his claim, he said, he would produce pictures, some of which had appeared in the Toronto Globe and most of which pictured conditions far worse than the published pictures.

"This is not right" stated Hon. William Finlayson Minister of Northern Development. "I was up there myself and we investigated those claims and there is nothing wrong.

Manure Piles

"The original camp is still there and I am willing to lead any members of this house to it, and show them the manure piled against the walls of the tent in which men must sleep," retored Mr. Hutchison.

"Members of the Board of Trade making a trip through were carefully led past this camp" continued Mr. Hutchison.

"The Board of Trade saw that camp" declared Mr. Finlayson, rising wrathily.

"They did not," rejoined Mr. Hutchison. "The camp is accessible by motor car although slightly out of the way. They did not turn in to it but went on to other camps."

"I wish I could describe the situation" stated Mr. Finlayson. "I sent for a report from the district engineer and he said there is no such condition. Then I sent in the sanitary inspector. The camps, as any-

WOMAN KEEPER FORCED TO LEAVE LIGHTHOUSE POST

Protests Sent to Ottawa Asking Reconsideration Prove Unavailing.

TURNED SUCCESSOR AWAY.

Resistance Ends When Gov't Threatens Eviction By Legal Force.

LUNENBURG, N.S., March 5 (C.P.). — Mrs. William Heisler, lighthouse keeper at Battery Point, who protested orders from Ottawa that she vacate her post and who sent the new appointee back to the mainland with his household effects, ended her resistance when informed eviction otherwise would be made by legal force. Compelled to remove her belongings during one of the worst storms in years, the woman who with the aid of a hired man, had carried on the work of lightkeeper since her husband died two years ago, was today absent from the place she had called home for a number of years.

Telegram Unanswered.

About a fortnight ago, said Mrs. Heisler, she received a notice from the Marine Department at Ottawa, ordering her to vacate her position. A telegram she sent the Department protesting against being turned out without an investigation into the case, evoked no reply. Following the statement of Inspector Fultz, representing the Department, that she could do nothing but obey the order, she refused admittance to the new appointee, Lowell Baker, of Herman's Island, who, ready to assume the new position, arrived with his household furnishings. He returned to await developments. Later, Inspector Fultz appeared armed with instructions from Ottawa to the effect that if she refused to leave her post peacefully she would be evicted by law. The inspector was unable to oblige her request that she be allowed to retain the position until the first of April in order to have an opportunity of securing a place of residence.

Father Who Killed Daughter's Mate Held

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., March 6. — Police yesterday escorted James T. Barbee, forty-five, under heavy guard to the county jail at Macon because of threats of violence.

Barbee, police say, was enraged at the marriage of his daughter and Delmar Cannon three weeks ago, and since then has refused to recognize the young bride.

Two days ago he sent them a special delivery letter asking them to visit him at his home. When they arrived Barbee opened fire on Cannon, killing him.

PERUVIAN GOV'T CHANGES HANDS IN SUDDEN COUP

Blow is Struck in Lima Without Uprising or Loss of Life.

JIMENEZ IN COMMAND.

Five Day Old Junta Under Cerro is Dismissed—City Welcomes Change.

LIMA March 6. (AP) — A coup d'etat, staged with startling suddenness in the gathering dusk of the Lima evening, to-day brought a new group of army officers into power in Peru, displacing the civil-military Junta which took office last Sunday.

The head of the new Junta is Lieutenant Colonel Gustavo Jimenez (nonounced he-may-ness), who left Lima a week ago in command of an expeditionary force which was to subdue the rebels at Arequipa. The expedition was diverted by naval officers who then brought about the deposition of the provisional President, Lieutenant Colonel Luis M. Shanchez Cerro.

In a manifesto published shortly after his coup, Jimenez stated that he would assume power, strive to compose the differences of Southern, Central, and Northern Peruvian factions, and attempt to carry out the Sanchez Cerro manifesto at Arequipa August 22 last, which promised elections and return to constitutional Government.

The Jiminez expedition force was brought back to Callao yesterday morning, joining with the seventh infantry.

The force marched on Lima, took command of bridges and other approaches, and at dusk was in a commanding position in the city, all unbeknown to the public generally.

Junta Dismissed

At 7:10 p.m., Lieutenant Colonel Jimenez, accompanied by several aids went to the Presidential Palace, where the five day old Juanta, composed of Dr. Ricardo Leoncio Elias, Colonel Manuel Ruiz Bravo, and Captain Alejandro Vinces, were meeting.

Jimenez entered the room where they were sitting around a table and quietly informed them that he had decided to take over the executive power. They grasped the situation quickly and without protest left in automobiles for their residences.

Jiminez immediately began to give orders, posting mounted patrols in various parts of the city and taking other measures to maintain order. The populace, learning what had happened, gathered in a great crowd about the palace and in response to their cheering, Jimenez appeared on a balcony and promised a good transitional Government until constitutional forms could be restored.

The deposed Junta, although only five days old, was already on its way out of office when the coup occurred. At a midnight conference ending early Thursday morning its members had submitted to demands of the Arequipa insurgents asking leadership in organizing the new government. It is not known what attitude the Arequipa insurgents will take toward Jimenez but in some quarters there was skepticism that he would be acceptable to them.

HECKLERS GREET LADY CYNTHIA DURING LAUNCHING OF NEW PARTY

Outlines Mosley's Principles—Issues Warning of Crisis Facing Britain.

HUSBAND ILL WITH FLU.

LONDON, March 6 (A.P.)—Approbation, smiles, laughter and denunciation were visited upon Lady Cynthia Mosley to-day in the public's answer to her courageous speech last evening, setting her husband's "New Party" on its way. Generally, the public seemed skeptical of the party's success.

Sir Oswald was ill abed with influenza, and could not address a great crowd which assembled at Farrington Hall to hear an outline of his principles, but his wife, who is a daughter of the late Marquis Curzon, served ably in his stead.

One section of her hearers cheered her statements, but others obviously had come to heckle her. At one point, after a series of unusual taunts, she answered as if in anguish, "My God, if you had sat in the House of Commons for the last eighteen months, you would be here on the platform beside me."

Warns of Crisis

Her message was a warning of the "abnormal, dangerous and desperate" national crisis facing Britain, for which she offered as a solution her husband's plan, the essence of which is to dispense with Parliament and to operate the country with a governing board of able men.

"As my husband says," she declared, "it is no longer a case of England's muddling through. If the present crisis is not solved, England goes under.

She flayed Conservatives, Liberals, and the Labor Party, from which she, her husband, and three other prominet members have resigned, all alike. Fashionably gowned in black, emphatic in gestures and speech, she unmistakably made a good impression with most of her audience.

If the meeting was a triumph she will face a more serious and less receptive audience to-night when she meets with representatives of her constituency at Trent, where a demand has been made for resignation from her seat in the House of Commons.

Reformatory Needed In Ontario, Says Judge

TORONTO, March 6 — Canada's prison population is growing so rapidly that in some jails prisoners are actually sleeping in the corridors, said Judge Emerson Coatsworth, in replying to the toast to the Board of Police Commissioners, at the seventh annual banquet of the Toronto Police War Veterans' Association, at the Royal York Hotel last night.

"We have a problem in criminal work here," he said, as he noted that in the last decade 25 prisons in England had been closed for lack of prisoners. "It is most regrettable that the number of prisoners is growing in Ontario, so that we are compelled to consider the building of another reformatory. I hope our young and energetic Provincial Secretary will find a solution to this problem, for, in spite of all our police have done—and we have a force second to none in the world—and all the courts have done, the prison population is gaining upon us."

Tactics Are Explained By Soviet Captives

MOSCOW, Mar. 5.—(A.P.)—Three of fourteen defendants on trial here for sabotage against the five year plan to-day gave a partial explanation of a shortage of goods and commodities which caused considerable criticism of the Soviet Government last year.

These men, who were connected in various capacities with the State planning Commission, said they had so arranged shipments that goods would go to sections already plentifully supplied while other places in need of the same goods were neglected.

The idea was to cause discontent in those sections in a general campaign to build up anti-Soviet sentiments. The prosecution introduced documents supporting these statements by the defendant.

FRANTIC MOTHER IS HELPLESS TO ASSIST SLEEPING CHILDREN TRAPPED UPSTAIRS IN THEIR BEDS

Mrs. Glennie Runs For Assistance as Lamp Explodes Starting Fire.

HUSBAND AT WORK.

Rescuers Arrive Only to Find Boathouse Home Mass of Flames.

HAMILTON, March 6. — Trapped by flames as they slept in their beds, Katharine Glennie, aged 4 years, and James Glennie, aged 2 years, the only children of Mr. and Mrs. James Glennie, who occupied a small boathouse on the bay shore near the high-level bridge, were burned to death last night while their frantic mother stood helplessly by.

There was no outcry from the little victims and neighbors who made a desperate effort to gain access to the upper floor of the home, declared that the tots must have been overcome by dense smoke which poured into the sleeping quarters.

At 10 o'clock, almost two hours after the blaze started, the body of James Glennie had been recovered. Firemen and police officers were searching the ruins at midnight for the remains of the little girl.

The explosion of a gasoline lamp was the cause of the fire. Her husband being at work, Mrs. Glennie ran to the home of a neighbor for assistance, and her cries for help brought a dozen boathouse occupants to the scene.

Spread by Draught

When the door was opened roaring flames, carried inward by the draught, swept through the lower floor and the volunteers were forced to turn back. The tongues of fire had spread to every corner of the house and the narrow stairway which provided the only access to the room above was burning fiercely.

Efforts were made to scale the outside wall, but before the members of the rescue party had a chance to reach the bedroom windows the rafters below were eaten away and the roof and upper storey crashed downward. Showers of burning embers were carried by a high wind and caused the destruction of two other boathouses, owned by H. Honeysett and Arthur Barr.

Realizing that the little tots, who an hour before were playing at her side, had been cremated in a blaze which also robbed the family of all its worldly possessions, the mother became hysterical and tried to clamber up the frozen bank to the highway above, calling frantically for her husband. Medical attention was provided and she was removed to the home of a neighbor.

MURDERED MAN LAID TO REST.

TORONTO, Ont., March 6 (C.P.). —Fellow-employees of the Reliance Engraving Company gathered this afternoon to pay their last respects to the late Montague Jack Hamilton, who was shot early on Monday morning by Ambrose D. Greenhill, a fellow-worker. Numerous floral tributes, including a number from relatives in England, decorated the casket, while pall-bearers at the funeral were his colleagues at work, all of whom witnessed the shooting.

MEN'S CLUB GIVEN TALK ON FAR NORTH

Havelock Rector Speaks of Many Interesting Experiences in Marmora.

MARMORA, March 6 (Examiner Correspondence)—A fascinating address featuring life in the far north and some of his own personal experiences while a missionary there, was given at St. Paul's Men's Club on Wednesday evening by Rev. P. C. Howard, rector of Havelock.

Despite counter attractions the attendance was well up to the mark. Community singing with A. V. Yates at the piano and two songs by W. J. Cottrell were items on the evening's program. Light refreshments were passed round at the close. At the next meeting on March 18th, the Rev E. R. James of Peterborough will be the guest speaker.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 6.—New upswings of the corn market gave relative poise to other cereals yesterday. Attention focussed on the corn visible supply, which so far this year showed but 2,500,000 bushels' increase against 19,000,000 in 1930. With blizzard weather sweeping eastward, traders were uneasy about possible interruption of the movement of corn to distributing centres.

Corn Rises ¼ to 1¼ Cents

Corn closed firm, ¼ to 1¼ cents higher, wheat at ⅝ decline to ⅛ advance; oats ⅛ off to a shade up, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

In view of present available commercial supplies of corn totalling only 19,000,000 bushels, compared with a five-year average of 36,000,000, special significence was attached to primary arrivals, 721,000 bushels against 985,000 a week ago, and 789,000 at this time last year. Moreover, Chicago receipts, 198 cars, were also smaller than a year back. Buying was further stimulated by reports that there was little prospect of any increase of commercial stocks this month, but on the country, an excellent chance of a reduction.

MONTREAL, March 6. — On the produce and dairy market here yesterday egg and cheese prices were lower, while butter and potato quotations were unchanged.

Carlot prices of fresh eggs were from ½c to 2c a dozen lower. British Columbia extras, firsts and pullets were unchanged at 31c, 28c and 27½c a dozen, respectively. Prairie extras on spot lost ½c to 1c at 29c to 30c, while firsts were unchanged at 27c and seconds declined ½c to 20c. Ontario extras dropped 1c to 2c at 29c to 30c and firsts were off 1c at 27c and seconds lost ½c at 20½c a dozen. Quotations to retailers were 1c a dozen lower. Receipts were 2,072 cases.

On the cheese market winter colored lost ½c to 14½c to 14¾c a pound. Receipts were 130 boxes.

Regraded Eastern Townships and fresh Western No. 1 butter were quoted at 31½c to 31¾c a pound and to retailers solids were 34c and prints 35c a pound. Receipts were 54 boxes.

New Brunswick Green Mountain potatoes, in carlots, were quoted at 85c per 90 pounds bulk, and to retailers 95c per 80-pound bag.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO, March 6.—In an endeavor to promote greater activity on the butter market, local brokers again lowered their prices for creamery solids yesterday, which amounted to ½c reduction for the week. Creamery No. 1 was quoted at 31½c, carlots, and high scoring, while No. 2 was steady with the previous reduction at 30½c for the best. Buyers, however, did not seem interested in supplies at any price, and were content to listen to offers without committing themselves.

Cheese

There was only a fair demand for cheese, and prices were steady at the recent decline to 14¾c for new large, 15c for twins, and 15¼c for triplets, to the shippers, and 16c for new large, 16¼c for twins, and 16½c for triplets, to retailers.

Eggs

Few sales were made by brokers of graded eggs, though prices were down on extras and firsts 1c per dozen. Wholesalers offered supplies to the trade at prices steady with Wednesday's decline, and country shippers were quoted steady prices, which were 2c lower for the week.

Brokers offered graded eggs, in free cases, at 27c for extras, 25c for firsts, 22c for pullet extras, 20c for seconds, and 19c for cracks. The retail trade was quoted: Extras at 32c in cartons; extras, loose, 30c; firsts, loose, 28c, and seconds, loose, 30c; firsts, loose, 26c, and seconds, loose, 21c. Country shippers were quoted 24c for extras, 22c for firsts, and 18c for seconds, delivered, ungraded, cases returned.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 6. — Wheat prices dropped in dull trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to record losses at the close ranging from ¼c to ½c for the session.

Values in the early stages tended to decline. Light offerings and a litle support through commission houses caused a rally around midsession, but buying was not aggressive.

In the last hour Chicago weakened and offerings increased. Gains were lost in the thin support. Exporters could not confirm any appreciable export business.

Cash wheat trading was limited, with spreads practically unchanged.

In the coarse-grains section, some Canadian rye was sold for export at prices much in excess of the Russian commodity. Some oats also was traded in in fair quantity.

FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1931

TURNING THIS WAY.

Figures as the movement into Canada from the United States in recent months go far to support the idea that the people south of the international line feel that present conditions in this country are better than those prevailing in the United States, and that the return to more prosperous times will be speedier in the Dominion.

As the Border Cities Star puts it, one of the best evidences of this belief is the fact that alien-smuggling rings are operating now to bring aliens into Canada from the United States, which is the precise reverse of their activities two years ago.

At all events the figures are interesting and encouraging, for they show that during the ten months ending January 31, 1931, 24,497 native-born Canadians returned to the Dominion from the United States, while at the same time 22,010 Americans entered this country for residence purposes.

A gross gain of 46,507 in population from the United States in less than a year is not a half bad showing.

MAKING SALT

The agreement reported reached between Mahatma Gandhi and Sir George Schuster, finance minister of India, on the salt question, looks like a common-sense settlement of a dispute which was more symbolical than practical.

The Gandhi supporters have consistently maintained that the government monopoly of salt, which produces a large proportion of the Indian Government's revenue, is wrong and insupportable because it is a heavy tax on one of the necessities of life. The government, however, is in the position that it is exceedingly difficult to collect taxes, owing to the low standard of living in India and the fact that the country is so overwhelmingly agricultural in its make-up, and therefore lacking in large and easily tapped sources of taxation. The entire revenue of India, including the central government and native states, is only about $800,000,000 a year, or approximately $2 per head of population—an infinitesimal sum compared with taxation in Canada.

To maintain their defiance of the salt-monopoly, the Gandhi supporters have persisted in making salt and submitting to arrest for so doing. This has caused a lot of trouble and has permitted them to pose as martyrs. The agreement now reported is that those in India who live near the sea shore can evaporate their own salt from the sea water because that is a natural resource of which they should have the benefit, while the government monopoly will continue undisturbed in the interior.—Border Cities Star.

URGE GAME SANCTUARY.

Petitions are being circulated in Peterborough and the surrounding district and are being very largely signed asking the Ontario Government to set aside one or more townships in the northern part of Peterborough County as a game sanctuary, to prohibit the shooting of moose within the borders of the county and to bar the shooting of does for seven years.

All three requests, it is felt, are entirely reasonable and in the interests of the preservation of wild life in this district.

Some of the northern townships are ideally adapted for use as a sanctuary for wild animals, the nature of the country lending itself admirably to such a scheme, and sportsmen are a unit in declaring that if hunting is prohibited in at least a part of this area the result will be an immediate and appreciable increase in the numbers of animals frequenting the district.

At the present rate wild animals, particularly deer, will soon be extinct in this part of Ontario unless some such step as the local petitioners are favoring is made by the Government.

There is every reason to hope that the Minister of Fish and Game will appreciate the wisdom of the course that is being urged upon him, and that in the near future there will be a section of this county that will be a safe haven for what remains of our wild animal life.

THE MUNICIPAL INCOME TAX.

The question of municipal income tax is of such great importance that it is to be hoped that the Ontario Government will yield to the request that has been made that before any action is taken to change the present law the whole matter should be studied by a commission.

At present there is a bill before the Legislature proposing the abolition of the municipal levy, and the support given the measure in its initial stages is sufficient to indicate that there is every danger of the change being made.

Arguments used by those who favor the abolition of the income tax is that there is already a federal tax on incomes, that the law is not systematically carried out in Ontario, some municipalities failing to collect the tax at all, and that the fact that there is no municipal income tax in Quebec mitigates against this Province when industries are seeking a location.

Against these things is the very obvious fact that the income tax is levied upon those who can best afford to pay it, while if it is done away the revenue thus lost must be obtained by heavier taxes from many who are not in a good position to meet any additional expenditure.

In Peterborough, for instance, the abolition of the income tax would entail the raising of an additional mill and a half taxation on property and business, and the burden would fall chiefly upon the house owner and the merchant.

And of the 286 income taxpayers in the city one-third would escape paying any tax except statute labor tax—a condition of doubtful value to the community.

FREE TREES.

The Ontario Department of Forestry is renewing its offer to farmers of the Province of large numbers of seedlings for those who want to improve their wood lots or to convert waste land into a new source of wealth.

These little trees are entirely free, and farmers who want them may secure as high as 3,500, with white pine, red pine, Jack pine, Scotch pine, larch, poplar, white willow, walnut, butternut, elm, white ash, soft maple, hard maple and red oak comprising the field from which a choice may be made.

In addition, the Department of Forestry will supply a further 500 white spruce, Norway spruce or white cedar, to anybody who wants them for windbreak planting.

The only expense involved is the cost of transporting the trees.

It would seem decidedly good business for owners of waste or poor land that is at present earning no revenue to take advantage of this liberal offer, which if accepted will be certain to evolve into a permanent source of wealth.

There is a great deal of such land in this country, and under the circumstances it is strange that more interest is not shown in this question of reforestation, especially when the Government makes it so easy to make an effective start.

Farmers who would like further information would do well to get into touch with the Ontario Forestry Department.

HAS CONFIDENCE

After a personal visit of inspection to the West, E. W. Beatty, President of the C.P.R. returns East in a spirit of hopeful optimism and confidence that the West is tackling economic and farm problems in a way which will ensure success. Mr. Beatty unquestionably ranks as one of the foremost business statesmen of the Dominion. He has no political irons in the fire, hence his opinions are not colored or biased, but are based on sound business judgment and a contact with leadership which is the privilege of few other men. It will be seen that the West, which has suffered from boom years in the past, mistakenly taken as normal years, is getting down to brass tacks.

"The West recognizes fully," said Mr. Beatty, "that the country for a time must revise its ideas of what constitutes normal conditions. We have been prone in both the East and the West to consider the peak years of post-war prosperity and of speculation as normal, when in fact, they were not so. It is perhaps not easy to return to less roseate, if sounder standards of value, but the West is showing unmistakable signs of doing so, and is already casting about for methods of production and of doing business better suited to changed economic conditions. I have no doubt that success will be complete and not overly long delayed. It is possible that some mistakes will be made, in fact it could hardly be otherwise; but the collective wisdom of the country will apply a corrective to any economic errors which may obtain currency temporarily, and substantial progress from now on is reasonably assured. In the West I found a keen interest in and a general approval of the proposed agricultural credits scheme which is designed to diversify within proper limits the farming operations of the plains, and I look for its early establishment on lines which will ensure its lasting success as a permanent stabilizer of agricultural conditions throughout the three provinces which will be the field of its activities.

"The times call for clear heads, busy hands, and steady nerves on the part of all Canadians, but those called to positions of leadership in business and finance, as well as in public life have an especially heavy responsibility imposed on them to deal with difficulties and grievances without any sectional narrowness, to preach the doctrine of the mutual interdependence of each section of the country on the other, and, having done so, to translate precept into practice."

There is especially sound advice in the last paragraph of Mr. Beatty's statement, the necessity for interdependence among all sections of the country of mutual advantage to all and the removal of sectional grievances. With the Beatty policy translated into practice that reported movement for secession will not get very far in the West.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is hoped that Mr. Ferguson will make it a point to inform Rudyard Kipling that Southern Alberta has just had its first snow in 107 days.

The Soviet is said to be selling Russian wheat labelled as "Canadian." Nice people to do business with, that Soviet Government.

Care should have been taken to see that Judge Morson didn't first hear of his retirement through the newspapers.

The attitude taken by Premier Henry and Attorney-General Price would seem to indicate that the municipal income tax is doomed. It will be a serious matter to many municipalities.

Times may not be good in the West, but there is no falling off in the quality of the curling, judging by the showing of the Winnipeg rink in Toronto.

The first forest fire of the year has been reported from Alberta. Spring must surely be just around the corner.

The British Government has much more success in its foreign than in its domestic relations, judging by this week's news from Europe and India.

Sets Up Dangerous Record

MAKES FIVE OUTSIDE LOOPS IN SUCCESSION

A new record was set for the most dangerous stunt in aviation—the making of outside loops—by Miss Dorothy Hester, 19-year-old girl flier at Glendale, Calif. Miss Hester successfully completed five loops in succession, breaking the old mark of three loops She is shown here with Tex Rankin signing in for the record attempt at Glendale. Edward Cunningham, field manager of the Grad Central airport, is holding their register. Rankin will shortly attempt to set a new mark for the same stunt.

The Red-Headed Goddess

THE RED-HEADED GODDESS

With burning face and hands like ice, Lorraine crept through the passageway. She had never been so frightened. The darkness, the clammy air that seemed to penetrate to her very bones, the increasing sense of mystery and adventure, and, above all, that strange rhythmic pounding that came louder and louder to her ears as she advanced, filled her with panic. She wanted to turn and flee, but it was the music that held her—the music, dull, barbaric, which struck on her jangled nerves with a curious hypnotic effect—and thoughts of Dirk. For Dirk's sake she must go on. So, like a person moving in her sleep, she went on.

The spell was broken for a moment as she came abruptly into a wider part of the tunnel where, with a gasp of relief, like a deep sea swimmer rising suddenly to the surface for air, she lifted herself upright. Listening intently, she judged herself now to be very near the end of the passageway, as the curious, confused music, hidden in the blackness ahead, was dividing itself into definite parts, the rattling and beating of instruments, the low, moaning wail of voices, and the soft stamping of many feet. Lorraine stood a long moment, then, drawing a deep breath, she extinguished her light and, groping with her hands against the stone walls, moved cautiously forward until she came abruptly to an end. Here she stopped and stared with wide eyes at the strangest scene she had ever beheld.

Before her was a good-sized cave, lit by a small fire in the very center. Ringed about this fire, with their backs to her, their arms about one another's shoulders, and their heads bent, were fifteen or twenty Indian men. They were naked, except for the skin girdles or loin cloths they wore, from which were suspended the swinging, furry tails of animals. Their brown bodies, Lorraine perceived, were painted with streaks and spots of white, and they wore most elaborate feathered head-dresses on their heads. They were singing a song, a primitive chant, that seemed to have no tune, and whose haunting rhythm was odd, irritating and elusive; yet distinctly it held a pattern, for the swaying figures, moving like a well-trained chorus, never hesitated in their shuffling stamps or quick, high steps, and their harsh voices never faltered on a single cadence.

Lorraine did not, could not, move. Here was no settlement. Here were no women, no children. This was no cliff dwelling, where normal Indian life proceeded. What was this indeed? Like a flash her father's words to her burned across her brain: "They are as wild and barbaric as they used to be, still clinging to their ancient customs and beliefs."

This, then, was a sacred ceremonial rite she was witnessing. It was a secret Indian mystery, gripping in its grotesqueness, its picturesqueness and its sincerity. Dared she break in on it? Dared she not break in on it? Was it better to linger and watch until there came a pause when she might fittingly make her presence known? Even as she hesitated, the strangeness of the scene held her spell-bound, unable to speak or move. She could only stare with unbelieving eyes, while the music filled her blood. Was she in a dream? Would she awaken presently and find herself back by the shelter in the cove with Dirk? Or even back in her big white house in California talking to her Dad? Things like this weren't possible in this day and age, her brain kept saying. They weren't real. They simply didn't happen. Yet here it was happening, and she was standing in the shadows, a spectator before a mystery she did not understand and could not believe she saw.

Abruptly the pattern shifted. The circle of Indians began moving about the fire, heads still bent, eyes lowered. Slowly they went, then faster and faster, gradually hastening their pace until they became, before her eyes, a wildly spinning wheel. Fantastic shadows leaped on reddened walls. Giant figures crouched in black corners. The little rattles and drums, manipulated by three frenzied men off to one side of the cave, drew the wailing chant high and higher. Suddenly some one threw a big stick on the flames and in its sudden brilliance came a crescendo in the performance. The Indians released their shoulder hold on one another, tossed their arms aloft, whirled about in their places and then, with a yell, flung something from their clenched fists into the fire. Instantly the music stopped and the cave was filled with a perfume of pungent fragrance.

Instantly, too, Lorraine was discovered, and the rigity and silence that followed were to the girl even more terrifying than their noise had been. Like graven images they stood and stared at her, out of hideous, grimacing, painted faces, and she, cowering in the opening, waited with beating heart for a threatening move.

But none was made, and at last their stillness and their silence became unbearable. Gathering herself together, she stepped slowly through the doorway and faced them with a brave manner.

"I am lost," she said in a cool clear tone. "I need help. Will you help me?"

At her approach, and the sound of her voice, they shrank away; and the girl paused, perplexed. Then came a lightning flash of intuition. Her totally unexpected and unexplained appearance held mystery, and hand in hand with mystery went fear. The thought gave her ourage. Lifting her head bravely she took another step toward them and repeated what she had said before, then stood waiting a reply

At last one Indian stirred and advanced. He was the oldest of them all, the most withered, the most bent, yet apparently he held the authority, for the others closed in behind him and left him the lead. For an interminable length of time he fixed her with a deep scrutiny, which she bore unflinchingly, but at last he spoke. His speech was quite long and punctuated with many swift, short gestures that were utterly unintelligible to the watching girl. When he had done, he folded his arms and stood awaiting her answer. But Lorraine could only shake her head hopelessly.

"I—I don't understand," she began.

Instantly the leader flung up an arm, said something briefly to the other, who grunted in agreement, and they all rushed upon her, mutteringly angrily. Terrified, she shrank away, groping with a hand behind her for the opening in the wall, but, in less time than it takes to tell it, each of her wrists was seized in a grip of iron and, in a hubbub of emphatic gesticulations and harsh voices, she was pulled to the center of the cave close to the fire. At the same time, to her complete stupefaction, she heard a murmur of broken English whispered softly in her ear.

"The white girl is in danger. But she must seem not afraid. It is important that she seem not afraid. Then I, Silver Tongue, can save her."

The savages were surging back and forth about her, in a restless and tremendous excitement. It seemed to Lorraine that at any moment their violence might break forth, but, heeding the unexpected words of the big Indian on her right, she stiffened and drew herself up haughtily, forcing her glance to travel in a scornful way from one wild, dancing figure to another. At last it rested on the old leader. His painted face seemed to her the most horrible of all and through the mask before her was peering a pair of glittering eyes—cruel eyes, human eyes, eyes that searched for everything and revealed nothing of what they found—and the girl made herself meet that long, probing stare steadily.

It was a strange moment. In that locked look lay her bright, desperate courage, and in his, lay what? She tried to guess, to pierce behind that gleaming glance, but it was impossible. It was utterly impossible for her to know that in the savage breast before her was boiling a tumult of fear, that in his soul lay an ancient, silent cry to the unseen deities in whom he pinned his faith, a fervent prayer for a sign, that he might know whether she was a white woman or a goddess.

So she stared waiting for she knew not what, and he stared, waiting for her to reveal herself unmistakably, and neither moved. Dimly she saw herself as a slim white figure at the mercy of these dark savages, and grimly she held to her courage. Silver Tongue, who gripped her right wrist, had told her not to seem afraid. It was important that she seem not afraid. Ever so slightly, she lifted her head still higher, but her eyes never shifted from the bright black ones before her.

As for Scarface—old medicine man of the tribe—well he knew that a false move on his part meant ruin. The unheralded appearance of this white girl was wrapped in mystery. Where had she come from, out of this still, moonlit night? How had she got here without help, without companions? How had she found this place, unknown even to members of their own tribe? There was a magic in it, no doubt, a witchery about it, yet she had failed to understand the Indian language. If she was a goddess, could she not interpret their words? If she was not a goddess, if she was merely a white girl who had blundered upon their most sacred and secret ceremonial, never witnessed by a single Indian woman, ah! in that case she had seen too much. She knew too much. No woman, no white woman, even no Indian woman in the span of time he had known, could see what she had seen, could know all that she knew, and go back into the world—alive.

So he hesitated, his beliefs and his doubts tearing him in two, his wild, untutored desire for revenge on the girl before him only held in check by the terror that the white woman might, after all, be more than a mortal. And to lay hands on a goddess! It was possible, even probable, that his long interval of silent skepticism had provoked her wrath, that she was, even now, preparing to hurl upon him the thunderbolt of her anger, the lightning flash of her power. Swift and terrible would be his punishment, and the punishment of all his tribe, if he erred in this matter.

"Scarface beholds a white woman—yes. But Scarface beholds more than a white woman."

The bright eyes shifted quickly to the Indian face. Relieved from the tension of meeting that probing look, Lorraine listened to the conversation that followed, trying vainly to interpret it, but only aware that Silver Tongue was pleading for her life and that his smooth, quiet words and his confident manner gave her her first glimmer of hope. He continued speaking to the old patriarch:

"Your own doubt tells you of this truth. And at the same time this doubt is not pleasing to Estsantlehi."

"Estsanatlehi?"

The word was caught up by Scarface and repeated, in low, awed murmurers, by some of the others. Lorraine realized that her unknown friend had produced a decided effect, and watched with increasing excitement as the old man retreated a step or two and replied in a curt, commanding voice to Silver Tongue.

"Silver Tongue has a silver ongue indeed, that with it he dares give the name of the wife of the Sun God to this stranger."

"Silver Tongue has more than a tongue," he retorted quickly. "Silver Tongue has eyes for seeing and a long memory."

"Let Silver Tongue say what he sees that is hidden from the sight of the rest of us. And let him tell what he remembers that others have forgot."

The young Indian pressed his advantage in rapid emphatic speech. Turning toward Lorraine, he touched the girl's red hair with light reverent fingers.

"I see this, that is gilded by the sun's hot rays, that is kissed by the Sun God until it flames like the Sun God himself, who is her husband." His hand slipped lower, caught a fold of her soft evening gown and pulled it out. "And I see this, a robe of blue, sea color, whence Estasanatlehi comes from her island home in the sea of the west, and color of our turquoise, color of the earth stone where Estasanatlehi condescends to visit. I see—" he made a sweeping gesture from Lorraine's head to her heels—"fire from the sea, a flame from the sky. I see Estasanatlehi herself, cool and composed as the sea and air before our own ungracious welcome, unafraid before our threats. I see," he paused significantly, "the wife of the Sun God, descended to us on the wings of the Great Bird who flew from the west over our canyon home not fourteen days since." Folding his arms, he came to a quiet conclusion, biting in its sarcasm. "Is it for Silver Tongue, the youngest member, to open the eyes of its oldest medicine man to the wonder that has come to us? Or is it that Scarface has so far stepped down his declining days that his vision is dimmed and his memory weak?"

At this Scarface made a grunt of anger.

"Scarface is not blind with age, nor forgetful with the years that he carries. Scarface sees all that the eyes of Silver Tongue has seen. But Scarface is cautious, and Scarface wishes to be wise as a serpent. Estsanatlehi she may be! If that is so, all is well. But also Estsanatlehi she may not be. And the burden of this decision rests on the shoulders of Scarface, who for many years has carried the rites and mysteries of his tribe in his heart. Some of these secrets are now known to this stranger. If she be Estsanatlehi, they are safe. But if she be not the goddess you have named, Scarface must know, for nothing must ever be revealed to the world without." He drew his bent old figure as upright as possible, and, pointing his finger into her face, addressed Lorraine directly in a commanding voice: "So I say, let Estsanatlehi give a sign! Let Estsanatlehi show her power!"

Although she could not catch the significance of a word, Lorraine instinctively knew that they were waiting for some action on her part. With a little gasp she turned to Silver Tongue.

"Oh, dear! What'll I do now?"

But his gaze was as stolid as the others, his eyes as uncomprehending of what she said, and she realized instantly that for some reason it was not safe for them to converse together. Whatever she did now must be thought of by herself alone, and it must be as dramatic as possible. Her movement was blindly impulsive. Sweeping one arm slowly upward, she snapped the cigarette lighter, and stood poised with the tiny fire flickering apparently from her finger tips.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

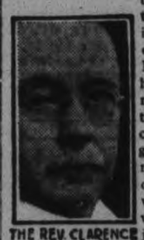
PREPARED BY THE REV. CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D. FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

NEIGHBORS

"And who is my neighbor?"—Luke 10:29. (Read Luke 10:25:37.)

Meditation

The most cruel punishment ever devised was solitary confinement. Its victims went insane for they had no neighbors. Robinson Crusoe is not a boy's book, it is an attempt to solve the problem of solitude without sacrificing reason. The philosophic ingenuity of DeFoe failed and he had to bring in the man Friday. One of the evils of great cities is that they give us people but not neighbors. In the quiet of the country we have neighbors who can share our joys and sorrows and who are always ready with their help in time of trouble.



THE REV. CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D.

There speech is more rare but also more intimate and sacred. To have a neighbor is to have one of life's richest treasures, to be a neighbor is to find the way to our sweetest joys.

"And sweet it is
To sit, echoing spirit with singing spirit,
As friend with friend by the wayside of the years,
Above the dust of time and circumstance,
And hear, in the lone hour of delight,
The sacred things that man hath said to man
For comfort of his sad and wondering heart."

Prayer

Our Father who art the Father of all, give us the grace of friendship and lead us in the way of kindness toward all Thy children, especially to those in need. In Jesus' name. Amen.

What To-day Means To You

'PISCES'

If March 6th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a.m. to noon, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m, and from 9 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 1 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8:10 p.m.

The planetary aspects of March 6th indicate more favorable time for those of mature age than for the younger and more enthusiastic. To the former, financial benefit and increased power and responsibility will be vouchsafed, to the latter, minor disappointments and slow progress.

Children born on this March 6th will always retain the spirits and disposition of their early days. They will lack in shrewdness, never take themselves seriously, and will have a keen sense of humor. They will be rather irresponsible, but always happy and contented.

If you were born on March 6th, you are exceptionally intelligent. You realize your own limitations, and are never tempted to express an opinion on any subject or topic with which you are not thoroughly conversant. Your taciturnity is not a pose. It is your defense, and others, when you look wise and say nothing, credit you with more ability than you actually possess. Your air of reserve invites confidence, and, to a certain extent, you have succeeded in capitalizing silence.

You are a deep thinker, although you fail to give your thoughts words. You derive more pleasure from the role of an onlooker than you would if a participant. Your word, however, when given, is your bond. You make few promises, but always keep them. You are absolutely dependable, and people trust you implicitly. You work hard, and are rather indifferent to success, as measured by material rewards. Your chief delight is the glory of achievement. You can generally spot the weaknesses in any organization—be it a business or a home—and your "metier" is systematization, although you would hesitate to call yourself an expert along these lines.

In your home, you unbend, and your many good traits ensure you the respect as well as the affection of those who comprise your family circle.

DOPE AVAILABLE INSIDE BURWASH

Information Comes Out as Former Addict Appears in Hamilton Court.

HAMILTON, Ont., Mar. 6.—Conditions on the Industrial Farm at Burwash so far as the care of prisoners who are drug addicts is concerned were referred to by C. W. Ballard, Crown Attorney in police court this morning.

Gilbert Haggarty was brought before the court on a charge of vagrancy. It was stated that he had been a drug addict some years ago, and had been confined at Burwash, later being released. As it was found that he had returned to former habits, the charge of vagrancy was laid.

Magistrate Burbidge stated that the best remedy in the case would be a further term at the Industrial Farm. Mr. Ballard voiced objection.

"I am told by prisoners who have been there that there is more 'dope' to be had in Burwash than outside," the Crown Attorney said. "They say that 'trusties' get the dope off trains and convey it to the prisoners."

The Magistrate remarked that the officials of the prison should know of this.

Drugs Guarded Against.

TORONTO, Ont. March 6 (C.P.).—"That is one of the things we always guard against in our penal institutions," said Hon. Leopold MacAulay, Provincial Secretary, when asked as to the reference made in the Hamilton Police Court by the Crown Attorney to "dope" being accessible at the Ontario Government Industrial Farm, Burwash.

"If any one can give us reliable evidence, of illicit traffic in narcotic drugs, we will be grateful for that information," added Hon. Mr. MacAulay. H. M. Robins, Deputy Provincial Secretary, further stated that he did not believe it possible to secure drugs in that institution, for those drug addicts committed there are housed in a separate building five miles from the institution proper.

10,000 Chinese Troops Revolt And Join Reds

HANKOW, China, March 6. (AP)—Ten thousand Chinese Government soldiers mutinied Wednesday at Sinyant, 100 miles north of here, and joined forces with 10,000 Communists, said delayed advances reaching here to-night.

The mutineers tore up tracks of the Peiping-Hankow Railway and cut telegraph wires.

Military authorities here are preparing to dispatch eight trainloads of troops to subdue the rebellious soldiers.

The mutiny is believed to have resulted from Red propaganda and the soldiers' belief they were to be disbanded.

FUMES TO BE ELIMINATED.

TRAIL, B.C., Mar. 6.—(C.P.)—Obnoxious fumes from the smelter of Consolidated and Smelting Company here, drifting over the international boundary line into the State of Washington, and which yesterday caused the International Joint Commission to award an amount of $350,000 as compensation the company must pay to damage claimants, will soon be eliminated.

A $10,000,000 plant for the manufacture of sulphuric acid in large quantities which will bring about elimination of the sulphur dioxide fumes which caused the damage in the State of Washington will be in full opeartion this summer. The plant is in partial operation at present.

LINER DELAYED.

HAVRE, France, March 6 (C.P.).—The Ile de France, due here early today, was delayed by heavy gales in the eastern Atlantic and will not arrive until nearly midnight.

GREAT LAKES BOND INTEREST MAY BE PAID

60 Days of Grace May Save Situation For Paper Company.

BLAME M. AND O. COM.

(Financial Times.)

Passing of the interest due March 1 on the $10,000,000 of 6 per cent first mortgage bonds of Great Lakes Paper Co. came as a surprise. The half-yearly interest charge amounts to $300,000.

It is stated that the trust deed gives the company 60 days of grace in the payment of the interest. There are predictions that the interest will be paid before the expiration of this term on May 1.

M. & O. in Receivership.

Failure to pay the interest on the due is attributed, without official confirmation, to the fact that Minesota & Ontario Paper Co. on February 28 went into voluntary receivership, with E. W. Backus, the head of the enterprise, as co-receiver. Operations are continuing.

This receivership was the result of Minnesota & Ontario's failure to provide refunding of $3,500,000 of 6 per cent five-year notes which matured on March 1. A subsidiary company, National Pole & Treating Co. has $2,000,000 of notes maturing December 1, of this year.

Is Affiliated Company.

There is no corporate connection between Great Lakes Paper and Minnesota & Ontario Paper, but it is believed that there have been intimate relations in that both are controlled by the Backus Brooks interests of Minneapolis. Prior to the building of the Great Lakes newsprint mill, and probably since, it is understood that pulpwood and pulp from the Great Lakes limits went to Minneapolis & Ontario and to other Backus-Books companies.

The only balance sheet of Great Lakes Paper which appears to have been published was included in the circular offering the bonds for public subscription. This balance sheet was as of December 31, 1927. It showed $177,300 due from affiliated companies and $2,010,000 in cash.

As at December 31, 1929, (the latest report available), Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co. showed working capital of $8,520,497, the ratio of current assets to current liabilities being 2.21 to 1. Of the current assets of $15,571,391, there was $2,174,087 in cash, against a bank loan of $3,600,000.

REFORM PARTY RETAINS LEAD

Results Show Laborites Lost Five Seats in London County Council.

COMMUNIST DEFEATED.

LONDON, Mar. 6.— (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent.)—The Municipal Reform Party, otherwise known as the Conservatives, retain a substantial majority in the London County Council following yesterday's elections.

The Labor Party lost at least five seats, to-day's results indicated. With some results yet to be declared, the standing is as follows:

Municipal Reform	68

Independent	1

The standing in the former Council was: Municipal Reform 77, Labor 42, Liberal five.

Shapurji Saklatvala, former Communist Member of Parliament, was defeated in Battersea, polling only 723 votes against the 4,781 for the victorious candidate.

Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the Prime Minister, again headed the poll in Poplar. Labor retained all their Southwark seats, where triangular fights were waged through the organization of unemployed mens representatives.

LEGGE'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Mar. 6 (AP) President Hoover has accepted the resignation of Alexander P. Legge as Chairman of the Farm Board.

Sir Malcolm Campbell (right), British speed king, is here seen being congratulated by the Lord Mayor of London on establishing a new world's land record and also on being made a knght. Lady Campbell is in the centre of the group.

Swope Is Cautious Against Buoyancy

NEW YORK, March 6.—Gerard Swope, president of General Electric Company, while visiting the company's plant at Lynn, Mass., was asked about business conditions, to which he replied:

"There is not a question in my mind that we will work out of the present situation nicely The situation, in my opinion, will be no worse. I am hopeful of a better stability I do not think we should be too buoyant

"It may be that too much has been said. Most certainly conditions will be no worse. I am not bringing a prophecy.

ADD 300 TONS DAILY OUTPUT AT HOLLINGER

May Take Lead From Lake Shore Team For Short Time.

VALUES ARE UP $5.25.

PORCUPINE, March 6.—As forecast in The Financial Post several weeks ago, Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines plans to increase its production to approximately 4,800 tons daily. The current daily production is 4,500 tons.

That this production will definitely restore it to the premier position as Canada's largest gold producer is only a conjecture, as while the lead assumed by Lake Shore Mines in January may not hold for every month throughout the year, the indications are that the total production from Lake Shore for 1931 will definitely place it in the lead and that future years will see even greater production from that Kirkland Lake property.

Lake Shore is steadily working toward a production rate of $1,000,000 per month. That concern may not stop at $1,000,000 per month but may go on increasing the capacity of its mill so as to secure the profits from all the ore contained in the mine as quickly as possible.

To produce $1,000,000 per month, Hollinger's ore will necessarily yield an average of close to $7 to the ton. Hollinger has not been showing an average recovery of $7 to the ton, despite the fact that it is referred to by the president of the company as "a seven dollar mine." In January, 1931, it produced 13,340 tons with an average recovery of $5.25 per ton.

With further reference to the question of leadership, Hollinger can take the lead from Lake Shore temporarily, possibly, but the Pofcupine concern has already received one severe lesson for overstepping and is not likely to take further chances. Old age must give place to youth and these who expect Hollinger to maintain the lead over Lake Shore for any very important period are calling on the great Porcupine producer for too much. Nevertheless, it should be borne in mind that Hollinder Consolidated is in a better position at this time than for many years past.

NEW SPEED PLANE READY FOR TEST

Machine With Retractable Landing Gear to be Piloted By Col. Lindbergh.

HOPES TO EXCEED 259 M.P.H.

BURBANK, Cal., March 6 (C.P.).—With one speed mark already to the credit of its sister ship, a swift monoplane which may assault other air records waited in a hangar here today for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

Embodying a combined retractable landing gear-streamlining feature that is the product of the flying Colonel's brain, a trim Lockheed Sirius plane proved its mettle yesterday in the first long test flight made since the Lindbergh idea was adopted.

With Vance Breese, test pilot at its controls, the ship sped from Oakland to Burbank—estimated 355 miles airline—in one hour and 33 minutes, lowering the previous mark of the hop almost 20 minutes, and averaging 229 miles per hour.

A similar plane with a higher powered engine is awaiting Colonel Lindbergh's pleasure at the plant here.

"Colonel Lindbergh's suggestion that landing gears should be retractable and slide up into the wing while in flight, increased the speed of the plane from Oakland to this port by about 32 miles per hour," Russel Peck, superintendent of the Lockheed plant, said. "The ship flown by Breese had a 420 horse-power motor. Colonel Lindbergh's is powered with a 550 horse-power engine. This should add another 30 miles per hour to the Colonel's new plane, letting it compare favorably with any ship flown excepting special racing jobs."

Demand 6 Vancouver M.P.P.'s Resign Posts

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 6.—The Vancouver Province publishes the following in its news columns.

"A resolution demanding the resignations of the six Vancouver members of the Provincial Legislature was passed at a meeting of the Central Conservative Executive according to reports in party circles.

"The motion came as the climax of severe criticism of the Conservative Government and followed one expressing non-confidence in the Government.

PUBLIC OPINION FAVORS RESULT REACHED IN INDIA

Laborites and Liberals Heartily Approve Irwin's Truce With Gandhi.

TORIES WEAKEN SLIGHTLY.

Morning Post Maintains British Prestige Has Been Lowered.

LONDONN, March 6 (C.P.).—Although there were dissenting voices, British public opinion to-day on the whole appeared to favor the settlement reached in India.

The Labor Party and a large section of the Liberals heartily approved the truce with Gandhi and his Nationalists, while moderate conservative opinion evidently began to take the view that rumors of the surrender of the Government to Gandhi had been exaggerated.

The more extreme Conservatives and Imperialists on the other hand indignantly condemned the entire negotiations and their result.

The London Times, strikingly moderate, saw no vital or important surrender to the Nationalists and viewed Gandhi as really desirous of peace. "The advantages of the settlement can hardly be exaggerated," the paper said.

Thanks Due To Irwin.

The Conservative Morning Post admitted that thanks were due to Lord Irwin for obtaining abandonment of the boycott as a political weapon by the Nationalists and expected the result to be advantageous to the cotton industry. The paper nevertheless maintained that British prestige had been lowered and the clause of law and order weakened.

Making a similar point, the Telegraph insinuated a doubt that the Nationalists would carry out the terms of the agreement, and withheld its judgment until later. The Laborite Herald bestowed its blessing upon the settlement, while the Liberal News-Chronicle said: "If there has been any surrender it has been a surrender to common sense."

The Imperialist Daily Mail urged that the Conservatives determinedly refuse to participate in a new Round Table conference. "There has been enough of the buffoonery and blarney with which these conferences deal," the paper said.

The Imperialist Daily Express called the agreement "well intentioned but a tragic blunder which has struck a terrible blow to British prestige in the East."

IMMENSE CAMP GIVEN TO SCOUTS

Island of 1,000 Acres is Located in Big Whitefish Lake in Gatineau Country.

45 MILES NORTH OF OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Ont., March 6.—(CP)—The Boy Scouts of Canada now have their own holiday and training center—an islar ' of 1,000 acres located in Big Whitefish Lake in the rolling Gatineau country of Quebec abundantly wooded and situated in an area where there is almost limitless water facilities for canoeing and fishing, so called "Mystery Island" is some 45 miles north of Ottawa. The surrounding hills form a paradise for hikers.

The newly acquired scout camp was originally a part of the James MacLaren Company timber holdings. When suggestion was made that it would make an ideal camp site for the Scouts it was willingly surrendered to the Crown.

In the warm summer months the young Canadians will live under tents but it is planned eventually to make the island an all-year-round center. The famed scout camp at Gilwell, Eng., will be used as a model.

Firemen Rescue Four From Blaze In Toronto

TORONTO, Ont., March 6. (CP)—Four persons were carried down ladders to safety by firemen and 19 others escaped unaided, clad only in night attire, when fire gutted a three storey building on Church Street early to-day.

The blaze which is thought to have started from an oil furnace in the basement, was difficult to fight owing to the fact that the basement and first floor was occupied by a manufacturers company, makers of candles, incense and statuary, which made a very smoky fire.

SCOTT STONE NOW PLANNED FOR HALIFAX

North British Society to Honor Memory of Great Novelist.

ERECT BRONZE STATUE

HALIFAX, N.S., March 6.—(By Canadian Press)—The North British Society founded one hundred and sixty three years ago for charitable, patriotic and social purposes, has had in hand for some time the project of erecting in Halifax an heroic statue in bronze of Sir Walter Scott, and hopes to have the first statue of the Scottish novelist erected in Canada in the anniversary year of 1932. In the office of Alvin F. MacDonald, Dominion Archivist, is a model in miniature, the work of Massey Rhind, portraying the author of the Waverley novels, seated on a base of granite.

Mr. MacDonald is a past president of the North British the oldest national society in Canada, and with the exception of the Scots Charitable Society of Boston, the oldest Scottish organization on the continent of America. The society erected the statue of Burns, a replica of the celebrated monument at Aur, which stands in Victoria Park.

The North British Society was founded in March, 1768, nineteen years after Edward Cornwall founded the first permanent British town in the territory now comprising British North America. It has functioned without interruption during this period, the annual dinners on St. Andrew's Day being foregone only during the war years.

"Scottish societies bearing the name of the patron saint are numerous in Canada and the United States, but there is only one North British Society," says Mr. MacDonald. "It was founded by a company of fourteen Scotsmen who met at the house of one of their number, John Taylor, which still stands at the corner of Granville and Salter streets."

The constitution and by-laws drawn up and adopted at the first meeting, which in the main are still in force, give the name as the North British Society or Scots Club. Its objects were primarily to assist Scottish immigrant landing in the colony, to cultivate a spirit of brotherhood among Scotsmen resident in the community, to establish a medium of communication with others in the neighboring colonies, and to maintain the bonds of union with the old country.

MOSS SUPPLY AT SCITUATE

Revival in Industry of Gathering Irish Sea Moss.

FOR ALE CLARIFIER

SCITUATE, Mass., March 6.—Until the Eighteenth Amendment was passed this town had world-wide fame as the home of the finest Irish moss outside the Emerald Isle. Interest in the gathering of this product from the rugged shores of Scituate has revived, with Fred A. Conroy, "Moss King" of the south shore, resuming activity in the industry. It was Conroy's grandfather, who in 1847, first discovered the valuable sea-growth in Scituate waters.

The secret of clear beers and ales lies in the proper use of Irish sea moss as a clarifier. Before prohibition, United States brewers depended upon the Scituate supply for clearing and giving body and nutritiousness to their products In former years upwards of 25,000 barrels of moss were shipped annually to the brewers The Volstead Act, however, decidedly halted the flourishing trades.

Despite prohibition, the once thriving industry that brought thousands of visitors here each summer to see acres of moss drying on the hot sands, did not come to a dead stop. Paste, paint, blanc mange and blacking manufacturers still use the growth, and many cotton mills also employ it to put a finish on certain manufactured cloth.

The sea moss industry is strenuous and younger men of the town religiously avoid it. The average working day during the gathering season from May to September is from 16 to 18 hours. An iron rake, with a 15-foot handles, a head 18 inches wide, and with 30 teeth measuring eight inches in length, is used. Plenty of strength is required to tear the moss from rocky ledges lining the shore. The younger generation, according to Conroy, is unequal to the task.

The moss is gathered in dories, conveyed to shore and spread out to dry. It flourishes to a depth of 40 feet, but usually the product has no commercial value when deeper than 14 feet.

Bleaching is arduous work, requiring from one to six weeks. The moss has to be turned over many times each day.

Conroy is experimenting with his Irish moss in an effort to compete with Japanese agar, which after treatment is used as a jelly desert. He is also negotiating with leading breweries of the country. However, local "home" brewers are not worrying regarding their own modest supply of the clarifier.

In The Legislatures

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 6. (CP)—Government legislation will be considered.

Yesterday in the Legislature:

In Saskatchewan

REGINA, Sask., March 6. (CP)—Unanimous approval was given by the Saskatchewan Legislature yesterday to an amended resolution urging the Government to ask Ottawa to establish without delay a commission to investigate conditions in Western Canada, and that meanwhile the Government should call a further debator-and-creditor conference for the purpose of finding some way of readjusting indebtedness in this province.

The amendment was supported by J. G. Gardiner, Leader of the Opposition who was the mover of the original resolution calling for a debtor-and-creditor conference with a special committee of the legislature.

In Manitoba

WINNIPEG, Man., March 6. (CP) Indirect notice that the Government would oppose a resolution favoring an embargo on United States corn entering Canada was given in the Legislature here. Hon. R. A. Hoey, Minister of Education, declared such a move would have no effect in bettering the price on barley in the Dominion and said he failed to see what purpose the plan would serve.

Canada, said Mr. Hoey, imported between 12,000,000 and 14,000,000 bushels of corn annually for distillation as a popular food and for live-stock feeding. It could not be seriously suggested, he said, that an embargo on this United States product would put up the price of barley "a fraction of a cent." More barley might be grown in Canada but the minister could not see where it would be sold.

THE SUGAR BUSH

By Molly Bevan
The Blue Bell Poetess

Sunlight upon the snow, and in the woods
No faintest hint of Spring; while, in the trees,
Hang long prismatic crystal icicles
That send a tinkling echo down the breeze.
Yet, in the maple's heart the sap's astir,
Flowing more freely as each sunny day
Reclaims frost's nightly capture. To and fro
From tree to cauldron and again away,
Like human bees, the sugar-makers go,
Plundering the precious nectar; while the Spring
Bides, still, her time and smiles amusedly
To watch tired Winter's tardy harvesting
Make the sweet syrup's amber clarity
Like molten gold from some October tree.

UNABLE TO CRIMP HAIR OF LAWYER SAYS PLAINTIFF

Judgment For $23.80 is Given Ennie McCracken by Judge O'Connor.

CLAIMED $50.00.

Judgment for the sum of $23.80, without costs, was given by His Honor Judge L. V. O'Connor, in an action heard before him this morning in the first division court of the County of Peterborough, in favor of plaintiff Ennie McCracken, who had entered a claim for $50.00 against Madame M. Merriam, this sum having been paid to defendant by the plaintiff and her sister Olive to learn the "art of marcelling."

In evidence it transpired that the Misses McCracken had no definite agreement as to the number of lessons they were to receive. They understood they were to continue at the classes until they were both proficient. Each had received about seven or eight lessons, they stated, which commenced on December 10, 1929.

Cross-examined by J. A. O'Brien, acting for Madame Merriam, Ennie McCracken said they knew they were starting after the commencement of the classes, and that they were breaking in on the term. She had missed some of the lessons by reason of sickness, and others due to the fact that Madame Merriam was away at a convention and was later removing to new premises. She contended that she was not yet a competent marceller.

His Honor: Mr. O'Brien says you are quite an expert marceller.

Witness: Well, if Mr. O'Brien had enough hair, I would show him that I could not even put a crimp in it.

Similar evidence was given by Olive McCracken.

Madame Merriam thought that if plaintiff and her sister would refresh their memories, they would find they had attended more than seven or eight classes.

His Honor said there was some contention about a contract, but he had no doubt the fees had been paid.

"It was hardly to be expected that these girls should go to learn marcelling and expect to receive tuition until proficient, regardless of the time it took," he observed.

A. L. Elliott appeared for plaintiff.

CROWN WINDS UP NOGARET CASE

Antonio Godon, the "Fainting Witness," Again Called to Stand.

LETTER COMES UP.

MONTREAL, Que., Mar. 6.—(C.P.)—The Crown to-day closed its case in the trial of Brother Dosithee, or Albert Nogaret, charged wth the murder of Simone Caron, 7 year old child, whose body was found tied in a potato sack in the cellar of the Rousain Academy last autumn. Besides knife wounds, the little body showed signs of criminal assault. Nogaret was a kitchen worker at the Academy.

Antoni Godon, 20, the "fainting witness" who has collapsed seven times on the witness stand, was again called. He was questioned by defense counsel who had previously suggested the witness was the real author of the letter produced yesterday by the Crown. The letter, scrawled on the white exterior of an envelope lined with blue, purported to be a confession on the part of the real murderer, who urged that Nogaret be set free as he was innocent.

Joseph Jean, one of the defence counsel, elicted from Godon the fact tha he kept many such envelopes in his room at the Academy. It was pointed out that the letter Godon left behind him when he attempted suicide, shortly after the crime, was written on a similar envelope. That letter read "I am innocent," and was destined for the authorities after his death.

Nevertheless, the defence did not ask Godon whether or not he had written the mysterious confession letter produced by the Crown yesterday.

INVASION OF INDIA BY BOLSHEVIKS NOT FEARED BY MAHATMA GANDHI

Sees the Day When New Delhi Not Downing Street Will Be Centre of Nation.

AIM COMPLETE SELF GOV'T.

NEW DELHI, India, March 6 (C. P. Cable). — An intimation of Mahatma Gandhi's attitude towards Bolshevism, as he called it, was given by the Mahatma to-day in an interview with press correspondents After repeating his hope that India would eventually have complete independence within the British Empire, Gandhi said:

"I fear no invasion by the Bolsheviks. If they are trying to establish a revolution in India, that pre-supposes that the Indian people are more gullible than they really are. Insofar as there is good in Bolshevism, as I think there is, India will need no invasion by the Soviets to convert her."

Want Complete Self Government.

Gandhi declared the Nationalists believed in complete self-government with discipline from within. "Some of my associates believe British statesmen will never reconcile themselves to absolute equality with India," he continued. "I may be a visionary, but I hold differently. I see the day when New Delhi and not Downing Street will be the centre of the Indian nation."

Gandhi said he hoped the first part of the coming Round Table Conference would be held in India and the second in London. The proposed safeguards respecting finance and defence under the constitutional plan accepted at the London Conference are not acceptable to the Nationalists in their present form, Gandhi said. Nevertheless, Gandhi had signed the agreement with the Viceroy pledging the Nationalists to co-operate in the discussions, on the basis of the London plan. The safeguard regarding minorities was reasonable, he agreed, as well as the safeguard protecting India's credit and commercial expansion.

The Mahatma opposes repudiation of any part of the Indian national debt, he said, but his party insists that only just obligations of any nature shall be imposed upon the Indian Government.

used in the Ladies' Aid work throughout the year.

After some discussion it was decided not to have a Christmas Fair this year and to divide the society into ten groups.

After the convenors of the groups were secured to place the members' names on slips and have them drawn for and that each group in whatever way they thought best try to raise money for the work of the Aid. It was also decided to have an Anniversary Fowl Supper sponsored by the Society.

A resolution was passed that the choir and orchestra be banqueted as has been the custom for several years, Mr. Howat to be consulted as to a suitable date.

Several coming events were announced and general routine business taken up, after which the meeting closed by repeating Mizpah Benediction in unison.

TRAWLER DISABLED

BOSTON, Mass., March 6. (CP)—Word was received by the Coast Guard to-day that the steam trawler Shawmut of Boston, with 15 men aboard, was disabled 150 miles due east of Boston light and the cutter Agassiz was dispatched to her aid.

The Agassiz, which was cruising off the New England coast, was not expected to reach the Shawmut before ten o'clock to-night. Meanwhile, the Shawmut with its engine out of commission, was being buffeted by heavy seas.

SHIPPING SUSPENDED.

SAINT JOHN, N.B., March 6 (C.P.)—All shipping was suspended in this section of the Bay of Fundy yesterday owing to the high winds which swept the Atlantic seaboard. No vessels, foreign or coastal, arrived or departed from Saint John. But one ship, the Elder Dempster liner, Clunepark, which left here Wednesday for East African ports, has moved through this port since the storm broke early Wednesday morning.

A PATRIOTIC SONG

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Great Britain has been loaning Russia large sums to enable Russia to buy from Britain and thus keep her British people employed.

The U.S. has been loaning Russia immense sums of enable Russia to buy from the U.S. and thus keep the latter's people employed.

Canada refuses to trade with Russia, refuses to let Russia ever buy from Canada without a loan, people out of employment or not.

Is it fear of the Soviet system?

This disregard of the right of people to have employment makes one think of the dear old song, "Hail! Hail! the Gang's All Here (Ottawa) What the hell do we care?"

CONGRATULATES COUNTY

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—In reading the opinions of several of the gentlemen about the move the County Council has made about road building, these hard times, I wish to say the County Council is to be congratulated on the stand they have taken.

The Mayor says that they did not even consult the City Council about it. What right have they to consult them? Do they ever consult the County about anything? They never go near them, only when they go nagging at them for some money.

It looks as it this road building and tourist trade have run away with all thought of other business with some people. I notice in The Examiner an ad to patronize the home town. I like that motto, but how can you do it when you have nothing to do it with?

Let up on this road building and let our taxes down a little. Then we might be able to buy more from the merchants in our home town. Say a farmer paying $100 taxes on a small farm was reduced $25, then he could take money and go to some dry goods merchant and buy a suit of clothes but the government says hold on, we want that money to build roads for the tourists; so the poor old farmer has to go home and say to his good old wife, "Sew on another patch, Mary."

Or he may want to buy some farm implement, so he goes to some implement dealer and tells him he will pay him a small cash payment on it but the government says, "We want that money to build roads for the tourists." So there is nothing left for him to do but go to some hardware dealer and buy a coil of wire, and wire up the old machine to make it do a while longer.

So that is the way the merchants lose money in our home town—every dollar for road building. Alderman Phelan must be very short sighted himself, when he can't see where all the money is going and the merchants losing money. I would like somebody to explain to me what benefit this tourist trade is to the farmer. He is taxed to build roads and all he gets back is the breeze from one of their cars going along at a mile a minute. There are a lot of people wondering what is causing all this depression. Well there is a good many will find out. They will have to take their foot off the accelerator and put it on the brakes and that before long.

RELIEF NOT CHARITY

To The Editor of The Examiner,

Sir,—It is understood that the various so-called relief funds contributed at this trying time for "relief" of distress are carried out through the City charity offices.

There is I hope, a well-understood difference between relief and charity and it is no kindness to people who would rather cut their right hand off than ask for charity to subject them to what is little less than an insult.

Common Sense.

MUNICIPAL INCOME TAX YIELDS CITY $32,000

ABOLISHMENT OF TAX WOULD MEAN EXTRA MILL AND ONE-HALF ADDED TO GENERAL TAX RATE OF THE CITY

City Council is Opposed to Bill Which is Now Before Legislature.

GIVEN SECOND READING.

Leaders on Both Sides of Legislature Are Apparently in Favor of Bill.

The bill to abolish municipal income tax in Ontario, which passed its second reading in the Legislature on Wednesday, would mean a loss in taxation to the City of Peterborough of more than $32,000 annually. If such income taxation were cut off from the city and expenditures remained the same then an addition of a mill and a half would have to be made in the tax rate.

These figures were given The Examiner yesterday by City Assessor W. J. Henry, who views the prospect of the abolition of the income tax with some alarm, as indicated in his report to the Council.

The bill appears to have the sympathy of Premier Henry, Attorney-General Price, W. E. N. Sinclair, leader of the Liberals in the House, and other prominent members of both parties. Although the bill has come up on the floor of the House annually in recent years it never previously reached its present stage or had apparently so much support.

Council is Opposed

Peterborough's City Council is absolutely opposed to the abolition of the income tax and expressed its opinion in no uncertain manner at Monday night's meeting. A resolution opposing any changes in the Income Tax Act was introduced by Alderman MacDonald and passed unanimously. The Council seemed so united in their view that the income tax should be collected that the resolution passed without comment.

The Council's resolution was forwarded to J. F. Strickland, local member of the Provincial Legislature.

The City Assessor went fully into the importance of the Income Tax to the city's treasury in his report to the Council. He pointed out that the city would lose an assessment of $815,905 and such loss would result in an increased assessment of realty and business.

"In this connection I would like to bring to the attention of the Council the fact that there is an attempt by a small but influencial portion of the public throughout Ontario to have assessment of incomes abolished," stated Mr. Henry. "This year the attempt is to be made to have the Act made optional, which if successful would mean that next year the Act would be abolished.

"If this is done it will mean that in this City we would lose an assessment of $815,905, which would have to be made up by an increased assessment of realty and business."

Fall on Home Owner

"Many of our factories have a fixed assessment so that the large part of the increase would fall on the home owner and the merchant, those least able to pay. In this city last year there were 235 persons assessed for income, one third of whom are not otherwise assessed. The other two-thirds are in receipt of incomes of from $3,500 up to $100,000 and are surely more able to pay than the householder whose income in many cases does not exceed $1,400 or $1,500 a year."

In conclusion Mr. Henry suggested that the Council pass a resolution opposing the suggested change in the income tax and having the resolution forwarded to Premier Henry and Mr. Strickland.

Mayor Denne in an interview with The Examiner yesterday stated that the abolition of the income tax could only result in increasing the tax on the house owner. "Under the tax added revenue to pay the cost of the city's business is collected from those best able to pay, and this is as it should be. The Council is unanimous in voicing its disapproval of any cange that would necessarily increase the mill rate," he said.

OAKALLA JAIL FAILS TO HOLD PAIR OF THUGS

Prisoners Whip Pistols From Pockets on Way to Cells.

GUARDS HELD UP.

Cordon of Police Watches in Vain After Desperadoes Disappear in Taxicab.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 6 (C.P.). — Fraser McDougall, 25, and Ellis Wilcox, 21, facing trial in the Assize Court on hold-up charges, made their escape from Oakalla Prison Farm last night in the most sensational jail break in the history of Vancouver's criminal annals.

McDougall and Wilcox, taken to Oakalla shortly after seven p.m., after having appeared in court in Vancouver during the day, suddenly whipped revolvers from their pockets as they were being escorted to their cells.

Commandeer Taxi.

They cowed two guards in the prison office, compelled them to lie on the floor while they held up another police officer, an incoming prisoner, and a taxicab driver, and forced them under cover of their revolvers to drive them back to Vancouver.

Back in the city, McDougall and Wilcox quitted the taxicab in which they had escaped, in the vicinity of First Avenue and Semlin Drive, vanishing in another machine. Despite a cordon of police thrown about the district, the two thugs were still at large late last night.

Police posses are still combing the city for the desperate pair, while police in all centres on the lower mainland are keeping a lookout for them.

SEEKS INQUIRY INTO NEWSPRINT

Brig.-General Hogarth Asks Government to Appoint Royal Commission.

INVESTIGATION LIKELY.

TORONTO, March 6—Government investigation or otherwise, of the structure and operations of the Newsprint Institute of Canada, with a view to eliminating price-fixing and re-allocating tonnage contracts to Ontario mills in proportion to labor needs, was urged in the Legislature yesterday by Brig.-Gen. D. M. Hogarth, M.P.P. for Port Arthur and Government front-bencher. It was freely reported in ministerial circles later, that investigation is favored.

In an address in which he urged greater interest in Northwestern Ontario, the Port Arthur member also advised the appointment of a commission to investigate means of advancing transportation in that area, suggested the construction of three lines of railway to open new territories and link present settled areas with old Ontario and asked the Government to hasten the completion of the agreement with the Federal Government by which construction of the trans-Canada highway could be started in the early Spring.

At the conclusion of the member's address which was extended through the usual supper hour, Premier George S. Henry intimated that the Government would consider the proposals when he stated:

"I would say that the Government has been given much food for thought. It is one of the best addresses on the Northwest heard in this Legislature in many years."

In advocating an investigation into the Newsprint Institute, Brig.-General Hogarth declared that the mining industry, despite prevailing economic depression, had maintained its position fairly well in industry and as a result the dependent industries had also kept above water.

Scene in Quebec Legislative Over Action on Russian Goods Proves Amusing.

BLAIN UP IN ARMS.

QUEBEC, Que., March 6 (C.P.).—The Legislative Assembly was the scene, last evening, of one of the most curious spectacles it has ever offered. Both parties, though united in their effort to oust Russian goods from the Province, in turn voted against a motion and an amendment which both expressed abhorrence of Bolshevist products and principles.

Last week, Hon. L. A. David, Provincial Secretary, presented a motion in which, after condemning the Government methods of the Soviets, he asked the Federal Government to put a stop to the import of Russian goods. Premier Bennett at Ottawa shortly afterwards announced the adoption of an Order-in-Council prohibiting these imports.

Last night, Alderic Blain, Conservative, Dorion, charged the Government with encouraging Bolshevistic activities by its arbitrary methods of administration and proposed an amendment which asked that the Bennett Government be thanked for having prohibited Russian imports.

Premier Taschereau and Hon. J. H. Dillon claimed that this was only a political move, to rob Hon. Mr. David of the credit of having asked for the prohibition of Russian imports. Hon. Camillien Houde, Opposition leader, C. E. Gault and Maurice Duplessis counter charged the Government with being insincere, in refusing to thank Premier Bennett for having done exactly what they had demanded.

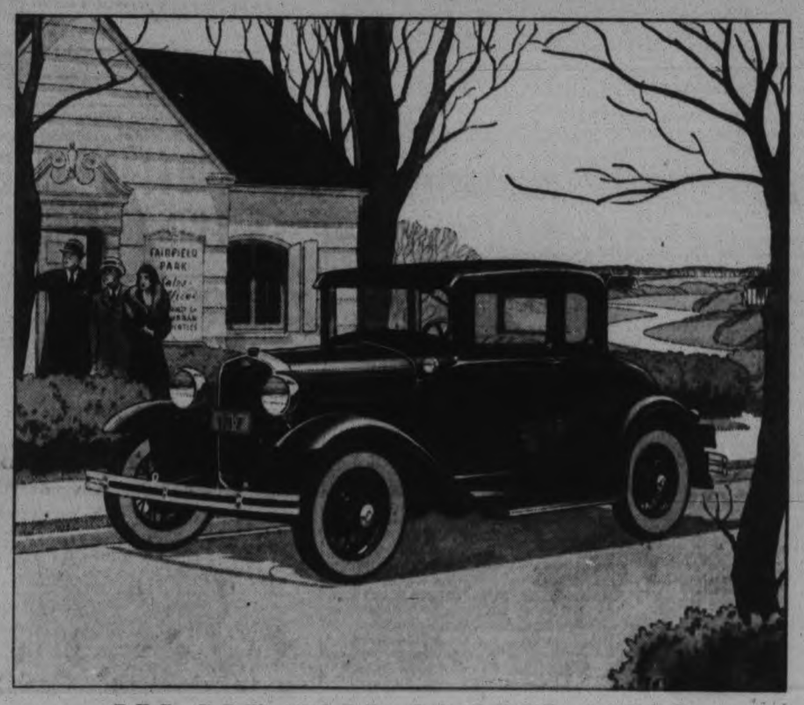
The Unseen Value That Makes The New Ford a Fine Car

Large number of ball and roller bearings reduces friction and wear and gives greater reliability and economy.



THE NEW FORD DE LUXE COUPE

The De Luxe Coupe is a striking example of the rich finish of the new Ford cars. Attractive colors give added charm to its grace of line and contour. Upholstered in luxurious mohair. Here, at a low price, is everything you want or need in a motor car — distinctive beauty, safety, comfort, speed, power, ease of control, reliability, economy and long life. Ask your Ford dealer for a demonstration.

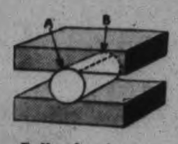
YOU step into the new Ford, press your foot on the starter and away you go. Smoothly, evenly, it carries you along your way for many thousands of miles each year. You have no fear of mechanical trouble and you accept its good performance as a matter of course. You have confidence that it will serve you faithfully and well under all conditions.

Though you many never lift the hood of your car, it is interesting to know some of the reasons for the reliability of the Ford and its economy of operation and upkeep. The extensive use of ball and roller bearings is an example of value far above the price.

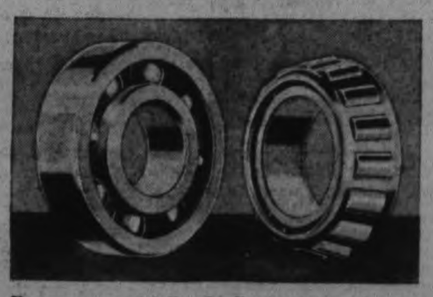
These ball and roller bearings are used at more than twenty places in the new Ford. By allowing moving parts to run smoothly and freely, they reduce friction and wear to a minimum. To you as a car owner, this means smooth, quiet mechanical operation, more speed and power, increased gasoline mileage, greater durability and longer life.

The function of the ball and roller bearings of the new Ford is similar to that of the jewels in a watch. Since they are placed at every point in the chassis where they are needed to prevent friction, the new Ford may be called a full-jeweled car, in the same sense that a fine watch is full-jeweled.

This simple illustration shows how the ball bearings in the new Ford minimise friction by reducing contact surface between moving parts.



Roller bearings are used in the new Ford wherever a wide bearing surface is needed. The contact is along the entire line marked A and B.



Here are types of ball and roller bearings used in the new Ford. Bearings of the ball and roller type are placed at more than twenty points in the chassis to reduce friction and wear. Each bearing assembly contains a number of separate balls or rollers as shown.

As important as the number of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford is their adequate size, and the manner in which each type has been selected for the work it has to do.

Ball bearings are used where their ball-shaped construction will give the greatest smoothness and efficiency. Roller bearings are used wherever a larger bearing surface is needed to carry a heavier load. The deciding factor as to which type shall be used is what is best for the car and for Ford owners.

Steering is made easier and safer in the new Ford because of the roller bearings in the front wheels, at the spindle bolts and in the steering mechanism. There are ball bearings on the clutch and ball and roller bearings in the transmission. A roller bearing on the drive shaft at the universal joint provides perfect alignment of those vital parts and prevents loss of power. Adjustments on the rear axle pinion and differential are made unnecessary by the close limits to which those roller bearings are held. The ball bearing on the generator armature gives greater reliability to that important part of the electrical system.

The value of the large number of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford is especially apparent after the first year. By reducing wear, they also reduce the cost of up-keep and the need of replacement parts.

In many other parts of the new Ford you find this same high quality of materials and fine craftsmanship in manufacture. The performance of the car under severe driving conditions reflects the value that has been built into it.

Event is Second of Season and Ice is Gay With Costumed Merry-makers.

JUDGING DIFFICULT.

NORWOOD, Mar. 6. — (Examiner Correspondence.)—The second fancy dress carnival of the season was a spectacular event on Tuesday night at the Palace Rink.

While a large number were in costume, the number of spectators was not up to the former attendance of a few weeks ago. Nevertheless, the carnival scored a real hit. There were several original costumes and in some cases the judges found it difficult to make a choice between several almost equally clever impersonations.

Prize List.

The best ladies fancy costume was awarded to Miss Elizabeth Thomson, as a Herald and second to Miss Maud Bongard, as General Ginger. The gentlemen's fancy costume was awarded to Harvey Andrews, as Uncle Sam and second to Jack Duffield, as Brigand.

The best ladies' comic costume was awarded to Donna Leeper as Witch, while Mrs. Wm. Beckett was second, impersonating the same old lady, however, both costumes were splendid and made it difficult which should receive first place.

A. Elmhurst and Talbert O'Brien, representing Spark Plug, won the prize for men's comic costume, these gentlemen had a very amusing and splendid representation of this.

Eleanor Johnston as Irish Colleen, had a very pretty costume and won the first prize for the girls fancy dress, while Nancy Gill, represented night and won second. Jimmy Busken as Rooin Hood, was most original and won first prize for the boys fancy dress and Frank Gill was parcel post coming in for the second.

The best girls comic costume was Kitty Edwards, as Gipsy, this was a typical representation in every detail, while Eileen Wellman, as Old Lady, got the second prize.

John Hamblin, as Jack-in-Box, came in for best comic boys, while Eral Johnston as Baby was second.

The best fancy dressed girl 12 and under, was won by Margaret Brethen as Chicken and Mary Richmond, as, Persian Beauty, second.

Warner Webb, as Dutchman, was awarded first for dancy dressed boy 12 and under, while Gerald Longhurst, as Baseball Player, received second.

Doris Johnston as Chicken received first for comic dressed girl 12 and under while Joan McDermott, as Dutch Girl got second.

Teddy Baskin made a most original coon receiving first for best comic dressed boy under 12, while Garnet Wheatley, as a Chinaman captured second.

Races.

The races of course, proved fast and interesting, those winning out were, Girls ½ mile, 15 years and under, first Mildred Rogers and second Mary Wilkins. Boys ½ mile 15 years and under, Osmond O'C. Fenton, John Hamblin. Girls race, 12 years and under Maud Baskin, Eileen Wellman. Boys race, 12 years and under, Harold Lumsden, Harry Goden. BEAR HUNTERS.

Marmora Nimrods Take Lengthy Journey After Big Game in Vain.

MARMORA, Mar. 6. (Examiner Correspondence.)—A good hunting story is going the rounds at present. It is said that word was recently sent to two hunters resident in Marmora, by a farmer residing in the township, that three bears had been seen by him making slow progress across one of his distint snow crusted meadows. As he had later inspected the broken crust, he had discovered signs of blood which seemed to him to be more proof of his visitors having been bears.

The next morning, the two hunters decided to try their luck. Travelling as near to the place as they could by car, they then acquired the use of a team and sleigh and took the direction whereby they hoped to reach a point ahead of the animals, so as to double back upon them.

Coming to the snow, they discovered to thei chagrin, through unmistakable imprints that no bears had travelled that way, but two hounds with bleeding feet had been in pursuit of a fox.

CONGRESS POSTPONED.

MOSCOW, March 6 (C.P.). — The All-Union Congress of Soviets which was to have begun to-day, has been postponed until Saturday, apparently so as not to interfere with the trial of fourteen Mensheviks now in progress. More than a thousand delegates already are here for the Congress.

JOHN SCOTT IS ENTERING FIELD

Lively Session is Predicted at Forthcoming Nominations for Belmont and Methuen.

OLD MEMBERS RETURNING.

HAVELOCK, Mar. 5.—(Specal to The Examiner.)—It is expected there will be a lively time at the forthcoming nominations in the Townships of Belmont and Methuen. All the members of the old council have signified their intention of again entering the field for municipal honors, as well as the recently resigned council. John H. Scott has stated that he will throw his hat in the ring, as Mr. McNeeley, who was defeated at the last election has stated that he will not enter the competition, and Mr. Scott will take his place as the representative of the southern section of Belmont. Nominations will be held at the township hall on Thursday, March 12th. On the date set for the election, March 19th, the township will have been exactly one month without a municipal body, due to the resignation of the recently elected council after a complaint of irregularities at the last election by an elector of Belmont.

Clerk Dafoe has been the master of ceremonies in appointing all the constables who will enforce law and order at the various polling booths, and who will make sure that the strict letter of the law is complied with, thereby obviating the danger of any further complaints.

No loafers will be allowed around the polling booth, and if any elector who has travelled far to vote, wishes to get a shin heat, before returning home, he had better provide himself with the necessary fuel, or a portable heater, and not hang around the polling booth in the hope of thawing out there. Just such action on the part of the elector will constitute an offence under which another election might be demanded. This forthcoming election will cost at least one hundred and fifty dollars, which will be deducted from the amount set aside for road expenditure within the township.

It is predicted by those in a position to judge, that the resigned members will be returned with a much larger majority, as public sentiment is against the holding of another election, with the attendant expense.

Lindsay Not Adopting Daylight Saving Time

LINDSAY, March 6.—(Special to The Examiner).—Lindsay will not adopt daylight saving this year. The town council will not take any action in the matter, and any move by the supporters of daylight saving will meet with vigorous opposition by the merchants and others.

Last year the council, acceding to the prayer of a largely signed petition, adopted daylight saving during the summer months. It was only in operation a few weeks when an attempt was made to have the measure repealed. The council took the attitude that in view of the fact that the new time schedule only covered a period of a few months, it would be poor policy to revert to standard time until the expiration of that period.

Admiral Algernon Walker-Heneage-Vivian, aged 60, who retired from the British Navy 11 years ago, was married at Paddington, England, recently to Miss Beryl Stanley, 25, daughter of a railway clerk.

KENORA MEMBER

one who ever spent a Winter in a tent in the north will agree, were warm and comfortable. I've spent Winters in the north in similar camps. The letter we received said that 18 men—"

"Fourteen," prompted Mr. Hutchison. "There were 14 men sleeping in them."

"There were not" contradicted Mr. Finlayson.

"There were."

"No."

"Yes. If I am going to finish my speech, the member should ask a question but not make another address" continued Mr. Hutchison. "I took the pictures of the camps and I have them now. If anyone doubts my statements, the pictures do not lie.

Charges Patronage.

"Patronage exists in the Highway administration. It is rank. Funds are kept by families and brothers and sons hired by those who receive amounts for roadwork. The whole system is bad. I do not mind when it exists as far as superintendents and road foremen are concerned, but when it affects the pick and shovel men, it must be stopped.

Education, he stated, was neglected. Mothers' allowances were inadequately regulated so that the conflict between education and the rules of the Allowance Board robbed children of education. Children could not travel the tremendous distances to schools, and mothers' allowances were cut off when the children reached certain ages. The result was that children without educations were forced to go to work when the allowance ceased.

Unemployment insurance, Mr. Hutchison contended, must be faced sooner or later and while the country appreciated the injury and the suffering of depression periods was the time to consider it, otherwise prosperity would return and the people would remain handicapped when the next period of depression arrived.

"It may be Socialism to suggest it," he stated. "Workmen's compensation, mothers' allowances, old-age pensions all were Socialis' some years ago, but they are on the statute books now. Let us be Socialist, if necessary, but let us aid the men who are thrown aside.

"I have the Financial Post in my hand, and it shows that only 47 out of 350 industries lowered their dividend payments last year, yet those same companies had tossed workmen aside like wornout machinery. Let industry which can continue to pay dividends take care of the men upon whose efforts it depends to build up the wealth which it apparently doles out so lavishly while men walk the streets starving."

GIRL GUIDES MEET.

Commissioner Mrs. H. R. Haacke Inspects Troop at Marmora—Practise For Concert.

MARMORA, March 6. (Examiner Correspondence.)—A special feature of the weekly meeting of Marmora Girl Guides, held on Monday evening, was the enrollment of their Commissioner, Mrs. H. R. Haacke. Mrs. Haacke also took the inspection, pronouncing the general appearance of the Guides as good.

After patrol corners, a Push and Pull game was played. Then followed an hours practice for the forthcoming concert. The reading of the story was continued and after the singing of a few songs supplemented with Taps, the company was dismissed.

STORM BUFFETS INDIES STEAMER

Vessel is 22 Hours Late — Three Passengers Suffer Injuries.

HALTED WHOLE NIGHT.

BOSTON, Mass., March 6. — The Canadian National Line steamer Lady Somers arrived here Thursday from West Indies, 22 hours late, with three passengers on the injured list and a tale of a terrific storm at sea.

Captain W. D. C. Manning reported that on Tuesday when his vessel was about 300 miles south of Boston, the barometer fell sharply. A deathly calm descended on the sea, then, without warning the steamer was struck by a hurricane. A mountainous sea hit the vessel and she was hove down almost to her beam ends. Several passengers were thrown from their berths, including the three who were injured. They were: Robert Gilmour, Vice-President of the Eastern Division of the Canadian National Railways, broken nose; Judge T. J. Clifford of Franklin, N.H., Referee in Bankruptcy for that State, badly wrenched leg; C. J. Cragg, a Bridgewater, N.S., publisher, eye blackened and face bruised. Ten members of the Lady Somers were treated by the ship's doctor, F. Shaw, for cuts and bruises.

The steamer lay hove to all Tuesday night and was able to proceed next day when the wind abated, although the sea continued to run high. The steamer suffered only slight damage.

Aspiring Musicians To Hear Symphony

Montreal's Musicians Given Chance to "Listen In" at Symphony Rehearsals.

MONTREAL, Mar. 6. (By the Canadian Press)—John Emerson, secretary-treasurer of Montreal's newly formed Symphony Orchestra, has extended an invitation to all would-be musicians to attend rehearsals under the direction of the honorary conductor, Douglas Clarke dean of McGill Conservatory of Music, where he points out, there is a fine musical education waiting to be absorbed free.

What Montreal's young musicians must learn, said Mr. Emerson, is that the Symphony Orchestra is not a secret society, whose every movement outside the theatre must be shrouded from prying eyes, but the city's own orchestra, with a constitution, a conductor, and a personnel as open as the day.

They could pick up a tremendous lot by just watching and "listening in" at rehearsal. They would have this advantage over those who listen to the orchestra at concerts—they would hear Mr. Clarke instruct and they would see how the players respond. Then there are all sorts of technical points to be picked up that would probably cost them many hours of time and many dollars in money otherwise, Mr. Emerson added.

This is a noteworthy achievement and with it goes a trip to Minaki next September where the club convention will be held. HANDICAPS TO BE SUBJECT OF SURVEY

Guild to Ask Government to Undertake Task Necessary to Proper Study.

MONTREAL, Mar. 6.—(By the Canadian Press)—In order to determine the extent and nature of handicrafts work in homespun tweeds being carried on in the province of Quebec, Col. Wilfrid Bovery, president of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, and Dr. Montpetit will petition the Federal Government to conduct a survey along those lines, it was announced following a recent meeting of the executive of the Guild. It was also suggested that a committee be formed to investigate the questions of consumption and disposal of homespun tweeds.

At the present time, it is difficult to obtain definite figures relating to the production, the quality and the origin of the raw materials, of the goods produced under the auspices of the Guild, Col. Bovey said, and it was felt a survey would prove of great benefit in providing necessary data on the condition of the industry. It was also decided to obtain a distinctive mark to be stamped on all goods produced under the auspices of the Guild.

KEENE CAPTURES DOUBLE-HEADER

ROUGH AND READY.

By far the fastest an d incidentally the roughest game of the season was played here on Wednesday night when Keene boys defeated Bailieboro 6-4. Bob Dickson refereed and wasted no time with penalties. The teams were quite well matched and in the second period the visitors very nearly carried things off, but the Keene boys rallied and played a strong offensive which kept them in the lead.

The line-ups were as follows:

Peterboro In 1850

"Peterborough, from which a considerable number of present Ottawans came, is thus described as of the year 1850:—

"The situation of Peterborough is pleasant, and the scenery picturesque. Near the centre of the town is a small hill or knoll, on the summit of which the court-house and jail are erected. There are three grist mills within the town (including the Scotch village), having an aggregate of ten run of stores; also an oat and barley mill, four saw mills, a woollen factory, carding and fulling mill, brewery, distillery, four foundries, two axe factories, three tanneries, etc.

"A newspaper, The Weekly Despatch, is, as its name implies, published weekly, and the Montreal Bank has an agent here. The town itself has a daily post, and the village east and west receive a mail twice a week.

"There are five churches—Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist, Baptist and Roman Catholic; the two first and the last are of stone, the Methodist of frame, and the Baptist of brick.

"During the season a steamboat runs daily from Peterborough to the south shore of Rice Lake, whence stages convey the passengers to Port Hope and Cobourg. Immediately below town is an expansion of the river, forming a pond or small lake.

"Including both sides of the river, Peterborough contains about 2,200 inhabitants. It has improved considerably within the last few years; the stumps have been cleared from the streets and a much better class of buildings erected. A new Town Hall and Market Place have lately been built, and a cemetery containing four acres has been formed a little north of the town."

Compared with this description of the early formation of Peterborough, which older residents will more readily appreciate, our city has made great strides. The present citizens will readily realize the proportions of the task which these early inhabitants set out to accomplish, and which later residents carried on, to the conditions as we find them today.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Has anyone ever paid you the compliment that whenever they met you, you never failed to be wearing a smile?

• • • • • • •

Recently I heard one lady say of another, "She had a whole boxful of very dressy expressions which could not be bought for any amount of money and which always made her look distinguished in any gathering."

• • • • • • •

Now, don't you think that was a splendid compliment? I think it was wonderful, and I have often wished I could be paid such a compliment.

• • • • • • •

Clothes had nothing to do with the case and it was not a matter of spending long hours confined in a beauty parlor.

• • • • • • •

The thing that stood out in this case was the lady's character—it just shone out, completely hiding the clothes and their appearance.

• • • • • • •

This particular lady became "good to look at" because her expression drew the happy attention of everyone who saw her.

• • • • • • •

This is the sort of beauty then, that everyone, no matter whether you are a homemaker, a business woman, etc., can have. But it is such a rare kind of beauty, that it is interesting.

• • • • • • •

It is not passed by with a glance. It comes to mind whenever the person's name is mentioned. She has made an impression and is distinguished.

• • • • • • •

A person can not be very good looking and yet be so attractive by her beauty of expression that she is not thought of as homely. Her expression is the beautifier.

• • • • • • •

Such expressions are worthwhile and should be cultivated. If you want to be distinguished, never allow the corners of your mouth to turn down.

• • • • • • •

Avoid a pouty look and think of something pleasant, making your eyes reflect your inner happiness. Do nice things for others and think of what kind thing you might do to relieve someone who needs help.

• • • • • • •

Make ready to bring cheer to others and let it show in your expression.

• • • • • • •

And try to bring a smile to another's face. You will soon have a boxful of dressy expressions yourself for they come from a kind heart.

And into the bargain, it's simplicity itself to make it.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

UNDERWEIGHT CHILDREN

Many parents, as they look at their youngster and notice that he or she is thin or skinny, as compared with other children, quite naturally begin to be anxious about it. If, however, underweight should be a family characteristic, they dismiss the matter from their minds feeling that the youngster will be all right when he gets a little older.

Now, what about under weight or undernourished children?

Underweight may be due to some little infection in the system, or it may be due to undernourishment. It has been learned that any little infection of teeth or tonsils, adenoids, sinus or other trouble, can be the cause of underweight, due to the wearing processes of these ailments on the system.

In cases where there is no infection it is usually due to undernourishment.

This doesn't mean that the youngster doesn't get as much food as other youngsters, but the kind and amount that he gets isn't sufficient for his particular body.

Where groups of school children, some normal, and some underweight, were placed under the same conditions as to food, sleep and exercise, and watched for weeks and even months, it was found that "it was possible to bring about a gain of weight in every child. It is to be remembered that the children in whom this could be done were such as had failed to gain weight under the method pursued in the school and the home."

How was the weight increased?

By milk? No.

Milk is a wonderful food and was fed to these youngsters regularly because it contains so much lime. Lime is the source of the food supply for building up bone and teeth, and some lime should be in every cell in the body. Each child, therefore, received a good supply of milk daily.

But milk was not the standby in increasing the weight and strength of these underweight children.

Meat and eggs, foods rich in protein, enabled the child to play more and actually increase in weight.

The experiment showed that in the growing child, especially if he is underweight, that it is almost impossible for him to eat too much of meat and eggs.

Remember, underweight is not a disease but underweight makes children less resistant to infections. Don't be afraid to give your growing youngster especially if underweight, plenty of meat, eggs and milk.

Engineers Will Design Working Girls' Clothes

CHICAGO, Ill., March 6 (C.P.) —Engineers, instead of dress makers, may dictate the working girl's styles in the not-far-distant future.

A prediction to this effect was made before a safety conference by Miss Ruth I. Stone of the Western Electric Company. She said the necessity of assuring a reasonable degree of safety for all types of working women would force safety engineers to design their clothes.

"The present styles, which are changed by dressmakers every year," she said, "will soon give way to a conservative standard of low-heel shoes, short skirts and short hair."

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY EXAMINER

"He Was Left An Income Of $100 a Month for Life"

A man said, "If only somebody we didn't know would die and leave us a million dollars!" And his wife replied, "Yes, or even somebody we did know, and only half a million!"

It is a favorite day dream to "wish" that some remote relative we never heard of would remember us in his will, and that the good news would be announced by the postman on his very next visit.

Yes, it would be nice to have the postman call every month at the same time, and leave a cheque for $100. Very welcome now, of course, but how much more so later on, when our energies begin to flag; say when we reach age 50, 55 or 60. Just when we begin to feel like easing up and letting the younger people have their way, and the job.

Of course, if a man or woman has about twenty thousand dollars well invested, an income of One Hundred Dollars a month can be secured right away.

The great majority of people, however, cannot command any such capital sum, nor is it necessary if one wishes to plan now for the income to be delivered some time in the future.

If you want to pass the last third of your life in comfort and independence, or should you wish to guard against being totally disabled and unable to earn money, look into this suggestion now.

The coupon below is for your convenience. Fill it in and send it today. Do not let delay rob you of the opportunity of finding out just how you can secure the income you know you will need later on in life.

QUEEN'S PRINCIPAL IS HELD AT BORDER

Immigration Authorities Detain Principal Fyfe in Tunnel at Windsor.

WINDSOR, March 6. — Principal W. H. Fyfe of Queen's University, Kingston, yesterday was refused admittance to "the land of the free" when he planned to spend an hour or so in Detroit.

Immigration officers at the Detroit end of the Fleetway tunnel sent him back to Canada when he did not have credentials showing his office and residence in Canada. He admitted Scotland was the land of his birth.

His troubles did not end there, for he had difficulty in convincing the Canadian immigration men that he had a right in Canada. He, however, managed to satisfy them, but not "until I thought maybe I would have to spend the rest of my life in the tunnel," he told an audience last night.

The atheist problem which has arisen at Toronto University was briefly referred to by Dr. Fyfe, who said that it probably would be wise to issue an order that no student must study atheism until after the grant had been received from the Government.

TO THE WORLD.

O selfish World, full well, we know
That the kind favours you bestow
Are faint, and few.
Your fairest gifts as soon decay,
As in the Sun's first radiant ray
The Sparkling Dew.

All those who trust, you find how vain,
Delusive is your Siren Strain,
A phantom shade.
'Mongst your frail votaries, are none,
By your deceitful, flattery won,
And not betrayed.

Well too the Sacred Page has taught
The Sons of men to love Thee not
Your gold or gear—
For you are but a smiling friend
To those who on your steps attend,
And hold you dear,

Your Pleasures and your goods are bought
At the expense of toilsome thought
And many a sigh—
Ah, what the gain at life's great goal
To win the world and lose the soul
And life on high.

EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM OFFERED FOR THE WORKERS OF THIS CITY

Steps Being Taken for Establishment of new Plan—Special Benefit to Employees.

UNIVERSITY TUTORS

Steps are being taken in Peterborough towards the establishment of an educational system for the special benefit of the working men and women of this City, which will not only restrict its membership privileges to workers but will also be controlled by the workers themselves.

Associations are now in operation in Toronto, Hamilton, London, Brantford, St. Catharines, Stratford, Kitchener, Prescott, and Windsor. These are controlled by working men and women elected by the general membership; representatives appointed by the University; representatives from affiliated Labour Organizations; and three arvisers elected by these bodies. Subjects being conducted are: Economics, Labour Problems; Public Speaking; English Composition and Literature; Current Economic Events in various countries; Psychology; etc.

The Workers' Educational Association had its inception in Toronto in 1917 when, as an experiment, a class in Political Philosophy was conducted. Its succes sresulted in the Association being formed the following year at a meeting of University Labour representatives. The generous support of the Department of University Extension, University of Toronto, since then in providing all tutors wherever they were required and for whatever subject was requested, is largely responsible for the progress the Association is making in this Province.

In these classes, no dogmas are taught, the tutors are not propagandists. Their duty, which they ably execute, is to provide their fellow class mates with facts and truths. Every angle of a subject is presented whether it be, as in Economics, Free Trade or Protection, the works of Ricardo, Mill, Marx, or Smith; or, as in Psychology, the case for each school of thought. With such information the student is enabled to think for himself, but not taught what to think. Tutors come as friends, to learn as well as to teach, and to give to their class members the benefit of their studies and researches.

The Secretary of the Provincial Association, Drummond Wren, 197 Mortimer Ave., Toronto, will be in Peterborough to present the proposition to the Unions and other groups of workers.

JUPP CONSTRUCTION CO. GIVEN CONTRACT

Will Construct Section of Highway Between Omemee and Fowlers' Corners.

LINDSAY, March 6 (Special to Examiner) — Victoria County Council will not follow the action of Peterborough county relative to provincial highway construction, it was learned to-day. The only stretch of highway to be constructed by the government in this section this year is the stretch of the Lindsay-Peterborough highway between Omemee and Fowler's Corners. Tenders for the construction of this stretch were called some weeks ago, and it was reported to-day that the Jupp Construction Company would do the work. This company built a stretch of the highway last summer and did not remove all its plant from the scene of operations.

Members of the County Council took the view that this highway was a very important link or connection with the east and a valuable asset from a business viewpoint. The sentiment in Lindsay is favorable to the completion of the highway.

TORONTO PLANT IS MOVING TO LINDSAY

Dickerson Dye Works to be Part of Universal Dyers' Limited.

LINDSAY, March 6 (Special to Examiner).—Lindsay's last industry, the Universal Dyers' Limited, which is located in the Beal Leather Co. plant, is to have another link in the Dickerson Dye Works, of Toronto, which will move its plant to this town. It is claimed that the double industry will employ between fifty and sixty hands before the year is out with a pay roll in the neighborhood of sixty or seventy thousand dollars a year.

Recently representatives of a silk goods factory in the United States were anxious to move to Lindsay in order to be near the Universal Dyers' factory. It was proposed to move the machinery, valued at $72,000 to this town, and three of the directors were willing to put up $25,000 as working capital, provided the sum of $12,000 could be secured locally, which would go to pay the duty, etc. on the machinery coming across the border. The company was informed that it would be impossible to raise that amount.

T. P. Lancaster Is On Special Committee

The Bill to amend the Optometry Act, aimed at mail order houses, had its second reading in the Ontario Legislature, and Premier Henry moved that a special committee be appointed to deal with it in view of the great amount of discussion a bill of the same nature had evoked in committee last session.

The following committee was appointed: A. E. Honeywell, introducer of the bill; T. V. Harcourt, Hon. Dr. Robb, J. F. Hill, T. P. Lancaster, L. J. Simpson and T. K. Slack.

One clause in the proposed amendment reads: "Every person, whether he is a holder of a certificate under the act or not, who, except in cases of replacement or duplication, sells or offers to sell by mail, or sells or offers to sell through an agent or travelling salesman, or prescribes by mail or through an agent or travelling salesman, any opiithalmic lens or spectacles or eye glasses devised for the relief or correction of any vsual or muscular error or defect of the eye, shall be guilty of an offence under the act."

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"STRANGE INTERLUDE"

The most talked-about play in years will soon be presented in this city. It is Eugene O'Neill's extraordinary nine-act drama, "Strange Interlude," with which he won the Pulitzer Prize for the third time in his career as a playwright. He had previously been awarded this coveted honor for his "Beyon d the Horizon" and "Anna Christie". On Monday, March 9, the Theatre Guild, Inc., of New York, will bring "Strange Interlude" to the Grand Opera House for a limited engagement of just one performance.

Partly because it won the Pulitzer Prize as "the best play of the year," and also because it has broken box office records wherever it has been shown "Strange Interlude" is generally acclaimed as the greatest triumph thus far achieved by America's foremost playwright. That is what Eugene O'Neill unquestionably is and to support this claim one need only recall some of his outstanding plays such as "Anna Christie", "The Hairy Ape", "Emperor Jones", "Desire Under the Elms", "All God's Chillums Got Wings", "The Great God Brown" and "Marco Millions."

The unusual length of "Strange Interlude," its daring theme, its "asides", the dinner intermission combined with the fact that each performance begins at 5.30 in the afternoon when business offices have barely closed—all these things have made it the most widely discussed play in America. But spectators cannot be persuaded to remain in a theatre from 5.30 to 11 o'clock with a dinner intermission from 7.40 to 9, unless there is real entertainment of a most engrossing nature to keep them there.

By now the story of Nina Leeds and her efforts to be happy with her three men is so generally known, it would be a waste of time and space to relate it here in detail. No such relentless examination into a woman's very soul has ever been presented on any stage before.

Maroons Regain Third Place from Americans

MONTREAL CLUB DISPLAYS RARE BIT OF ICE GAME BRILLIANCY TO DEFEAT TORONTO LEAFS 6-5

Cotton Tallies Three of Smythe Goals—Bailey and Conacher Account For Others.

AMERKS LOSE TO HAWKS.

Rangers Practically Clinch Play-off Berth By Taking 2-1 Count From Canadiens.

By GEORGE MacGUIRE
(Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, ONT., March 6. — Hockey brilliance, born of desperation so it seemed, carried the Montreal Marrons and New York Rangers to spectacular triumphs in last night's National Hockey League warfare.

Sweeping their opponents almost from their feet by the sheer ferocity of their opening attack the Maroons defeated Toronto Maple Leafs, 6 to 5, to regain third place in the Canadian section from New York Americans. The latter lost by 1 to 0 to the Chicago Blackhawks in Chicago.

The Rangers, who like the Maroons have been finding the path to a play-off berth a tortuous one, just about clinched the third rung in the United States group by upsetting the northern division pace-makers, Montreal Canadiens, 2 to 1, in the forum.

Surprise proved a potent weapon for the Maroons against the Leafs. On their previous visits here the Munromen played strictly defensive hockey and the Leafs were far from prepared for their hurricane-like offensive at the start. Before the Leafs could settle down the Montrealers had gained a three goal lead and should have had more but Lorne Chabot in the Toronto cage gave a great exhibition of blocking to keep the count within reasonable bounds.

The Maroons added two more markers to their total in the middle while the Leafs got one. Toronto had all the best of the final chapter and outscored their opponents three to one. During the closing minutes Davey Kerr, youthful Maroon goal guardian was called upon to make numerous sensational saves to avert a tie as the Leafs peppered him with shots from all angles.

Rangers Even Series

While the Maroons are nosing the Amerks out of third place by a point margin their fellow townsmen Les Canadiens were finding too many Cooks were spoiling their game. The brothers, Bill and Bun Cook, assisted by the great playmaking Frankie Boucher, played inspired hockey to even the series with the Habitants at two victories apiece.

Howie Morenz, voted the greatest center player in the game today dashed through the whole Ranger team to put the Habitants in the lead six minutes after the start. Eight minutes later, however, one of the famous criss-cross blue shirt plays, Bun Cook to brother Bill to Boucher, resulted in the tieing counter.

After some eight minutes of dazzling hockey Paul Thompson notched what proved the winning marker on a solo thrust in the middle frame. The Rangers now hold a five point lead over the fourth place Detroit Falcons who have played two games less than the New Yorkers.

Frankie Ingram scored the only goal of the Blackhawk-Amerk tilt which decided so much. Besides dropping the A's into fourth place the victory enabled the Chicagoans to maintain their three point advantage over the Rangers.

Keene Girls Defeat Westclox Hockeyists

KEENE, March 6 (Examiner Correspondence).—On Tuesday evening a hockey team of Westclox girls played the local girls' hockey team, the score resulting in 3-1 for the latter.

Dot Gainor was successful in scoring two goals and Marjory Brown scored once. Both teams played good hockey, but the Peterborough girls lacked the team work which is so essential. Gladys Mortimer showed good stick handling but could not get past the Keene defense.

The line-up was as follows:

Umpire—Andy Shearer.

Goal Umpires—Bob Dickson and Ivan Fletcher.

MENIE ELIMINATED IN EASTERN HOCKEY

Falls Before Hoards 3-2 in Overtime Fixture to Decide Second Place.

BURNBRAE, March 6.—(Examiner Correspondence). — Menie hockey team definitely faded out of the picture on Monday night when Hoard's defeated them 3 to 2 in an overtime fixture to decide second place.

Menie started out like champions and for the first ten minutes had the edge on the play, gaining a one-goal lead. Hoards came back strong in the second and third stanzas to tie up the score and after forcing the play in the overtime, scored the winning goal just before the bell rang at the ten minute interval. Hewitt and Oddie were the successful marksmen for Hoards with J. Rannie and Ward for Menie. Rannie was the standout player on the Menie squad, while Ward did not use his body so effectively as usual. Eagleson stopped a flock of shots, especially from Hobbs, who peppered the goal from every angle, but was never successful in counting. Menie were weaker than their opponents on the sub line, Linn playing his first game of the season was not in condition. Doug. Milne, reliable sub forward, was ill and unable to play.

While Hoard's regular were strong on the attack, the veteran sub, Hume, was the main cog in the machine. Every time he came on as sub defence he engineered rushes that resulted in a shot or a well-placed pass. Roy Oddie as usual was a tower of strength between the posts.

Jack Ackers handled the bell to the satisfaction of both teams. The date of the Hoards-Glen Ross play-off is not yet definitely decided.

The line ups follow:

Menie—Goal, Eagleson; defence, Shillinglaw and Hay; centre, J. Rannie; wings, W. Whitton, Ward; subs, E. Whitton, Little, Linn.

Hoards—Goal, Ray Oddie; defence, Heagle and Jeffs; centre, K. Oddie; wings, Hewitt, Hobbs; subs, oJnes, Hume, O. Rannie, Rimington.

Bailieboro Blanked By Bewdley Sextet

School Exhibition Tilt Ends in 4-0 Count for Lakeshore Boys.

BAILIEBORO, March 6 (Examiner Correspondence). — The Public School boys with the principal, Mr. Barnard, motored to Bewdley on Wednesday after four o'clock and played a game of hockey against the Bewdley school boys. Three fifteen minute periods were played and the local boys put up a worth while game, but lost to Bewdley 4-0.

The Bewdley lads proved too heavy and showed a superior brand of hockey, but with a little more experience the local boys will stand a better chance of victory

Jack Wilson, the brilliant kid defence, scored Bewdley's goals, while C. Morton, who carried much more weight than his opponents, also made some spectacular rushes on the Bailieboro lines.

The teams lined up as follows:

Bailieboro — Goal, K. Dawson; wings, M. Jewison and H. Lang; centre, H. Jewison; defence, L. Jewison and M. Guyatte; subs., L. Johnston and N. Fry.

Bewdley — Goal, Benson; wings, C. Morton and H. Lytle; centre C. Morton; defence, Wilson and Jewison; sub., V. McClung.

COLTS AND CUBS IN 3-ALL COUNT

Smart Double-header Features Hockey Program at Lakefield Rink.

PHEASANTS WIN 2-1.

LAKEFIELD, March 6.—(Examiner Correspondence).—A double header hockey match was the feature of the rink program on Tuesday night and both were well worth seeing.

The first was a juvenile game between Mr. Chaplin's two teams, the Colts and the Cubs, and it was fast and well played in spite of the handicap of soft ice. There is keen but friendly rivalry between the teams and the verdict of the hockey enthusiasts was that there was good material coming on for the junior and intermediate teams.

The goalies were splendid and stopped many hard shots like veteran players, "Bill" Wingett handled both games to the general satisfaction of players and fans. The teams were keen and Blewett and Vivian Payne were outstanding for the Colts while "Red" Graham and McFadden and Morin starred for the Cubs. Both goalies deserved a star as they were equally good, Loyst and Pearson. The score was a tie 3-3.

Wilfrid Morin, in a lone rush, scored the first goal for the Cubs, which was a decided triumph as in former games the Colts have been slightly in the lead. Vivian Payne made it a tie and the first period ended so.

Joe Blewett in a lone rush all the way up the ice shot in a counter past Pearson's guard and Percy Payne got in a second but Morin once more scored in a solitaire play and the second period closed with the Colts one up.

The third was rich in penalties but "Red" Graham scored the only goal which made a tie. The penalties for minor offences, tripping and such which were in the main caused by the soft ice.

The line up was as follows:

Pheasants Win 2-1.

The second game was between Rink Manager Lennox team, the Pheasants, and Buckhorn. This game had many features of interest and both teams were well supplied with fans. The ice was very soft which interfered with combination play and made it all a matter of individual play rather than team work. The referee relaxed his rules at the beginning and allowed a few trips to go unchecked but, finding that the teams were stepping out in this respect too rapidly, he tightened up and the penalty box rarely lacked at least one tenant. The Buckhorn boys usually pay a visit to the village each winter for a friendly game which is usually hard fought.

The first period was scoreless although both teams worked hard and checked vigorously. The second had one lone counter for the Pheasants, which was due to a rush by Ronald Kemp, who got past Blewett's guard and scored. Each side counted in the third, McFadden for the locals and "Bunker" Trude for the visitors. The score at the end was 2-1 for the Pheasants, who took their game in good sportsmanlike manner as the visitors took their defeat.

GROVE DEFEATS NORWOOD 12-0

Soft Ice Handicaps Both Teams in Junior Exhibition Fixture.

AT LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 6. (Examiner Correspondence).—The Grove added another triumph to its list on Wednesday night by defeating the Norwood Juniors by a score of 12-0 in an exhibition game, attended by a large crowd.

The ice was very heavy which seriously handicapped both teams in combination play although The Grove team which is a very strong well balanced team, played a fair combination. The Norwood team was strong in the forward line and right defence but weak in both left defence and goal which left a wide open gateway for the fast skating school boys. Every player in The Grove team was a star and nearly all scored at least one goal. The Norwood forward line worked very hard and played a sporting game as they kept on trying to the very last in spite of the rapidly piling up score for their opponents. Only three penalties were given, one to the locals and two to the visitors.

Braden Blewett handled the bell in a satisfactory manner. In the first period Bagg, Elmsley from Stewart and Macrae scored the three goals.

In the second period The Grove scored four. Macrae two, Bagg and Corson 1 each one.

Three, four, five, seemed to be The Grove way as the third period saw five goals scored; Stuart got three and Macrae and Carson 1 each one.

Although too one sided to be very interesting to the disinterested spectator, the fact that it was clean on both sides and fought straight through without a dispute, made it pleasant to watch.

The line up was as follows:

SOFT ICE HINDERS PLAY IN CITY LEAGUE SERIES

Teams Put Up Fair Battle For Right to Meet Sea-horses for City Championship.

PLAY MOSTLY INDIVIDUAL.

Choates and Stars waded through to a 3-all draw at the Brock last night in the first of the City League playdowns. Neither team has any advantage to take into their final game next week when the winner will meet the Sea-horses for the championship. The ice last night was slow, heavy and sloppy, making fast skating and combination out of the question. Only a few fans turned out for the exhibition.

It was a fair game with both outfits trying hard on the poor ice, and surprisingly clean throughout. There was plenty of exciting mofents, and any number of free swinging drives at the sticky boot heel. The play was mostly individual with Choates starting and finishing stronger. Stars held their own in the middle chapter.

The opening canto started slow and there was considerable overskating of the rubber. Both goalies had a few long shots to stop and then G. Jay went through alone and kept boring in after till he slipped one past Anthony to put the Stars ahead. Choates took the aggressive for the rest of the stanza, and just at the bell, Dinesen took a pass from Merritt to even the count.

Speeds up in Second

Stars speeded the game up in the second. They rushed time and again and the frame was still young when H. Jay came down the left boards to lift a soft one into Choates' net. One minute later Ellis whistled a long, hard drive from an angle to fool the goalie and make it 3-1 for the Stars. Gardiner got one of them back halfway through the chukker on a lone thrust. Play was fast and a little rough at this time, both outfits slashing some and bodying hard. Most of the shots were from the blue line and gave the guardians little trouble.

The Hardware boys had a big edge in the last session. They buzzed around the enemy citadel persistently and kept the play up the ice most of the time. Early in the period, Merritt battled in a long goal to tie up the game and there was no more scoring. The East City forwards made it plenty hot for Sanderson but he was right there.

All the Stars worked nice together with Wately, the Jay boys and Frost going hard all the time. Young and Bath did some nice back-checking to hold their opponents out in the third, and Ellis made some classy rushes the first part of the contest. The forwards and alternates went the best for Chcates and deserved more goals for their work around the net. Anthony saved a bunch in the first two frames, and the husky defense men broke up quite a few dangerous rushes.

The teams:

Referee—"Gamey" Jarvis.

Father of Dempsey Wed for Third Time

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 6 (C.P.).—Hiram Dempsey, 73-year-old father of Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Mrs. Hanna Lyle Chapman, 37, a neighbor, have declared their intention to wed. They obtained a license yesterday.

Mr. Dempsey, who is divorced from Mrs. Cecelia Dempsey, mother of the ex-champion, said the present is his third venture in matrimony.

Hiram Dempsey is a native of West Virginia and came west to Manassa, Colo., where his fighting son was born. Later, the family moved to Salt Lake City. Mrs. Chapman was born here, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lythgoe.

BROPHY LEADS DETROIT TEAM TO 5-2 VICTORY

Olympics' Victory Over Indians Prevents Breaking of Second Place Tie.

"HAT-TRICK" FOR BROPHY.

Bulldogs and Tecumsehs Entertain Yellow Jackets and Detroit To-night.

TORONTO, Ont., March 6. (CP)—Although the Detroit Olympics are hopelessly outdistanced in the race for playoff berths in the International hockey league they, or rather one, Bernard Brophy, lent a friendly hand to the two Canadian contenders last night.

The Olympics met the Cleveland Indians and Brophy, who has been out through injuries most of the season, returned to the game and besides accomplishing the hat trick assisted in scoring the fourth of Detroit's total of five goals. The Indians were unable to garner more than two and thus prevented from breaking the second place tie existing between them and Windsor Bulldogs.

To-night both the Bulldogs and London Tecumsehs co-holders of third place with the Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, have a chance to improve their standing. The Windsorites entertain the Yellow Jackets and victory for the former will not only reward them with undisputed possession of the second rung but will also be of help to their London rivals.

The Tecumsehs are at home to the Olympics and as only four teams participate in the play-offs either the Londoners or Yellow Jackets must pass out of the picture soon.

Robins To Operate In Eastern League

HARTFORD, Conn., March 6 (C.P.). — The Brooklyn National League club directors yesterday voted to take over an Eastern league franchise and operate a team in this city.

David Driscoll, business manager for the Brooklyn Robins, notified William Carey, President of the Eastern League, to-day of Brooklyn's intention, and said that a business meeting would be held in Hartford next week. President Carey, Frank B. York, President of the Brooklyn Club; Driscoll and Nap Rucker, Brooklyn scout, are expected to attend.

Plans already have been completed to have the pick of the Macon club, the Robins' farm in the South Atlantic League, transferred to Hartford. These players, with the addition of surplus players from the Brooklyn club will comprise the Hartford squad.

Toronto Pair Last In Bicycle Classic

NEW YORK, March 6 (C.P.). — Franco Georgetti of Italy and his new partner, Norman Hill, of San Jose, Calif., along with three other teams led the way into the fifth day of the international six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden today.

The withdrawal of Freddy Spencer of Plainfield, N.J., due to a bad leg, and the desire of George Kroschel to fold up, gave Georgetti the opportunity to tie up with Hill.

There are three strong teams one lap behind the leaders:—De Nef and Charlier, Richili and Grimm, and Letourner and Guimbretiere. Bringing up the rear is the combination of Peden and Elder, who are five laps behind.

YUGO-SLAVIAN CHESS MASTER GIVES BRILLIANT EXHIBITION

Boris Kotich Winner of 22 Games in Tournament Held in Y.M.C.A.

GUEST AT DINNER.

For a period of two-and-a-half hours last evening Boris Kostich, Yugo-Slavian chess master, engaged fifteen local chess enthusiasts in play at the Y.M.C.A., drawing one game with V. Cole and winning the other 22 games. The exhibition proved a great entertainment to both the onlookers and the master himself, and afforded evidence of the fact that this city possesses the nucleus of a chess club, which it is stated it is hoped to form next winter.

Kostich, who came to this city direct from Toronto where he played a number of exhibition games at the Toronto Chess Club left at the conclusion of his brief engagement for Montreal where he is scheduled to give further exhibitions of his skill. It is learned that he is also to fulfill numerous other engagements from Montreal to Halifax, after which his objective will be New York from which point he will eventually return to Europe.

He ranks as one of the world's outstanding chess players, and has played with the present world champion, Dr. Alexander Alekhine and the exchampion, J. R. Capablanca.

Accompanied here by Malcolm Sim, chess and checker editor of the Toronto Telegram, Kostich was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. V. Cole of 209 Simcoe street. Previous to his exhibition games last evening numerous of the city's prominent chess players were given the oppertunity of meeting their star opponent at dinner, also as the guests of Mrs. Cole. They included Messrs. D. B. Falkner, R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, Gray Copping, H. B. Cowan, Rev. E. R. James, K. Wightman, G. H. Roper.

Mr Cole spoke of his guest as an engaging conversationalist who drew on a fund of experiences born of his recent world tour. He has won several first prizes at International Chess Tournaments and in numerous other less important events, and had much to speak of concerning these games which was of the keenest interest to his fellow players.

His world tour occupied a period of two-and-a-half years, during which time he travelled on the trans-Siberian railway a distance of 6,000 miles from Moscow to Vladivostock en route to Japan. For eight months he was engaged by the Mexican Government to teach the art of chess to officers of the Mexican Army, while during the year 1916 he played 20 boards blindfolded, winning nineteen games and drawing one.

James (2); K. Whiteman (2); D. Sims (2); James McClenaghan (2); B. Wheeler (1); A. Ward (2); G. H. Roper (1); R. Sowden (2); S. Mitchell (1); Howden Morris (2).

The fifteen players were grouped at tables placed in the form of a hollow square in the centre of which the chess master moved around from one player to the other, making decisions normally involving a great deal of consideration with a rapidity and decisiveness which was amazing. He made the sportsmanlike offer to each of the participants to take their choice of either colored pieces.

Rifle Shoot Results.

Some of the boys, not having had much practice at shooting from a kneeling position, did not do so well. Jim Parsons said he preferred firing from a sitting position. C.G.E. BOWLERS IN TOURNAMENT

Will Meet Toronto Davenport Branch in Queen City on Saturday.

INTER-WORKS AFFAIR.

Thirty bowlers from the C.G.E. will journey to Toronto on Saturday, the fourteenth of this month, to do battle with equal number of five-pin spillers from the Toronto Davenport branch of the C.G.E. in the annual inter-works bowling tournament.

The Shop Bowling League in the local plant will finish this week, and as the tournament is usually the climax of the season it has been eagerly looked forward to by those who can make the trip. At a meeting last night it was decided in view of the fact that only thirty bowlers could be accommodated, that in case more than this number wish to make the trip, the preference will be given to those who have participated in the greater number of games. Thirteen of the teams have not notified the secretary regarding their intentions, and the captains of these teams should communicate with him at once in order to facilitate arrangements.

Prize money for the men's section of the Shop Bowling League this season will be distributed the same as last year, and the play-offs will also be conducted in the same manner.

The first three teams in each half of the Ladies' League will participate in the play-offs as follows: Second and third position teams in the first half will play off, the winner meeting the section leaders; similarly in the second half. The ultimate winner in each section will then battle for the works championship. Prize money will be distributed to the three teams finishing first in each scheduled half.

DECISION AWARDED TO PRIMO CARNERA

(By Alan Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—The mystery of just how good Primo Carnera is a heavyweight fighter was not much nearer solution to-day as a result of the celebrated but financially unsuccessful Battle of the Cracked Rib.

Nevertheless, the ponderous puncher from Italy, as a result of gaining the referee's decision over Jimmy Maloney of Boston in a brisk ten-round swatfest last night, successfully overcame disconcerting obstacles and moved in the general direction of a championship match later this year with the winner of the Stribling-Schmeling title contest.

They had everything but a stretcher in Carnera's corner for the crowning touch to this winter's Fistic Flop under the Palms. However, not a doctor or hypodermic needle was put into action, as the huge, wild-swinging Italian alternately lumbered and danced, grinned and wineed through ten rounds of erratic fisticuffing with the veteran Irishman.

Carnera, if he was entitled to the verdict, earned it by the effective and frequently jarring use of his left hand. He staggered Maloney in the first, second and eighth rounds. Primo showed no inclination or ability to use his right at all, except as a blocking instrument; for the most part he was out-footed, out-boxed, and out-cuffed, especially in the latter part of the fight.

Referee Eimer (Slim) McClelland of Detroit showed no hesitation in lifting Carnera's glove in token of victory.

The crowd of perhaps 20,000 spectators, occupying less than two-fifths of the Madison Square Stadium, disagreed violently with the verdict. This sympathetic reaction for the smaller man, outweighed 73½ pounds, was shared only partially in the press rows.

"Yip" Foster Scores As Boston Cubs Win

BOSTON, March 6.—The Boston Bruins Cubs and New Haven Eagles battled through an overtime 3 to 3 tie here last night in the last game of the season between these clubs. The Eagles jumped the Bostonians in the opening period, scoring twice on shots by Burmeister and Boucher. "Yip" Foster started the Boston scoring with an unassisted goal. Lloyd Kein scored for Boston in the second and again in the third, when Ed Jeremiah tallied the last New Haven goal. The overtime, though fast, contined nothing that even resembled a scoring play.

Maureen Orcutt Is Only Old Guard Left

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 6. (CP)—The galleries looked for new stars to-day in the semi-final round of the Florida East Coast women's golf championship.

Only Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J. playing in her first Florida tournament this season, remained of the old guard of what started out to be an international match with the dope favoring a final battle between Diana Fishwick, British champion, and Virginia Van Vle, of Chicago.

Both these players were eliminated in the quarter finals. Miss Fishwick went down before the determined play of Mrs. H. D. Sterrett of Hutchinson, Kansas, while Miss Van Wie bowed on the last green to Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit.

Francis Hadfield, of Milwaukee, who has been going superbly since the first round when she eliminated Helen Hicks, Hewlett L.I., meets Miss Orcutt who yesterday had a tough time eliminating Kathleen Garnham of England.

Miss Hadfield advanced over Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago.

EARL RUSSELL DIES IN LONDON

Place in House of Lords Will Be Taken By His Brother, Hon. Bertrand Russell.

NOTED PHILOSOPHER.

LONDON, March 5. (By Thos. T. Champion, C. P. Staff Correspondent).—Undoubtedly socialism, on its intellectual side, furnishes a distinguished representative to the House of Lords in the Hon. Bertrand Russell, who succeeds his brother as the third Earl Russell.

The second Earl, John Francis Stanley Russell, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for India in the Labor Ministry, agnostic, fabian, and delver into science and social work, died at Marseilles last evening after a long and extraordinary career.

The new Earl is a profound mathematician and philosopher whose books have world-wide fame. He attempted to enter the House of Commons on several occasions without success. His works range from such a weighty volume as "Our Knowledge of the External World as a Field for Scientific Method in Philosophy", to "Marriage and Morals" and "The Conquest of Happiness" the latter published in 1930. He is 58 years of age and probably will also succeed his brother as Under-Secretary for India.

With the aid of his wife, Dora Winifred Black, whom he married in 1921, the present Earl runs an experimental socialist school at Petersfield.

A BEDTIME STORY

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TICKLE STICK.

Uncle Wiggily, feeling very sad, was hopping through the woods. The reason the kind, old rabbit gentleman was feeling sad was because two of his little bunny children in his hollow stump bungalow, had quarreled about an ear ribbon. They had pulled the cloth, dishes and all, off the breakfast table and there was a very sad time. Jingle and Jangle, the rabbit twins, were mostly to blame.

And when Uncle Wiggily heard the quarreling he just slid down the stair banister railing and hopped away to the woods without his breakfast. Oh, he was very sad! And then Jingle and Jangle stopped their quarrel and hopped on to recite their lessons to the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School. But Uncle Wiggily was sadly hopping around in the woods.

"After schoo," Baby Bunty had said, "we will go to the woods and find Unkie Wig and tell him we're never going to be bad any more."

Now we must find out what happened to Mr. Longears.

At first, after reaching the woods,

Uncle Wiggily started with the stick.

Uncle Wiggily just hopped around in a circle like playing Ring-Around-the-Rosie, only, you may be sure, the rabbit gentleman wasn't happy enough to play any games. He sat down on a log, after a while, and looked very unhappy.

"Dear me," thought Uncle Wiggily, "how can I make my little bunnies, especially Jingle and Jangle, stop quarreling and upsetting the table cloth? It makes me sad. I don't even want to have adventures when I think of what happened."

Just then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily heard a sort of adventure noise in the bushes behind him. Now if you have ever heard an adventure noise, even once, you will always know it when you hear it again.

But if you have never heard an adventure noise, there is not much use for me to tell you what it is like for, even if you heard it, you wouldn't know what it was. However, I will say that an adventur noise is something like pxtyswqatreyexabiliiski, though at times it may sound like mxzcsdteupotrewsaqyubgetkyu. And I have heard adventure noises that sounded like "WOOF!"

Anyhow, Uncle Wiggily heard an adventure sound in the bushes, and right away he said to himself:

"Well, I guess here comes the Bob Cat or some of the Bad Chaps." For many of the rabbit gentleman's adventures had to do with these Bad Chaps who so often chased him.

Uncle Wiggily got ready to run away, but, looking back at the bush, he saw coming out of it not the Bob Cat, the Wolf or the Fox, but a jolly old dog. And under his paw the dog carried a stick.

"Hello!" called Uncle Wiggily, knowing he had nothing to fear from this dog. "what have you there under your paw?"

"That," barked the dog in a very pleasant voice, "is a tickle stick."

"What is a tickle stick for?" asked Uncle Wiggily, smiling.

"A tickle stick," the dog barked, "is a stick for tickling little rabbit children that quarrel to make them stop quarreling and be happy."

"Do you mean I have to hit the rabbit children with that stick?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I could never do that! Never—

"No, and I wouldn't think of asking you to," went on the dog. "All you do is to point this tickle stick at the bunnies, or any other animals who are sad, unhappy or quarreling, and, all at once they feel so tickled that they laugh whether they want to or not. And of course, you know you can't quarrel if you laugh."

"Oh, yes, I know, that," answered Mr. Longears. "Well," he went on with a sad little sigh, "I wish I had a tickle stick to take home to my quarreling rabbit children. I don't know what to do about them."

"Here!" barked the dog, and he held the stick out, pointing it at the rabbit.

"Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Oh, how tickled I feel!"

"Well," growled the dog, also with a jolly laugh, "I didn't point this stick at you to make you feel tickled, though that is always what happens. I want to give it to you."

"Give it to me?" cried Uncle Wiggily in surprise.

"Yes!" barked the kind dog, "I am going to give you this tickle stick to take home and try it on your quarrelling rabbit children. See how it works."

"Thanks!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Thanks a lot! Now I feel better!" The dog went back behind the bush, and Uncle Wiggily started to hop to his hollow stump bungalow with the tickle stick. And now we must see what happens next, as is often said in books.

CULTURE OF SOUL SUBJECT OF TALK

Bethel Y. P. Guests of Warsaw Young People's Society.

WARSAW, March 6 (Examiner Correspondence)—At the meeting of the Y.P.S. of Warsaw held in the United Church Sunday School room on Tuesday evening when Bethel Y.P. were guests and provided the program, Mrs. Chester Hamilton gave a splendid paper on "Culture of the Soul."

The guests of the evening were welcomed by Ivan Drain and the opening excercises included the reading of the Beatitudes by Howard Hamilton.

In her talk Mrs. Hamilton pointed out that there are three kinds of culture, mental, physical and aesthetic and showed an arch the words of which go to make up an ideal Christian character. The base is truth. Purity is next—the pure in heart shall see God. Love is great because it is by loving, not by being loved, we grow better. Enthusiasm makes us happy to see others happy and patience is needed to carry on in spite of obstacles.

Generosity makes one willing to aid others; sympathy makes one able to share another's woes and humility divests us of pride while meekness makes one willing to be taught.

Walter Payne sang, "The Old Pine Tree" and Miss McIlmoyle contributed the recitation "Guilty." Other numbers included solo, "The Love That Is," Velma Payne; recitation, "When the Minister Comes to Tea," Miss Rosetta Frankish.

Two games followed, a spelling bee and "Streets and Alleys," Ralph Garbutt, of Bethel, presiding. Following the games, a splendid supper was served.

World Is Threatened With Gold Shortage

Canadian Bank of Commerce Head Offers Suggestions to Avert Danger.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 6 (By the Canadian Press)—International action to subsidize prospecting for gold and further research in metallurgy were recommended here to-day by S. H. Logan, general manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. Action along these two lines, he told the Canadian Mining and Metallurgy Convention, would help to prevent a world shortage of new gold for monetary purposes, which he believed might materialize within a few years.

Speaking on the economics of Canadian gold production, Mr. Logan said that for a number of years a group of authorities had warned against the continued disregard of an equitable distribution of existing gold revenues.

"The world to-day," Mr. Logan continued, "faces serious problems, first of making fully effective its present monetary reserves, which although badly distributed are as a whole ample for the needs of the present, and secondly, of preventing a shortage in the supply of new gold, one that may come within the next few years, if the present sources of supply are not enlarged and if there is no marked change ii the techniqueof gold production."

A possible shortage in gold might b averted, Mr. Logan said, by internation al action in subsidizing prospecting. In addition to this research in metallurgy might be subsidized also, with a view of discovering means of utilizing large bodies of low-grade ore which at present were unprofitable to operate.

MINING BRIEFS.

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 6.—(Special to Examiner.)—Mining Corporation sold sharply higher in brisk demand on the mining market to-day and with several other lower priced gold issues displaying strength, the board, as a whole, had a bright appearance. Renewed interest in the former stock is credited to the favorable reports being brought out of Matachewan by mining men with interests in the district, and to the fact recent drilling has added considerably to the indicated length of the vein.

McVittie Graham mines has taken a sampling option on the Alkin brothers' claims in Scadding township, Sudbury area, with the intention, if results of preliminary sampling are satisfactory, of proceeding with a brisk development campaign this year. McVittie was originally organized to undertake development of nickel copper prospects but, although retaining several groups in the nickel district, has more recently turned attention to scouting for gold.

Operations of Noranda, Waite Ackerman, Amulet, Siscoe and Granada last year resulted in a substantial increase in production of both copper and gold from Quebec. Blister copper production was up from 55,337,169 pounds in 1929 to 80,210,363 while output of gold advanced from 80,798 ounces to 135,493 ounces. The value of the larger amount of copper was only slightly above that of 1929 however, due to the sharp drop in price.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of Barry Hollinger Gold Mines Ltd., Dr. E. H. Greene was elected president and N. J. Conkey, vice president. Other directors are G. M. Morris, P. Barry and Robert Fennell, the latter filling the vacancy created by retirement of the former president, H. C. Crow. It is the intention of the new directorate to issue regular quarterly reports on operations.

Even the lowly kitchen sink is receiving attention in the present day search for favorable developments. Mullins Manufacturing, which has enjoyed a mildly spectacular career on Wall Street of late, is reported to be negotiating with International Nickel for the broader use of monel metal in the manufacture of sanitary appliances. The company has installed stamping machinery in its midwestern plant for the manufacture of monel metal sinks and other equipment which will be sold in competition with porcelain.

Winnipeg Review

The wheat market was extremely quiet yesterday with only a small local trade passing. However, there was very little for sale during most of the day, no pressure whatever being in evidence, while there was sufficient buying orders coming in through commission houses to hold the market firm and prices on the extreme bulge were 3-8 higher than the close last night. During the last hour Chicago weakened slightly and Chicago interests sold small amounts and with the thin demand the market sold off to new lows for the day. It was quite evident that the market could not stand up against any volume of selling despite the firmness shown during most of the day. No export business whatever, could be confirmed in wheat although there may have been a few scattered loads sold. There was no change in the cash situation, shippers and terminal interests were taking the odd cars that came out, but offerings were very light and all spreads were unchanged. Flour trade continued quite, a fair domestic demand with practically nothing doing in export channels. Snow was reported falling all over 'Iowa with light precipitation in other areas. The Kansas crop was reported officially as being in excellent condition with plenty of moisture for present needs. The U.S. Farm Board continues to offer wheat abroad, but actual sales are small as prices are considered too high. Winnipeg futures closed ¼ to ⅜ lower.

Coarse grains—These markets were firm most of the day, but ceased off later, in sympathy with the decline in wheat. There was only a light trade passing. A few small lots of barley were reported worked for export, but the volume was very small. In the cash markets eastern Canada were taking the odd car of oats and barley for feeding purposes. Oats closed 3-8 to ¼ lower, barley 3-8 to 1-8 lower and rye 1-8 to ¼ lower, flax dull and featureless, closing 7-8 to 1 5-8 lower.

Liverpool cables due 1-8 to 3-8 lower based on Winnipeg.

GRAIN MARKETING BILL ADVANCES.

REGINA, Sask., March 6. (CP)—The Agricultural Committee of the Saskatchewan Legislature late last night passed the preamble to the Co-Operative Grain Marketing Bill, involving the principle of this piece of legislation which provides for the establishment of a 100-per-cent. pooling organization if two thirds of the province's growers so decide.

THE OUNCE OF PREVENTION
The old saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure has no truer application than in the case of fire.
Carefulness costs nothing, yet thousands of dollars are saved every day, for instance, by the matches that are not thrown away while burning.
Every child should be taught to recognize and appreciate the dangers that lie in all exposed flames.
Of the ten thousand annual deaths by fire in the United States, one-third are children under ten years of age.

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 5 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The serious young Oxford man made their interview a disturbing one for Lady Greystoke. "Jack is exceptionally intelligent," he explained, "but he takes no interest in the subjects we study. Only feats of strength appeal to him and he will pore for hours over tales of wild beasts, savages and African life." The boy's mother tapped her foot nervously. "You discourage, this, of course?" she ventured. "You know my wishes!"

"I have tried to," he replied, a slight flush mounting his cheeks. "But—your son is very powerful for one so young." After several moments silence, Lady Greystoke spoke again. "For strong reasons it is every necessary, Mr. Moore, that you do everything in your power to discourage this tendency in Jack"—but she got no further. A wild yell outside the window brought them both to their feet as another wilder one echoed the first.

The room was on the second floor of the mansion. Outside the window spread a large tree. Upon one of its branches balanced a tall, well-built boy apparently exercising his lungs in wild outcry for pure joy of living. Before Lady Greystoke could reach the window to chide her only child, the youth leaped nimbly from the tree, landing squarely in the room, a disarming smile on his handsome face and said, "Behold the wild man from Borneo!"

Then he threw his arms about his mother's neck, kissing her affectionately. "Mother—there's an educated ape in town. It can do everything but talk. All the fellows have seen Ajax. Please, can't I?" "We will have to consult your father," evaded Lady Greystoke. "You know I do not approve of such exhibitions." The door opened, admitting a tall grey-eyed man. "Jack wants to see a trained ape," said Lady Greystoke, looking warningly at her husband.

RELIEF ROOMS

The rooms of the Peterborough Relief Association, above 435 George street, will be open on Saturday mornings from 10 to 11 o'clock and on Saturday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock.

The regular hours for other days are from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

POTS, PANS AND DISHES

We would like very much to get some pots and pans and dishes for homes where these are needed badly. Blinds, linoleum squares and pieces of carpet, could also be utilized.

A baby carriage is needed in a home where the baby can't get any fresh air, as it is too heavy for the mother to carry.

A camp cot or couch is required for a woman sleeping in a small room. And a sewing machine could be used profitably.

And we would like to get a baby's bath tub, (large size).

Anyone having any of these articles is asked to telephone 1600, The Examiner, and we will call for them.

BUILDING TWO NEW HOMES

Two new residences will be built by Fred H. Rowan, 549 King street, on 578 and 582 Sherbrooke street. Plans call for an expenditure in building of $2,500 each. The houses will be two storeys in height, and will be 25 feet in length and 19 in width. There will be concrete foundations, brick veneer walls, slate asphalt roof, maple floors and pine interior. The residences will have hot air heating installations.

UNITED FARMERS

reduced correspondingly, said Mr. McNiven. He saw no prospect of an increase in prices of farm products and said prices of what the farmer had to buy had to come down if the agricultural industry was to keep its head above water.

R. J. Scott, Huron County, thought co-operative marketing and buying should be developed on a larger scale throughout the Province. Arrangements should be made to prevent temporary fluctuations of prices due to slight gluts on the market. These fluctuations destroyed the confidence of the farmers and led them to suspect manipulation.

Too Much Poor Land Used

Farmers are cultivating too much poor land, Dr. J. B. Reynolds, former President of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, stated. In the face of declining prices and higher cost of production the farmers should cultivate only their fertile land. Sub-marginal land should be put permanently out of cultivation by reforestation.

Milk producers throughout the Province should be registered said Dr. Reynolds, fees should be collected on the basis of the number of cows. The Government through Ontario Agricultural College should make periodical surveys to determine the cost of producing dairy products in relation to the prices.

In addition a complete survey of methods of marketing dairy products similar to the recent investigation of the fruit and vegetable situation should be made.

"Large farms corporation or syndicate farms have not proved more profitable in the United States than small farms" he said, "but I do believe the time has come when a great many large farms could be organized in Ontario. There are many farmers who are good enough business men to carry on larger farms and the reduction in the cost of overhead would be great."

A revision in the sum of rentals is needed said Dr. Reynolds. Farmers who rent farms should be enabled to acquire an equity in any improvements they might make.

Stable Production Needed

Stable production of farm products was essential to the success of co-operative marketing said W. A. Amos of Perth County. Co-operation at present is hampered by distrust among the farmers themselves and their tendency to jump in and out of production in certain lines owing to fluctuations in prices. The importance and value of co-operation should be instilled in the youth through the schools. Text books should be prepared and school teachers instructed.

"There are only two ways you can aid industry," said J. J. Morrison, Secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, either by increasing revenue or by reducing expenditure. We can increase our revenue by better farming, by producing quality and quantity and by co-operative marketing. Farmers should use as much as their own products as possible, he said. They could not go on selling raw materials and buying back the processed materials shipped over expensive transportation systems. He thought a close scrutinty should be made of the cost of processing farm products.

OBITUARY

ERMA HUFF

Erma Huff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Huff of Bonarlaw, passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday afternoon after only a short illness. Miss Huff was seventeen years of age.

The remains were forwarded to Bonarlaw this morning for interment.

MISS ELIZABETH O'BRIEN.

The funeral of the late Miss Elizabeth O'Brien was held this morning from St. Peter's Cathedral, at nine o'clock.

After the remains, in accordance with the ritual of the Church, had been met at the entrance by the Rev. P. Costello, the Rev. Father Lacey of Deseronto and the Rev. K. Corkery, the Pontifical Requiem High Mass was solemnized by Archbishop O'Brien of Kingston, cousin of the deceased, assisted by the Rev. P. Costello as High Priest, the Rev. Father Lacey as deacon, the Rev. K. Corkery as sub deacon, the Rev. C. Carroll and the Rev. Dr. Masterson, as deacons of honor, and the Rev. J. Finn, as Master of Ceremonies.

His Lordship Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Connor spoke eloquently on the subject of death and the eternal life.

The officiating clergymen at the cemetery were Archbishop O'Brien, Rev. P. Costello and Rev. J. Finn.

Pall-bearers were F. Fairen, D. Sullivan, H. Hickey, M. J. Roche, J. J. Duffus and Dr. R. Sheehy.

The late Miss O'Brien had many friends in the community who will mourn her passing. Her life was one of self-effacing, quiet, conscientious pursuit of duty in her domestic and business relations. She upheld the old ideals of Christian womanhood in her steadfast adherence to the teachings of her church and the manner in which she fulfilled the duties of her station in life. Hers was a blameless and reserved existence, in which she did the task that lay at hand and strove to make life more pleasant for her immediate family and those friends who made up her quiet circle.

KINSMEN CLUB

often said that there are too many service clubs, but let me say that there is plenty of room for organizations such as the Peterborough Kinsmen Club,' he declared. Mr. Glover outlined the need for relief work, and said that he believed that the work in Peterborough was being well handled and this was one reason why this city to-day was not having the disturbances amongst certain elements in the community as other cities are having.

On behalf of the members of the cast, Dr. Herbert Young presented to Adrian Macdonald, the director of the play, a can as a small token for the able way in which he had aided the cast and for the great time which he had spent in putting the play across.

Dr. Mark Crough thanked the lady members of the cast and the other ladies for the time which they had given the play, and Alex Donnelly thanked all others who had worked to make the play one of the outstanding successes of the season.

The club is planning a trip to Toronto next Thursday evening when the members will be the guests of the Toronto club.

SURVEY MADE

Three new members were inducted into the club by Dr. J. J. Craig. The new members are: Enos S. Maybee, Harold R. Scott and Dr. Charles M. Lawrence; and Dr. Craig elucidated the aims of Kiwanis and its important place in community life with eloquence and clearness.

Many visitors from the Lindsay Club attended the luncheon, which was one of the largest so far this year. Kiwanians from Toronto and Hamilton were also present.

Al Sharpe was booster of the day and Harry Boyle put in a good word for "Al," one of the hardest-working members of the Club.

Not least in the program's entertainment were a solo by Art Allan of Lindsay and a southern melody by the Kiwanis octet, which is expected to add greatly to the concert being presented to-night in Lakefield by the Kiwanis for the benefit of the Lakefield Agricultural Society.

FIRE RAZES BARN NEAR STRATFORD.

STRATFORD, Ont., March 6 (C.P.). —Fire caused by an overturned lantern completely destroyed the large barn on the farm of Charles Mallam near the village of Auburn in Huron County, last night. An implement shed which was located near the barn also took fire, and was destroyed together with the implements which it contained.

In addition to the buildings and implements, Mr. Hallam lost what remained of the last season's hay and grain crops, four cows, one horse and a number of hogs. Some insurance was carried on the buildings and contents.

It was on the return journey that the crash occurred. O'Clair Sweers was driving. No reason for the accident could be ascertained.

WAR IS DECLARED UPON NEW PARTY BY LABOR HEADS

Lay Plans to Enter Candidates Opposing Mosley's Band at Elections.

TO HOLD COUNTER RALLIES.

Propose to Have Premier MacDonald Open Labor Ball.

LONDON, Mar. 7. — (By George Hambleton, C. P. Staff Correspondent.—The National Labor Party has declared war on the new party formed by Sir Oswald Mosley, brilliant young Socialist who left the MacDonald Cabinet last year because of his dissatisfaction with the alleged failure of the ministry to take drastic measures for alleviating unemployment.

Conversations are under way between the National organizations with the object of entering official labor candidates against Sir Oswald and his band at the next general elections. Sir Oswald has expressed the hope that he could put up 400 candidates.

Plan Counter Rallies.

The Mosley demonstrations, opened at London two nights ago by Lady Cynthia Mosley while her husband was ill, will be followed by counter Labor rallies. It is proposed that Premier Ramsay MacDonald himself would open the Labor ball.

By a vote of 18 to three, the Labor executive of Stoke on Trent has demanded that Lady Cynthia, representing the division in Parliament, should resign from the Labor party along with her husband.

Yet while the party organizations are all in a fuss and flurry, the general public continues to treat the polling booth with apathy. "What's

SHIP KEELS OVER SKELETON CREW BARELY ESCAPES

Holds of C. N. R. Liner Fill While Vessel in Drydock.

AT VICTORIA, B.C.

Fears Expressed Steamer Will Turn Over With Dropping Tide.

VICTORIA, B.C., March 7 (C.P.)—Barely escaping in scanty clothing, members of the skeleton crew of the Canadian National steamer Prince Rupert clamored ashore at Yarrow's Dock, Esquimault, last night as the big passenger vessel suddenly commenced to take water and gradually started to keel over as her holds filled.

The vessel, tied to the dock undergoing the regular overhaul preparatory to the Spring and Summer seasons, was apparently in good condition. Shortly before midnight, it was stated, watchmen noticed water rushing into the holds. The alarm was given, but so rapidly did the ship fill that members of the crew aroused from their sleep only had time to escape in the clothing they picked up as they quitted their quarters. No cause for the flooding could be suggested by dockyard officials.

So rapidly did she fill that by two o'clock this morning the vessel was listing at an angle of 50 degrees with the stern touching the bottom. The tide was rising at the time and it was stated she might right herself with the increasing depth, but fear was expressed that with the dropping tide she would turn over.

The Prince Rupert is a twin-screw vessel of 306.7 feet with a beam of 42.2 and a draught of 23.9 feet. She was built in 1910 at Newcastle, England, for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, to operate between Vancouver, Prince Rupert, and Alaskan points.

Crippled Steamer Taken In Tow By Tug

HALIFAX, N.S., March 7. (CP)—The Dutch tug Rhoode Zee picked up the disabled Furness Red Cross liner Rosalind, with her thirty five passengers still aboard at midnight last night, and is now headed for Halifax, with her tow according to word reaching the local officials of Furness Withy Company this morning. Officials of the company were unable to state when the Rosalind would reach Halifax; much, they said, depending on the weather, at present reported as fine

LIQUOR RUNNING PROVES BUSINESS FILLED WITH MANY COMPLICATIONS

Differences Mostly Settled By Their Own Courts of Arbitration.

SKIPPERS MUST BE GOOD.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 7 (C.P.)—In a room of an uptown residence in a city of the United States a man in a dinner jacket waits impatiently for supplies that do not come. In a somewhat different establishment downtown, a retailer of bottled goods put in another call for his distributor, who, in turn, has about given up hope of optimistic reports from the beach. Offshore, a speedboat or a stonebarge turns for the coast, unladen.

A few days later, these several annoyances, perhaps not all crowded into the space of a single night, but essentially and very definitely connected and interdependent, are reflected and expressed in a crisp sentence:

"No: you're through. We've no use for a skipper who can't make connections."

The Scene

The scene is the town-east office, possibly in Halifax, of liquor-ship owners or charterers. The charterers are the agents responsible for the vessel carrying the cargo, and the captain of a carrier who has been unable to find, in fog and darkness, the appointed spot of the United States coast where transference of cargo to a contact boat was scheduled. A new skipper will be in charge of that particular vessel when she next sails for St. Pierre to take on Scotch and rye.

Average Man Gets Too Much Sleep

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 7.—The average man sleeps too much for his own good health. Four hours a day is enough for anyone engaged in a business or professional pursuit.

So said Dr. Wilson A. Allen of Rochester, who hasn't slept more than four hours out of every 24 in the last 58 years.. He mentioned this yesterday as he celebrated his 97th birthday and pointed out that he is still active in his medical practice, to which he devotes 14 to 16 hours daily.

"I have gained 16 pounds in weight this winter," said Dr. Allen. "I am at work every day and I do not know what more a man could expect.

The Athletics were in the senior circle a few seasons ago, but lost it very quickly. This season, a team of young players has proved a fillip to ambition and promotion is expected as the clubs has a lead of five points over its nearest rival.

Diary Kept by "Love" Agency Operator Results in Hailing of Trio to Court

LOS ANGELES, March 7.—The District Attorney's office reported today a diary relating how young girls were induced to register for engagements with wealthy Hollywood and Los Angeles men led to confession by Mrs. Olive Clark Day of a part in operating a "love" agency.

Mrs. Day, a dancer; William Jobelman, former theatrical press agent, and John P. Mills, real estate and oil promoter, were arranged in Superior Court yesterday on charges growing out of an alleged attack by Mills on Clarice Tauber, 16, their preliminary hearing set for March 31. Mills was released under $5,000 bond. The other two, unable to make bail, were held in jail.

Blayney Matthews, chief investigator for the District Attorney's office said, Mrs. Day's diary indicated she had known Mills several years. Jobelmann's Hollywood studio yielded files of more than 100 girls of from 12 to 20 years in age, and another file of wealthy men.

Mrs. Day left the diary with a man said to be her brother-in-law and he turned it over to the District Attorney's office, Matthews said, when he found the name of his 13-year-old sister listed in it.

Takers of Census Busy in France

PARIS, March 7 (A.P.).—France tomorrow will count her noses. Throughout the country census-takers will rap on front doors and ask for little slips which they had deposited several days before.

Inhabitants of homes will be supposed to have filled out a long list of questions which all census-takers want to know and have the lists ready for the collectors. An unofficial count in 1929 gave the country 41,130,000 inhabitants. The French census is taken every five years.

ROYAL BROTHERS HEAVILY GUARDED

Argentina Takes No Chances on Safety of Visitors, Who Travel in Closed Car.

POPULACE CURIOUS.

BUENOS AIRES, Mar. 7.—(A.P.)—Argentina is taking no chances on the safety of the Prince of Wales and his brother, who are accompanied wherever they go by police and military guards.

Newspaper correspondents are required to obtain special credentials from the police and even these at times are not recognized by the special guard.

The Prince himself has been travelling in a closed car despite the continuing heat, usually surrounded by detectives, some of whom drive off even the cameramen

There is an intense curiosity among the people about the Princes and crowds follow them at a distance wherever they appear. Since they came here there has been considerable speculation among Argentine beau brummels as to whether the colored shirts and collars affected by the Royal tourists will win popularity here.

UNSOLVED LABEL FOR GORDON CASE

Break Seen Between District Attorney and Police Head Over Use of Private Detectives.

NO CLUE AS TO STAGES.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Mar. 7 (C.P.).—The case of Vivian Gordon, garrotted vice graft tipstress, moved to-day toward a dusty pigeon-hole marked "Unsolved"—there to rest with the portfolios on Dorothy King and Arnold Rothstein.

For in spite of the employment of private detectives, her slayers apparently were as far from justice as when her body was discovered nine days ago. Fifty-three witnesses have been examined by the Bronx Grand Jury. Neither her $2,500 diamond ring nor the mink coat has been found. No trace of her movements during the two days before the crime have been uncovered.

Break Foreseen.

The possibility of an open break over the engagement of the detective agency loomed to-day between the District Attorney and Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney. At the conclusion of a protracted and turbulent meeting of all investigators, each of them was asked whether the private detectives had superseded the police.

"See Mr. McLaughlin," said Mulrooney as he drove away.

McLaughlin refused to answer.

Miss Gordon and her daughter, 16-year-old Benita Bischoff, who committed suicide in shame over the revelations concerning her mother, were buried yesterday—the former in Mount Hope Cemetery, Westchester County, and the latter at Upper Darby, Pa.

TWO CHILDREN DIE MOTHER VERY ILL FROM GAS FUMES

Unseen Death Overtakes Young Buffalo Victims in Their Sleep.

REVIVAL EFFORTS VAIN.

Second Woman Staggers to 'Phone, Faints—Operator Summons Police.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 7 (C.P.).—Fumes from pipeless gas water heaters were blamed by police last night for the death of two children and the serious illness of their mother. A second woman escaped asphyxiation only by the presence of mind of a telephone operator.

Richard Cowan, 5, and his 15 months old sister, Joyce, were overcome in bed and all efforts to revive them proved futile. Their mother, Mrs. Charles H. Cowan, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition.

Mrs. Anna L. Grant staggered to the telephone when she felt a deadly faintness, stealing on her, and collapsed before she could summon aid. The operator, Mrs. Elizabeth Schroer, receiving no reply, summoned police. Mrs. Grant was treated by a physician and was able to return home.

WOMAN BANDIT GIVEN FREEDOM

Kathleen Boyle, Formerly of Hamilton, to be Deported to United States.

WAS GIVEN 3 YEARS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 17—Kathleen Boyle, 17, formerly of Hamilton and now of Buffalo, Toronto's first woman bank robber, sentenced to two years in the Mercer Reformatory for participating in the hold-up of the branch of the Bank of Commerce, April 24 last year, was released yesterday on order of the Minister of Justice and deported to Buffalo.

The Ontario Parole Board ordered her parole some months ago, but as she was a citizen of United States by adoption, Ottawa had to pass on her case.

With her brother-in-law, who was sentenced to 12 years, the girl entered the bank, acting as a "cover" for the man. They, along with two others, were arrested within a few hours.

Victims Trapped In Old Stockade With Metal Roof

Two Guards on Duty at Duplin County Prison on Discovering Fire Rush Forty-five Prisoners to Place of Safety —All But 12, Negroes.

HEAVY TIMBER STOCKADE HAD NO FIRE PROTECTION; CORONER STARTS PROBE OF DISASTER IMMEDIATELY

Only Three of Dead Negroes Found in Charred Ruins Indentified—Rumor Blaze Was of Incendiary Design Being Investigated.

KENANSVILLE, N.C., March 7 (C.P.). — Trapped in their cells, 11 negro convicts burned to death to-day as flames swept through the huge wooden stockade of Duplin County. Forty-one other prisoners, all negroes except 12, were led from the burning building by guards.

Owen Basden and B. S. Nicholson, the guards on duty, discovered the fire shortly after 2 a.m. The flames began first in the kitchen. Their origin has not been determined.

The stockade, built of heavy timbers, was located one mile from here. It was virtually without fire protection. Dan H. Bridgers, Duplin County coroner, began an investigation immediately. Pending its completion he requested the two guards not to discuss the fire.

Residents of the community who first reached the fire said, however, that Basden rushed into the burning building time after time to lead forth the prisoners.

Three Identified.

Three of the dead were identified as Preston Hall, Claude Coe, and John James. All bones remained in the ruins as Coroner Bridgers prepared to hold an inquest and the records had not been checked to show the identities of the other victims.

Some indication that the blaze might have been of incendiary origin was being investigated.

The stockade was a quadrangle. Corrugated iron covered the fatal cell block, which was in the centre and apparently the victims were literally roasted to death as the flames from adjoining structures turned the iron white hot.

The stockade was built after the manner of many of the earlier prisons in the United States. It consisted of a high "stock" or stake fence covered with corrugated iron. Inside were cell houses. Similar prisons were used by both armies during the war between the States.

Sheffield Wednesday held third position though they lost at Sunderland by the unexpected deficit of five goals to one.

In the Second Division, Everton got a win from Reading and improved their position at the top of the averages. Tottenham Hotspurs could not beat Charlton Athletic and West Bromwich Albion came up on even terms with them in second place when they drew with Millwall. LADY C. MOSLEY MUST RESIGN SEAT STOKE LABORITE OFFICIALS DECIDE Decision is Outcome of Lady Cynthia's Activities in Forming New Party.

SESSION PRIVATE.

STOKE-UPON-TRENT, England, March 7 (A.P.).—Loyalty of the Laborite officials of Stoke to the Labor Party is stronger than their attachment to Lady Cynthia Mosley, daughter of the late Marquis Curzon, whom they elected Parliamentary representative of Stoke division at the last election.

In consequence of her resignation from the party to join her husband's new group, the local executive at Stoke met last night to decide whether they would continue to recognize her as their M.P. After the meeting, which was private, Miss Farmer, the chairman, announced that they had resolved to demand that she resign her seat.

Their resolution will be submitted next week to a delegates' conference of Stoke, Fenton and Longton, the three districts which comprise the constituency. Miss Farmer stated that the executive regarded the multiplication of parties as a retrogression and the creation of one party within another as intolerable.

It was understood that their decision has been mailed to Lady Cynthi who is in London with her husband, Sir Oswald, who is ill with influenza.

QUAKES ARE FELT IN BALKAN CITIES

Shepherd and Flock of 200 Sheep Perish in Mountain Slide.

ATHENS EXPRESS HALTED.

VIENNA, March 7 (A.P.).—Widespread destruction in South Serbia from two earthquake shocks this morning was reported in dispatches from Balkan cities to-day.

Residences and public buildings in many towns, notably Demir, Kapia and Valandovo were shaken down. The shocks drove large sections of the population panic stricken into the open.

There was only one known fatality but it was feared there were others.

In the Valandovo region a mountain slide swept a shepherd and 200 sheep to death. At Guevguell the first shock split the post office in two.

The Athens Express was held up because of the quakes, which tore up the roadbed and displaced the rails.

BUDGET IN B. C. HEAVILY SCORED

Ministry Charged With Exhausting Revenues Requiring Boost in Taxes.

INCOME TAX RAPPED.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 7.—(CP)—Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader, yesterday opened his attack on the budget of Hon. J. W. Jones, Finance Minister, brought down in the British Columbia Legislature. Declaring that the Government would have to go to the market for an additional $25,000,000 in the next two years, the Leader of the Opposition scored the present ministry, which, he said, by profligate expenditures last year had exhausted the revenues and necessitated wholesale increase in taxation.

The new additional income tax, said Mr. Pattullo, was a charge against the poor and working classes who could least afford it. He declared that increasing of the tax on banks, which he said would return only $10,000 was a feeble gesture.

Price Of Gasoline Drops In United States

NEW YORK, March 7.—The oil industry, weakened by overproduction, foreign competition and internecine strife, was dealt a heavy blow yesterday when crude oil and gasoline prices, already so low that few companies, if any, can make money, were cut in various sections of the country.

The opinion was expressed here last night by persons familiar with the situation that the reductions probably would be met by the rest of the industry and that the situation is one step closer to a crisis in which drastic action will be necessary to save the weak units in the industry.

LINDSAY, March 7 (Special to The Examiner).—John Curtin, a resident of Emily Township, was sentenced to three months in the county jail yesterday morning, and Mrs. Priscilla Long of Lindsay was sentenced to the Mercer Reformatory for a year for infractions of the moral code. The pair were arrested last week in Hamilton where they had registered as man and wife, and where Mrs. Long endeavored to have her children placed in an institution.

CAR INSURANCE TO BE REDUCED

Public Will Get Big Saving By New Rates Price States.

REDUCE PRIVATE RATES.

TORONTO, March 7.—A saving of $500,000 in insurance premiums in 1931 to owners of private automobiles was predicted in the Legislature yesterday by Attorney-General Price.

Colonel Price announced that the Government at present was not going to adopt the suggestion in Mr. Justice Hodgins's report that the Provincial Superintendent of Insurance should regulate the reasonableness of insurance rates.

"Meanwhile," said the Attorney-General, "the associated companies have made overtures to the Government with respect to rates for 1931 which encourage us to believe that the existing rates may be made substantially lower and more uniform by the companies voluntarily."

Sees Big Saving to Public

Colonel Price explained that the associated companies had proposed a new scale of rates for private passenger cars for 1931, which would effect substantial savings to the Ontario public. "None of the basic rates are proposed to be increased," said Colonel Price, referring to private passenger cars, "and the percentage of decreases proposed range all the way from 2 per cent. to 26 per cent., according to the coverage, the class of car and the territory where the automobile is principally used. It is estimated that if the premiums written in the Province on private passenger cars total $6,500,000 in the year 1931 the aggregate savings to private passenger car owners as a result of the proposed lower rates will exceed $500,000.

"Commercial car and fleet rates are proposed to be increased. The Commissioner found that the existing rates for those types of risk were inadequate. The proposed rates for commercial cars represent an average increase above existing rates of about 12 per cent.

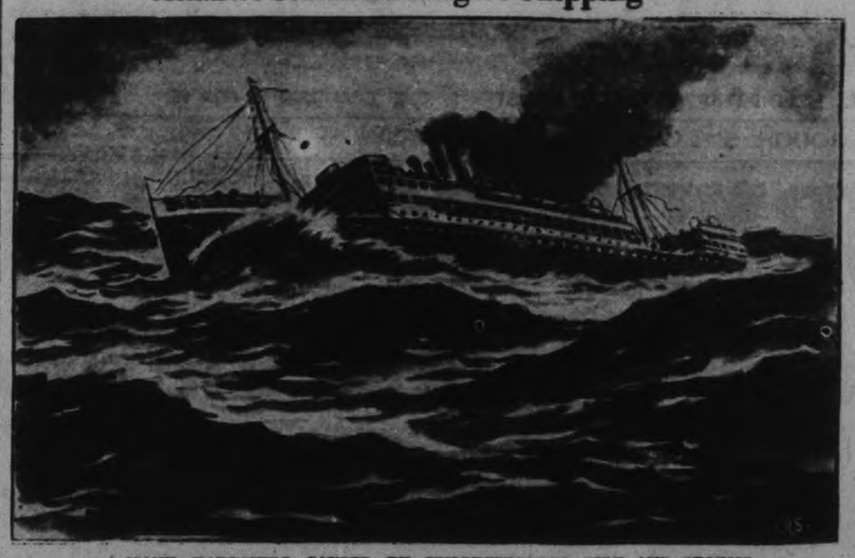
Atlantic Storm Endangers Shipping



MANY HARDSHIPS CAUSED BY UNPRECEDENTED TIDE AND STORMS

Many lives are in peril and much property is damaged as a storm, accompanied by exceptionally high tides lashed the Atlantic seaboard, concentrating much of its fury upon unprotected points at Devil's Island, Duncan's Cove, Herring Cove and Chebucto Head. The drawing shows the ship Rosalind being tossed by the storm-torn Atlantic, her propeller broken. A relief ship is speeding to her aid. Much shipping has been damaged, including many boats of the fishing fleet.

Pensions payments totalled $37,364,942, an increase of nearly four million dollars. Subsidies to Provinces increases by $5,000,000 to $16,592,861. National defence amounted to $11,648,572, a decrease from the previous figure of $14,344,692. Public works (chargeable to income) increased by more than $5,000,000 to $20,732,252.

THUGS ATTACK FRED RISHEA

Former Resident of Peterborough Undergoes Exciting Experience.

PISTOL JAMMED.

Fred Rishea, meat market proprietor in business at Rochester, N. Y., a former resident of this city and an employee of the Examiner with which he worked as a pressman for a number of years, recently underwent an exciting but unpleasant experience when attacked by two men who tried to rob him as he entered his home at 598 Clarissa street, Rochester.

A cartridge which jammed the mechanism of an automatic pistol carried by one of the thugs, probably saved him from a violent death. As it turned out, the butcher stood his ground firmly, with one foot planted firmly on the gun, and fought the pair until his wife ran outside and screamed. This scared the attackers, and Rishea was able to regain the security of his house.

Rishea was afterwards treated at the General Hospital. Besides a scalp injury, he was found to have fractures of the right index finger and left little finger.

Trenton Man Is Burned Throws Oil Upon Fire

MADOC, March 7 (Examiner Correspondence).—George Labrash of Trenton, formerly of Madoc, was badly burned about the face and neck, when he threw old oil on what was supposed to be an extinct furnace fire. Prompt and skillful treatment was given, and it is hoped that Mr. Labrash will escape disfigurement.

"Y" Building In City Exempt From Taxes

In the light of the recent battle on the floor of the Ontario Legislature concerning a private bill introduced to grant the Windsor Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association exemption from taxation, it is interesting to note that the local Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. are exempt of all taxation except local improvements. Neither of the local associations, similar to branches in most other Ontario cities, have ever been taxed.

In the Windsor case the city strongly opposed the bill, because there were arrears in taxes of $21,000, but it passed the Legislature yesterday.

BALDWIN AGAINST ECONOMY IN NAVY

Claims Gov't Cut National Expenditure to Dangerous Point.

SHOULD BE BEST IN WORLD.

LONDON, Mar. 7. —(AP)— The navy is held forth by Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, British Conservative leader, as the one thing which should be excepted from a Governmental campaign of rigid economy.

In a speech at Newton Abbott last night the former Premier declared that the Government had cut down national expenditure to a dangerous point. He commented that naval building had been stopped last year upon the contention that it was undesirable to build until the London conference was concluded.

"We know that an agreement has been made for limitation of navies," he said, "but we must never forget that with our world-wide responsibility what we are entitled to is naval building and we must take care that in quality our navy shall be the best in the world."

He denied that the Conservative Party was committed to a policy of surrender or withdrawl in India as, he said, some enemies of the party would like to have it believed.

STEAMERS COLLIDE—FIVE DROWN

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, March 7 (A.P.).—Five persons were drowned to-day when the river steamer Karageorges collided with the Franchet d'Esparey on the River Danube. Four of the victims were passengers and one a member of the crew. One of the boats was split in two and sank.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Doings in Legislature

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 7. (CP) — First reading bills to amend the Dentistry Act, to amend the Municipal Act and to amend the Insurance Act.

Second reading bills to amend the Registry Act, to amend the Land Titles Act and to amend the Fire Marshalls' Act.

Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General announced Government decision not to enforce clause in the Insurance Act giving it power to regulate automobile insurance rates in view of the decision of insurance companies to reduce rates.

NIXON TO PRESS FOR LIQUOR VOTE

Liberal Members it is Believed Will Line Up Behind Progressives.

INCOME TAX MOVE.

TORONTO, March 7.—Hon. Harry C. Nixon's resolution asking the Legislature to affirm its adherence to the principle of the plebiscite and the referendum, in connection with public voting on the liquor question, will, it is understood, be called by Premier George S. Henry next Wednesday.

Mr. Nixon proposes, it is understood, to divide the House on the resolution, and thereby secure the registered vote of every member.

The Liberal group, headed by William E. N. Sinclair, intends, it is said, to line up solidly behind Mr. Nixon, despite the "no-referendum" policy of the recent Provincial Liberal Convention. During the past few days there have been rumors around Queen's Park that one or two members of Mr. Sinclair's following might oppose the resolution, but this was denied last night.

Another question which is much to the fore in Legislative corridors at the present time is the abolition of municipal income tax proposal embodied in the Assessment Act amendment of Arthur Ellis, Conservative, South Ottawa. A great deal of lobbying is said to be going on in connection with this measure, and Toronto members—all opposed to the bill, it is said, with perhaps a single exception—are "huddling" repeatedly on the matter.

Proponents of the bill are also bringing a lot of pressure to bear upon doubtful-minded members, and when the bill comes before the Committee on Municipal Law the argument it will precipitate will undoubtedly be strenuous as well as lenghty.

FLOODS SWELL FRENCH RIVER

Seine Rises, Flooding Outskirts of Paris—Streets Become Brooks.

TROLLEY TRACKS COVERED.

PARIS, March 7.—(AP)—French rivers, swollen by heavy rain and snow during the past week, have flooded a large area and today were doing considerable damage. The Seine was rising steadily and had a threatening aspect because the tremendous volume of water rushing into it from tributaries.

At Paris the Seine has risen more than 11 inches since yesterday. The waters have invaded the Isle St. Louis and in the suburbs have transformed many streets into sluggish brooks.

Near Rheims the Marne has become menacing. At St. Remy and Bouzemont and Larelcourt several square miles of prairie were flooded, and the highway was cut between St. Remy and Moncetz.

Outside Bordeau the Garonne has overflowed, covering the tramway and interfering with new construction in the River Gregion. The Rhone was rising steadily near Nimes and flooding bordering land.

PRIVATE AGENCY ASKED TO SOLVE GORDON DEATH

Only Two Friends Follow Behind Hearse at Funeral of Vivian Gordon.

CLUES WORLD-WIDE.

Grand Jury Continues Digging Out the Woman's Past.

NEW YORK, March 7. —Private detectives were at work yesterday on the murder of Vivian Gordon as New York's Police Department knocked in vain at a "wall of silence."

It was Charles B. McLaughlin, District Attorney of the Bronx, who disclosed the employment of a national detective agency, a step almost unprecedented in the long history of unsolved killings here.

The private detectives have been authorized to proceed "regardless of cost" and to concentrate on what were called the "world-wide ramifications" of the slaying of Miss Gordon.

Attorney Pays Costs.

Dozens of witnesses have been questioned and scores of leads followed since her body was tossed into a Bronx park eight nights ago, but "no headway of any great importance" has been made, McLaughlin said yesterday. He explained that he was paying the detectives out of his own pocket, but expected to get his money back.

The voluminous diaries of the slain woman, who had contacts with the underworld and the realm of finance, were believed to contain names of persons in Canada, Europe and distant parts of the United States. One of the first tasks is to discover the meaning of a mysterious entry referring to money paid out by Miss Gordon to a "bank in Oslo, Norway."

Past Is Probed.

Meanwhile the Grand Jury continued digging out of the woman's past a strange admixture of racketeers and playboys, mother-love and fear of murder, and such names as Arnold Rothstein, gambler, who "got his."

Only two mourners followed the hearse as the slain woman's body was borne yesterday from Fordham Morgue to a grave in Mount Hope Cemetery. They were her brother, Pierre Morehead Franklin of Montreal, and an unidentified woman who kept her face muffled in the collar of her long dark coat.

Not one of Miss Gordon's multitude of acquaintances along the Great White Way was there, and there were no flowers.

TWO TO BATTLE IN ST. GEORGE'S

Capt. A. D. Cooper and Sir E. W. Petter, Both Conservatives, Only Ones in Running.

ERSHINE AGAINST BALDWIN.

LONDON, March 7 (C.P. Cable).—All indications to-day pointed to a straight fight between rival Conservatives in the St. George's, Westminster, by-election caused by the death of Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Secretary for War in the former Baldwin Government. And the issue promises to be the question of Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin's leadership of the Conservative Party.

Captain Alfred Duff Cooper, prominent Conservative, husband of Lady Diana Manners and former Conservative M.P. for Oldham, will be the official Conservative candidate. The other candidate will be Sir Ernest Willam Petter, prominent industrialist. Sir Ernest is receiving the enthusiastic support of the newspaper barons, Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere, but he denies he is the "camouflaged" representative of the Empire Free Trade crusade.

Want "Parrot" Candidate

Sir James Erskine, Conservative member for the division from 1921 to 1929, told the local party executive to-day that pressure had been brought upon them to nominate a candidate who would repeat, parrot-like, the cries of the central office—Conservative headquarters.

"I will use every legitimate means," Sir James said, "to secure the retirement of Mr. Baldwin and the substitution of a new leader who would unite all shades of Tory opinion." He would continue to support Mr. Baldwin so long as he was leader, but someone at some point had to take the initiative of securing a more virile leadership and policy, he declared.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans was elected in 1929 with a majority of 16,154 in a straight fight with J. G. Butler, Labor.

Delayed Judgment Is Given Plaintiff

The most delayed judgment in the recent legal history of Peterborough, if not for all time, according to local lawyers, was handed down yesterday by Judge L. V. O'Connor, of Cobourg. The case was first heard on November 28, 1929, and again on January 7, 1930, judgment not being given until yesterday.

The action arose between the Modern Cleaners and Dyers, plaintiff, and the Pembroke Laundry Company over the purchase of a flatwork ironer purchased by the Modern Cleaner from the Pembroke Laundry. Modern Cleaner claimed that certain alterations and repairs made to the machine by them should have been paid for by the Pembroke Laundry. The Pembroke Company tried to settle in full for $36.15, which was not accepted by Modern Cleaners.

By his judgment Judge O'Connor allows the plaintiff the sum of $173.64 damages and costs.

J. A. O'Brien acted for the plaintiff and J. R. Reeves, K.C., of Pembroke, for the Pembroke Laundry Company.

They Make Light Of It

CHRIST put His finger with unerring directness on the root causes of the soul's disorders and disasters. For He knows what is in men—both of good and evil. Here He shows that the spirit of unconscious trifling is apt to grow upon them until some circumstance reveals the moral dry-rot which has, all unsuspected, been going on. These men in the parable certainly did not begin by slightingly rejecting the invitation of a King. The trifling habit had grown upon them; and this was their self-revealing crisis.

The subject matter of their preferred excuses is too worthless for consideration. For what are a farm and merchandise in comparison with the things of the Kingdom of Heaven? They may, of course, be made into excuses by the insincere and unwilling man, but can never be seriously set forth as reasons for the rejection of the Divine invitation. The fact is, however, that these things are constantly increasing their grip upon the lives of those who willingly yield themselves to them, until they cannot be shaken off. Then, when challenged by some demand of the Son of God, they flame into hot and fierce revolt. To such lengths does habitual light-hearted trifling with eternal things bring men.

Let us be seriously on our guard against this besetting danger. For to yield to any spirit which treats the precepts and promises of God as things of little moment, which may be carelessly neglected now in the vain hope that in any future time of need they may be turned to, is the pathway of disaster. For God will not wait for ever upon our convenience. We trifle with Him at our own peril.

The Word Was Made Flesh

PRIOR to Christ's coming the Word of God had already become human speech and writing. In the main, however, men would not listen to it, could not understand it, and did not interpret it. For, as a matter of fact, God cannot be adequately declared in mere utterance and literature. Hence "the Word became flesh" and expressed God in all His human experiences, not by teaching a doctrine but by living a life under ordinary human conditions of pain, disappointment, temptation and joy. Only thus as He reveals Him can the Infinite become to us the intimate, the Creator become the companion, and the thunder of Law form the deep diapason of the tender harmonies of Love.

In the Incarnation of Christ there is declared the possibility of fellowship between man and God, the restoration of sin-forfeited union. That "the Word became flesh, and dwelt among us" proclaims the glorious truth that God's thoughts can come into men's minds, that His works can be done by men's hands, and that His affection can be responded to and reflected in men's hearts.

His appearance as a Man amongst men is not merely a truth to be believed, but a type also of the life of which He is the Bestower and the Forerunner. For in His followers language must become life and creed must become character. The process of the Christian life is to materialize the spiritual. Under its discipline each man of faith becomes the expression of some thought of God to the world.

—J. Stuart Holden, D.D., M.A.

A Train Of Music

AMID the discords of this life, it is blessed to think of heaven, where God draws after him an everlasting train of music; for all thoughts are harmonious and all feelings vocal, and so there is round about his feet eternal melody.

Pharisee Or Christian?

A week filled up with selfishness, and the Sabbath stuffed full of religious exercises, will make a good Pharisee, but a poor Christian. There are many persons who think Sunday is a sponge with which to wipe out the sins of the week. Now, God's altar stands from Sunday to Sunday, and the seventh day is no more for religion than any other. It is for rest. The whole seven are for religion, and one of them for rest.

High Above All

ALL things in the natural world symbolize God, yet none of them speak of him but in broken and imperfect words. High above all he sits, sublimer than mountains, grander than storms, sweeter than blossoms and tender fruits, nobler than lords, truer than parents, more loving than lovers. His feet tread the lowest places of the earth; but his head is above all glory, and everywhere he is supreme.

The Hour Of Prayer

OH THOU DISCERNER of the thoughts and intents of the heart, Thou knowest our solicitude for the things that do appear, Thou knowest how we walk in a vain show, and for a show make long prayers. We have tried to play Pharisee with Thee, to appease Thee with the petty and the superficial. We have given our conscience an opiate of charity, when it cried for a life of purity. We have tried to cover our selfishness, our tyranny over the weak and the poor, and all the dark secrets of our graceless life with a scanty raiment of boasted generosity. God be merciful to us, sinners. Create in us a clean heart and renew a right spirit within us, for we fain would walk worthily before Thee who lookest not on the outward appearance, but on the heart. Amen.

WHEN a man unites with the church, he should not come saying, "I am so holy that I think I must go in among the saints," but, "O brethren, I find I am so weak and wicked that I cannot stand alone; so, if you can help me, open the door and let me enter."

A Crime

THERE is no greater crime than to stand between a man and his development; to take any law or institution and put it around him like a collar, and fasten it there, so that as he grows and enlarges, he presses against it till he suffocates and dies.

Hills Of Light

THROUGH the week we go down into the valleys of care and shadow. Our Sabbaths should be hills of light and joy in God's presence; and so, as time rolls by, we shall go on from mountain top to mountain top, till at last we catch the glory of the gate, and enter in to go no more out forever.

GEMS FROM SPURGEON

THE FULNESS OF CHRIST.

AT our very best we are strangers to much of the incomparable sweetness of Christ. We shall never exhaust His goodness by our praise, for He is ever so fresh, and has so much of the dew of His youth, that every day He has a new song to sing. We shall find Him a new Christ every day of our lives, and yet He is ever the same; His surpassing excellence and unexhausted fulness thus constantly renew our love. O Jesus! none can guess how great is the least of Thine attributes, or how rich the poorest of Thy gifts.

What he greatly thought he nobly dared.

SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1931

AN UNNECESSARY DEBATE.

The manner in which the debate on the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne is being dragged out in the Legislature is difficult to understand.

Apparently no amendment is to be offered, the leaders of the various parties have long since had their say, the rank and file have put on record a multitude of words, and surely the time has come to wind up the oratory, pass the Address and let the budget be brought down.

In recent years there have been signs that the politicians have recognized the futility of weeks of debate, but the present session of the Legislature would seem to indicate a relapse into the verbosity of the old days.

The worst feature about it all, of course, is that so much time is wasted in this way at the beginning of the session that a wild rush to get the really worthwhile business through is almost inevitably a feature of the closing days.

The spectacle of votes representing millions of dollars sliding through a weary House in a few hours at the tail end of the session could be avoided if the parties would come to a sensible agreement in regard to shortening the duration of the preliminary debate.

LOOKS LIKE AN IMPOSSIBILITY.

The argument is advanced that municipalities should be able to accept the loss of revenue that would be entailed by the abolition of the municipal income tax and so curtail their expenditure that no additional assessment would have to be made.

Such a theory is based apparently on the idea that all municipal governments are needlessly extravagant.

Possibly many municipal administrations spend more than they should, but it must not be forgotten that most of this expenditure is for services that the people demand.

In any case it is difficult, having regard to the large proportion of municipal expenditure over which city councils have no control, to see how a municipality could retrench sufficiently to accept the loss of income tax revenue without having to make up at least a part of it by further levies.

As The Examiner pointed out recently in regard to the local estimates, the city council is merely a collecting agency so far as a large amount of municipal expenditure is concerned.

In fact, the proportion of the revenue over which the council has direct control is so surprisingly small that it would be an impossibility for Peterborough, for example, to reduce expenditure to the extent of $32,000—that is, by the amount of income tax revenue—without starving some of the city services or impairing the efficiency of municipal departments.

A NEW INCOME TAX.

While a movement to abolish municipal income tax seems to be gaining headway in the Ontario Legislature, the people of British Columbia find themselves faced with a universal income tax, additional to the regular provincial income tax.

The new impost will be levied on practically all classes of the population, the only exceptions being on incomes of less than $12 per week and for those in receipt of mothers' pensions, old age pensions, war disability pensions and incomes from the operation of a farm.

British Columbia's Minister of Finance, in announcing this fresh levy in his budget proposals, declared that he expected to raise $2,500,000 from this source, of which half a million dollars will be used to reduce land taxation for school purposes throughout the Province.

Reaching a section of the population which up to the present has not been hit by the income tax, the additional tax is not likely to be popular, but it is defended by the Minister of Finance on the ground that it affects many who have up to the present contributed but little to meeting the cost of Government services, and that it is extremely equitable.

At all events it will enable British Columbia to balance its budget, for Hon. Mr. Jones announces an estimated surplus of $6,600 for the fiscal year.

LABOR RESISTS RUSSIAN AIMS.

Evidently the concern for labor that is being voiced by some of those who believe that Canada should enter into trade agreements with Soviet Russia is not shared by labor itself.

Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, is under no delusions as to what trade with Russia means.

In a speech in Toronto on Thursday the astute labor leader pointed out that any benefits that might come from accepting Russia's offer would be but temporary.

"I cannot agree that there is any good for the workers of this country in the acceptance of Russian orders," Mr. Moore declared emphatically. "Those protesting against the latest decision taken by our Government in regard to Russian trade are those whose immediate profits are most affected."

Canada is fortunate indeed that her organized labor is sanely lead and has proved an invulnerable bulwark against Communism.

In this connection another quotation from Mr. Moore's statement should be timely and interesting.

"For just ten years now the Russian Government, through the Communists, have been trying to destroy the trades union movement of this and other lands in order that chaos may prevail, and that, in the midst of that chaos, they may impose their form of dictatorship," the Trades and Labor Congress leader said. "We have attempted to resist them and, I think, successfully. I am not immediately interested in the way the Russian people want to govern themselves, or their decision to develop their own country; but when they try to impose their civilization on me, then I have the right to resist, if I possibly can."

Things are so quiet in the Ontario Legislature that the Toronto papers must be wishing Mitch. Hepburn were in there to stir them up a bit.—Oshawa Times.

ROCK PILES IN JAILS.

It is announced that Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Provincial Secretary, intends to restore the rock-pile to Ontario jails. The Minister believes that reformation is best accomplished by hard work, and the stone-pile has few equals and no superiors as a place of hard work. There is no doubt that work, no matter how lowly or laborious, is better for a prisoner than idleness. It is better from the physical standpoint. Exercise of some kind is essential for one's bodily well-being. This is especially true if a man who has lived a life of more or less activity is confined within a penal institution. Work is good for a prisoner mentally and morally. It keeps him from brooding on the fact that he is a prisoner and gives him less opportunity for plotting trouble either during his confinement or following his release. That Satan finds mischief for idle hands to do is particularly true of a man imprisoned in an institution without any work to do.

Apart from the desirable benefits which labor confers on prisoners during their terms of confinement, it will, if it is sufficiently strenuous, have a strong tendency to prevent those of an indolent nature from staging a return. To put a lazy man on a rock-pile is one of the most effective ways of making him go straight in the future. The knowledge, when he is finally free, that if he doesn't behave himself he will be returned to the rock-pile is bound to exercise a salutary influence on his conduct. As a preventive of repeated crime there are few agencies more effective than this grim and forbidding pile.

It is a matter of regret that a higher line of work than breaking stones is not available. It would unquestionably be better if the prisoners could be employed in more productive labor. In the Kingston jail there will be no need of a rock-pile since the prisoners are kept engaged in making tile, and have been for the past twenty years. Last year the tile plant showed a profit of $1,276.24, and there is tile on hand valued at $2,400, all of which will be sold. The largest number of prisoners in the local jail last year was 42, and the jailer and turnkeys are always able to keep them busy without resorting to the rock-pile.

Tile-making may not be feasible in all jails, but wherever possible work of a profitable nature should be undertaken, so long as it does not conflict with free labor. If, however, such employment is impossible, then by all means let us have the rock-pile. Let the prisoners eat their bread in the sweat of their brows. Then not only will they get their bread from stones, but will also read sermons in the stones—sermons which teach that the way of the transgressor is hard.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE TAXING SEASON

The American taxpayer, trying to screw up his courage for a session with the income tax forms for the unhallowed year 1930, has two advantages over his British cousin. In this country we not only pay a lighter tax, at least on moderate incomes, than in Great Britain, but we know just what is in store for us. The law is there with its established rates. The sad reminder that instead of ½ per cent on the first $4,000 it is to be 1½ per cent was not, of course news. When the rates were cut for the year 1929 it was generally known that in the absence of further action by Congress there would be a return to the old schedule for the following year; and for many, many months we have known that further action by Congress would be lacking. But the English taxpayer does not know what is in store for him until the last dramatic moment, when the Chancellor of the Exchequer "opens" his budget in Parliament. To-day the British taxpayer knows that he will in all probability have to pay more. How much more depends on what unsuspected treasure trove Philip Snowden can conjure up out of the unknown.

British income tax starts with a basic 4 shillings 6 pence in the pound, or something over 20 per cent. A surtax of 6 shillings in the highest brackets brings up the full tax to more than 50 per cent. An inheritance tax of 50 per cent on large properties often serves a hard-pressed Chancellor of the Exchequer in good stead. In July, 1928, the death of Sir Vernon Wills brought the Government $30,000,000 in taxes on an estate sworn at $50,000,000. The new Sir Vernon died last month, and the Government has provisionally received $5,000,000 on an estate sworn at about twice that sum. Thus in slightly more than two years the Wills fortune has contributed $25,000,000 to the State and has ceased to be a great fortune. There have been earlier cases of great estates brought to the vanishing point by a close succession of deaths, the State taking its share on every occasion. The forecast is now of an increase both in inheritance tax and surtax.

Our inheritance taxes, though not so heavy as the British, are far from inconsiderable. In New York the maximum rate on estates over $10,000,000 is 16 per cent. In 1930 New York collected more than $50,000,000 in death duties and the preceding year more than $47,000,000. When people speak of a declining public interest in "progressive" issues they are apt to forget one important reason, which is that many of these issues are no longer issues but established practice. Of the sum of $276,000,000 collected by New York State in taxes last year about $200,000,000 was derived from taxes on "wealth"—corporation, inheritance, stock transfer and income tax—and another $30,000,000 came from the motor vehicle tax. Of these only the corporation and inheritance taxes go back to the nineteenth century. Stock transfer and automobile taxes came in 1905, personal income tax in 1920.—New York Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It has cost Mr. McBride over a thousand dollars to learn what the newspapers of January 2nd told everybody—that is, that he is not mayor of Toronto for 1931.

United States exports to Canada dropped to $33,657,300 in January, as against $53,997,750 in the same month last year. The drop is due both to tariff changes and to business conditions.

If Sir Josiah Stamp, the British expert, happens to be named as the chairman of the proposed grain investigation commission, the protests of Henri Bourassa can be counted upon to establish a new record in such things.

The Red-Headed Goddess

By

ALICE ROSS COLVER

The effect was more spectacular than she realized. To these childish people, whose minds were steeped in magic and mystery and wildest of fancies and beliefs, whose lives had been bounded by the desert and spent in the primitive ways enforced by the desert, who had never seen civilization except as the fringes of it brushed a few of their own people, totally unacquainted with the equipment of the white people, the picture she made was terribly impressive. Startled, they retreated, while Scarface slowly lowered his pointing finger. In the silence that ensued came Silver Tongue's voice.

"Estsanatlehi carries the sacred fire in her bare palms," he said in an awed tone, and dropped to his knees before her.

One by one the others did as he did while Lorraine, watchful and tense, standing above them, her cigarette lighter aflame in her lifted hand, was suddenly seized with a laugh provoking thought:

"I feel like the Statue of Liberty—about as real and about as free!"

The idea, skipping like an elf into her mind, brought an unexpected measure of relief. Her danger became less acute, the scene in which she was acting took on the aspect of a comedy, and she was able to play it with greater freedom and sureness. Her next move was inspired by the little god of luck who is always ready to hop in the scales on the side of the courageous. Extinguishing her light, she put her hand on the string about her neck and drew forth the single amber bead suspended on it. It gleamed and twinkled richly in the leaping light of the fire and, as they saw it, there fell on the little group of savages a breathlessness not like anything she had seen before. Could Dirk have been right? Could so small and trivial a thing as this turn the trick and settle indisputably the question of her safety? Quite solemnly she lifted it from her, and held it out to Scarface, wishing with all her heart that she had the rest of the necklace and could make each impressed savage an equal present. The desire to make this known to them impelled her to attempt a miling pantomine.

"I'm so sorry," she spread her hands, "that I haven't any more. But I came down in an airplane, you know——" She lifted her arms and moved slowly to indicate the machine—'and when I jumped"—she pointed down to the ground in a long, slow, slanting gesture—"my chain caught on something and they all broke"—her fingers scattered them—"and fell and were lost."

There was a complete silence. In it the fire crackled at Lorraine's feet. Scarface stood staring at the bead in his hand. Silver Tongue hugged himself, in a triumph that no one saw, while the others waited. At last Scarface spoke, proudly, quietly, authoritatively.

"This is a Little Sun," he said. "It is like the other Little Suns tossed to our children. Estsanatlehi, the wife of the Sun God, has brought them to us from he Sun God himself. The Great Bird, flying from the waters of the west, bore her here. She herself has just told us this that we all knew. Let us dance about Sky-Flame, the Goddess with the Red Hair. Let us sing to Estsanatlehi, who has brought fire from the sea in her bare palms. Let us worship her and make our ways to please her as long as she chooses to remain. There is a meaning in her coming. Her presence is a gift. It is strange. It is not clear. But it is good. Scarface has spoken."

CHAPTER XI

A FRIEND IN NEED

The rest of the night in the cave with the Indians was a blur to Lorraine. After presenting old Scarface with the bead and listening to his rapid, glutteral speech she concluded that immediate danger was past, for his attitude, and that of all the savages, at once had miraculously changed. To her mystification but immense relief, their threatening gestures were transformed to movements of awe, and there was apparent in their faces a great reverence. She wanted intensely to know what it was she had done or Silver Tongue had said to create this change, but had, perforce, to stem her curiosity, and merely watched, with what interest and intelligence she could muster above her weariness, the rest of the program of the evening.

She was next taken by the hand and led to the center of the cave, where she discovered for the first time the recumbent figure of an Indian, who appeared to be ill. Seating herself on the ground near him she soon perceived that she was to share the honors of the performance with him. The Indians first formed a circle about them both, then Scarface, the old leader, approached the ailing one, and, standing at his feet, bowed to the east, the west, the north and the south with grave formality. This accomplished, he picked up a bowl containing some powder and sprinkled some on the eyes, the lips the forehead and the stomach of the sick man. To Lorraine's consternation, the bowl was then handed to her, and she discovered that she was expected to do the same thing. Shrinking a little, but unable to refuse, she dipped her fingers in the bowl and lightly touched the Indian as she had seen it done to him.

Immediately then, the circle of watching redskins sprang to their feet and began a dance, accompanying it with a chant. It was harsh, uneven, irregular, and defied all familiar laws of rhythm and cadence, but it seemed unquestionably to possess form, for it was done in perfect unison and unhesitatingly, with every arm movement and stamp, of moccasined feet appearing to have a definite place.

How long this dancing and chanting continued she did not know, but it seemed to her endless hours, during which time her eyes grew heavy with watching and her tired body ached. She was, however, kept awake by the periodic requirements made of her by the medicine man, who insisted that she anoint and sprinkle and blow smoke over the Indian whenever he did. At last the cure and the singing prayers seemed to take effect, for the prostrate Navajo suddenly rose and joined the dancing men. At that there went up to the roof such a burst of song that Lorraine was bewildered, until she saw them all facing her with their bare arms uplifted in a kind of holy statue. Then understanding came.

"I've healed the sick," she thought. "I've done a miracle. Wait till I tell Dirk! Oh, Shall I ever see Dirk again? How can I ever make them know what I want? Why won't that educated one talk to me? I must manage somehow."

But she had no moments for revery, and no opportunity for talking with Silver Tongue, who refused to meet her eyes or to see her little attempts to catch his attention. The ceremony continued, with the Indians chanting their gratitude. The dance began agzin. Back and forth they went, and round and round, with always that unhappy minor music filling the cave, and always the insistent sound of rattling gourds and drums as an accompaniment. Occasionally they dashed some powder into the flames, which filled the air with fragrance and brought out startling colors that, reflected from the walls, lent to the blackness of the cavern, an eerie light. At those times, Lorraine, now nearly numb with fatigue, half hypnotized by the monotony of thed music, would be startled into wide eyed alertness once more.

Then began the donation of presents to her from the worshipping savages, little bundles of sticks tied to-gether, a dried snakeskin, a lock of hair, the foot of an animal, feathers, furry tails, odd shaped stones, a withered ear of corn, a few silver bracelets set with bigturquoises Lorraine accepted them all gravely, trying not to thrink from the snakeskins, the hair, the severed foot and the tails slipping the bracelets over her arms with smiles of pleasure, and sleepily wondering what she was to do with these things now that she had them.

At last the dancing and singing came to an end, and the Indians seated themselves solemnly about her. Lorraine, by this time, was so exhausted that she could scarcely hold her head up. Against her strongest determination, her eyes closed and she fell to nodding. The Indians had lapsed into a strange silence, their eyes fixed on her in a stare she would have found uncomfortable had she been awake enough to realize it. But, like a person in a stupor, she stared back at them, only half hearing the drone of Scarface, who had begun a lengthy discourse, only half seeing through the smoke from their pipes, and only half aware, as she tumbled sideways, that someone was spreading something over her shoulders.

"—dirty blanket—" she thought, in faint repugnance, and then was lost to the queer Indian world.

She did not awaken until she felt the sting of cold fresh air on her face. Then, puzzled, frightened, amazed, she opened her eyes, trying to recall the past, to find the present, to determine the future, but only one thing impressed itself upon her mind that first waking monment. She was being carried somewhere in the arms of an Indian. Dazed, she lay still, cradled in his embrace like a child, feeling safe, yet not safe, until her memories came clear to her. Then she caught her breath. What was happening now? Where were they taking her? What would they do to her?

At her movement the Indian who carried her bent his dark face to hers. His lips seemed scarcely to move, yet clearly she heard his whidper.

"The white girl is awake, but she must seem to be asleep."

This was the savage who had saved her before, she thought, the only one among them who could speak English, who could explain anything to her, and to whom she could talk. Yet for some reason it was not safe for them to communicate.

"Why?" she asked on a breath.

There was no answer. Lorraine stared up from the strong clasp of his arms. His head was erect, his profile stern. Of a sudden, the strangeness of her experience lifted the girl from her returning fear. Overhead the stars were frozen white in a black sky. The trees they passed on the downward path into the canyon seemed held in the silent grip of the night. And the moonlight, silvering this strange still world, only intensified its mystery. Surely this was an adventure! And her young blood thrilled to it.

FELLOWSHIP OF PRAYER

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

PREPARED BY THE REV CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D. FOR THE COMMISSION ON EVANGELISM OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

THE GUEST IN THE HOUSE.

"But Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her."—Luke 10:42. (Read Luke 10:38-42.)

Meditation

Our sympathy goes out to Martha, the good housewife and careful hostess. Nevertheless we do not go to our friends to see how nicely they can serve a dinner, nor merely to eat. We go to see our friends themselves and to enjoy that highest form of entertainment, good talk. Mary was really more hospitable to their guest than Martha, she gave Him what He liked best. And think of neglecting the talk of Jesus for the sake of showing off with a good dinner elegantly served!

THE REV CLARENCE H. WILSON, D.D.

Prayer

Our Heavenly Father who has spread for us our table, grant unto us grace to choose the good part, that amid the manifold duties of life we neglect not the hunger of our hearts and minds. Amen.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES"

If March 7th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 5:30 p.m. to 7:10 p.m.

March 7th will probably bring you some financial benefit from outside sources. In other respects, the day is not one of very good augury, and jealousy and misunderstandings are liable to cause rifts and disagreement, even with those nearest and dearest to you.

A child born on this March 7th will be temperamental, and its youth must be surrounded with watchful care. Harshness and impatience will accentuate evils that tenderness and affection will eradicate. This child will be more suitable for professional, than for commercial, pursuits.

You, if born on March 7th, learned at a very early age that the best way of getting up in the world is to get down to your job. Regardless of your early environment, you have always been anxious to rise, and keep rising. Allied to this creditable ambition, you have a great ability for work, a great liking for an active life, and an unquestionable desire, above all things, to be true to yourself and to your ideals. You have never considered any work beneath you and tackle any job entrusted to you with the best that is in you.

In your effort to outstrip others, you have denied yourself many pleasures and, as the years roll by, you will find it very difficult to grow old gracefully. You are never happy, unless working, and you make no provision for the overhaul that every human engine needs. Herein lies your chief danger, and if you could curb, at times, your voracious appetite for labor, you would live longer. You try to put too much of accomplishment into too brief space of time.

Away from your duties, you are not very companionable, and this is felt more strongly in your home than elsewhere. You lack all sympathy for all those not cast in an iron mould, and cannot appreciate the value of emotion, although you are more than careful in doing, what you consider to be, your duty.

If March 8th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 11:10 a.m., from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 10:15 p.m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 8:15 p.m.

Professional people of the creative type and artistic type who have the opportunity to work on March 8th will get good results from their efforts. The day, to others, does not promise to be particularly eventful, but sure and safe progress in human relationships is assured.

Children born on this March 8th will be particularly subject to environment, and will be easily influenced. They will not have rugged characters and their will-power promises to be weak. They will always seek ease and comfort, even at the expense of their own advancement.

If you were born on March 8th, your resilliency is the great outstanding feature of your life, and wins the admiration of friend and foe alike. This, in your case, is a compensation as your natural impulsiveness and your readiness to take things at face value will often land you in a quagmire of difficulty. No matter however, how deeply you sink, you always come bobbing up again. Nothing except Death will ever succeed in keeping you down.

You are not much of a student of hum an nature, and are inclined to be gullible, especially when any new proposition is presented to you in a colorable fashion. On the impulse of the moment, and without reflection, you often rush in where angels fear to tread. You are fond of reading light literature of a highly romantic character, and your emotion in life often plays havoc with your judgment.

As you mature, your horoscope says you will cease to be an "easy mark," and only in later years will you attain that success for which you are destined. As a friend, you are sincere and quixotically loyal. As a husband or wife, you are demonstratively affectionate. As a parent, you shower great love on your offspring, and your mistaken kindness of heart allows them—to their detriment—to escape reproval when they deserve it.

ACTION CONFINED ON MINING LIST

Trend is Irregularly Lower in Dull Trading Session To-day.

DOME IS FEATURE.

TORONTO, Ont., March 7 (C.P.)—Action was confined and irregular to lower in a relatively dull trading session on the Mining Market to-day.

Dome featured a quiet higher-priced gold group, price moving up 30 to $11.15. Mining Corporation advanced 5 to $2.60 in a late move, and Wright Hargreaves recovered a few cents. Siscoe was active and 4 higher on end. Macassa gained 3 to 23 and point gains appeared in Columario, Big Missouri and Moss. Howey, Eldorado and Central Patricia sold off slightly.

Noranda saw only light turnover, but a gain of a half, and Nickel was 15 up at $18.15. Arno was under accumulation and a cent higher at 4. Pend Oreille lost 5 to $1.10.

Peninsular Pete continued the most active member of the oil group but sold off a cent or so. Acme and Nordon dropped a couple apiece and Chemical Research was down 15 to $3.75. Wainwell was in renewed demand and a cent up from last night.

COLUMBIA SETS NEW HIGH MARK

Buying of Amusement, Chemical and Utility Shares Turns Market Upward.

R. K. O. IS STRONG.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 7 (C.P.)—Buying of the amusement, chemical and utility shares turned the Stock Market upward to-day after a moderate accumulation of overnight selling orders had been easily absorbed.

Allied Chemical, Dupont, Columbian Carbon and U. S. Industrial Alcohol rose 2 points or so and there were advances of 1 to 1¾ in American Can, Bethlehem Steel, New York Central, Nash Motors, United Corp., American Water Works, American Rolling Mills, Chrysler and Case as shorts covered for the week-end.

Columbia Graphaphone was a feature, rising more than a point to a new 1931 high. Radio-Keith-Orphem was strong, reflecting the earnings statement, while Radio also advanced.

Early declines of a point in U. S. Steel, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse and a few other leading stocks were recovered.

Sales for the two hours approximated 1,500,00 shares.

London has many new theatres.

Siam has a new air-mail service.

Germany has a wave of suicides.

CANADIAN STOCK EXCHANGES PASS THROUGH TRYING PERIOD

Disappointing Business News and Weakness in Wheat Accounts For Slump.

NICKEL ACTIVE LEADER.

TORONTO, Ont., March 7.—Canadian stock exchanges passed this week, through the most severe testing period since the start of the recent bullish movement.

Disappointing business news, weakness in wheat prices, persistent profit-taking by share traders themselves and the depressing influence of a new decline in New York stocks all failed to upset the market's equilibrium. In a few cases, notably those of Brazilian Traction, Atlantic Sugar and Consolidated Smelters, net gains are shown for the week, but even among the many shares which show losses there are few extending beyond a fraction in comparison with last week's levels.

Investment Interest.

The local point of investment interest on Canadian exchanges during the week was Brazilian Traction. The shares entered new high ground for the year at 28, despite the uncertainties of the general market. At its closing price of 26 7-8 it is still fractionally higher for the week.

Atlantic Sugar, still under accumulation by interests who are said to desire a large measure of control of the company's affairs, is quoted at 35 compared with 34 last week, but is too sold into new high ground for 1931 when it reached 38. Smelters, although less active, rose to a new 1931 peak of 186 compared with 179½ a week ago.

International Nickel was an active leader both in Toronto and Montreal. Rising to 19 3-8 before its subsequent reaction to 18 1-8 where it compares with 19 last week. Ford of Canada "A" at 26¼ is only half a point lower for the week, while Massey Harris at 8¼ shows an advance of more than a point. Of the other leaders, Shawinigan displayed marked firmness at the close of the week when it sold up to 57½ in Toronto and 57 in Montreal, although C.P.R. at 43¾ is fractionally lower, Steel of Canada at 39 ¼ shows a fractional loss, and Goodyear Tire and Rubber, another representative stock has declined from 107 to 105.

Walker's and Distillers Corporation Seagram's were also slightly reactionary, the former closing on Friday at 8 against 8 3-8 last week, with distillers shares showing a net loss of ¼ at 12.

Decidedly unfavorable reports concerning the oil situation had their greatest affect on United States oil companies' shares, and despite the relatively more favorable position of the Canadian companies the shares of the latter were weak in sympathy with New York oil stocks.

A decline by Noranda from $18.10 to $17.25 reflected selling of that issue, but Dome at $10.85 and Hollinger at $8 are both slightly higher. Coast copper shows a net loss of 50 cents at $9.

EGGS PLENTIFUL ON LOCAL MARKET

Potatoes Reaching New Low for Year, Retail at Seventy-five Cents a Bag.

BUTTER IN DEMAND.

Eggs and more eggs! There was a regular glut of them on the local produce market this morning, selling briskly at from 25-30 cents per dozen, according to grade. An unusually mild winter has probably contributed to the quantity of these products of the poultry farm, while low feed costs have had a beneficial effect on the prices from the consumers' standpoint.

Potatoes reached a new low, retailing at 75 cents a bag in some cases, although the prevailing price was 80 cents per bag. This is the lowest price yet reached this winter, involving a spread of 50 cents.

Pork was selling at 12 and 14 cents a pound, with mutton at 15 cents. Beef and lamb was conspicuous by its absence.

Fresh dairy butter is still fetching 33 cents a pound, with fowl at 25 cents, while apples ranging from 40-50 cents a peck (according to grade) are still being brought in very large quantities.

TORONTO LIST CLOSES FIRM

Unexpected Strength Developing in New York Moves Stocks Into Higher Ground.

BRAZILIAN-NICKEL LEAD.

TORONTO, Ont., March 7 (C.P.)—Toronto Stock Exchange market closed the week with a burst of buying. Unexpected strength developed in New York overnight and the market, after opening strongly, advanced into higher ground, Toronto Stock Exchange following New York's lead.

Brazilian, Nickel, were leaders on the advance, the former rising more than 1 point to above 28, while Nickel gained approximately ½ point. Foods were firm, Consolidated Bakeries up ½ point with turnover heavier than usual. C.P.R. recovered near the close to show a fractional net gain after having been down the first hour.

Durant Motors advanced to 9½, to set another new top price for the year. Rumors persist the company has been carrying on negotiations with American manufacturers and may handle locally the product for a U.S. company.

Power Corporation shot up suddenly from 55 at the opening to 58½.

U.S. Corn Supply Is Smallest Since 1901

(By John P. Boughan, Associated Press Market Editor.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Mar. 7.—Trade authorities figured the United States corn available supply to-day as the smallest since 1901, and stocks of wheat as about the largest ever known. Interest in the situation as to corn especially, is heightened by the fact that the season's principal movement of corn away from farms is about to close, and with the opening of lake navigation a big eastward shift of the grain is expected.

The corn pile which must last the nation until a new crop can be picked next autumn is now unofficially estimated at 762,000,000 bushels, whereas the usually March total is more than a billion bushels, and was 10,000,000 in excess of a billion at this time last year.

Compared with one week back, the corn market this morning, influenced by this outlook, showed 7-8-1½ cents a bushel advance, with wheat ranging from 2-5-8 decline to 1-8 gain, oats unchanged to 3-8 off, and provisions 47 to 60 cents up.

Relatively high prices on hogs as compared with corn give particular zest to the corn market, but a spice of uncertainty results from the circumstance that corn delivery in July and September is selling just now at a premium over wheat.

Leading specialists say that whether or not the wheat market has reached a point where additional setback s will be important, prices are surely at a level where no further downturns seem needed to stimulate wheat use.

WANDERS HOURS BROUGHT TO END

Windsor Policeman Comes Upon Man With Only Overcoat On.

COMES FROM HALIFAX.

WINDSOR, N. S. MAR. 7 (SNS)—Beneath a police report in Windsor, N. S. was the name, "O. Shaw!" It was George Bernard Shaw, widely known connoisseur of publicity stunts, who discovered "A Super Man," in fiction. In Windsor, a long leap from the British Isles, another Shaw, made the discovery of a Super Man in real life.

Patrolman Shaw, about his beat at 1 a.m. on a cold morning, saw a figure loitering around Victoria Park. He investigated why anybody except a policeman was outdoors at such an hour. He was astonished, on reaching the scene, to find the mysterious figure was that of a man, and that the wearing apparel of aforesaid man, consisted wholly of a overcoat. Nothing more and nothing less. Shaw did not recognize the man, who was sans suit, underwear, socks, shirt, collar tie, scarf, shoes and hat or cap, with the mercury playing tag with the zero mark.

After he recovered from his amazement, the policeman hustled the stranger off tto the local bastile, where he was lodged beside the fire, while plied with questions. However, there were only questions. Not until 5 a.m. was Shaw rewarded with a reply. Then, the man, who appeared to be in a mental daze, muttered "Donald McLean, 40 North Street, Halifax;" then went back into his phlegmatic shell again. Shaw called in a doctor, who could do nothing with the man of mystery. Chief McDonald telephoned to Halifax, and found there was no such number as given by "McLean."

A taxi driver, of Windsor, declared he saw a man running away from a train as it pulled into the station from Halifax, a few hours before Shaw took the overcoat man into custody. It was evident, the man was beating his way. Just how he rode on the rods or on the blind baggage, for about four hours from Halifax, and then wandered around Windsor for several more hours, without collapsing from the cold is more than the physician who examined him could understand. The case was listed as one of amnesia.

This information was made known when a bill designed to prohibit discrimination in sales of gasoline was withdrawn by Hon. A. C. Stewart when it was scheduled to come up for second reading Friday.

If the Dominion Government refused to set up such a commission to conduct such investgation, it is the intention of the Provincial Government to enquire into the sales of gasoline and oil in the province by a commission appointed under the provisions of the Saskatchewan Public Enquiries Act.

ARTS AND CRAFTS COURSES HELD IN MILLBROOK HALL

Mrs. M. L. Watts of Toronto in Charge of Women's Institute Classes.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 7. (Examiner Correspondence). — The Council Chamber of the Town Hall has presented a colorful scene, busy as a beehive this week, as Mrs. M. L. Watts, of Toronto has carried on her Arts and Crafts Classes under the auspices of the local branch of the Women's Institute.

Over fifty of the women of the community, and vicinity, have taken advantage of the classes, the instruction, under a very capable and popular teacher as Mrs. Watts has proved her self to be, including lessons in crocheted rugs; dainty boudoir pillows, oblong in shape and with curled petals; jardiniers that were originally just tobacoo tins, transformed with black enamel and colored flowers, with a touch of gold paint, into very attractive and convenient flower holders; glass containers of various shapes were also brought by the pupils and again enamels and dyes changed these into vases making lovely and useful ornaments for tables, china cabinets, and mantels in many homes.

A use was even found for empty cigar boxes, bright-hued paper cut in odd shapes, matched together and pasted on the lid, the whole then shellaced, while black enamel and gold paint finished off sides and edges, changing the unattractive wooden box into a work-box or handkerchief holder that the owner might be justifiably proud to possess.

Some clear glass bottles of unusual shape and design that were really family heirlooms were brought by members of the class for suggestions from Mrs. Watts regarding coloring, or other change, the teacher wisely counselling preservation in their original form, in most cases, lest the old adage of 'gilding the lily' might be well applied. A small cut-glass perfume container, practically one hundred years old, brought by Miss Mary Widdis, was much admired, and there was general agreement with Mrs. Watts' advice that no colors be applied to its clear and beautifully cut surface.

The classes were held on Monday Tuesday, and Wednesday afternoons, with forty-five in attendance the first day; thirty-nine the second; and forty-one the final day, when lunch was served at the conclusion of the instruction period and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed. On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Watts gave a demonstration of candle-dipping by means of which ordinary white wax candles were colored in various plain or mottled shades, according as individual taste, or preference, would suggest.

Those who took the Arts and Crafts Course here included: Mrs. F. J. McKnight, Mrs. Chas. Thorndyke, Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. I. M. Nattress, Mrs. G. F. Harrington, Mrs. Weston Fallis, Mrs. J. Albert Brown, Mrs. I. W. Larmer, Mrs. D. Olau Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong, Mrs. J. W. Armstrong, Mrs. Shuttle Pritchard, Mrs. H. A. Earle, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, Mrs. G. Freelove, Mrs. R. McMahon, Mrs. Wes Brown, Mrs. George Fallis, Mrs. T. H. Ingram, Mrs. Leslie Bristow, Mrs. C. C. Garside, Mrs. W. J. E. Gillott, Mrs. O. E. Kelly Mrs. F. Smith, Mrs. H. C. Lord, Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard, Mrs. John McKnight, Mrs. Harold Nattress, Mrs. Jas. McMillan, Mrs. Jos. Todd, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mrs. O. Williamson, Mrs. R. O. Larmer, Mrs. H. McLeod, Mrs. P. Elgar, Misses Ella Grandy, Margaret Christie, Lillian Syer, Ruth Armstrong, Mae Earle, Anna Fair, Ethel McKnight, Mary Widdis, Jean Syer, Mildred Wood and Margaret Whyte.

A small fee was charged for enrollment, and this practically covered all the expense of the course, Mrs. Watts coming under Departmental auspices.

PAINTING TAKEN FROM ART SHOW

Considerable Mystery Surrounds Removal of "Nudes in a Landscape."

UNANIMOUSLY ACCEPTED.

TORONTO, Ont., March 7.—(CP)—Considerable mystery surrounds the reported last minute removal of a painting of two nudes from the paintings exhibited at the Ontario Society of Artists show at the Art Gallery of Toronto.

The cause of the mystery and rumored dissension is a small painting by Bertram Brooker, Toronto, entitled "Nudes In A Landscape." When the exhibition opened last night it lay in the cellar of the art gallery among other canvases, "for which room could not be found."

It is understood the painting was unanimously accepted on Wednesday by the hanging committee of the Ontario Society of Artists and hung on the walls of the art gallery.

Then the mystery began. On Thursday evening, it is reported, the picture was whisked from the wall and deposited in the cellar. Nearby hung a painting of a nude statue by Florence Wylie, and a study of two girls taking a sun bath at Georgian Bay by Dorothy Stevens. These were undisturbed.

Aroused Hostility

It was suggested Mr. Brooker's work aroused hostility because little enough of the heads were shown as to make the work practically a study of torsos.

The painting shows two figures, one reclining, the other partly so, in the foreground of a landscape. One figure has its back turned, the other showing partly the back and partly the side.

Fred Haines, curator of the art gallery, and Fred H. Brigden, President of the Ontario Society of Artists, denied anything unusual in connection with the painting.

Mr. Brigden said there had been some discussion of the picture but that it had been put aside for hanging by the committee.

Mr. Haines declared he had not even seen the picture and knew nothing about it or the reason for its failure to appear in the exhibition. He stated that no picture was taken down after once being hung.

TOTAL FOR RELIEF REACHED $12,375

Committee is Grateful to Norman Crowe for His Untiring Efforts.

To-day's total in the campaign for funds for the Peterborough Relief Association, has reached the sum of $12,375.09, with smaller donations still coming in.

The committee in charge of raising funds for this association is is very grateful to Norman E. Crowe, who contributed voluntarily so much of his time in organizing and following up the work in connection with the campaign. Mr. Crowe gave every available hour of his time, working evenings and Saturday afternoons as as well as all day on the job, and a good deal of the success of the campaign is due to his energy and ability as an organizer.

Max Glover, who has been making the collection calls for the articles available at homes, has been ill with influenza all this week and consequently this department has been slightly disorganized. Mr. and Mrs George Patton have helped out considerably in this way. The regular service of calling for parcels will be resumed the first of the week. Every gift of clothing or furniture is much appreciated.

And volunteer service in this connection: calling for clothing or articles of furniture, would be much appreciated. Please telephone 1600 if you would help out in this way.

The following is to-day's list of donations:

Total previously reported	$12 324.09

the use of the ballot box if you dont vote," laments the Daily Herald, semi-official Labor organ. "What a dolly we have been guilty of. Here lies a weapon ready to our grasp. Here is the power in our hands. And we have not troubled to use it."

The Herald's editorial was no doubt provoked by the results of the London municipal elections, when the Municipal Reform Party (Conservatives) retained a substantial majority in the London County Council.

NO ALARM IS FELT COPPER PRODUCTION

Output in United States Has Reached Its Zenith, Says New York Engineer.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 7. (CP)—Copper production for the next decade will be as profitable as in the past, and there is no necessity for alarm over prospects of increased outputs from Canada and Africa Arthur Notman, consulting engineer of New York City, told delegates to the 32nd annual convention of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy here.

"Copper producing in the United States has reached its zenith" he said, "and will do well to hold its present levels in the future. Similar conditions exist in the countries of Europe, excluding Russia. All copper districts in United States have been known for fifty years or more, and no others are known or likely to be found. Mexico, Australia and Asia, outside of Russia, offer little prospect of growth in output, so the increase in world demand will have to be met by South America, Canada and Africa."

LIQUOR RUNNING

gathered together to bring down a landing. A truckload of liquor, purchased and taken on at the beach, has been seized by Federal officers forty miles inland. The middleman who bought the goods from the owner or charterer of the "mothership" wants his money from the shore purchaser. But in this case he doesn't get it. The finding, in effect, is this: "This liquor was 'tagged'—known to the preventive offices—when it was landed. They failed to seize it at the point of landing because they believed that by following it they might discover a well-stocked warehouse or other cache. Finally they feared the loss of both, and took the bird in hand."

Many Complications

The two particular instances are related by those familiar with the trade to illustrate the fact that liquor-running has complications not guessed by the layman. Good seamanship is essential. Operators are unable to sue for damages; therefore, their differences are settled, and many are settled peacefully, by their own courts of arbitration.

That, at least is the information of those who are presumably in the know. And they offer evidence that the Captain is not always the one who receives discipline. The story is told of a skipper who was caught ashore illegally and needed a thousand dollars to get out of the United States. His principal who happened to be a resident of that country, said "No." A few weeks later that principal was beginning a five-year stretch in Atlanta. The captain had struck back.

Ownership

The most vexed question in the whole galaxy of interrogation marks that punctuate the story of the rum-running trade is that of ownership. Insofar as the sea-going carriers that make the St. Pierre trip was concerned the rumors of United States syndicates are discounted here. Waterfront opinion — and certain others as well—is that the bulk of the liquor-carrying trade to-day is backed by the distilleries, and that those suave gentlemen who lead from alias to alias are their go-betweens. Ownership, of course, is kept well under cover by companies and holding companies whose shares are variously held.

FILMING THE PRINCE

Story of the Perseverance of a Persistent Camera Man Trailing the Prince of Wales.

A newsreel camera man has his problems, even as the reporter, and the story of how Ludovic Geiskop obtained an exclusive camera interview with the Prince of Wales for Paramount Sounds News constitutes something of a homily on the fruits of perseverance.

Months ago, when the story of the royal heir's projected tour of South America first came out of London, the newsreel men made elaborate plans to cover the "story." A round camera outfit was shipped from New York to Buenos Aires, where the Prince was scheduled to open the national exposition. A second group was sent from Los Angeles to the Canal Zone to "shoot" the passage through the Canal of the S.S. Oropesa, bearing the Prince and his party.

Persistent Photographers

And finally, despite the Prince's announced decision that no pictures would be permitted until he reached Buenos Aires, Mr. Keiskop and an assistant rushed down to Bermuda with the camera outfit to intercept the Oropesa on her arrival there.

Before the local officials were aware of the royal visitor's attitude regarding pictures, Geiskop managed to secure some intimate "shots" of the noisy reception at the island. Then the bars were put up, and Geiskop was left wondering where he was going from there. What he did was to purchase a ticket for himself and his sound man aboard the S.S. Oropesa, transport himself thither in a hired launch, and thus literally take refuge in the fire after the frying-pan had proved too warm for him.

Once the ship had sailed, Geiskop calmly announced who he was and what his twenty-odd pieces of baggage were for. The royal secretaries scurried around. He really should not have invaded the Prince's privacy like this, he was told. Private detective from the royal entourage were assigned to watch the camera men and make certain that they took no pictures. The Prince sent word to the two intruders that they were wasting time and money. They were barred from every portion of the ship where the Prince was at all likely to be.

The Oropesa dropped anchor in Jamaica Harbor and the two Princes landed. A few minutes later Geiskop hailed a gang of natives and had his sound camera taken ashore. He at once began "shooting" and when the Prince started to take part in the official welcome ceremonies he found Geiskop set up and ready for him.

It was too late to stop the camera man from picturing the colorful Jamaican ceremony, but on his return to the Oropesa the Prince sent for him. He discovered that the American camera man who was causing him so much vexation was the same individual who had been discovered aboard the private train of the royal party on the Prince's Canadian tour. Geiskop told the Prince what he wanted, that he had to get a sound interview with his Highness on the South American tour, that he just couldn't return to New York without it.

Prince Grants Permission.

The Prince argued and finally capitulated. The one condition was that the camera man get off the ship at Panama and leave him until his formal arrival at Buenos Aires.

Once Geiskop had agreed to the terms, the Prince's good nature reasserted itself. He gave the camera man a long and detailed description of his coming trip, repeated statements where it was necessary for the camera, submitted patiently while angles and close-ups were made. And then, possibly without regret, he pounded Geiskop on the back and wished him good-by and good luck.

SCREEN AND STAGE NOTES

Ann Harding is the star performer in an authentic costume version of the seventy-five-year-old drama, "East Lynne." Clive Brook and Conrad Nagel function as Miss Harding's male foils. Cissie Loftus makes her talking picture debut in this production, and the cast includes Beryl Mercer, O. P. Heggie, Flora Sheffield and David Torrence.

King Vidor has been borrowed from M-G-M to direct the Goldwyn production of the drama, "Street Scene." Vidor has directed such important pictures as "The Big Parade," "The Crowd" and "Hallelujah." "Street Scene", in which all the action occurs outside a tenement, will offer him opportunity to make a film as unusual.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will be starred in a modern comedy-drama, 'I Like Your Nerve," which has been written especially for him by Roland Pertwee, author of "Heat Wave" and "Interference."

Ralph Spence's comedy melodrama, "The Gorilla," has been converted to the screen. Lila Lee, Joe Frisco, Walter Pidgeon and Harry Gribbon have the chief roles, Frisco and Gribbon playing the two dull-witted detectives.

A very changed little girl is Clara Bow these days—a young person anxious to do everything that Paramount wants her to do and bending every effort to overcome the unpleasant publicity she has had the last year. Her leading man in "Kick In" is Regis Toomey, and others in the cast are Leslie Fenton, Juliette Compton and Wynne Gibson.

David Wark Griffith, who has been critically ill for almost a year, is getting well. He returned to Hollywood March 2, and Joseph Schenck says he will direct another picture for United Artists. Mr. Schenck says: "After the work Mr. Griffith did on 'Lincoln', we all feel confident he will follow it up with something equally big." D. W. is one of the pioneer directors and one of the really great men in the industry.

"The Vice Squad," described as the inside story of the secret operations of the metropolitan vice squads in combating crime, is announced for production at the Paramount Coast studio. Paul Lukas will have the chief role, with Fay Wray as a society girl and Kay Francis as a lady of the underworld. John Cromwell, who has finished directing Ruth Chatterton in "Unfaithful," will direct "The Vice Squad," from a story written for the screen by Oliver H. P. Garrett. The central role of a stool-pigeon will occupy Mr. Lukas.

Frances Dee has been assigned the role of Sondra, wealthy sweetheart of Clyde Griffiths, in the Paramount version of "An American Tragedy." Miss Dee will be featured along with Phillip Holmes and Sylvia Sidney, under the direction of Joseph von Sternberg, who has completed "Dishonored," with Victor McLaglen and Marlene Dietrich.

Following her return from a six weeks' vacation Joan Crawford began work last week on her new picture for M-G-M, "The Torch Song," and adaptation of Kenyon Nicholson's play. In the supporting cast are Neil Hamilton, John Mack Brown, Marjorie Rambeau, George Marion, Norman Phillips, Gertrude Short, Clara Blandick and George Cooper.

Lady Conan Doyle, with her two sons, Dennis and Adrian, says The London Post, visited Gainsborough studios recently to watch production going forward on the story, "The Hound of the Baskervilles." Lady Conan Doyle expressed satisfaction with the way the film was shaping under the hand of Gareth Gundrey.

FILM HALO FOR MARIE DRESSLER

Exclusiveness For Star of Stars, Says Metro—Has Her Own Niche.

UNIVERSALLY APPEALING.

HOLLYWOOD, March 7.—Believing in Marie Dressler it has the most universally appealing personage on the screen, Metro has decided to erect around Miss Dressler the only halo of filmdom now in existence.

Miss Dressler, a stage recruit to the studios, will have exclusiveness written all over her pictures and herself, in the sense her popularity calls for a niche of her own.

This method is to be pursued, it is understood by Metro, until the release of a Dressler-Metro picture will become a civic event with the masses and the social elite.

Miss Dressler's appeal universally has been unmistakenly made known to Metro. From the man on the street to statesmen they talk about the latest Dressler talker, whatever it may have been. While on the social side the star is a prime favorite in the highest circles, besides creating and retaining the personal admiration as well as the respect of the biggest intellectuals.

No "Queen of the Screen' or mush like that for Miss Dressler, but a great star who is a character comedienne of such quality her pictures don't demand sex, guns, gangsters or bedrooms.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"STRANGE INTERLUDE"

After all there is something new under the sun, despite the age-old belief to the contrary. And this something new will soon be on view in this city. It is the nine act drama that won for Eugene O'Neill, the author, the coveted Pulitzer Prize for the third time in his brilliant career as a playwright. "STRANGE INTERLUDE" is its name. It carried off the laurels as "the best play of the year" in 1928. In 1920 this same playwright ran away from all his competitors with his "Beyond the Horizon" and he did the same thing in 1923 with "Anna Christie".

On Monday, March 9, at the Grand Opera House The Theatre Guild, Inc., will introduce this widely-publicized play to the playgoers of this city.

The first claim that "STRANGE INTERLUDE" can make for being something new under the sun, lies in the fact that it is composed of nine acts, which takes from 5.30 in the afternoon until 11 o'clock at night to run their course. An intermission for dinner between the fifth and sixth acts of one hour and twenty minutes is declared at 7.40, so that at 9 p.m. the audience is again back in its seats literally crying, like Oliver Twist, for more. Reports from other cities where this unusual play had been presented justify this statement.

The second claim for being something different will be found in the way "STRANGE INTERLUDE" is played. First a character speaks the regular lines of his part. Then as if his very mind were exposed to the view of the audience, he goes on and says what he is thinking. "Asides" they call this method of delivery. They were in use on the stage many years ago, but not quite as O'Neill employs them. Under his skilled manipulation, they become not "asides" but a tangible, oftimes all-important part of the story which is being told.

And thirdly, there is the theme of the drama itself. From the nation-wide publicity that "STRANGE INTERLUDE" has had, both in book form—and it is one of the best sellers—as well as in its stage version, probably most playgoers are aware of how Nine Leeds palms off on her husband a child that is not his own after being persuaded by her mother-in-law that this is quite the proper thnig to do. Thereafter the play goes on to reveal the mixed motives and crossed purposes of the doctor friend who becomes a major factor in the deception, the wife torn between love for the physician and a deep pity for her mate; the duped and boastful husband, and a novelist, who worships the erring woman through all her vicissitudes.

In thorough keeping with the daring that O'Neill has displayed in many of his earlier plays, in "STRANGE INTERLUDE" there is no mincing of words. A spade is called a spade; but O'Neill uses words not to arouse the baser passions but as a means to convey thoughts which will linger long in the memory. It is all very beautifully written, and thanks to the meticulous care with which the Theatre Guild puts on all its productions, "STRANGE INTERLUDE" can also be expected to be beautifully played by a cast of well-known actors, five from the original production, including: Elisabeth Risdon, Leonard Mudie, Blaine Cordner, Richard Barbee, Maud Durand, Maurice McRae, Ethel Westley, John J. Burns, Jack Grattan.

Quick Relief for Women

Women need not endure periodic pains and headaches. They can spare themselves this suffering by taking ZUTOO TABLETS. Mrs. Allen Wright, of Fulford, who was relieved in 30 minutes of severe pain and headache, wrote saying: "Every woman in the land should know about ZUTOO TABLETS and what they will do." Just try the tablets and know for yourself how quickly they stop the pain.

CUTTING PICTURE COSTS

Winfield Sheehan, vice-president and general manager of Fox Films, declares that the cost of producing the average talking picture is now approximately the same as the cost of making the average silent film of four years ago. "During the first thirty months," he said, "the cost of sound pictures was far greater than the silent films, ranging from 25 per cent to 100 per cent additional investment per picture. By two years of actual experience and a more definite understanding of entertainment requirements, the cost of producing talking pictures has now been placed upon a good commercial foundation and a sound economic basis."

NEW ARLISS FILM

Doris Kenyon will play the role of Betsy Schuyler, Alexander Hamilton's wife, in the new George Arliss picture dealing with the life of the great American statesman. The casting resources of Hollywood are being taxed for actors to portray George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, John Jay, General Philip Schuyler and other colorful figures of the early days of the United States. Of especial importance in the story, as written for the stage by Mr. Arliss and Mary P. Hamlin, is the part of Mrs. Reynolds, the siren whose relations with Hamilton seriously complicated both his public and private life. It was in this role that the late Jeanne Eagels, supporting Mr. Arliss, made one of her first successes on the stage.

THE CHARLES FARRELLS

Charles Farrell and his bride, Virginia Valli, are honeymooning in Italy. "Madonna of the Streets," in which he co-starred with Janet Gaynor, was barred by Mussolini.

When Farrell arrived in Los Angeles, it was as dresser to Little Billie, vaudeville artist. Miss Valli was orginially Sweeney, and divorced Demmy Lamson, actors' representative. In the spring of 1929 her engagement was announced to Cedric Gibbons, art director of Metro. Gibbons was divorced by Gwendolyn Weller, daughter of a New York newspaper man. He had been reported engaged to Eileen Pringle and Madeleine Hurlock.

GIVE CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

To the Editor of The Examiner,
Dear Sir:

Permit me a little space in your valuable paper in answer to British Canadian.

You suggest that instead of giving the unemployed charity, give them work. In my opinion, this is a slur and an insult to our City Fathers. Are you aware that in cooperation with the government our City has been able to find employment for close upon 700 men for the past four months and is still finding it?

Are you aware that the City Fathers along with our local paper and the Relief Committee are extending a helping hand to help to relieve the distress that is prevalent in this city, not because, as you say, "Only looking for what they can get" but because of depression of trade. Are you aware that lots of good mechanics, clerks, etc., are wielding a pick and shovel to earn an honest crust?

It is not the fault of the City Fathers that you live in the country. You don't suppose they are going to canvass the country and bring in more unemployed when we have quite enough of our own now.

You say the roads and sidewalks are in a terrible condition. Can you expect the council to control the elements? I consider the City is as clean as any city in Ontario and considering you are living in the country and not paying rates and taxes in the city, you have no kick coming. What with your pension and possibly a little ground to cultivate, this should be able to tide you over during this depression and not flood the city with your adverts for work. Nobody expects luxuries these times and there are hundreds in this city worse off than you are, with no pension at all.

I am like your husband and I have looked everywhere for a job and have failed; no use putting up any kick. Just grin and bear it. I hope, as you say, we shall soon have plenty of work and better times. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

Yours faithfully,

Now a Mutual Company

The directors announce that by joint action taken today by policyholders and shareholders, in accordance with the provisions of the Company's Special Act—just fifty years after the founding of the Company—the North American Life Assurance Company becomes a purely Mutual organization.

All of the Company's assets, exceeding forty-five million dollars, are now held for the policyholders. The whole of the accumulated surplus, as well as all future surplus earned, belongs exclusively to the holders of participating policies.

The policyholders now own and control the Company—there being no capital stock or shareholders. They will elect their own directors, and such directors will be solely responsible to them.

It is gratifying that Mutualization has been accomplished at a period in the Company's history when its financial position is impregnable—its surplus on 31st December, 1930, amounting to over eight million dollars.

It is equally gratifying that the redemption of the capital has been effected, and Mutualization brought about, without in any way disturbing the surplus already apportioned to participating policyholders. The accumulated surplus earnings from the non-participating section alone have been practically sufficient to redeem the entire capital.

Among the founders and early directors of the Company were such honoured leaders in Canadian life as Alexander Mackenzie, Sir William Meredith, Sir Oliver Mowat and Edward Blake, and the step now taken in Mutualizing the Company marks the fulfillment of their intentions, as expressed in the original charter, granted by the Dominion Government.

Moreover, the carrying out of Mutualization gives effect to the Company's declared principle and belief that the interests of the policyholders are paramount.

"SCOTTISH" MINISTER SAYS HE'S AN IRISHMAN

Hon. Robert Weir Was Afraid His Saskatchewan Farm Might Be Seceded

MAJOR THE HON. ROBERT WEIR, federal minister of agriculture, is of Irish ancestry, despite his Scottish name. And thereby hangs a tale. He was addressing the Canadian club at Montreal the other day, and Major G. S. Currie, president of the club, launched his introduction of the speaker with two felicitous comments, as he thought. First he referred to the success of Nova Scotians of Scottish ancestry in Canadian business and university life, and secondly to the number of former school teachers who have made their mark in national affairs.

Major Weir.

"I want to thank your chairman for his introductory remarks," began Major Weir. "As to the first part of them, may I say that I was born in Ontario. Both my parents came from Fermanagh in Enniskillen in northern Ireland—a suburb of Scotland. I did, however, teach school for a while before the war in your neighboring province of Ontario."

This was not the only specimen of humor in the minister's speech. Referring to the behavior of prairie cattle in England, he said that at one time there had been some objection to them on account of their wildness. "You see the farmer, knowing that his fences and hedges were none too strong, found himself in difficulties when he was making a deal, and he wanted to be quite sure he would have the cattle there at the time when he wanted to sell them."

Major Weir told the club that he had just visited his own farm in Saskatchewan—he farms in the Carrot River valley. "One reason for my visit," he remarked smilingly, "was that I wanted to see for myself that my own farm hadn't been seceded while I was in Ottawa."

Major-General Smedley D. Butler's record does not suggest a man who would worry much over falling foul of Signor Mussolini. He has always been known as an officer who went his way regardless of the opinions of those with whom he came in contact. At the home of a colonel in his own corps, where a dinner was given in his honor, he placed his host under arrest for serving cocktails in violation of the law.

When he commanded the United States marines in China he incurred a great deal of temporary unpopularity by ordering all the dull paint which had been put on the brasswork of the men's equipment for active service to be scraped off, and an era of incessant polishing set in.

He is rector of a church in Toronto called St. Paul's, and quite often preaches there.

As a natural product of Toronto, he ranks with Sunnyside, the Chief of Police, Massey Hall, T. L. Church, Casa Loma, the Twelfth of July, the Woodbine and the Big Swim.

He has been rector of St. Paul's for the last twenty-four years. He was acting rector for eight years before that, and curate for five years before that again.

He became curate as soon as he was ordained as an Anglican priest in 1894. By that time he had already helped to found Ridley College, and had been classical master there four years.

He is sixty-three years old, is fond of onions, has small gray-blue eyes and is nearly as clever as he looks.

He helped found Havergal College, too, and has since sometimes wondered why.

Few people seem to realize that he is a lieutenant-colonel in the militia. Or at least he used to be.

He has long been recognized as a leading citizen, and is one of the first whom reporters telephone for an opinion when they want guidance on questions of the day.

He likes to dine at government house, no matter who happens to be lieutenant-governor.

The highest peak of his life to date occurred in the summer of 1922 when he preached a sermon for King George and Queen Mary in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace. This has frequently been described as the greatest honor ever paid a Canadian clergyman, and is said to have created a precedent. That is nobody has been asked back.

He is a good man to see if you get into trouble, because he usually knows exactly what to do and is ready to do it.

One of his earliest indications of future greatness came at the age of nine years, when he held a funeral service for a pet cat. A number of attempts have been made to draw a moral from this.

Besides preaching to the King and Queen, he has also preached twice in Westminster, and officiated as chaplain to the bishop of London, which is something like being bat-boy to Babe Ruth.

He belongs to Lambton Golf and Country club and the Queen City Bowling club, but gets more exercise out of the Canadian club, the Empire club, Rotary, the board of trade, farewells to departing premiers and welcomes to distinguished visitors.

He went through Galt Collegiate and University of Toronto, and has since become chairman of the university's board of governors, although he never played on the football team.

He is extremely good at remembering names and rarely gets his parishioners mixed up. This is one of the reasons why a number of people have thought he would make a very good mayor of Toronto.

Another reason is that he has a banquet-proof digestion.

Among the things he could have been if he had wanted to are: Principal of Wycliffe College, bishop of Nova Scotia, president of King's College in Nova Scotia, and archbishop of Melbourne in Australia. He turned all these down because he felt that Toronto needed him, which has since been demonstrated as fairly correct.

He was also mentioned by the papers a few years ago as possible archbishop of Canterbury, but he did not say whether he would take this or not.

Among the things he has been are: Vice-president of the Canadian Council of the Pocket Testament league and minister of education for Ontario.

He was minister of education for about a year, which did not really give him much chance to show what he could do in the way of education, but was long enough to demonstrate that he knew plenty about politics.

He has continued the demonstration at various psychological moments and is either the best politician in the clergy or the best clergyman in politics.

He would also be either the best business man in the church or the best church man in business if it were not for Sir Joseph Flavelle and Mr. J. H. Gundy. These two, however, are only United church, and possibly should not count.

He eats much less than he used to, but has not lost any weight.

One of the few times he wanted something and did not get it was in 1909 when he wanted to be bishop of Toronto and got less votes than Mgr. James Sweeny, who has since became a familiar figure in Toronto's civic ceremonies.

He answers most of his mail himself in small neat handwriting.

He reflects privately that if he had gone in for law he would probably have become prime minister of Canada, but he does not allow this to make him feel disappointed in himself.

Chinese Police Chief Was Loyal to His Men

A NEW kind of medal should be struck for the chief of the Salt Gabelle police at Tsingtao, for he has revealed himself as a wit and as a man who protects the honor of the men under him.

The police chief's duty is to protect the property of the government at the salt refinery just outside the Shantung port. Salt in China is a government monopoly.

Above the works, which have been idle for some time, rose two tall chimneys. "Rose" is right, for this epoch must be couched in the past tense. One of the chimneys rose to eighty-five feet and the other to eighty feet. A fine point of discrimination, perhaps, but together the chimneys were a landmark for the port and the surrounding country.

Just how long it was before their disappearance was remarked is not quite certain, but last week one of the Salt Gabelle inspectors hove into port and from the deck of the ship cast his eye over the landscape. The two brick chimneys weren't there to meet him.

He proceeded to unravel the red tape of investigation and the police chief responded, for he admitted that the chimneys came under his own special protection. But not so fast, for it took him some days to reach a solution of the mystery. The chimneys had been missing for weeks.

The police chief formed himself into an investigation committee of one. He called his men together and with great eclat, or whatever it is that makes a police chief's chest swell, explained the situation.

Two tall chimneys were missing. Who had taken them? After days of deliberation, two small policemen stepped forward. They held the clew to the mystery, they explained.

"You see, it was this way," they declared. "We are poor men and we have many dependents. We sold the eighty-five-foot chimney for $65 and the eighty-foot chimney for $55, making a total of $120. But one of the terms of the sale was that both chimneys should be removed, brick by brick, during the night. This was done."

After cogitating some time the police chief fixed the penalties and reported the matter to the government.

"Two of my men," he declared, "sold the two chimneys for $120 and they were removed during the night. The two have confessed. As punishment, I have marked one large demerit against the names of each of the two. One large demerit means that it will take two merits to erase.

"This has been properly attended to. I have interviewed the men. Each has dependents, and they spent the $120 upon their families, buying them food and other necessaries. Because they have not squandered the money in loose living, I have given each of them one good merit.

"Further, since each confessed his part in the sale of the chimneys and so caused me less work in sifting into this affair, I have granted each of the two men another good merit mark. Hence the big demerit has been erased and each stands cleared.

"However, my investigation has taken some time and has not been without expense. During the investigation it was necessary to retain the men and those others who could add information to the matter in hand. This has cost $80 in food.

"Nor should my own efforts go unrewarded. I would consider $40 a fair sum for the additional work this investigation has entailed. Therefore I inclose my bill for $120."

There, for the time being, the matter rests.

MONTREAL TOO CHILLY FOR ARCTIC EXPLORER

Sir Hubert Wilkins Had to Borrow a Toque From Servant at Hotel

SIR HUBERT WILKINS, noted British explorer, who has during his long and adventurous career withstood the rigors of far sub-zero weather at both the North and South Poles, and who is now working on plans for his submarine polar expedition next year, the trip to be made under the ice floes of the Arctic, visited Montreal recently and found the cold "unbearable."

Sir Hubert Wilkins.

It was a nice, typical breezy Montreal day when Sir Hubert and Lady Wilkins arrived in Montreal, with the mercury hovering just around the zero mark. A fine winter day, Canadians would call it, and skiers, snow-shoers and bobsleighers, in their thousands were hiking up the mountain for a day of winter sports. Sir Hubert, after his brief drive from the station in a closed cab, was impressed by the bright sunshine and clear crisp air, and immediately after lunching in the hotel, decided he would join the sports lovers in their expedition to the mountain park. He set out bravely, but less than ten minutes after he had left the warmth of the hotel lobby, however, the hardy polar explorer was back at the door.

"Can you lend me a warmer cap?" he asked the taxi starter in front of the hotel. "It's terribly cold here."

"I gave him a toque and I hope he doesn't forget to return it," the starter said afterwards in telling the story. "Sir Hubert says it was too cold for him here."

"READING is, of all pastimes, the best for mankind."—Abbe Ernest Dimnet.

In a recent article on this page, dealing with Mr. Charles Clark of High River, Alberta, the idea was conveyed that his newspaper, the High River Times, was Canada's prize weekly newspaper. This is hardly correct. The High River Times is the best weekly newspaper in a town of less than 1,500 population. The Simcoe Reformer of Simcoe, Ontario, won, last year, the first prize in the competition open to weekly newspapers in towns of any size. Incidentally, Mr. P. George Pearce, publisher of the Simcoe Reformer, donated the prize won last year by the High River Times.

Kirkwood Wanted an Answer And He Got It—Very Quickly!

David Kirkwood, M.P.

ONE of the most colorful personalities at Westminster, David Kirkwood, who is again in the public eye, this time as an advocate of inflation of currency to meet the increasing cost of social legislation in Britain really owes his introduction to political life to his political bete noir, Lloyd George.

Mr. Kirkwood first came into prominence on the occasion of the visit of Mr. Lloyd George as minister of munitions to Glasgow in 1915 to persuade munition workers and shipbuilders in that great hive of industry to consent to "dilution of labor," the introduction of partially trained men into trades that had hitherto demanded a regular apprenticeship. Most trade unionists were unconvinced of the wisdom or necessity of the change proposed and it was a hostile audience that faced the minister at his first meeting. Repeated interruptions of the address brought Mr. Kirkwood, one of the workers present in the body of the hall, to his feet in protest and in appeal to give the speaker a fair hearing. Impressed by Mr. Kirkwood's demeanor, Mr. Lloyd George, seeking a chairman for the second meeting, arranged for Mr. Kirkwood to undertake the office. Kirkwood agreed. To the Welshman's astonishment and chagrin, however, Kirkwood in opening this second meeting, instead of indulging in the usual conventional compliments, roundly denounced him for his past record and declared that every act that had been initiated by Lloyd George has been "tainted with slavery." Then the fat was in the fire and speaker after speaker got up in opposition to Lloyd George. So humiliated was the minister by the incident that he secured the suppression of a Glasgow Socialist paper that printed a full account of the "dilution" conference.

Kirkwood was now called on to be one of the leaders of the opposition movement. Then the government took stern measures and Kirkwood, along with a number of other men prominent in the labor movement, was deported and kept under surveillance in Edinburgh Castle. Until then he had been outside the political labor movement; indeed had been a Liberal in politics. He joined the Labor party and soon after his release was deluged with invitations to become a Labor candidate at the next election. In 1918 he was defeated in his campaign in Dumbarton, Scotland, but was successful in the election of 1922.

It was something of a disappointment to Kirkwood to find that his enemy, Lloyd George, was not any longer on the front bench when the Labor ranks swelled to greater numbers than before were drawn up in the Commons arena. He expressed his feeling in his maiden speech, when he told the House how for several years he had looked forward to the day when he would beard the "r-r-right honor-r-able member-r for Car-r-nar-r-von on the floor-r of the House of Commons, but," he added, "I am not going to kick a dead horse."

Although he finds his home among the extreme left wing of his party, Mr. Kirkwood is not a Communist. As he puts it, he sees no reason why any Britisher should take orders from Moscow. "My country, right or wrong," he said on one occasion, "God bless it."

He is an earnest student of Bur-rns and Shakespeare. Interrupted during a speech in the House by a jeering opponent, he silenced his tormentor by aptly quoting from Hamlet, "A man may smile and smile and be a villain."

Not infrequently, however, he loses his temper and when he does so generally plays into the hands of his critics. Once he got up in a passion over a proposal of the Baldwin government to appoint four additional high court judges for India at salaries of four thousand pounds a year each.

"What have these fellows got that they are worth that much?" he demanded. "What have they got that I, for example, have not got?"

"Davie" had let himself in for it and the House roared as like a chorus there came from the government benches the inevitable one-word retort, "Brains."

Lord Middleton Thinks Our Farm Lands Are the Key to Future Prosperity

AS an amateur colonizer with unbounded faith in Canada, Lord Middleton rendered valuable service to the Dominion when immigration from Great Britain was in its heyday. Michael Guy Percival Willoughby, to give him his full name, is the eleventh holder of the barony of Middleton conferred on his ancestor in 1711, and was born in 1887. He owns about 15,000 acres of land in Yorkshire and more in Nottinghamshire, this latter being mineral-bearing. He is one of Great Britain's foremost farmers and that is perhaps why Canada has always made a strong appeal to him.

Lord Middleton

Last summer Lord Middleton spent two months in the Dominion making himself thoroughly acquainted with farming conditions in east and west. He said he had been "absolutely captivated" by all that he had seen and expressed the opinion that Canada had benefited to a greater extent than any of the newer countries in the advancement of agricultural science. He believes that proper scientific, organized agricultural settlements devoted to mixed farming will eventually come about in the Canadian west. "Canada," he said, "makes one wish that one were a youngster again!"

Perhaps Lord Middleton's connections with Canada are more in the nature of a direct association than as a mere looker-on. As chairman of a voluntary emigration committee in the north of England, during 1929 he was instrumental in sending over a thousand new settlers to Canada, most of these being now comfortably established in Ontario, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This voluntary committee maintains training centres in the north of England where prospective emigrants are taught to work on the farm and if they fail to make good they are not sent to Canada. Those in charge of the centres value not so much what they learn in the course of training, but rather the capacity for work and the character training which is involved. These new settlers come of hardy north of England and Scottish lowland stock whose forefathers for many generations were tillers of the soil and in whose veins the blood of the old yeomen still runs.

On his own 15,000 acres of land in England Lord Middleton has gone in largely for cattle raising and he thinks farmers in Canada will have to extend their operations to embrace the different lines of live stock rather than continue to specialize in grain growing. His own ambition was to carry on the tradition of his ancient line as a landowner and the tradition, too, of his Yorkshire acres as the home of the best pedigree stock to be found in England, but death duties and high taxation have to a great extent upset his plans. Horses are one of his favorite hobbies, especially bloodstock, a taste he inherited from his father, who for a long time was a starter to the Jockey Club and one of the most kindly and charming men racing has ever had either as an official or a sportsman.

So far as modern economic conditions allow Lord Middleton has continued the schemes for assisting farmers which "the old lord," as he was affectionately called, so long and successfully pursued. He has been instrumental in bringing good thoroughbred sires to Yorkshire and farther north for the use of the farmers and during 1929 and 1930 he held a show and sale of young stock on his estate, besides acting as president of the Cleveland Bay Horse Society. Both he and Lady Middleton share an enthusiastic interest in the Middleton Hunt, as well as in every movement for the betterment of the locality in which the family have so long made their home and for which they have done so much, generation after generation.

A movement in which Lord Middleton takes an active part is that for the exchange of pedigree live stock between the Old Country and the Dominion. Many head of pure-bred horses have been shipped from Great Britain to Canada in years gone by and now the merit of Canadian horses has so impressed itself on the British mind that several important sales from Canada to Britain have taken place. One example is that of a young Percheron mare with foal at foot, bred and raised on the ranch of the Prince of Wales at Pekisko, Alberta, the purchaser being Lord Middleton. This mare is well known in the show rings of western Canada. Last November she was exhibited at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto and she so impressed Lord Middleton that he purchased her for use on his own farm in Yorkshire.

BUSINESS WAS SLOW

ON his last call on Friday a commercial traveller was about to receive a small order when he started searching through his pockets.

"What have you lost?" asked the customer.

"Pencil," replied the traveller, still searching. "Can't think where I left it—I know I had it on Monday."

NOT RISKING MUCH

"FANCY a girl wearing a flimsy frock like that with this cold wind blowing!" exclaimed a grim-looking woman. "She's absolutely gambling with life and death."

"Well, dear," remarked her husband with a grin, "you can't say she's a heavy gambler."

And Now a Shrewd Aberdonian Will Lead Alberta's Farmers

EVERYBODY concedes that he has a tough job on his hands, this firm-lipped, shrewd-eyed Aberdonian, and himself he has admitted as much, thus refuting that already much-refuted charge that the Scottish never give anything away. Robert Gardiner, M.P., who was recently elected president, by acclamation, of the United Farmers of Alberta, on the retirement from that office of Henry Wise Wood, fully realizes the immensity of the task that lies before him. His predecessor, Mr. Wood, American-born, was fifteen times elected president of this body and had held the post with distinction during two-thirds of the U.F.A.'s existence. He enjoyed the confidence and esteem of about eighteen thousand farm men and women, and when he resigned his friends presented him with an illuminated address and many personal tributes and gifts.

Mr. Gardiner is of the younger generation of farmers. He is another of those Scots who, arriving on these shores quite empty-handed, is to-day a force to be reckoned with in his adopted country's affairs. He went to the prairies in 1902 and took up a homestead in the Battleford district, abandoning this after a series of crop failures for a more promising tract of land near Red Deer, where he rapidly made good. He has done all his pioneering alone and nobody can tell him anything about bachelor's flap-jacks and canned food, blizzards, drought and other vicissitudes. But the tenets of his faith embodied the well-known axiom that the body is more than meat and the soul than raiment. He had books on the crude shelves of his shack and he studied them and kept in touch with the newspapers. He had always an absorbing interest in politics and presently he was the central figure in one of the two most celebrated by-elections of the Dominion. The first in 1910 foretold the defeat of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the second an active part in the formation of the grain growers' movement in Alberta and was one of the first candidates that the Progressives placed in the field. He was nominated for the riding of Medicine Hat, where an emergency by-election had been precipitated by the death of Hon. A. L. Sifton, and was elected by an overwhelming majority. He has continued to sit in parliament ever since.

Recently two new issues of first importance were discussed by the U.F.A. One was secession and the other one hundred per cent. pool. It was the first time in the history of the farmer's movement in Canada that the question of secession was debated in a provincial convention and the said convention talked a little wild. One man made the suggestion that the new internal state should be called the free economic area, which is rather a mouthful compared with the euphonious name, Alberta, Mr. Gardiner's eyes must have twinkled. Mr. Wood, in retiring, made no suggestions regarding such a break with the rest of Canada, but confessed that his association with the U.F.A. had been the greatest thing in his life and that he "wouldn't have exchanged it for the work of any other man in the world." He gave the U.F.A. a fatherly blessing and said he believed that if the farmers would mobilize their strength and guide it with intelligence they would prove the greatest force in the world in breaking down industrial warfare and in building a system for supplying the wants of mankind. He said their part was the stabilization of the movement for the cultivation of mass intelligence, and he ended by remarking: "That task I now assign to my successors."

Robert Gardiner, M.P.

And the mantle has fallen on the sturdy shoulders of Robert Gardiner, M.P., and since there is no farmer's problem with which this ex-homesteader is unacquainted, from burnt bannocks to hailed-out grain, and from bad roads to pool crooks, optimistic ones are saying that the economic sky is already brightening. We may not have a Daniel come to judgment, but even the doubting Thomases have a feeling of security in the knowledge that an Aberdeen boot is at the helm of affairs. Mr. Robert Gardiner is not an imitator. He has his own ideas and methods. The Dominion will await results with no little interest.

IDYLWILDE PRINCESS WAYNE SETS 15,000-LB. RECORD IN R.O.P. TEST

Guesswork Eliminated on Dairy Farm of James Seymour at Ida.

HOLDS MANY TROPHIES

Idylwilde Princess Wayne, five year old Holstein cow, bred by James Seymour of Ida, and now owned by Methuen Dearing of Palermo, Ontario, has recently established a 15,000 pound record in the 305 day division of the R.O.P. This young cow on twice a day milking in her lactation period gave 15,311 pounds of milk containing 653.75 pounds butterfat, her test averaging 3.44 per cent fat.

This cow was sired by Pioneer Lord Wayne Toitilla, and her dam is Idylwilde Victoria Countess. She was sold when one year old to T. O. Dobson of Brampton, previous to which she was exhibited by Mr. Seymour at Peterborough Industrial Exhibition as a calf.

It is interesting to note that the production and the Canadian champion in both milk and butterfat production is "Idylwilde Korndyke" formerly owned by James Seymour and Sons. Both this cow and her dam having been bred at Idylwilde Farm. This latter record was established in 1928.

No Guesswork

A recent visit to Idylwilde Farm introduced an Examiner representative to an intensive type of dairy farm, where guesswork is entirely eliminated and where with the aid of records and tests, the herd of fully accredited Holstein-Friesian cattle is maintained in the top notch of perfection and production.

Referring to the milking records, hanging in a convenient location in the cattle barns, Carmen Seymour remarked that, "Milking records are one of the essentials of pure bred herds. Such records enable one to learn what each cow is doing and to eliminate the poor ones." In conjunction with records kept by the farmers themselves, the herd is visited at regular intervals by a Government inspector and also by inspectors of the Holstein Association of Canada.

Including the present herd bull Sir Ormsby Burke of Poplar Row, Idylwilde Farm boasts 27 head of cattle — a small, but choice herd—out of which are at present ten cows in full milk. The farm is equipped with De Laval milking machines, and a specially constructed monorail for transporting the milk to the cooling-house, from which it is shipped daily to Toronto.

The present herd bull, to which reference has been made is four years old. His dam is Daisy Ormsby Lyons, who at two years old gave 10,783 pounds of milk in the 305 day R.O.P. test and 546.25 pounds butterfat with an average test of 4.05 for fat.

What the Records Show

In the semi-official records of Holstein-Freisan cows for the month of January the following cows of the Seymour herd are listed:—

Three year class—Toitilla Spofford Korndyke (Count Spofford Pontiac) James and C. W. Seymour; milk 12,839 pounds, 3.38 per cent fat; 434 pouds fat.

Class Subdivision B—Idylwilde Toitilla Burkeyje (Pioneer Toitilla Prince), James and C. W. Seymour; milk 14,125 pounds, 3.73 per cent fat; 527 pounds fat.

Four Year Class—Idylwilde Echo Toitilla (Pioneer Lord Wayne Toitilla), James and C. W. Seymour, 11,290 pounds milk; 3.81 per cent fat; 430 pounds fat.

Three Year Class—Toitilla Wayne Echo Hengerveld (Pioneer Lord Wayne Toitilla), James and C. W. Seymour, 12,791 pounds milk; 3.65 per cent fat; 467 pounds fat. Also in the same class, Toitilla Spofford Pontiac (Count Spofford Pontiac), 13,047 pounds milk; 3.35 per cent fat; 437 pounds fat.

Two Year Class—Idylwilde Korndyke Inka (Pioneer Lord Wayne Toitilla), C. W. Seymour, 12,575 pounds milk; 3.34 per cent fat; 420 pounds fat.

It will be observed that in some instances the records give the names of James and C. W. Seymour, which denotes that these animals are jointly owned. Among other animals at Idylwilde is Idylwilde Toitilla Burkeyje (eight years) and holder of the Farm and Dairy Cup 1930. In the R.O.P. test 287 days she gave 14,125 pounds milk; 527 pounds fat with the average per centage of fat at 3.73.

In the farm home at Idylwilde are numerous trophies among them being the Bank of Commerce Cup for the Best Pure Bred Dairy Cow, won at Peterborough Exhibition in 1927; DeLaval Company cup for best dairy cow any breed; Patterson Candy Co. Ltd., Toronto Cup for best graded dairy herd, won at Peterborough Exhibition 1930; Canadian Bank of Commerce Cup for best pure bred dairy cow any breed, won at Peterborough Exhibition 1924.

Wild Oats Become Good Feed Mixture

The thorough cleaning which Canadian grain receives at the lakehead terminal, Fort William and Port Arthur, contributes substantially to an important by-product industry. Among other feeding stuffs manufactured from the screenings is a new feed, rapidly gaining favor with poultrymen, known as Wild Oat Groats. Machinery has been perfected which hulls the wild oats and as a result of the process which they are put through oat groats make a mixed feed oat containing about 15 per cent protein and sells in bulk at $14.50 per ton f.o.b. Fort William. It is regarded as one of the most economical feeds on the market at the present time.

TIME TO START INDOOR GARDEN

Vegetables and Flowers Needing Long Growing Season May Be Given Good Boost.

VALUABLE TIPS

Now that we are in the first month of Spring, it is high time to consider actual planting. Of course in many parts of Canada we will not be outside with the rake under our arm for a little while yet, but we can start our garden indoors. Many of the regular annuals such as Petunias, Cosmos, Zinnias, Snapdragons, Marigolds and others among the flowers are regularly started in this way as are also those vegetables like cabbage, head lettuce, tomatoes and peppers, which require a longer growing season than we are usually blessed with outdoors and therefore receive their initial growth under glass.

True, if it is not convenient for us to grow these things inside or if our wants are very small, it is probably best to secure a supply from some nurseryman who we know will give us the varieties wanted. Sometimes an arrangement can be made with a neighbor who has a hot bed, we supplying the seed of the varieties wanted and in return getting some plants later on. The seed is usually started in shallow flats or cigar or fish boxes in light, well drained soil either in a hot bed or some window exposed to the south. If the nights are cold it is advisable not to place too close to the glass unless there is a storm window.

Not only can we grow the regular bedding plants, such as those mentioned above, in this way but we can also put in almost any thing that will transplant, including cucumbers, melons and even a few early beets, carrots, sweet peas or corn which are started indoors, will be from two to six weeks ahead of those planted outside.

Cover Box with Sacking

Moisten the soil and plant the seed in rows about an inch apart. Before thoroughly watering, cover the box with a piece of burlap or sacking which prevents the seeds from being washed out and also hastens germination. This cover should be removed when sprouting starts. Up to this time the box can be kept in a warm, dark cellar.

The plants will require transplanting once or twice to develop strength and root growth and gradual cooling off before being planted outside. If your requirements are large, make a hot bed, which is simply a glass covered three inch bed of good soil on a foundation of about eighteen inches of fresh tightly packed horse manure. The manure should be allowed to heat up and cool down, the process taking about a week, before planting. Have the bed facing the south and the glass top sloping a few inches in the same direction so that the rain will run off.

Water sparingly in cold weather and only on bright days. Ventilate a little by raising the sash and keep this open longer as the weather gets warm. Transplant at least once to a cold frame, which is simply the same as the hot bed without the manure, before setting plants in their permanent bed outside.

BUY ONLY BEST IN PICKING HERD OF DAIRY COWS

Third of Most Herds Are Boarders, Third Break Even, Third Profit-Makers.

HARDEST WORKED ANIMAL

Capacity is Absolute Necessity is Getting Big Producer.

By Dr. L. D. LeGear

Dairying is the largest revenue producing department of the live-stock industry of the United States. The products made from milk of our dairy cows, which include butter, cheese, ice cream, condensed milk, powdered milk, etc., amount to more than 4 billion dollars annually, which is our greatest industry.

There are approximately 22 millions of dairy cows, including heifers two years old or over, on farms in the United States. Of this number, about one-third of these cows are loafers or boarders and are kept on our farms at a loss. About one-third break even, that is, they make no money; and one-third are good profit producers. If only one-third of the cows on our farms are making money for the owners, it is very essential to know how to select a good dairy cow.

Buy the Best

"Buy the best and breed them better" is the slogan of a leading Jersey breeder. This slogan in my estimation is the best one that I have ever seen or heard. Those seven words mean more to the upbuilding of our dairy herds than any words that I have ever seen grouped together. Cheap cattle are seldom a bargain. Deep-bodied cows with good type and plenty of capacity are the most profitable to the owners. Cattle of this quality may cost more, but the profits from the sale of milk and surplus stock are much greater. It pays to "Buy the best and breed them better."

What is a dairy cow worth? This is a question that I am often asked, and there is but one answer, and that is that she is valuable in proportion to her production in the milk pail. One cow may not be worth her keep and another may be worth $500 or more. There are two ways of deciding a cow's value. One is to buy her and see if she pays her way, and interest on the investment, and the other is to see her record as made in a cow-testing association or on official test by the breed association. A cow-testing association record is more likely to be found and may be considered reliable.

The cow is the hardest worked animal on the farm. She must have a strong constitution to produce largely, persistently and profitably. Constitution is indicated by large, open, well distended nostrils, by well-sprung fore ribs, and deep heart girth, signifying room for large heart and lungs. Also by largeness of windpipe and breadth of chest.

A cow never produces a pound of milk from anything other than feed and water. Other things being equal, the more feed a cow eats, the greater will be her yield in milk. Therefore, it is essential that a cow have capacity, which is indicated by a large mouth, strong jaws, and a large abdomen, "denoting a good feeder." She must have a body that is deep and long, with well-sprung ribs far apart, and a wedge-shaped conformation.

Dairy Temperament

A good dairy cow must have what is known as "dairy temperament," which determines whether she is a worker or a loafer. This is indicated by a broad well-dished face and a large bright, prominent, staring eye. A dairy cow should not put on too much fat along her back, and she must have wide, prominent hips. She must have good blood circulation for carrying food nutrients from the digestive system to the udder, where these nutrients are converted into milk and butterfat. A good circulation is indicated by prominent veins on the udder and large, crooked and elastic milk veins.

A good dairy cow must have ability, which gives her the power of manufacturing milk and butterfat efficiently. This is indicated by an udder of good quality texture that is long and broad, between thin, well-arched thighs. The udder also should hang high behind, and should be carried well forward.

I recommend bull circles or bull associations as the cheapest way and a good way to build up the quality of dairy cows in any community. The very best bulls available should be used for breeding.

I most heartily endorse the work of cow-testing associations, for in these cow-testing associations complete record of the milk produced and the feed consumed are kept, thus enabling the farmer to market his unprofitable cows at the end of the cow-testing year.

CANADIAN PETROLEUM

The chief petroleum producing areas in Canada are the Turner Valley field in Alberta; and the Petrolia and Enniskillen, the Oil Springs, and the Bothwell fields in southern Ontario.

CANADIAN NEWSPRINT

Newsprint paper made up 85.2 per cent of the total reported tonnage of paper manufactured in Canada in 1929. The amount was 2,725,331 tons as compared with 2,414,393 tons in 1928.

Shoe, glove and other products shipped from Czechoslovakia last year were value at nearly $35,000,000.

"Segis Pontiac Nancy"

This cow from the "Stella Oriens" herd of Holsteins, Peterborough, was sold by Norman W. McConkey to the Elmwood Farms, Deerfield, Ill., of which R. V. Rasmussen is the proprietor. Her production record was 1,127.1 pounds of butter and 23,905.3 pounds of milk in one year. At the Wisconsin State fair, Milwaukee, she was second in the dry class of forty-six entries. This is one of the largest State fairs in the United States. "Segis Pontiac Nancy" won similar laurels at other shows. She was bred by R. W. E. Burnaby of Jefferson, Ont., and her sire was "Highland Segis Pontiac Posch." According to Mr. McConkey's opinion of her, "Segis Pontiac Nancy" can be classed as one of the best individual cows ever produced in Peterborough county.

BARLEY AS FEED HAS HIGH VALUE

Is Excelled Only by Wheat and Corn in Total Digestible Nutrients.

Only now with huge quantities available at very attractive prices are farmers beginning to give anything like adequate consideration to the feed value of barley for all classes of livestock. Chemical analyses supplied by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa show that in total digestible nutrients barley is practically the equal of wheat and is only excelled by corn by a little over five per cent. For all practical purpose it can with the use of propre supplements in the ration take the place of corn in livestock feeding.

Here are some notes of interest about barley:

1. Barley is a Canadian grown product relatively cheaper than imported corn.
2. It is now readily available at comparatively low prices.
3. In total digestible nutrients, it is excelled only by wheat and corn.
4. Barley lacks slightly in palatability as compared with corn and is the best fed in conjunction with other grains.
5. Being of a carbonaceous or fattening nature, it may be most advantageously used with meat producing animals in both the growing and fattening stages.
6. It is generally recognized as the most useful Canadian grown grain for swine feeding.
7. It is almost equally useful in the feeding and finishing of beef cattle.
8. With oats, it forms a good base for dairy cattle grain mixtures where the additional protein required to balance the ration is otherwise supplied, for example, by alfalfa or high protein cereal-legume hay crops.
9. Barley may be safely and economically fed to work horses as a part of the grain ration. It is best rolled or bruised.
10. Barley, rolled, cracked or coarsely ground, combines well with oats in the fattening of lambs.

BROODER HOUSE SHOULD BE CLEAN TO PUT CHICKS IN

Scrub Droppings From Floor, Brush Walls and Ceiling.

GIVE COAT OF WHITEWASH

If Chicks Die Gasping or Choking Fumigate House With Formaldehyde.

Before putting chicks in the brooder house you used last year, give it a good cleaning.

The first thing to do is to scrub loose the droppings that may be stuck to the floor. Brush the walls and the ceiling to remove the dust which has accumulated. When this has been done, you are ready to give it a coat of whitewash, adding to the gallon one pint of disinfectant.

If you had any trouble with chicks dying, due to gasping or choking to death, it would be advisable to fumigate the house with formaldehyde. In cold weather it will mean starting a fire in the brooder and heating the room up to at least 75 degrees. Then soak the brooder house with water. Formaldehyde can only do a thorough job of fumigating when the room is warm and damp. For an ordinary colony brooder house, a pound of potassium permanganate and a quart of formaldehyde should be used. Put the potassium permanganate in a tin quart pail and then pour the formalheyde over it. Have everything arranged so that you can get out of the house when this is done. Be sure to have all the windows sealed and do not open the brooder house for twenty-four hours. Before putting any chicks in it or attempting to work in it yourself, allow the house to air out thoroughly.

Fumigating will kill any mold spores which may have been brought into the brooder house, as well as the disease germs. One form of mold seems to find the chicks' respiratory system an ideal place for rapid growth and in turn causing the chicks to choke to death. It probably has been responsible in a great many more instances for heavy losses of chicks than we realize. Brooder pneumonia no doubt has been unjustly blamed.

Good chicks housed under clean, comfortable quarters and given a good feed will grow into large, healthy, vigorous layers.

CHICKS' FIRST FEED HIGHLY IMPORTANT

Do Not Take Chances on Unproved Ration—Use Easily Digested Mash.

In growing your next year's pullet crop, too much stress cannot be placed upon the feed given them throughout the growing period. Their egg production is dependent directly upon what has happened during the first six months of their life. It is during those months that they build bones, frame, and the egg-making machinery. If you do not grow strong, vigorous birds, you are apt to have a considerable amount of sickness among the layers and they will lack the ability to economically handle their feed.

Too many baby chicks receive nothing but grain aside from what they may pick up on the range. Such a practice might have been satisfactory fifteen or twenty years ago when chicks were kept in small flocks and the baby chicks were raised with a mother hen. She would help them find what they needed. Then, too, poultrymen did not expect very much in the way of production from the birds until spring. A 200-egg hen was at that time considered one of the impossible creations.

Baby chicks need a soft, easily digested mash, which will provide for them just the things they need to build bone, flesh, muscle, feathers, and blood. Considering the small amount of feed a chick actually eats, you cannot afford to take a chance with an unproved feed. While it may be cheap in price, it generally is by far the most expensive to use.

If the feed you have been using has not produced the kind of birds you want, learn from your neighbor, who is making a success of his flock, what he is feeding. He will be only too glad to tell you and help you in any way he can.

BULL BONUS POLICY ENCOURAGES PURCHASING OF REGISTERED STOCK

Providing Animal Passes Inspection Farmer Will Be Refunded 20 P.C. of Cost Price.

CENSUS BEING TAKEN

Early in 1930 a Live Stock Improvement Association was formed in Victoria County. The object of this Association is to improve the Live Stock of the county. This refers to all classes and breeds of Live Stock. In the county we have Shorthorn, Hereford and Holstein Associations which clubs are expected to foster and advance the interest of their particular breeds of cattle, and six Bacon Hog Clubs which have approved sires loaned through the Live Stock Branch. These clubs have done considerable to improve the class of pigs in the different communities. We also have four farmers who are conducting Ontario Breeding Stations specializing in Barred Plymouth Rocks under the Poultry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College. The Improvement Association will work with any or all of these clubs as well as other breeders of Live Stock.

One of the worth while projects which is being carried on this year is a bull census. Some two years ago the County Council passed a by-law requiring the Township Councils to make a census of the bulls in the townships. This work will be done through the assessors and when completed will give the number of bulls in the county, the percentage of purebreds and the percentage of the different breeds. It is hoped that this work will be thoroughly done and that the information gathered will be accurate.

20 Per Cent Bonus

Another benefit which is gained through the formation of the Improvement Association, is the bull bonus policy. Under this policy any farmer who has not had a bull registered in his name, and who purchases a pure bred sire and registers it in his name, provided the sire passes inspection by a man approved by the Directors of the Live Stock Branch is entitled to a bonus from the said Branch of 20% on the purchase price, bonus not to exceed $50.

When an inspector is appointed in a county his services are paid by the Live Stock Branch but it is necessary that the man applying for inspection pay travelling expenses. In case of three farmers buying an exceptional bull the bonus of 20% is available not to exceed $100.

Purchaser to secure bonus shall proceed as follows:—

1—Apply to Inspector in his County for Inspection. It is preferable that this be done before the animal is purchased to avoid disappointment.

2—Secure from Inspector or Agricultural Representative Statement of Purchase Forms. These are to be filled in, in duplicate and returned to the Agricultural Representative with Certificate of Registration and Receipt from seller showing price paid.

3—These forms if found acceptable will be forwarded to the Live Stock Branch, Toronto and bonus will be paid from there.

The Association were successful in having George H. Mark, Little Britain apointed as Inspector for Victoria County. Mr. Mark has had a wide experience in breeding and exhibiting Live Stock. His services will be available to anyone wishing to secure sires for the improvement of their herds.

Radio on Farm Proves Big Aid

"Information can be just as pleasant as entertainment" asserted Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Federal Deputy Minister of Agriculture, speaking at Ottawa recently. "The radio is important to agriculture. The young people are becoming daily more important on the farm and they want radio entertainment. Radio provides this; it keeps the farmer in touch with the market situation and weather conditions, and it also keeps him in touch with the news of local and world happenings. I think radio is more important in the farm home than in any other home, it brings the world to the front door."

Promises Big Success

J. B. Nelson, fair secretary and treasurer and local agricultural representative, states, "Entries are coming in very satisfactorily and the fair promises to be a big success and a stimulus to the production of better and more profitable crops, with the use of better seed cleaning machinery."

Over $[illegible] in cash prizes will be distributed and there are classes for grain, small seeds and potatoes. Seed cleaning demonstrations will be given daily; in addition there will be many other educational exhibits.

This is the first time this fair has been held in Peterborough. Last year at Napanee it drew very large entries from each of the six counties to which it is open. These counties include Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough, Hastings, Prince Edward and Lennox and Addington.

Invitations have been extended for their attendance at the fair and the banquet to the members of the City Council, the County Council, the members of the Legislature in each of the counties concerned and to officers of various agricultural organizations throughout the district.

The Fair President is C. H. Ketcheson of Belleville, with H. W. Parson, seed inspector secretary and J. B. Nelson of the local Department of Agriculture, Fair secretary and treasurer.

The premium lists are now off the press and may be obtained on application to Mr. Nelson at Peterborough or to the respective agricultural representatives of each of the other five counties.

WARSAW

The United Irish women is really a development from the spirit of the years 1900-1914; the spirit of self-help, and of direct action. Farmers were organizing agricultural and dairy societies, the Industrial Development Associations were promoting industries, and the intellectual were creating a great dramatic and literary movement.

Several energetic, patriotic women felt the drive of these emotions, and desired to help build up a racial civilization. They started what they intended to be the femining counterpart of the Irish Agricultural Organization Society.

From the very start it had many enthusiastic members, who considered the work of the organization vital to their country. It soon had a journal of its own. Then the Great War broke out. Fierce emotions, a long struggle in Ireland, the Civil War came. The country as such was so distressed that special work of any of these home organizations could not function, but the United Irish Women lived through it, and was years before it could do much. In 1927 it had to close the central office in Dublin for six months and dispense with a paid secretary. However the work was done by the honorary treasurer. The honorary secretary acted as organizer and craft-teacher. Different branches were visited. A two weeks' course in basket making was given at each centre and the girls took up the work gladly. They applied for a stall for the sale of their work at the Royal Dublin Societies Spring Show and realised over three hundred dollars. The next year it was about five hundred dollars, and the members took part in demonstrations in the Countryside Worker's Section in basket-making, spinning, mat-making and seat weaving. The United Irish Women organized the entire section.

The general work of the organization handwork takes first place. Since 1917 they have held a show in a certain village. The first year, there were fifty entries. In 1929 they had over five hundred entries.

Classes in leather and raffia work and dress making create great interest. Various other organizations offered in 1929 to aid these women. The Women's National Health Association are sending lecturers on health and infant welfare; food and food values. Others have offered help on goat-keeping and cow testing. The Co. Dublin Librarian has gone around with her book-van in Co. Dublin and, taked on children's libraries and school distributions.

The distributors have been successful with the schools for centres. She promised to go to other counties.

The organization hopes to revive folk songs and dances.

The clergy give very little encouragement, in fact look with suspicion on a society composed entirely of women. However these women feel they can soon show them that they are worth while.

AT CAVAN.

Occasionally it happens at an Institute meeting that the members to whom have been assigned topics fail to appear. A suggestion for the solution of this problem and perhaps a preventative is to penalize those members by requiring that they give their contributions at another time that year. It is also suggested that copies be kept on hand of good papers given elsewhere and have some one read one.

2) Have someone give an impromptu address.

(3) Have a general discussion by all members, on a live subject.

(4) Have a program convenor for each three months, to see that those responsible for each topic are present. If they cannot be, she finds a substitute. This keeps more members actively at work, too. Have a monthly convenor or scout to look after that month's program and see that everybody is on deck.

(5) Ask each person to deal with a subject of which she is master, and you will seldom get a refusal.

Help can always be obtained by members in preparing papers, debates or addresses by using the Packet Loan Library O.A.C. Guelph. A packet is made up on the topic, mailed to you on loan for two weeks, when you mail it back.

To arouse interest in Institute work in a community, it is suggested that programs be given out to homes, whether they are members or not.

The success of the branch Institute hinges on the educational value of the monthly program. Well planned and carried out, it draws together, happy and interested, the home-makers of the whole neighborhood.

Each member should contribute according to her strength and ability to the general needs— papers, addresses, debates, discussions, music on committees or as an officer, and thus make our meetings more interesting and helpful.

"Long may our institution stand,
To bless the home and native land,
Aye, stand undaunted in its might,
For home and country, God and right."

MILLBROOK

"Shopping for the Family" was a topic discussed with much profit by a flourishing Institute, the fact that the housewife is credited with having the spending of eighty-five cents out of every dollar of the family exchequer being brought out in the course of the meeting.

Avoiding haphazard buying for the family larder, and wardrobe, was emphasized, this method being insisted upon the speaker as too often the manner in which women do their shopping. "Do not just stroll along your village main street and purchase what happens to strike your fancy," was the injunction, "too many of us do just that, and it is both extravagant, and careless."

Careful planning, with the outside limit of comfort and usefulness as the ideal in the buying, was stressed, one member telling of her plan of using a small note book in which she entered things to be considered on each shopping trip, with the particular requirements of each member of the family as to size of shoes, hose, dresses, shirts, etc., written on separate pages under the name of the one who 'fitted' the items noted. This was stated to be aid in picking up bargains as there was no delay in thinking up sizes, or indeed colors of individual preference. Perhaps the rooms of the home could be listed in this manner also, with sizes of floors and windows, as an aid when bargain prices made buying an economy, even if the articles secured were kept over until housecleaning time "when we all want a bit of something fresh in our rooms, or we feel as if we had not really cleaned at all."

A few pages reserved for suitable gifts for the several members of one's family, and for friends and relatives, was another suggestion from the "note-book member," birthdays and Christmas being occasions when we are all glad to have preparation made in good time. If often happens that someone to whom we give rememberances at these particular seasons mentions something much desired, and if this is noted and thus kept in mind, an opportunity for purchase may present itself and "presto, we are all ready beforehand, with worry a minus quantity when the right day, or time of year, arrives."

Writing down things of which a shortage is noticed is an excellent help for one may go to the telephone to give an order, and without the written reminder, fail to mention the very article especially needed. Similarly such a list is an absolute necessity before going shopping, then groceries, hardware, or some clothing item will not be lacking when the demand arises and that awful bugbear, "I forgot," will not have to be mentioned in the family conclave when the shopping tour has been completed."

Naturally the matter of the proper kind and size of handbags for shopping came up during the discussion, with a number exhibited as the members told of individual expedients along this line of important adjuncts to "a trip to town," or "downtown," as the case might be.

Samuel Cohen, checker champion of Great Britain, recently broke, at Tottenham, England, the world's record for simultaneous checkers, by playing 106 games in four and one-half hours, thus taking the honors from an American.

MUCH BUSINESS AT MILLBROOK MEETING

Correspondence Read at Weekly Meeting of Wide-Awakes C.G.I.T. Group.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 7. (Examiner Correspondence)—A number of business items received attention at the weekly meeting of the Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group, held at the leader's home on Wednesday at 7.30 p.m., the president, Miss Marian O'Brian, occupying the chair.

The regular meetings of the group have been interrupted lately owing to practices and other work being taken up, but it is hoped now to carry on faithfully until the end of May when school examinations make it obligatory to close for the summer months.

A letter from a correspondent in Peterborough asking the girls to repeat their pageant, "World Fellowship" next month was left over for consideration when a larger number of the girls may be together, probably after the school session on Sunday afternoon.

The matter of purchasing a Union Jack to be the property of the group, and matching in size the Christian flag already possessed, was left in the hands of a committee, including the president, Misses Phyllis Kidd, Bernice Thornton, and Francis Jones. The group hopes to use the salute to the two flags as the part of its opening ritual at each regular meeting, with verses of appropriate songs in connection with each pledge of loyalty.

On motion it was decided to place all the members' names in a hat, let the president or vice-president draw one at each meeting, the girl so chosen to give the current event of each week. A new member, Irene Carveth, who was welcomed on Wednesday evening, was drawn for next week's current item.

The matter of a consecutive missionary study was brought up by the leader, definite action being postponed for the present. Next week's meeting will be on Wednesday evening at the church, when the second lesson in the First Aid course will be given by the instructor, W. Theobald.

A scripture lesson read alternately followed the opening ritual of the devotional period, the consecration hymn, "Just as I Am, Thine Own to Be" being sung, after which the leader gave a talk on the gospel of Luke, which the girls have taken for their daily reading during Lent.

A social hour was enjoyed at the close.

"Opening the Gates of To-morrow" was the subject of a paper given by Mrs. R. Patterson. A piano duet was given by M. Walt and D. Joblin and Mrs. T. Tulloch conducted a contest.

CATTLE, GRAIN, PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, March 7 — Improved prospects for domestic winter crops led to increased selling yesterday by houses with connections south-west, and dragged down both wheat and corn. Bearish weather conditions on wheat were the opposite on corn, but in the face of wheat setbacks corn failed to maintain independent strength. Smallness of export clearances of North American wheat and big primary receipts in this country and Canada tended to stimulate the selling.

Wheat closed irregular at ¾c decline to ¼c advance; corn, ¾c off to ¼c up; oats, a shade to ¼c higher, and provisions showing 10c to 20c gain.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 7 — A reduction of 1c a pound in the prices of butter was the only change on yesterday's dairy and produce markets, other commodities remaining steady. Butter solids were selling at 33c to 34c a pound and prints at 34c to 35c. Carlot quotations were 31½c to 31¾c, all quotations for No. 1 finest.

The egg market was steady, with receipts slightly heavier, while light arrivals of cheese failed to produce much trading.

The potato market continued to hold firm at the week's advance. New Brunswick Green Mountains in carlots selling at 85c for 90 pounds and 95c per 80 pounds for small lots. It was understood that New Brunswick shippers would resume shipments to the local markets next week.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, March 7. — Wheat prices fluctuated within a narrow range on the wheat market here yesterday and prices at the close were unchanged to ¼c lower for the day.

Opening with a steady feeling, the market rose gradually ¾c on scattered purchases, chiefly by traders with seaboard connections. Prices eased off, however, in the closing hour.

Overnight export business was estimated at between 500,000 and 700,000 bushels.

Volume of trading was moderate, with offerings coming chiefly from Chicago.

Cash wheat trading was limited at practically unchanged spreads. Coarse grains were dull, with prices following the trend of wheat for the most part.

CHAUTAUQUA FOR CAMPBELLFORD

Committee Formed and Arrangements Made to Present Programs on March 27, 28, 30 and 31.

CHILDREN'S ADMISSION.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. (Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Preparing for the annual visit of the Winter Chautauqua which will be staged in Campbellford on March 27, 28 30 and 31, the local committee met last evening in the Public Library to meet the advance agent, Miss Jean MacKechnie of Edmonton, Alta., and to make arrangements for the coming events.

With G. A. Kingston in the chair, officers and committees for the year were appointed, which resulted as follows: Secretary treasurer, J. J. Lewis Hay; Advertising committee, H. M. Donald, J. S. Dickson, E. H. Lewis and G. A. Kingston; hall and property committee, W. J. Abernethy, A. D. Bennett and F. R. Dennis. Reserved seat tickets will be handled by J. Ernest Birk.

It was decided that the plan for reserved seats should be opened on March 24. All tickets will be interchangeable in the family only.

Public and High school pupils will gain admission by a children's ticket the age limit for all others not going to school being sixteen.

Of the program itself, there would be four evening and two afternoon entertainments. The first day starred a brilliant comedy by the Peerless Players, "Turn to the Right" a production with a shade of the dramatic and gripping human interest. On the second day the Lowell Platton artists would be featured both afternoon and evening. This trio consists of Lowell Patton the eminent pianist and composer, Fenwick Newell, the world known Canadian tenor and Gloria Robinson, a delightful English singer.

On the afternoon of the third day is a gala entertainment consisting of the Elias Tamburitza Serenaders, a family group that perform in costume and come from Croatia of Jugo-Slavia, bringing with them the music of their country combined with the standard, popular and classical numbers so dear to the hearts of English speaking people. In the evening this quartette will give the prelude to the lecture, "By the Peaceful Pastures of Palestine", a story ably told by the young Athenian Julius Saesar Nayphe, who draws some wonderful word pictures of the East in a thrilling and entertaining manner. Concluding the program on the last evening was the production of the farce, "The Whole Town's Talking" played by the Canadian Players, a sketch that is screamingly funny and a fitting climax to the four day feature.

At the conclusion of the meeting it was decided that the Campbellford committee should hold another meeting on Monday, March 16, at 7.30 p.m. in the Public Library.

LEGION SEEKS NEW MEMBERS

Campbellford Branch Joins in Effort to Add 10,000 Throughout Ontario.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—During the month of April the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L. in Ontario will make Provincial-wide drive to add 10,000 new members to its strength. The Campbellford Branch No. 103 is taking an active part in this drive, and at an executive meeting held Thursday evening in the Armouries, Campbellford, made arrangements to carry out this campaign next month.

This work will cover the whole district over which the local branch spreads. A census committee comprising C. Holmes and E. Armstrong has been appointed to take the census of all ex-service men, in the district and town, who will be canvased for membership. In Campbellford itself the system will be to handle the town by wards. A team has been appointed for each of these divisions and will work along prescribed lines for the swelling of the membership of the local branch.

These teams consists of Ward 1, T. Dutton; Ward 2, G. A. Ironside; Ward 3, Rev. N. Clark Wallace; Ward 4, Andrew Clark.

First Step

The Ontario Membership Campaign in April is the first step in Ontario toward that larger unity among ex-service men for which the late Field Marshal Earl Haig worked so ardently, the result of which was the consolidation of all veteran units in the Empire under the banner of the British Empire Service League. It is estimated that the strength of the Legion should be eventually three times its present number, and with this in view the drive is being made.

Officers of the Campbellford Branch point out that the service work of the Legion has been given freely to all veterans without distinction of membership. The same applies to all legislative benefits obtained by the local branch. It is, therefore, felt that the responsibility should be more evenly borne by ex-service men, and to this end the April drive is being staged, to increase the active membership of the branch.

The regular meeting on March 9 will be held at Warkworth, at which the special speaker will be the Rev. Dr. Edwin Smith, M.A., Ph.D., F.R.A.S., of Warkworth.

PROJECTS OUTLINED TO ENCOURAGE CLUBS

Communications Read at Meeting of Havelock Junior Agricultural Society.

HAVELOCK, March 7. (Examiner Correspondence).—The regular meeting of the Havelock Junior Agricultural Society, was held in the Orange Hall, Wednesday evening, when there was a good turncut of the members. The President Mr. Isaac Anderson, occupied the chair. Two communications were read, one from the Department of Agriculture at Toronto, advising the members of some changes recently made in awards for competitions of various clubs. This letter said that the members were unanimous in feeling that the various Profit Competitions had outgrown their usefulness. They also felt club work for boys and girls between the ages of twelve and twenty should be given more encouragement. The following projects have been outlined and approved by the committee:

Calf Club, Swine Club, Grain Club, Jotato Club, Home Garden Club, Poultry Club, Home Garden and Canning Club policy.

"All these projects are drawn up especially for that group of young people between the ages of twelve and twenty years of age. In counties where one or more of these projects are undertaken, it is just possible that in so far as the boys are concerned that some of the trips to the Royal Winter Fair may be awarded as championship prizes. In the regulations governing some of the projects, provision is also made whereby similar projects can be carried on with young men between the ages of 21 and 26 years. In such cases the championship prizes will be free two weeks' short courses at the Ontario Agricultural College or Kemptville Agricultural School. For the first two projects listed, namely calf clubs and swine clubs, the Ontario and Federal Live Stock branches each offer to pay one-third of the prize money providing the other third is raised locally. For this year at least, only a limited number of such clubs may be formed. Applications to form these clubs must first have the approval of the Agricultural Representative Branch. When they have been approved by the department copies will be forwarded to your secretary."

J. B. Nelson of the Department from Peterborough, addressed the meeting and suggested that the best clubs for this branch to consider would be the home garden, as a number of the members were residing in the village and the space required for a garden of this kind is very small. The swine club has already been formed in Warsaw in connection with the newly-formed junior branch there. Any boys who are above the age limit here can act as leaders and coaches, and be eligible for a trip to Kemptville School. Boys living in the village could compete for the cash prizes but could not qualify for a trip to the Royal Winter Fair, as these trips are prizes only for members residing in the township.

He suggested that a brief outline of the object for which the society had been formed, might be in order, since those who joined in the first place had in some instances gone away, and there were a number of new members. He suggested that they take an objective, and then proceed to put it across, and carry it through to a successful finish. The boys were disposed to leave the matter for a committee to decide, but Mr. Nelson said there was no time like the present and urged them to decide at once.

On motion by J. R. Bedford and Donald Buchanan, it was decided to form a Home Garden Club, and to try for a membership in this club of twenty-five members, and thereby be eligible for two trips to the Fair. This motion was carried unanimously. Fifteen members signified their intention of entering the competition at once. The members who will act as coaches and leaders are: Isaac Anderson, Hugh Buchanan, Austin Wilde, Carmen McMillan, Clifford Bonner and Alec Keene. The business of the meeting being concluded, the boys joined the Junior Institute for a social time, when a lunch was served, and an hour's dancing was enjoyed.

"Clubs and lodges" prove we are social beings. Drinking tea together is a most friendly social custom.

MINING INDUSTRY ADVANCING FAST

Canada Taken the Lead in Many Phases Members of Institute Are Told.

DIVIDENDS INCREASE.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 7 (C.P.). —Canada has taken the lead in many phases of the mining industry and has become pre-eminent the world over, declared Robert E. Tally, president of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgy Engineers in addressing the Canadian Institute here last night. He characterized the development of the International Nickel Company as the "greatest mining accomplishment of the century," and said its present state of world-wide influence stood as a monument to Canadian endeavor and enterprise.

Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines for Canada, told the Institute convention that the mining industry in Canada was now second only to agriculture in national importance. It provided the money with which to develop the country industrially.

"During the last twelve months," Mr. Gordon continued, "without forced expansion or hysteria, the mining industry has produced in Canada $315,000,000 of new money. Working men in that industry were paid $120,000,000 in wages and $53,000,000 in dividends were earned. That is a record of which any industry may be proud, and it is greater than any other if the mining industry is taken as a unit."

TWO ARRESTED FOR GAS THEFTS

Gasoline Pumps at Madoc, Bonarlaw and Marmora Have Have Been Tapped.

RESIDENTS OF RAWDON.

STIRLING, March 7 (Examiner Correspondence).—Something in the nature of a mild sensation has been occasioned here by the arrest of two brothers, for alleged complicity in a series of recent thefts from gasoline pumps throughout the immediate district.

The two young men, Stewart Ray, 19, and Murney Ray, 17, who reside on the 8th line of Rawdon, are sons of a highly respected family.

Gasoline pumps at Madoc, Bonarlaw and Marmora have been tapped on several occasions for some time past. The arrests were made by Provincial Constable Grey of Marmora.

When You OVER—INDULGE

EVERY man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for your indiscretions. It's folly to do so when you can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for indigestion, nausea, heartburn, gas, sour stomach and headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years.

Insist on genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; a less perfect product may not act the same. The genuine is always a liquid—never in tablet form—and the name Phillips' is always on bottle and wrapper.

Announcement of the Freshman honor list of Oberlin College, Ohio, one of Oberlin's most important scholastic events, was made by President Wilkins on Wednesday of this week. Miss Barbara Ann Foster of 510 Gilmour street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Foster, who is attending Oberlin College, was named as one of the thirty-six students representing the "highest tenth" scholastically among the three hundred and forty-two members of Oberlin's Freshman class. Miss Foster is a graduate of the Collegiate Institute here. First place on the Oberlin Honor list was won by Richard Current of Colorado Springs, Colorado, and second place by Miss Alice Woods of Chicago. To make the Freshman Honor list is a real distinction at Oberlin, and the excitement attending its announcement is second only to the excitement attending the reading of the Phi Beta Kappa elections later in the spring.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WATER NOT ALWAYS BENEFICIAL

One of the good habits man has developed the past few years, is the drinking of one to four or six glasses of water daily.

As you know, the tissues of the body the tiny cells, not only are made up mostly of water, but need plenty of water in and about them if they are to do their work properly. These little cells have been likened to little fish with water all about them.

Water is needed for the blood and for all the digestive and other juices of the body.

Water dissolves materials that might otherwise be harmful in the body.

It is the great heat regulator of the body enabling it to get rid of its internal heat by way of the prespiration.

However, just like other good things in life, it is possible for some individuals to do themselves harm by drinking too much water.

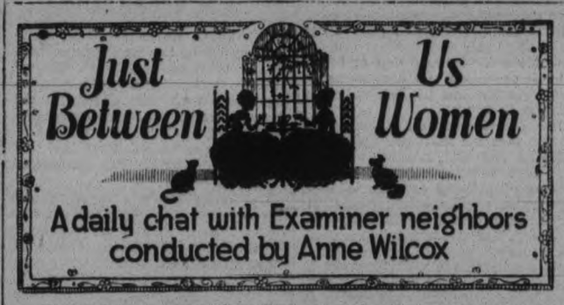
One type who may drink too much water is the overweight individual. His tissues have the power or tendency to hold more water than the tissues in other people, and if he drinks his four to six glasses a day besides his water, tea, coffee, or other liquids with his meals, then his tissues will be overburdened with water and he will become sluggish or water logged.

So most, not all of course, overweight individuals should drink liquids when they feel the need but should drink but a small quantity at a time.

Another type of individual who should not drink too much water at one time is the one who has a stomach that hangs ow in the abdomen. This type of stomach is usually weak in muscular power, and takes a long time to get food (digested in the stomach) pushed out into small intestine.

It has to push it upward. Thus if this type of individual takes much water with his meals, the food is not going to get churned up as well and will be a long time in the stomach before getting pushled into intestine. A normal stomach, not hanging low, will get rid of a meal in two hours that would require five to six hours in a low hanging stomach.

So be careful about drinking water. It is of real benefit to most of us, but overweight folk, and those with low hanging stomachs would be wise to drink but small quantities at any time and very little, if any, with meals.



A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

To-day I have chosen the subject of pewter for our discussion and I am hoping that it will be of some interest to you homemakers.

• • • • • •

The present vogue for pewter, as you know, plays well into the hands of the homemaker of average means. The metal is of ancient lineage, dating back to 1074 A.D.

• • • • • •

It must have been made some years earlier for this mention of the metal is in connection with pewter being permitted used instead of gold for vessels in the church of Rouen.

• • • • • •

This metal held such an important place in England that a Pewterer's Company was formed with strict regulations about alloys.

• • • • • •

Pewter is not a precious metal and it holds much the same relation to these metals that semi-precious stones do to precious stones.

• • • • • •

In the case of these two, pewter and semi-precious stones, you will find they are each valued because of their beauty apart from their intrinsic worth.

• • • • • •

Pewter should not be confused with silver, although modern pewter with its percentage of antimony is made to resemble silver in a dull finish.

• • • • • •

Pewter is itself an alloy made up of various metals of which tin is the chief component. At first lead was the sole alloy and later on and at different stages in its manufacture, other alloys were used as well.

• • • • • •

There are numerous grades of pewter but whatever the quality it has always been cherished because of its fine and peculiar color. Antique and ultra-modern pewter differ decidedly in tone which is in part due to age, but equally due to the alloys used with the tin.

• • • • • •

Pewter is used at the present time in connection with the period of decoration which stresses peasant and early American furnishing.

• • • • • •

Antique pewter is for collectors. Modern pewter is for everyday home use. It is at its best in reproductions of old-time pieces and should be valued for its own good traits and not as a substitute for silver.

MINSTREL SHOW IS HUGE SUCCESS

Popular Program Presented Under Auspices of Mark Street Church Bible Class.

CAPABLE CAST.

The Georgian Minstrels played to a full house last night in Mark Street Sunday School Hall. And the crowd seemed to enjoy the show immensely. Gales of unrestrained laughter swept the audience time and again, while the vocal numbers and musical selections drew many encores.

The show was put on under the auspices of the U. B. One Bible Class, Mark Street Church, under the direction of Delbert Lucas and Homer Lundy, and their efforts resulted in a fine evening's entertainment. Del. Lucas made an ideal interlocutor. His clever acting, clear voice, and lively personality helped considerably to put the show over so well.

The stage was decorated simply and effectively with purple and orange chair coverings, and yellow and white wall colors. The girls in the chorus were attired in white with red ribbons and tams. Of course the end men had their own styles, some wearing stove-pipe hats of incredible height, others derbys, and one with a straw lid. They all had white trousers and swallow-tailed coats, some of which just fitted where they touched. The short Homer Lundy, bespectacled and bewildered darky, was a scream; and long, lean Byers Smith, the obstinate coon literally knocked them out of their seats when he would suddenly let a bull roar out. The other dusky ones, too, drew plenty of hilarious laughter with their unexpected wisecracks, with Ray Jones rolling his orbs like a pair of dice.

The soloists all sang their modern, tuneful songs in lively style and got plenty of hearty applause. Little Dorothy Cunningham gave a violin selection. Miss Phyllis Rome was a popular singer with the audience, singing several pieces in a clear, sweet voice. P. Mosley got a big hand when he played on the piano and sang a couple of comic songs during intermission.

The personnel of the case included: Interlocutor, Del. Lucas; end men, Homer Lundy, Frank Lundy, Byers Smith, George Weir, Ray Jones, and Mark Collins. The orchestra consisted of P. Mosley at the piano, Kenneth Gadd on the violin, and Bob Beach on the drums. Miss Phyllis Rome, John Hodson, and Kenneth Gadd were the soloists, besides, of course, the end men. The chorus included the Misses Vera Ivey, Gladys McMann, Hazel Barry, Beatrice Curtis, Florence Lindsey, Hannah Clarke, Edith Hodson, Gladys Peryer, Berniece Jones, Louise Thompson, Helen Lucas, and Mrs. Mary Francis.

The opening chorus sung by the ensemble was "Happy Days," followed by "Cheer Up." Mark Collins sang "Here Comes the Sun," and Frank Lundy favored with "My Baby Just Cares for Me." Then Miss Phyllis Rome sang "When the Great Red Dawn is Shining." Byers Smith gave a very humorous outline of the day's news from a paper, and George Weir followed with "Betty Co-ed." John Hodson began a recitation about the Yukon, but had to desist because of persistent questions fired at him by Homer Lundy. So he sang instead, in a fine powerful voice "To Have, to Hold, and to Love." Ray Jones entertained with his number "I Miss the Little Miss That Misses Me in Tennessee," and was followed by Homer Lundy with "Sweet Jenny Lee." The minstrel finale was "Singing in the Rain."

Clever Soloists.

Opening the oleo, little Dorothy Cunningham, a medallist at last year's Kiwanis Exhibition, played a beautiful violin selection. Stanley Willis drew tremendous applause with his tenor's version of "I Hear You Calling Me." Kenneth Gadd entertained with a violin selection. Miss Gwen Parnell recited a funny sketch abouta Jewish Wedding, and she put it over in fine style. P. Mosley was popular in his piano numbers. Miss Phyllis Rome returned to sing "Love Is a Merchant." The grand finale was a lively "Give Yourself a Pat on the Back."

A one-act sketch called "The Forgetful Doctor,' followed the oleo. Del. Lucas acted as Dr. Doolittle. Frank Lundy was the poor patient, Homer Lundy acted as the visitor from Downer's Corner, and Mrs. Frank Lundy made a competent nurse. It was a screamingly funny skit, beginning with a gruesome operation and ending with the promise of another one when the doctor feared he had left his umbrella inside the patient. It was a fitting climax to the night's entertainment.

The show was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem, and most of the audience was still laughing as they went out.

Members of the cast remained for a lunch after the show, and credit was passed around generously to all, with the directors, Homer Lundy and Del. Lucas deservedly receiving plenty of praise for their successful work.

Italy's 1930 wheat crop was about 1,100,000 less than the record production of 1929.

MURRAY STREET YOUNG PEOPLE PRESENT PLAY

The Girl Who Forgot is Well Presented by the B.Y.P.U.

PARTS WELL TAKEN.

Villainy, plot and counter-plot, with the final overthrow of the powers of evil, mark a Comedy-Drama entitled "The Girl Who Forgot" presented last evening by the B.Y.P.U. of Murray Street Baptist Church. The play was not so much a study of character as it was a drama full of verve and energy, the conflict a two independent plots. As Satan cannot be divided in itself, the lesser villains finally returned to the right path and the greater were brought to justice.

Thus the presentation was one wherein lots were gradually unfolded, set to the test, and in true comedy fashion foiled in the end. The play opens in the peaceful living room of David Baird's summer home on a June afternoon. With the appearance of the characters, a suspicious attitude at once beclouds the atmosphere. All of the trouble centers around little Pearl Dawn, a rich heiress and protegee of Baird. Jason, the butler, is in great need of money and to undertake the stealing of the heiress' pearls he enlists the services of Rose May, who in the time of need had been befriended by the butler's wife. Gile Elton, physician and foster brother to Pearl, and his sister Judy also take advantage of their prestige to the furthering of the nefarious designs. However, in the latter plot the doctor has the advantage, as he administers drugs to the orphan girl which keeps her in a condition of blindness.

It is upon the sweet nature of Pearl and her deep attatchment for her "Rose" that the crisis and outcome of the play depends. For this reason Rose May abandons all thoughts of evil, and even though she learned the combination of the safe wherein were the valuable jewels she refrains from falling prey to temptation. In the meantime, she also administers Pearl's "medicine" throwing out the doctor's preparation, and substituting water. Her actions are detected by Jason and Gustavus Svenson, a gardener alias a detective.

To save her friend Jason from stealing the pearls, Rose removes them, but is caught by Baird in the act of putting them back later. This forces the butler to a confession, his wife was dying and he needed money, Rose, a great friend of his wife's, had a hatred for the district attorney, Baird, who convicted her father so that he later suicided, and thus she had a motive in wishing to take revenge, therefore the two formulated a plot but Pearl's attachment for Rose had altered circumstances. The finger of suspicion is then pointed towards the Eltons, and it is finally discovered that they had been in the blackest plot. So whereas the first two culprits were forgiven, for after all they had accomplished nothing bad, the Eltons were taken into custody by Gustavus Svenson who had been picking up clues and putting them together.

In the meantime there is minor plot in the play for dramatic relief. Linda Gray, a young flirt, frolics about with Albans Creston, Baird's secretary, and has also an eye for the attorney himself. Svenson conquers the heart of Greeta, Baird's Swedish housekeeper.

The drama ends victoriously. As a result of Rose's vigilance, Pearl regains her sight. She brings her guardian and her benefactor together, and removing a ring from Baird's finger and standing on a chair behind them, playfully pronounces them "man and wife." Svenson and Greeta, and Creston and Linda are however pledged impromptu.

Ruth Ellis played the part of Pearl Dawn, and did so convincingly. Her pure and simple nature won the hearts of all, and it seemed quite natural that she should win the devotion of Rose. The eyes of her mind took the place of her natural eyes, and so she suffered patiently from her affliction. Her love of the beautiful, and longing to view the forms of creation arouse sympathy, and her final restoration of sight comes as a well merited reward. This beautiful, yet extremely difficult character was well portrayed in every detail.

The role of David Baird was well taken by Harry Lord. The matter-of-fact attorney, the loving guardian, the silent worker, were all characterized in him.

Rose May, introduced as a sufferer from amnesia, was portrayed by Florence Lazemby. She is "blown in by the Storm" into the life of the little orphan—the storm is her evil intent, and her name becomes the center of Pearl's life. Her sweet nature and staunch friendship are phases of character particularly well brought out by the actor.

Walter Cocks did well in his version of the type of plotting butler who nevertheless has an undercurrent of goodness engrained within him. As a servant he is faithful; as a plotter he is consistent; as a loser he is a good sport, and forgiveness is the only just reward that could have been expected. Jason was made an important character by the personal touch of the player.

The real villain of the play, Giles Elton, was ably portrayed by Fred Ward. His criminal and cold-blooded designs on an innocent girl for personal gain were characteristics which required difficult acting. His partner in crime, Judy, was taken by Elsie Bertrand, who also did very well.

Linda Gray (Faith briggs) was convincingly a desperate young flirt, whose childish language provoked ripples of mirth throughout the comedy. Her lover, Albans Creston (James Mann), was a stolid young man who attempted to overrule his friend with his definiteness.

As a Swedish housekeeper, Dorothy Irons player her part very well. With a mind of her own and long years of service to her credit, she was able to maintain the respect of the Baird household. Her friend, Gustavus Svenson (George McNabb) fitted satisfactorily into his double role of gardener and detective, although he was a "better looking man as a detective."

The play was directed by G. W. Fitzgerald. The property managers were Genevieve Foster and Margaret McClellan, and the stage manager Stanley Peryer. To the efforts of these goes much credit for the success of the annual production of the B.Y.P.U.

To break all wheat production records of the country is the object of a movement just started in Italy.

Norwood Ousts Cogs From E. P. L. Running

Combines Win Out 3-0

E. P. L. Play-offs Likely Be Run Off Monday and Wednesday Nights of Next Week.

SHANNON LEADS BAD BOYS.

Norwood Stages Spectacular Advance Rising From Cellar to Play-off Position.

NORWOOD, March 7. — By defeating Cognawagas of Peterborough here last night 3-0, and winning the round by 3-1, Norwood gained a clear title to second position in the final standing of the regular schedule of the East Peterborough League, and earned the right to meet Lakefield in the play-offs for the championship and possession of the new cup which E. A. Peck, M.P., has donated to the league.

It was reported last night that these games will be played on Monday and Wednesday nights of next week, with the first game here, and it is understood that the winners will get a chance against the Trent Valley League champions. Madoc and Stirling are tied with one game each, and the deciding battle will take place in Belleville on Monday night. If the weather holds! The ice last night was hard and fast. It had been carefully groomed and polished, and the thermometer dropped low and fast enough yesterday to give it the degree of hardness both teams wanted, especially Alexander Kempt's team.

The victory over the Peterborough visitors was a big satisfaction to Mr. Kempt, who saw the possibilities of the Combines even when they were trailing at the bottom of the heap. Their climb out of the cellar without a loss in the second half of the schedule, except the first game of the play-offs with Cogs for second place, was easily the feature of the season's games in this new league.

Lacks Smoothness

Both teams are capable of better hockey than they played last night. The game lacked the smooth, concerted attacks which they have both shown during the season, and only one of the three goals was earned by smart passing. That was Norwood's third and last of the night, when Lynn Hill and McLaughlin engineered a fast passing combination on which Hill scored. Glenn Wright got his first one on a shot from the blue line. Foley stuck out his hand at it, but the puck had a lot of stuff behind it. The other was almost from the same distance, but well within the blue line. Wright got the rubber from a face-off, and passed back to Ware, who was all set for it. Foley couldn't reach it as it breezed by.

Norwood scored two goals in the first period, one in the second, and the last was a blank. Cogs shot four men up on the attack in the last period, and although they were only two goals down on the round with twenty minutes to go, they couldn't pick up even one of them. Behind them Foley blocked everything, especially three or four close in shots that seemed tagged for goals. Any of them looked far more dangerous and difficult than the two that had got by him in the first period.

Wright Leads Combines

Glenn Wright of Havelock was easily the best of the Combines. He was as fast as usual, his shots were usually bullet drives right on, and his poke check bothered the Cogs around centre ice all night. And on top of that he played a clean, cool game that kept him on the ice except when the subs gave him a rest. Wright is an ideal type of player, seldom peeved and rarely ruffled. Charlie Brennan and Ware on the wings worked hard and unselfishly, and McLaughlin turned in another good game.

As for the Cogs, they certainly didn't play the kind of game that recently put the C.G.E. out of the running. Their passes didn't click, and most of their individual rushes were smothered or shunted to the corners. Ted LeBarr was the pick of the team, frequently assisting the front line's efforts and also stepping into many of the Norwood attacks. Jarvis injected a lot of tabasco into the game when he was sent in. But something seemed lacking from the team as a whole, that was not explained by Norwood's back-checking.

The line-ups were as follows:

Norwood — Goal, Beavis; defence, Shannon and McLaughlin; centre, Wright; right wing, Ware; left wing, Brennan; subs., Hill, Jacks, Stevenson, and Voyer.

Referee—Max Board, Peterborough.

First period—

1—Norwood, Wright, 11 mins.

2—Norwood, Ware (Wright), 5 mins.

Second period—

3—Norwood, Hill (McLaughlin), 13 mins. 30 secs.

The Cogs had a real share of the game all the way through, even in the first period when two goals were hung up against them. Maudsley and Jones combined neatly, but Maudsley held his shot a moment too long, and was carried out of range. Little breaks against them like that dogged the Cogs all the way. At one stage Beavis flopper on the puck as he blocked it, and apparently reached behind him to toss it out. From conversations during intermission, the Cogs' management later demanded a new goal umpire, and on a somewhat similar play in the third frame, another substitute was demanded. "Pete" King was the third umpire to take up the station behind the Norwood net, and finished the game without any cause for objection.

Beavis and Shannon kept Dallin off the score sheet, and following these threats by the Cogs, Wright and Ware rang up the two Norwood goals, the first tieing the round, and the other putting the home team a margin of one.

In the second period Wright broke through the Cogs alone, and just as he was shooting the centre row of lights went out, casting a heavy shade over the net. Wright scored, but Max Board disalloyed the goal. A promising combination by LeBarr and Jones went astray in the Norwood territory. Finally, McLaughlin got away on one of his dashes and passed across to Hill for the last counter of the game.

THE GREATEST PLAYMAKER TO-DAY

It's not so long ago that Joe Primeau was whiping the hockey fans of Toronto's Industrial League into a chaos of excitement. This rather light centre was the object of conversation but when the news broke that he had turned professional with the Toronto Leafs, the wise guys threw up their hands in disgust and said that he could never stand the gaff. The first few years looked as though they were right for the road for Joe was hard and discouraging. However, after three years in the minor pro. loops he finally made the jump into the big tent. tA the time of going to press Joe holds 26 points for assists making him the greatest playmaker i nthe N.H.L. league with Frank Boucher close behind with 25. Some people still insist that the going will prove too hard for Joe. When Joe weighed in last October at the Maple Leafs training camp he weighed 147 and his weight taken in the middle of February was 165 lbs. which not only shows that he is standing the rough ride but is getting fat on it.

TUFFY GRIFFTHS EARNS $25,000

Sioux City Heavyweight Given Popular Decision Over King Levinsky.

SKILL AND SLUGGING.

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Ill., March 7.—Gerald Ambrose "Tuffy" Griffiths, the young Sioux City, Iowa, heavyweight, woke up today, no longer bothered by the threat of King Levinsky of the dynamite right hand—and worth $25,000 more than he was yesterday to boot.

Blending his boxing skill with enough slugging to keep the Kingfish's mightly right from doing too much damage, Griffiths last night pounded out a ten round decision before 15,066 highly excited-and pleased customers in the Chicago stadium. Levinsky, as usual was dangerous from one end of the fight to the other, but Griffiths' margin was pronounced enough to make the decision of the judges and referee popular. The Sioux City heavyweight was credited with six rounds, to one for Levinsky, with three even.

The unique financial arrangement failed to pay Levinsky, he had agreed to take 60 per cent of the net receipts, out of which he was to pay Griffiths $25,000. The gross was $53,464.41, which was reduced to less than $46,000 after state and federal taxes were deducted. Griffiths got his $25,000, leaving only about $2,600 or thereabout for Levinsky.

RANGERS CLASH WITH TORONTO OVER WEEK-END

New Yorkers Need Victory to Strengthen Lead Over Third Place Rivals the Falcons.

5 GAMES ON PROGRAM.

Maroons Favored to Garner Points By Taking Victory From Senators.

TORONTO, Ont., March 7 (By George Maguire, Canadian Press Sports Writer).—Canadian teams will play a prominent part in the National Hockey League program of five games this week-end. Only two of the matches are international affairs, but the United States teams in both cases are struggling hard to land in the money division, while their opponents are more or less in a safe position.

New York Rangers, holders of third place in the United States section by five points over Detroit Falcons, clash with the Toronto Maple Leafs at Arena Gardens.

While the Blue Shirts have a comfortable margin in points over the Detroiters they have played two more games, a factor that leaves the Motor Magnates with an even chance to reduce the gap to one point.

In the three previous struggles between the Leafs and Rangers, honors were divided. Toronto won at home, 4 to 2, then tied the next game in New York, but lost the second fixture there, 4 to 1.

The Duncanites hold a four-point margin over the third place Montreal Maroons and this, coupled with the fact they believed themselves the victims of peculiar decision in their recent visit to Manhattan, should just about prime them to their best effort, and indications point to a rousing contest.

Ottawa Senators visit Montreal in the other Saturday game on Canadian terrain. In their last outing on Thursday the Maroons served notice they are still strong contenders for a play-off berth when they beat Toronto to nose New York Americans out of third place. Victory to-night, coupled with a defeat for the Leafs, would leave the Munromen but two points behind their Queen City rivals and it will only require a repetition of their last game to bring the Maroons victory over the tail-enders.

PLA-MORS WIN EASILY.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Mar. 7.—(C.P.)—Kansas City PPla-Mors found the last place St. Louis Fliers just as easy as they were supposed to be here last night and won 6 to 3 without extending themselves. The win allowed Pla-Mors to keep pace with Tulsa Oilers, American League leaders.

TORONTO EASY WINNERS OVER GREY JUNIORS

Owen Sound Loses Second Game 10 to 2 and Round 11 to 5.

RUN WILD IN THIRD FRAME.

"Bunny" McKillop on Reds' Left Wing Scores Three Goals.

TORONTO, Mar. 7.—In one of the biggest upsets to occur in O.H.A. circles this season, West Toronto juniors inflicted a 10-to-2 beating on the Owen Sound Greys in their O.H.A. junior semi-final game at the Arena Gardens last night. The Greys, by virtue of their 3-to-1 triumph in Owen Sound, were expected to take the round or at least make it extremely close, but the West Toronto team displayed their best form of the season and, after gradually whittling down the Greys' lead in the early part of the second period, they went wild in the final session to count six times, while the visitors were held goalless.

At the start of the game the Greys unleashed a terrific offensive and to many it appeared they would be a hard team to beat, but when the Red Shirts overcame their margin they lost all their fight and looked a very ordinary team. On the other hand, the West Toronto team displayed their best form of the season. They were faster, played better combination and at the same time backchecked furiously, breaking up many dangerous rushes.

McKillop Outstanding

"Bunny" McKillop, the Reds' sterling left-winger, loomed up as the hero of the contest. He scored his team's first three goals and gave them the necessary fight to overcome the deficit. He travelled at top speed all the time, leading the locals on many dangerous rushes, while his back-checking was also very effective.

These Greys must be given some of the praise. They are a game little band of players and, not having played on the large ice surface before, were probably handicapped to a great extent. But they made a real battle of it for two periods. It is true that they left their goalkeeper with no protection in the final session, but it is all in the game, as they were determined to make a great effort to overcome the lead once the locals took it. They sent every man up the ice from about the last period on, and when the Red Shirts broke away it was an easy matter to outguess the goal-keeper, who was helpless.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, what with stories from the Southland of what Babe Ruth and other baseball slaves is doing in the spring training, the sport page makes kinda cheerful reading these days. No matter how much a bird loves hockey they comes a time each year when he longs for a game he can watch without no flu germs in the air and without having to put on a extra vest and wrap the dogs in a extra layer of wool to keep from freezing to death. And some of the hockey we got this winter, Mac, was scarcely worth the risk of getting pneumonia to look at, what I mean.

In the local sport arena, old-timer, the chief excitement, if any, has been dished out by the East Peterborough loop, which has narrowed down as this is wrote to the Lakefielders, the Havelock-Norwood-Marmora-Hastings-Port Hopers and the Cognawagas, and before this gets before the impatient customers one of the last 2 will have dropped overboard with a dull thud. The C.G.E. team put a hard battle to get into the final serious, but just didn't make it. The Electricians, as I call them, had to beat Lakefield in Ira Lennox's ice-box and then beat the Cogs twice in a row, which was a man's sized program. Mister Frank Barrie's lads did succeed in making Lakefield like it, and then tossed the Cogs for a total loss in the 1st game between the two, but the lads with the Indian name suffered for the final clash and just did manage to toss the C.G.E. into the ditch.

Wed. nite the Cogs tied into the Havelock combines, which arrived by covered wagon, with a nice following of leather-lunged rooters. When it was all over the homesters had piled up a lead of 1 goal, the only 1 of the game, and whether that's enough to carry them through into the finals with Lakefield the customers will know by the time they look over this. It was a tight enough fit, and if Mister Eddie Williams hadn't introduced a golf stroke at the right moment nobody would have scored.

In the O.H.A. doings, Mac, the end is in sight, and then'll come the Canadian play-offs. For the junior honors I'm naming the Niagara Falls selects, with the western winners likely to take them later on, and in the senior the Hamilton Tigers should oughta grab the serious from the Senior B, winners, and stop at that, for the Quebec representatives is going to be tough babies in the elimination serious. What's your guess, old-timer?

Well next week will see how near I come to the mark. Meanwhile, I'll be leaving ya.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Tony Canzoneri Falls Before Boston Fighter

BOSTON, Mass., March 7 (C.P.).—Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, left Boston to-day a sadder but wiser fighter. This gritty ruler of the 135-pound division, like several other confident titleholders during the past two years, braved the jinx that Boston puts on fistic champions, and departed suffering from the sting of a humiliating defeat at the gloves of a local ring favorite.

Canzoneri encountered rugged Sammy Fuller, Boston Italian, in the Boston Garden last night, and when the tenth and last round was over, Fuller, by his in-fighting, won six of the rounds and a clear-cut dicision. The bout, one of the best staged here in months, attracted 10,000 spectators, a banner crowd for Boston boxing these day.

DE SOTO
presents
A NEW SIX . . A NEW EIGHT

Value in a motor car has come to mean smooth, efficient performance, beauty of line and appointments, economy of operation and maintenance, and a high factor of safety—all combined at a moderate price. ¶ The new De Soto Six achieves better performance because of a larger and more powerful engine. Fuel economy is more pronounced than ever. Beauty is enhanced by a narrow-profile radiator, a longer hood and a completely re-designed Steel-weld body. Safety is increased by the new double-drop frame construction, which lowers the center of gravity. ¶ Best of all, these marked improvements are offered at the lowest price ever asked for a De Soto Six. ¶ The De Soto Straight Eight also has been improved in appearance and performance. The larger engine, developing 77 horsepower, assures smooth, vibrationless operation and increased speed. ¶ A slender-profile radiator and longer hood give the new Eight an appearance of rakish lowness. Improved spring design together with four hydraulic shock absorbers, provide exceptionally easy riding. The many other fine mechanical features of this car have been retained, and the Unisteel safety body is unchanged in structure, with improvements in appearance and fittings.

BULLDOGS GAIN SECOND PLACE

Take 5-2 Decision From Pittsburg While Tecumsehs Blank Olympics 2-0.

ROBINSON ADDS TO LEAD.

TORONTO, Ont., March 7.—(CP)—Both Canadian teams in the International hockey league improved their play-off positions in the standing last night. The second place Windsor Bulldogs defeated Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets, 5 to 2, while London Tecumsehs blanked Detroit Olympics, 2 to 0.

The Bulldog victory was registered as the result of a sparkling third period rally. The Yellow Jackets scored twice in the opening frame to secure what seemed a substantial lead. The Bulldogs cut it in half in the middle frame when Earl Robinson, league leading point scorer, tallied on a pass from Stan Brown.

At the half-way mark of the last session the Windsorites settled down in earnest and after Robinson had chalked up his second tally ran in three more to put the result beyond doubt. Paul Haynes, Frank Duncan and Robinson were the marksmen.

The victory enabled the border city squad to gain sole possession of second place, two points in the van of Cleveland.

Two unassisted goals by Reinikka in the opening frame proved sufficient to carry the Tecumsehs to victory over the Olympics. The latter displayed unusually good form despite their lowly position in the standing and it required a splendid exhibition of net-minding on the part of Herbie Stuart to keep them from the scoring summary and register his eleventh shut-out of the season. The win came at an opportune time for the Londoners as it placed them two points up on the Yellow Jackets who had previously shared fourth place.

London journeys to Buffalo tonight for a hard game with the league leaders and another triumph will just about clinch the dividend paying fourth rung. In the other game programmed Cleveland Indians entertain the tail-end Syracuse Stars and the latter will have to furnish a real upset to prevent the Indians from again tieing Windsor.

Only one match is scheduled Sunday. Buffalo and the Stars provide competition at Syracuse.

Cards And Athletics Open Series To-Day

MIAMI, Florida, Mar. 7.—(C.P.)—The world champion Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals, National League title holders, moved into town for the first two games of a three game revival of their world's series baseball rivalry.

The series featured the first big day's schedule of major league exhibition games.

The championship casts were intact for the most part, although two of the star performers, Al Simmons and Frankie Frisch, were missing. Fisch has not yet come to terms with the Cards. Simmons is doing his preliminary training at Hot Springs, Arkansas.

SENIOR SCHOOL GIRLS WIN FROM WESTCLOX 10-6

Close Decisions in Semi-finals of Ladies' Basketball Games.

PETES DOWN WOHELOS.

Careless Passing Offsets Good Brand of Combination in Senior Game.

The first games in the semi-finals of the P.L.B.A. were played last evening on the Y.W.C.A. floor. In the senior game the Senior School girls proved victors over the Westclox by a score of 10-6. This game was closely contested, resulting in a tie at full time. In the junior series the Blue Petes took the count from the luckless Wohelos by 5-1.

The senior game was fast and showed some real combination, but careless passing slowed up the game somewhat. At half-time the Westclox were leading by 4-0 as the result of two long shots, the first by S. Keown and the second from centre floor by L. Kingdon. Soon after half-time D. Allen opened the scoring for the school girls. This was followed in rapid succession by two foul shots and a basket, giving the senior school girls the lead. But T. Kingdon tallied again for the Westclox, tying the score and making necessary the overtime period. Neat passing in this period made it possible for the school girls to work down under their basket and score twice, the first by D. Allen and the second by H. Cole, making the final count 10-6. Helen Cole and D. Allen with 2 baskets each did the scoring for the Westclox, helped materially by their strong defence. L. Kingdon was once again the major scorer for the Westclox with 2 baskets.

Petes Down Wohelo 5-1.

In the first game of the junior finals the Blue Petes again broke into the win column by a 5-1 victory over Wohelo. This game was listless and the passing was careless, but the Blue Petes' combination was much superior to that of the Wohelo. Poor shooting kept down their score, however. Numerous fouls broke up the game, but little advantage was taken of them to score. The Wohelo gained their only point on a free shot by O. More, who played a good game at forward. M. Rogers was responsible for the Blue Petes' two baskets, and Jean Howson scored the extra point on a free shot.

The line-ups:

Senior School Girls — Forwards, H. Cole, J. Harvey, . Huffman, D. Allen, G. Burns; defence, O. Elcombe, R. Sutton, K. Laing; centres, D. Rogers and M. Brooks.

Westclox — Forwards, T. Kingdon, E. Bradley, B. Thirnbeck; defence, D. Webb, S. Keown, C. Mason. H. Joys, T. Haughton; centre, M. Mortimer

Blue Petes — Forwards, M. Roger, B. Scott; defence, J. Howson, K. Laing; centre, P. McClelland.

Wohelo — Forwards, O. More, F. Jaquith; defence, D. Lambert, M. Young; centre, J. Simpson.

Referees—K. Kingston and H. MacLeod.

NIAGARA NOSES OUT NATIONALS

Cataracts Advance Within Point of League Leading Guelph Leafs.

Terriers Beat Silverwoods.

TORONTO, Ont. Mar. 7.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Niagara Falls advanced to within a point of the leading Guelph Maple Leafs when they nosed out Stratford Nationa, 3 to 2, in a tightly contested Ontario Hockey League match last night. The Leafs kept a one point margin separating them from the Cataracts by defeating the last place Oshawa Pats, 5 to 1.

The third scheduled fixture went to 10 minutes' overtime before the Galt Terriers, nosed out Kitchener Silverwoods, 1 to 0. The victory enabled the Terriers to keep on the heels of the third place Nationals, while the Silverwoods slumped perilously near the bottom rung.

Bowling Alley Gossip

By Pin Boy

Good scores and close contests were the rule this week in the men's City League which operated on Thursday night. Joe Marsden lead-off man for the Rangers, in a brilliant display of heavy hitting turned in the feature score of the night, at the same time establishing a city high three record for league bowling by spilling 905 pins. The individual scores on a whole were down a little this week, although two other extra high triples went by the board. Fred Hickey smashed the pins for a triple of 846 and Tom Curvin made the other high total by collecting 819.

Failure by the Cognawaga Club to win everything from the Brinton Carpet team cost the clubmen first place in the team standing this week. The Cogs were tied with the Rangers with 14 points but the 3-1 decision for the Cogs against a 4-0 verdict for the Rangers puts the former in second position. W. Curtis for the second consecutive time came through with a timely 300 single to give the Carpet Makers a solitary point. George Williams, whose heavy hitting has put the Cogs right up near the top again led his teammates in scoring with a three game total of 761.

A 3-1 victory for the Western Clock Co. over the Night Hawks was sufficient to maintain the Clockmakers in fourth place. H. Baptie, H. Graham and T. Cupoli with scores over 600 gave the Westclox the win, but the heavy gunning of Vince Fitzgerald, Perry Kitchen and Steve Elliott in the second game for the Hawks made the winners step to win pinnage by only 2 pins.

The Lucky Strikes kept the Bowlrites down this week, taking a 3-1 argument to jump from seventh to fifth place. It is very apparent that at least three of the losing players are still in a slump which has dogged them for the last three weeks. Hickey's clever triple supported by Prindible and Firth with 670 and 607 tipped the beam in favor of the Strikers. "Shiner" Johnston contributed 772 pins for the Bowlrites which included a single of 303. S. Shaughnessy with 633 was the only other player who bowled up to form.

The Big Five slumped badly this week and as a result were easy meat for the Rangers who gathered in four points. Joe Marsden's overwhelming triple of 905 was actually the deciding factor as Tom Curvin spilled 819 for the Big Five and J. Naple was good with 694. Fred Jones with 617 was the only other bowler to top the 600 mark.

The Canadiens uncorked a heavy barrage this week to scatter 3279 pins and take four points from the Belmonts who were also quite high. Nels Routley topped the 700 mark again this week for the Canucks while all of his team-mates stayed in the 600 class. Tommy Holyman, Fred Scates and Dick Evans were high for the Belmonts.

Canadian Cyclists Withdraw From Race

Peden Hurt in Spill at Madison Square Garden Grind at Last Night.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., March 7.—(CP)—Canada's representation in the current six day bicycle race, the team of Torchy Peden and Lew Elder, was withdrawn shortly after midnight today. The Canadians had encountered many difficulties in the grind and a spill at midnight shook Peden up so badly that it was considered hopeless to continue. The Canadians were far behind the leaders at the time but had made a fair showing in points owing to their proficiency in the sprints.

Peden and Elder, latest combination to join the international troupe that journeys from New York to Chicago, for six day contests on indoor pine saucers, have not done any too well in recent appearances. They are fast and Peden, particularly, shows plenty of stamina. Experts consider they need plenty of experience yet to be able to compete with the crafty, veteran combinations that seize the right moments to steal laps on the field. The Canadians have come out worst in the furious jamming that follows a breakaway.

More than two-thirds of all those now engaged in industry in Luxemburg are iron and steel workers.

BASEBALL TEAMS IN SOUTH

BASEBALL PRO'S ARE GETTING READY

Four Teams Tie Lead For Bike Race Honors

NEW YORK, N.Y., Mar. 7.—(C.P.)—Entering the last day of the fiftieth International six-day bike race at Madison Square Garden, four teams were tied for first place to-day following the morning sprints.

They were the teams of De Nef and Charlier, Richli and Grimm, Letourier and Guimbrettiere, and Georgetti and Hill. One lap behind were McNamara and Beckman, and Linari and Brocardo.

Seventy laps were stolen last night, bringing the total thus far up to 603. The young Canadian team of Peden and Elder was withdrawn at midnight when they were trailing by nine laps.

MINING REPRESENTATIVE NEEDED

OTTAWA, Ont., March 7. (CP)—The Canadian mining industry should have a direct representative on the floor of Parliament, suggested Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Mines for Canada, addressing the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy here. There was no member of the industry in the House of Commons, Mr. Gordon said and he did not believe the second most important business in the country should be without direct Parliametary representation.

PETERBOROUGH

is helping to build the FORD

The Ford sold here, and in many other parts of the British Empire, is made almost entirely in Canada, of Canadian materials, and by Canadian workmen. Every purchaser of a Ford in any of these countries helps to pay for these Canadian materials, and the wages of these workmen.

Thus, in the Border Cities alone, purchases by the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, average over $7,000,000 yearly for materials and services, not including wages. Prominent among the cities represented is Peterborough, where Ford purchases last year totalled $116,676.00 for materials and supplies used in the manufacture of the Ford car, and during the past five years has reached a total of $582,859.00.

The people of Peterborough, its industries and its workmen, are benefiting directly from sales of the Ford, both in this immediate vicinity and in far-off parts of the world. As Ford sales increase, Ford purchases likewise become larger, with a growing power to benefit those who have had a part in producing these cars.

It is not, therefore, their loyalty to local products alone which makes people in this vicinity take a definite interest in the Ford. As purchasers of Ford cars, they know that part of the money thus invested is turned back into Peterborough industry, and that with the increased success of his car come growth and progress to local enterprise.

There is a Ford car for every need and purpose, at an unusually low price. In performance, comfort, safety, beauty and economy of operation, the Ford has made a record of outstanding achievement. Come in and see this car ....ride in it....drive it. Let us show you how little it will cost to own the type you want.

ART OF WOODCRAFT DISPLAYED BY VETERAN OF CAMPBELLFORD

Mr. H. Cubitt is Maker of Many Beautiful Pieces of Work.

WON MANY PRIZES.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent)

CAMPBELLFORD, March 7. — Woodcraft is an art in which very few people become really efficient, perhaps because of the patience and ability that is needed to accomplish perfect results. Along this line however, Mr. Harry Cubitt, of Campbellford, is a past master, having to his credit many beautiful pieces of wood craft done in many different designs comprising inlay, fretwork and wood carving.

One of his larger accomplishments was the making of a replica of the old Blackpool (England) Great Wheel, an amusement that was very popular for many years. This is a model two feet high and with the exception of the cages, which are made of hard wood, the remainder of the model is constructed from tea chests. This was made especially to advertise the Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion of which Mr. Cubitt is a member, and took approximately ten days to complete.

Especially interesting are two pieces of inlay work which were exhibited by request at the Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, as examples of the handicraft of ex-service men. These are in the form of two panels depicting British soldiers of the 1810 and 1836 periods. Four kinds of wood are used in these panels, African pollock, sycamore, mahogany and English satin wood. Both these works were first prize winners in the 1928 Campbellford and Seymour Agricultural Society's Fair.

Donated As Prizes

Many other articles of note are to be found among this collection, including fret work, picture frames, vases and watch stands. Many of these are still in Mr. Cubitt's possession while others have been donated by him as prizes to different worthy causes.

Mr. Cubitt is an Englishman, being born in Norwich, County Norfolk, forty three years ago and coming to this country in 1912 to work for the Weston Shoe Company at Campbellford where he is still employed. At the outbreak of the World War he conducted a class in First Aid in the Public Library, Campbellford, under the direction of the late Dr. Bonnycastle. Later, however, signing up with the 139 Regiment. He is an active member of the Campbellford Branch, No. 103 Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L.

One of Mr. Cubitt's chief activities is the Boy Scout movement. He is a member of the troop committee and an instructor in wood craft to the 1st Campbellford Troop, in which sphere of service he is doing a wonderful work teaching a practical subject that he himself is master of.

PRINCESS IS BORN AT ROYAL PALACE JAPAN REJOICES

Royal Baby is Fourth Daughter Borne By Empress Nagako.

LINE BEGAN IN 660 B.C.

Birth Leaves Emperor Still Without Male Heir to Succeed Him on Throne.

TOKYO, March 7 (A.P.).—The arrival of a new Princess at the Imperial Palace to-day caused all Japan to celebrate, and while her birth left the Emperor still without a male heir to succeed him on the throne, any feeling of disappointment among the people was well concealed.

The Royal baby was born at 12.02 p.m., and is the fourth daughter borne by Empress Nagako. Since only male descendants of the Japanese Emperors may occupy the throne, Prince Chichibu, younger brother of Emperor Hirohito, remains as the heir presumptive of the oldest unbroken royal line in the world. The line was established in 660 B.C., and Hirohito is the 124th Emperor.

One of the four daughters born to the royal couple, Princess Hisa, died in 1928, before she was six months old.

Rouse Loses All Hope Last Appeal Refused

LONDON, Eng., March 7. (C. P. Cable).—Rt. Hon. J. R. Clynes, Home Secretary, has refused a reprieve for Alfred Rouse, condemned to death for the murder of an unidentified man whose body was found in Rouse's blazing motorcar near Northampton.

The minister's decision marked the end of virtually the last hope of the condemned man, who had appealed to the Court of Criminal Appeal and had sought to take his appeal to the House of Lords.

Nearly $500,000 of government money was wasted in the Angat irrigation project inn the Philippines because of poor estimates of construction costs, according to the committee which has been investigating the bureau of public works.

THE SON OF TARZAN. No. 6 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

That evening, when their son did not appear for dinner Lady Greystoke again referred to the subject of Ajax the ape. "John," she said, "something MUST be done to discourage Jack's tendency toward anything that may excite the craving for the savage life which I fear he has inherited from you. You know that my constant fear is that our boy may have the call of the jungle in his blood, and then——". She could not voice her troubled thoughts.

Her husband laughed down upon her upturned face before he bent his head and kissed her. "Just because Jack wants to see Ajax is no sign he would wish to marry an ape," he said, adding, more seriously, "I have always believed you were mistaken in never permitting me to tell our boy anything concerning my early life. Had I told him of my experiences as Tarzan of the Apes, it would have been best, should the jungle lust ever claim him."

But Lady Greystock only shook her head as she always did when the subject was broached. Never could she bring herself to tell her son the story of Tarzan. What desires would arise in his young brain were he to know his father had been raised to manhood by a tribe of fierce anthropoid apes. In the meanwhile Jack was enjoying to the full the stolen pleasure of the music hall, arriving just as "Ajax THE MARVEL" began his act.

As the ape's antics progressed the boy's eyes went wider in wonder. On the stage the trainer had noted the handsome youth alone in a box. Now came the time for Ajax to go among the audience, pretending to look for a long lost relative. Tonight the trainer directed the ape's attention to the future Lord Greystoke. The shaggy powerful beast leaped with a spring to the youngster's side —and his other tricks were never done THAT night!

The car hustled along Hunter street into Ashburnham for a destination further east.

BILLY' FOUND ON STREET.

Dropped from a passing automobile a murderous looking billy' was picked up on George street this morning near the Y. M.C.A. and was handed over to City Police. The weapon is a crude, home-made affair constructed from a length of rubber piping doubled over at one end and bound with insulating tape to form a handle, while the business end has a large steel knob surmounting it. Owner may recover his property by applying to the Chief of Police.

MURRAY GIBBON GUEST SPEAKER AT MUSIC CLUB

Folk Songs is Subject of Most Interesting Discourse.

ILLUSTRATED BY SONGS.

Oldest Tune in English Music Was Written By Chaucer.

"A wild flower of song as opposed to the garden flower."
"A song created by the common people, distinct from the song of educated musicians."

These two definitions of folk song, by Cecil Sharp, one of the greatest authorities in his day on the subject, were quoted yesterday by J. Murray Gibbon, General Publicity Agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, in the course of his address on the subject of "Folk Song," given to the members and friends of the Women's Music Club, gathered, to the total of over a hundred and fifty people, in the hall of the Conservatory of Music, to hear a very interesting discourse on a fascinating subject.

Mr. Gibbon was an hour late, so his scheduled address did not commence until after five o'clock, but his audience sat patiently until his arrival, entertained in the meantime by vocal numbers given by Mrs. Ross Williamson, Miss Daisy Davidson, G. D. Carlisle and M. H. Park.

The address was illustrated throughout by songs, this musical background affording an opportunity to hear the compositions to which the speaker referred. Accompanists were Mrs. Agnes Logan Green and Miss Gwen Donley.

Recalling a fishing trip in Quebec in a Peterborough canoe, when the guide entertained him by singing folk songs, Mr. Gibbon went on to outline the various phases of his subject.

"The folk songs of the present probably had their origin in songs which came from France, three hundred years ago," said Mr. Gibbon. Up to the time when "O Canada" was published, "A la Claire Fontaine" was the national song of Quebec, and "Gay is the Rose" was another popular song of that province.

These two numbers were sung by a sextette composed of Mrs. T. H. Gillespie, Mrs. James Matthews, Mrs. A. Barton, Mrs. C. H. Crowe, Miss May Jory and Miss Margaret Dickson.

A medieval pastorale, characterized as one of the forms of folk song, which usually dealt with the lover of a shepherdess or a milkmaid, and his fair charmer, was illustrated by the Eriskay Lullaby, sung by Mrs. Williamson, while the cradle song, another form which the large families of Quebec kept alive, had an illustration in "Hushaby Baby," also sung by Mrs. Williamson. These two forms were also demonstrated in the French tongue by Madam Sifroy Goulet, who sang, "Hark, Who Will Guide Me Through the Wood," and "Santa Margherita."

The White Paternoster

"The oldest tune in English music," said Mr. Gibbon, "was written by Chaucer, and was called the "White Paternoster." Its words were "Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, bless the bed that I lie on." Companions of this were "Sing a Song of Sixpence" and "Luck Locket Lost Her Pocket." Around this last old English tune, written at the time of Oliver Cromwell, was written later the words of "Yankee Doodle." Miss Daisy Davidson sang these three songs.

Mr. Gibbon, speaking of perfect examples of folk song which were common both to the French and English tongues, referred to "Blow Away the Morning Dew," which was sung by G. D. Carlisle, and "Where Are You Going, My Pretty Maid" sung by Miss Daisy Davidson.

Then came the games and dancing songs, like "Here We Go 'Round the Mulberry Bush," which was kept alive by the dance, and "From Paris to St. Denis," both sung by Miss Bertha Hill, also the "Cornish Floral Dance," sung by Mr. Carlisle. This is always sung on the 8th of May in Cornwall, said Mr. Gibbon.

Another form of folk song is the carol, which was originally a dance song. St. Francis of Assisi was responsible for many of these carols. A quartette, composed of Miss Davidson, Miss Hill, Mr. Park and Mr. Carlisle, gave the "Noel Provencale," while a Czecho-Slovakian carol, "All to Bethlehem We Wander," was sung by Mr. Park.

Sea Songs

Another form of folk song, identified with the Maritime Provinces, was the chantey. When the first ships, the sailing vessels, came to Canada, all work aboard them was done to the accompaniment of the chantey. To illustrate this form, Mr. Park sang "Spanish Ladies," and Miss Hill sang "My Johnny Was a Shoemaker."

Illustrating folk songs composed in Canada was "All the Country 'Round," sung by the sextette, and "Vive la Canadienne," by Mr. Park.

The translations for these songs were made by Mr. Gibbon, who expressed himself as very appreciative of the excellent manner in which his address was illustrated.

Miss Clarry, president of the club, was in the chair, and presented to the speaker and to the assisting musicians the vote of thanks, which was voiced by Mrs. J. Forbes Allan.

Atheism Is Subject Of Rev. William Allan

Was the "famous" Varsity editorial on Atheists justified in the light of facts, or was it an exaggeration? Was it a tempest in a teapot or was there something bigger behind it? Rev. William Allan, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will take issue on this controversial topic, "Atheism," and will give an answer to the above questions in his evening sermon. It is anticipated that the topic will have widespread interest, in view of the recent furore occasioned by a Varsity editorial, and which resulted in the suspension of that student journal.

IN MEMORIAM

DUNFORD—In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. Alfred Dunford, who died March 8th, 1926.

Five sad and lonely years have passed
Since our great sorrow fell,
Still in our hearts we mourn the loss
Of one we loved so well.

Time has not changed our thought of you,
Sweet memories linger still;
Sweet is the word remembrance
As these few lines will show,
You will always be remembered
In the days that come and go.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you,
Life has never been the same.

The flowers we place upon your grave,
May wither and decay
But the love for her who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.

—Sadly missed by husband and children, Leah and Ida.

IN MEMORIAM.

ROOKE. — In loving memory of Frederick Charles Rooke, whose death occurred two years ago to-morrow, March 8th, 1929.

"Broken is the family circle,
Our dear one is passed away;
Passed from earth and earthly darkness
Into bright and perfect day;
But we all must cease to languish
O'er the grave of him we love,
Strive to be prepared to meet him
In the better world above."

Plucky Lass Leaps Only After Being Badly Burned in Effort to Save Others.

CARIBOU, Maine, Mar. 9. — Four children burned to death, it became known today when they were trapped in the blazing farm home of Robert Searles in Woodland, an outlying community northwest of here.

One Girl Escapes

The fifth child, Marjorie, 9, sleeping in an upper room, was awakened by the flames and attempted to arouse the others Failing in his, she jumped through a window to the snow below and walked in her bare feet one-half mile to a neighbor's home where the alarm was given She was severely burned on her arms and body before she escaped the blazing structure.

SUSPECT ELECTS TRIAL BY JUDGE

Witnesses Relate Incidents of Clifford's Capture After Cobourg Bank Hold-up.

CASE TO COME UP LATER.

COBOURG, Ont., March 9 (C.P.).— Charged with participation in the Dominion Bank hold-up here last month, Walter Clifford, 21-year-old Nova Scotian, elected trial by Judge when he appeared for preliminary hearing to-day. Clifford was ill when his two companions appeared in court last week, and received a remand until to-day.

To-day's hearing was a repetition of last week's procedure. James Forbes, teller at the bank, again related how the trio came into the bank demanding cash, the subsequent chase and capture of the youthful bandits. His evidence was corroborated by T. Smith, accountant.

Cecil Wilson, local garage owner, related how he caught Leslie Forbes at the point of his gun in a packing box.

George Rorabeck testified that he observed Clifford, the accused, running towards the Public School. He followed him into the basement, with Wilfred Throope close behind. They dragged Forbes out from a cubicle. There he was trying to hide. They searched him for a gun and found one.

Throope's evidence coincided with that of Rorabeck.

Clifford will be arraigned before Judge O'Connor at an early date.

Appointment of a commissioner to administer the Security Frauds Act will be made towards the close or after the present session of the Legislature it is understood at the Ontario Parliament Buildings. Arthur W. Rogers of the Attorney-General's Department who framed the Security Frauds Act is one of those mentioned for the position.

Gatineau Blamed For Power Cut Off

Trouble from the storm east of here caused the power in Peterborough to be cut off for fifteen minutes about 11 o'clock this morning, officials of the Utilities Department explained. The power from the Gatineau dropped off suddenly, causing low voltage in Peterborough.

The cutting off the power even for so short a time had a direct result upon residents throughout the district. Without power the big press in The Examiner plant, busy putting off the noon edition, stopped its roar. The delay caused the edition to miss the trains going East, and the residents of that district, despite every effort put forth by The Examiner, had to go without their daily paper.

EXPECT VERDICT IN NOGARET CASE EARLY TUESDAY

Lucien Gendron, K.C., Defense Counsel, Begins His Address to Jury.

PRISONER NOT CALLED.

Points to Strong Element of Doubt and Lack of Direct Evidence.

MONTREAL, Que., March 9. — Strong likelihood that Albert Nogaret, charged with the murder of seven-year-old Simone Caron, will learn his fate to-night or at the latest, to-morrow morning, prevailed to-day as Lucien Gendron, K.C., counsel for the defense, began his address to the jury. The defence rested its case to-day without calling Nogaret to the stand.

The strong element of doubt existing in the case and the lack of direct evidence linking Nogaret with the crime were invoked by the defence. The Crown had failed to prove beyond all doubt that the accused was connected with the child's murder, defence counsel argued.

None Knew Where Child Went

Although the child was accustomed to pass through the school-yard when going to a nearby candy store, there was nothing to show that on July 10, the date she disappeared, she had been in the school-yard, the lawyer pointed out. Nobody knew where she went when she left her father's home for the last time alive.

The crime was "a hideous one and only a maniac was capable of committing it," Mr. Gendron maintained. The killer had used a knife to deliver the fatal blows and at least two were given. The first blow was not mortal and would have caused the child to scream out, thus bringing members of the Academy staff to her rescue.

FUTURE OF THE DOMINION MAY LIE IN ARCTIC

Ven. Archdeacon Fleming Stresses the Possibilities Offered by Northland.

SPEAKS TO ROTARY.

New Railways Will Open Up Important Section of Country He Says.

That a great part of Canada's future will be involved in the development of the Canadian Arctic was the prediction made by Ven. Archdeacon Fleming, who has spent many years within the Arctic circle, in a most interesting and enthusiastic address to the members of the Peterborough Rotary Club at the weekly luncheon today. Pointing out that Canada could no longer claim to be the bread basket of the world.

"There are Argentine and Russia and perhaps in the future China," commented the speaker Archdeacon Fleming remarked that too much emphasis should not be placed on the importance to Canada of the grain business and offered as an encouraging feature for the future the possibilities offered by the far north. In this connection he drew attention to the completion of the Hudson Bay Railway, and the extension of the T. and N. O. Railway to James' Bay, which was expected to be finished next year and expressed his opinion that these railways would open up new and valuable sections of the country. The vast mineral possibilities in iron and copper in the Arctic region were sketched by Archdeacon Fleming who prophesied that present difficulties in regard to transportation would be overcome and a development that would mean much to such places as Peterborough would eventuate.

The speaker's reference to the Eskimos, among whom his work had largely fallen were full of interest. The Eskimos were a simple, primitive race, he remarked, undoubtedly of Mongolian origin and they were just emerging from primitive days, still wearing the skins of animals, using ancient weapons and despite the statements of one Arctic explorer eighty per cent of them were still living in snow huts. The intricacies of the Eskimo language and the native style of arithmetic were amusingly illustrated by the speaker.

The greatest draw-back to the north land was the isolation, he declared but man's invention was rapidly removing that barrier, the gyroscopic compass, the airplane and the radio transforming conditions in the Arctic, so far as navigation, transportation and communication were concerned.

Speaking of the Anglican mission work in the north, Archdeacon Flem-

Seventy-Five Men, Ten Teams and Four Trucks Removing Snow Off Streets

The city's unemployed came into their own to-day... Everyone who applied at the City Engineer's office this morning was handed a big shovel and told to go out and join the gangs which were toiling to remove some of the snow from the business district.

When roll-call was made this afternoon, it was found that 75 men had taken advantage of yesterday's storm to get on to the city's pay-roll. Ten teams and four trucks were also engaged in the big task of trying to open a way for traffic on the city's streets.

Among workers in offices and factories throughout the city were many aching backs and sore arm muscles. The city's yeomanry turned out 100 per cent. yesterday to clean the snow from private walks. Hundreds of tons of snow were diligently shovelled in the morning, and then in the afternoon house-owners renewed the job.

STORM GENERAL IN OLD ONTARIO WORST IN YEARS

Transportation Demoralized and Power and Telephone Services Disrupted.

THOUSANDS GIVEN WORK.

Storm Came From the West, Striking Western Ontario First.

TORONTO, March 9 C.P.(.). — Burdened under the strain of the season's heaviest snowfall, Ontario to-day began slowly to emerge from beneath a great blanket of soggy snow, only to find itself the target for a renewed attack by King Winter. A receding temperature and a rising wind promised at least a footing on the snow-buried ground, though a light falling snow threatened to add to the difficulties arising from Saturday night's and Sunday's sweeping storm.

Practically throughout the Province the storm went down on record as the most severe this winter, and in some places the worst in many years. Transportation in most centres was demoralized, power and telephone services were temporarily disrupted, cars by the hundred were hopelessly snowed in and ferry services between Windsor and Detroit for a while was impossible.

This morning thousands of workers aided by trucks, wagons, and cars were laboring to make the resumption of transportation possible in various sections, while giant snowplows and gangs of workmen strove to maintain railway schedules and keep open the most important highways. Though material damage was comparatively light, telephone and power companies were forced to rush crews to isolated locations where the wires and poles were torn down by the driving wind which accompanied the snowfall.

STRATFORD DISTRICT.

STRATFORD, Ont., March 9 C. (P.). — The storm which lashed its way across the province over the week-end hit Stratford and district with full force and to-day finds motor traffic partially crippled, train service affected to some extent, and snowplows both on the railways and highways making desperate attempts

Roads Are Blocked By Mud Avalanches

CHAMBERY, France, March 9. (AP).—The national road from Chambery to Aosta, Italy, was blocked to-day at several mountain points by avalanches of mud set loose by persistent rains and melting snow.

Near the village of Centron, three miles from Aime the road was buried for a half a mile under a slide of mud which in some places was ten feet thick. All travel on the road was interrupted.

OVALTINE ORDERS 10 TONS OF EGGS

Big Contracts Are Reported For Both Eggs and Milk By Peterborough Firms.

BOUGHT LOCALLY.

Preparations for the manufacture of Ovaltine in the new Peterborough plant of A. Wander Limited have reached the interesting stage at which arrangements have been made with the Canadian Packing Company and Silverwood's Limited respectively for supplies of eggs and milk.

The contract with the Canadian Packing Company is reported to be for ten tons of eggs which are to be of the best quality of the first grade. It is understood that this quantity is tentatively fixed for the begnning of operations and may possibly be increased if the new business from the Canadian factory requires an additional supply.

It is also reported that the Canadian Packing Company will make their purchase of eggs locally within a radius of fifteen miles. Their provisions department is already large and well established, and is in a position readily to assume the contract with a Wander, Limited.

Because of the large quantities of milk which Silverwood's Limited handle they are well equipped to meet the requirements of the manufacturers of Ovaltine. The order for milk, it is stated, is a flexible one, depending upon the company's needs. There may be days when none will be needed, and on others the required supply will reach a peak. Silverwood's can immediately adjust their operations to any variations of this kind by using the occasional surplus of milk in the manufacture of their own products.

A pleasing feature of these reports is the additional consumption of milk and eggs by A. Wander Limited, and the fact that the supplies will come from local producers, thereby furnishing a new and substantial market in this community.

New Trial Ordered By Divisional Court

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 9.—(C. P.) —A new trial was ordered by the First Divisional Court at Osgoode Hall in a judgment delivered to-day in the appeals of William Marcus and Samuel Richmond from long prison terms imposed when they were convicted of a serious offence against a young girl.

In announcing the decision, Chief Justice Sir William Mulock, stated that a new trial was ordered to enable the accused to be charged under Section 301 of the Criminal Code. Marcus who was sentenced to 15 years and Richmond to 10 years by Mr. Justice Raney appealed on the grounds that the indictment of the Grand Jury did not contain a count charging them under that section.

Because of the influenza epidemic all public institutions of Derry, Ireland were closed to the general public.

STRATHROY MAN SLAYS SICK WIFE TAKES OWN LIFE

Enacts Tragedy When He Could Bear to See Spouse Suffer No Longer.

DOUBLE FUNERAL ARRANGED

Police Discard Theory That Action Was Caused By Financial Worries.

STRATHROY, Ont., March 9. — Thomas Statham and his wife, whom he shot because he could not bear to watch her sufferings, will be buried side by side on a shady slope in Strathroy Cemetery.

A double funeral was being arranged for the two principals in one of the most profound tragedies that this little town has ever witnessed.

Statham, 53-year-old Arthur street machinist, put a single shot through his wifes' brain as she lay ill and unconscious in an upper bedroom of their home on Sunday afternoon.

Had $300 in Pockets

Then he turned the .32 revolver upon himself, shooting twice, and fell mortally wounded, to die less than four hours later in the hospital. The investigation into the cause of the dual tragedy has caused police to practically discard the theory that financial had led the middle-aged mechanic to murder his wife, then suicide. It was revealed to-day that $300 in cash was found in Statham's pockets and although it was known that he had recently suffered financial reverses, police were told that friends and relatives had gone to his assistance and that the family was in no dire need.

The actual motive for the shooting, High Constable A. J. Wharton theorizes, is that Statham used the gun to relieve her of her sufferings.

Greenhill Committed For Trial For Murder

TORONTO, Ont., Mar. 9.—(C.P.)— Ambrose D. Greenhill, who surrendered to local police last Monday following the shooting of Montague Jack Hamilton in the Reliance Engraving Company's plant was committed for trial on a charge of murder when he appeared in police court to-day. The reason for the shooting has not been disclosed by the accused man and as yet the local police are unable to find any motive for the killing.

NOT BEGUN TO DISARM.

BERLIN, Mar. 9.— (C.P.) — The Reich's defense minister, Wilhelm Groener, told the Reichstag's Ways and Means committee to-day that, 'France has not even begun to disarm."

Traffic Crippled As Heaviest Fall Recorded in Years

Peterborough and District, Along With All Other Parts of Ontario, Are Snow-bound When 18 Inches Falls in 15 Hours on Sunday.

RAILWAYS ARE ABLE TO KEEP THEIR LINES OPEN BUT SUNDAY TRAINS OPERATE SEVERAL HOURS LATE

Automobiles Are Snow-bound on City Street With Garages, Service Trucks and Taxis Doing a Rushing Business.

Peterborough and district went to work this morning to dig itself from beneath one of the heaviest snow storms in more than twenty years. Nearly two feet of snow on the level blocked the roads and in places there were drifts eight to ten feet high.

City, town and countryside grimly began the great task of opening the roads. Giant tractors pushing snow plows worked throughout the night on the highways and main roads, and this morning it was reported that the Port Hope highway was clear.

Traffic on other roads was still tied up, but in every direction swift progress was being made in breaking through to open a way for traffic.

Millions of tons of snow fell over the countryside in only a few hours. Saturday night residents of this district went to bed looking forward to a sunny Sunday, although the weather man had issued the warning that all signs promised snow or sleet. In the small hours of Sunday morning the moon was shining brightly, but around 4 o'clock there was an omnious change The sky was clouded in thick gray and the air was stilled. Soon after 5 o'clock the white blanket began to fall.

Early risers report that at 7 o'clock the snow was falling so thickly that it was impossible to see outbuildings or the neighbor's house less than 100 feet away. The storm continued with short lulls throughout the morning, and even into the afternoon with short, heavy flurries.

18 Inches in 15 Hours.

Eighteen inces of snow fell in less than 15 hours, according to local weather bureau statistics. Throughout the night more of the white mass fell, adding to the heavy blanket that had already crippled all motor traffic.

Yesterday will long be remembered in the district. Church congregations were only a shadow of their usual size, because the worshippers could not force their way through the snow. Cars ventured forth, with luck plowed through for a short distance, and became stalled and snowbound. Urgent "SOS" calls were rushed through to garages, and in all instances the messages were the same, "I'm stuck; come and drag me out." In many cases the combined efforts of the service car and willing helpers failed, and the car was left a derelict in the snowy waste. The driver and his luckless passengers going to their appointment afoot.

Taxis At a Premium.

In the city taxis were at a premium. Many of the taxi men wisely refused to undertake to carry a "fare" to or from any of the side streets. City Engineer Parsons had a city's road plow out early and maintained a clear passage in the centre of the road on George, Hunter and Charlotte Streets. Care was first taken that the road to the hospital were opened.

Peterborough and district mostly remained indoors, as the Bell Telephone operators will tell you. Unable to make personal calls, citizens turned to the telephone, and to keep up with continual streams of calls the telephone office was forced to reinforce its staff. During most of the day double the usual staff endeavored to meet the increased demand upon the service.

ATTENDANCE FALLS OFF.

Attendance at the Normal School and the Collegiate and Vocational Institute fell away to well below the average, it is learned on inquiry; the attendance of students from the rural districts having been rendered temporarily impossible due to the heavy drifts on the roads. The only form of travel which is at all practicable is that provided by horse and cutter.

Four figures clad in the drab regulation prison uniform were busily occupied shovelling snow from the sidewalk skirting the Court House Buildings this morning under the supervision of the turnkey.

FEDERAL HOUSE OPENS THURSDAY, HEAVY SESSION

Mr. Justice Lyman P. Duff Will Open Parliament in Absence of New Governor.

TWO VACANCIES IN HOUSE.

Measures for Farm Relief Are Expected Along With Tariff Changes.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 9 (C.P.)— With less than three weeks of the present fiscal year left to run, the second session of Canada's seventeenth parliament will open here on Thursday, March 12. The actual ceremony of opening parliament will be shorn of some of its usual color, pomp and circumstance. Canada's new Governor-General, the Earl of Bessborough, will not be present to preside in the beautiful Senate Chamber and read the Speech from the Throne to the assembled Senators and Commoners. Instead, Mr. Justice Lyman P. Duff, of the Supreme Court of Canada, Administrator in the absence of the Governor General, will perform this first duty, giving to those present such indication of the sessional program as may be contained in the Throne speech.

While the coming session will be the second of the present parliament, it might truly be described as the first "regular" session. The first session, which lasted for two weeks, was called for the specific purpose of dealing with Government proposals calculated to alleviate unemployment in Canada. It took place in the shadow Dominion Refuses to Allow Tot to Enter With Mother Being Deported.

APPEAL AFTER APPEAL.

ST. ALBAN'S, Vt., March 9 (C.P.) —The life of Dorothy Cohen, eight-months'-old baby girl, is told in many thousands of typewritten words contained in two thick files of letters which to-day were marked "closed in the general offices of the Central Vermont Railway and United States Immigration Service here.

Mother Deported

Dorothy, a cute, blue-eyed tot, was born in New York, eight months ago. Her mother, a Canadian, was ordered deported to Canada shortly after the child's birth. Immigration officials in New York placed the mother and child aboard a train for Montreal but at the border, Canadian immigration officials refused to allow the infant to enter Canada, ruling that she was likely to become a public charge.

Mother and child were returned to St. Albans and kept here two weeks as guests of the railway, while officials made strenuous efforts to solve the case, neither group of officers wishing to separate the baby from her mother if it could be avoided.

However, an all-powerful Immigration Board decided the mother could not remain in the United States, and an equally powerful Canadian Immigration Commission decided the infant could not enter the Dominion. With the decisions, the railway was called upon to transport the mother to Montreal, leaving the child in St.

Attitude At Queen's Different On Atheism

KINGSTON, Ont., March 9.—A. E. F. Allan, whose editorial in "Varsity" charging the existence of "practical atheism" among University of Toronto students created a furore and was followed by his statement that he would leave the college, would have been treated more gently had he been a student of Queens University, according to Professor John Matheson, Dean of the Faculty of Arts at Queens.

"I am heartily in accord with the theory of letting youth speak, but to have a whole city and a province get excited over it seems too bad," the Professor said. "It is a pity that youth cannot express its mind. I do not think that such a thing as happened at Toronto would be possible at Queens."

FIVE FAMILIES LEFT HOMELESS

WIND SHIFTS, SAVES TOWN.

NOTRE DAME DELHAM, Que., Mar. 9.—Five families were rendered homeless in a fire that swept through this little village yesterday afternoon just as one of the worst blizzards of the winter struck this part of the province. In addition to five residences, the village schoolhouse, a garage and several small outbuildings were destroyed and two residences damaged severely.

To-day arangements were being made to hold school sessions in another building while the homeless were finding temporary shelter with relatives and friends. An estimate of the damage was not available.

For a time yesterday the entire village was threatened but a shifting of the strong, snow-laden wind, coupled with the efforts of volunteer firemen, saved the situation. The blaze originated in the school house where children had been commissioned to keep stoves going over the week-end.

WORST STORM IN CITY'S HISTORY OCCURRED DURING MARCH OF 1870

Property Damaged Along Maine Coast

PORTLAND, Me., March 9. (CP) A howling overnight southeaster, bringing heavy snow, sleet rain and lightning, to-day had caused some damage along the Maine coast, but in other sections of the state had left no serious damage.

Coast guardsmen at Biddeford pool said the seas were the heaviest in 50 years. The raging combers swept over a neck of land for the first time in many years and battered at sea walls and bulkheads on the mainland beach.

With her are the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, and Lady Brecknock. They were unable to find hotel quarters and so are staying as the guests of Senora Martinez Del Rio mother of the Jaime Del Rio, estranged husband of Dolores Del Rio, actress.

Lady Mountbatten is the former Miss Edwina Ashly, daughter of the British industrial magnate.

Five Feet of Snow Fell on the Level—Everything Was Blocked.

Thaw and Flood Followed.

The heavy snowstorm of Sunday, when more snow fell during the daylight hours than for all the rest of the days this winter put together, has naturally caused a little reminiscent searching. Sunday's snowstorm was a heavy one. It will not, however, take its place among a few that have passed into history.

On Sunday, March 13, 1870, the heaviest snowstorm that this district ever experienced, began. It continued irregularly all Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. It cleared Thurzday evening and it was found that three feet of snow covered the ground on the level.

Would It Never Stop

The lull lasted until Saturday when it began to snow with renewed rapidity. The while blanket of large flakes came tumbling down all day Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night. By this time residents of the district were becoming alarmed. Was it never going to stop snowing. The Mayor and the Town Council were appealed to—not to stop the storm—but to get rid of the snow.

The one train that reached the town from Port Hope during the whole week took 15 hours in making the trip.

Business was at a standstill and the schools were closed. There was five feet of snow on the level.

Right away there was a thaw and

80 ARE KILLED DURING QUAKES IN JUGOSLAVIA

Saturday and Sunday Shocks Demolish 900 Buildings on Bulgarian Border.

500 INJURED.

Terror Stricken Residents Flee to Woods—King Alexander Aids With Relief.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, March 9.—(AP)—Between 80 and 150 dead were counted today in Eastern Jugoslavia and adjacent Bulgaria, rocked before dawn Saturday and Sunday by severe earthquakes. More than 900 buildings and other structures in Eastern Jugoslavia were demolished, and 500 persons are estimated to have been injured.

Shaken from their beds, and panic stricken after Saturday morning's quakes, residents of the borderline country were afraid to go back to their homes until late Saturday. At four a.m., Sunday morning they were routed into the open again in their bed clothes, screaming and making for woods which afforded some shelter from the bitter weather without the danger of falling masonry.

Felt At Black Sea

The quakes, both Saturday and yesterday, extended from Eastern Jugoslavia across Bulgaria to the shores of the Black Sea. The epicentre was near Drama, Bulgaria. The quakes were felt in Greece, where 70 houses were destroyed in the village of Kavallion, and in Eastern Thrace and Adrianople. The more severe shocks knocked the seismograph needles from the dials at the observatories here. Chimneys fell over the entire area.

King Alexander and Premier General Zivkovitch left here during the day for Southern Serbia to superintend relief operations, which were already under way.

Pirava Razed

Not one building was left standing in Pirava where 19 persons were killed the bridge across the Parva between Skopije and Guevgeli collapsed interrupting railroad traffic. In one village near Guevgeli there were 29 dead and 22 wounded. The railway station in Demirkapu was razed by the shocks which killed two children and injured two adults in a Bulgarian border village of Leski. Houses were destroyed in Neyrokop.

Freedom Of Seas Urged By Britisher

LONDON, March 9.—Adoption by the world of the doctrine of freedom of the seas was demanded by Lieutenant Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy, M.P., in an address here Sunday.

He contrasted the principle of the United States with the European contention that a belligerent may not only capture merchant ships belonging to the enemy, but may also search neutral ships and seize goods consigned to the enemy. The British, he said, were the worst offenders in applying this doctrine during the Great War.

He urged that the principle of freedom of the seas be included in the Treaty to be drafted at the International Disarmament Conference next year.

ATTACK DIRECTED AT FRENCH ARMY

Strongest and Readiest War Instrument in World Says German Defense Minister.

URGES DISARMAMENT.

BERLIN, March 9 (C.P.). — The Reich's Defence Minister, Wilhelm Groener, told the Reichstag's Ways and Means Committee to-day that "France has not even begun to disarm. On the contrary, through her new form of army organization she has created the strongest and readiest war instrument in the world."

"We disarmed to an extent unparalleled in history," he said. Recalling the remarks of Andre Maginot, French Minister of War, that there must be a stricter control of armaments of aggressor nations, he declared they were pointless so far as Germany is concerned because "the Treaty of Versailles, which is the thesis of Germany's war guilt, has long since been confounded by international historical science. We have no reason to fear the verdict of a truly impartially constituted international body such as the German Government has always demanded."

Mentioning the purpose of Germany's disarmament, Herr Groenor said: "According to the Treaty of Versailles, Germany's disarmament was to be an overture to a general limitation of armaments of all nations. Germany did her part. We have the right to demand that Germany's inequality of armaments be balanced by the corresponding actions of other nations. We've the right to the same degree of security that other nations demand for themselves. We voice our demand for general disarmament in the interests of peace and reconstruction of Europe."

MARIE DE JANKO INNOCENT FACTOR IN NEAR-ASSASSINATION

Reports from Vienna state that the lovely Viennese Baroness Marie de Janko, ABOVE, was the unwilling cause of the near-assassination recently of King Zogu of Albania, (shown in INSET). It is said that the Albanian monarch insisted upon intended visits to the Austrian capital, much against his physicians' orders, because of his friendship for the baroness. The attempted assassination took place while the baroness and her sister were seated in an opera box adjoining Zogu's.

EUROPE, ENGLAND HEAVY SUFFERERS IN BITTER STORM

Swirling Snow Blankets Scotland, Swoops Down Upon London.

CRASHES AT SEA.

Highways, Trains Blocked in France, Germany, Belgium —Rivers Flooded.

LONDON, Mar. 9.—(A.P.)— Bitter winter weather which swept most of Europe over the week-end closed in on London and Southern England to-day. With temperatures very low, a high wind drove a heavy snow before it to-day with indications that it would continue.

Elsewhere in Great Britain the storm abated, leaving the Eastern Scotland deep in the year's worst snow. Some sheep farmers lost half the lamb yield, and rabbits and pheasants were destroyed. North-eastern England also was under a thick white blanket with the most bitter weather of the winter prevailing.

Northern France, Germany, Belgium, Scandinavia, Austria and Poland all were affected by the unusual cold. Snowdrifts blocked highways and delayed trains, while where it was warmer swollen rivers threatened serious flooding. Snow continued for 46 hours straight in Vienna.

Seine Over Alarm Level.

The river Seine at Paris was one foot above alarm level at Austerlitz ridge yesterday and lower sections of the city were evacuated.

It was not expected to go much higher. The rivers of Burgundy and South-east France swelled steadily, inundating the meadows and riverside quarters of several towns, but there was no great damage.

Seaside towns were hard struck in some cases. High tides and giant waves swept away structures considered far back from the water line. In the North Sea the steamer Tern collided with the City of Malines, and sank, all sixteen of the Tern's crew being saved.

ing delayed, and in Lindsay not one train was able to leave over the week-end.

C.P.R. Line Open Sunday.

Two regular C.P.R. trains were late going through Peterborough on Sunday, their schedule interrupted by the storm.

The fast freight from the West that is due here about 10.45 a.m. was nearly twelve hours late, arriving at 9.15 p.m., twenty minutes behind a snow plow from Toronto.

The Sunday evening passenger train from the East was forty-five minutes late. It is scheduled here shortly before 6 p.m., but did not reach Peterborough until 6.40, following a plow from the East that continued on to Toronto clearing the line.

The local C.P.R. yards were deeply blanketed with snow, and some of the section men were called out to shovel a path along the platform for the six o'clock passenger train. And just as they had completed this part of their emergency work, the plow pulled in and almost filled up the platform as generously as the Weather Man had done during the day.

Thousands to Farmers.

The storm was worth thousands of dollars to the pockets of farmers of the district who were faced with the serious problem of a water shortage. The reservoir lakes in the north were many feet below their usual water-line for this time of year, and creeks and rivers were also showing plainly the absence of sufficient water. The water will fill up wells and lakes and guarantee an average supply of water for the spring.

TORONTO, March 9.—Just in case recent balmy weather had convinced people that he had lost his usual pep, Old Man Winter jumped on Toronto with both feet over the week-end dumped 11 inches of snow into city streets, piled it in drifts with a 40-mile gale and packed it solid with a temperature which he judiciously maintained at just a notch above freezing. Reasserting himself with a viciousness which played hobo with almost every normal Sunday activity and throwing in a few flashes of lightning and claps of thunder just by way of trimming, the Old Man demonstrated his violence and versatility unimpaired, and showed that during the past couple of weeks he has been only fooling.

Street car service, automobile traffic, church attendance, milk deliveries, train schedules, the telephone system—all these were affected with more or less severity. Post office collections and telegraphs were not interfered with. Unemployed citizens, local garages and farmers in the suburbs reaped a financial benefit. Toronto bore the brunt of a storm which stretched for hundreds of miles, and most of yesterday was spent, not so much in digging herself out as trying to keep even.

Plows and sweepers were useless to the Transportation Commission on account of the wetness of the snow which was packed into rails and switches by automobiles. It stuck to the heels of pedestrians, and gathered until they though they were walking on stilts. What looked like an epidemic of eccentric dancing was only the effort of a softly swearing populace to kick the lumps off the bottoms of their heels.

TRAFFIC IS CRIPPLED BY BIG SNOW FALL

Creameries in the city reported this morning that their trucks had been able to pick up the milk on the highways along their route, but that they did not venture onto the side roads. It was expected that the farmers would hitch up old Dobbin and push through the drifts with the horse and cutter.

The mail delivery had not been held up appreciably, the Post Office reported. In the country, however, despite the herculean efforts of the rural mail men, delivery was hours behind, and in some instances farmers will go without their mail to-day.

Both railway companies maintained their lines open. Puffing engines urged gigantic plows over the rails and kept all railway traffic moving close to schedule. The C.N.R. passenger trains were running almost on the minute to Lakefield, Lindsay and Port Hope.

The Toronto-Lindsay bus was reported stranded near Sunderland, while many hundreds of private automobiles were snowed in in various municipalities. Even snowplows were not immune, at least two being out of commission.

Elora and Camp Borden were among the numerous municipalities completely isolated by road, while others could only be reached by horse-drawn vehicles. Trains also were affected almost all schedules be-

Veteran Archbishop Passes In Alberta

EDMONTON, March 9. — Bearded patriarch of the north, Rt. Rev. Archbishop Emile Grouard, is dead after seven decades of missionary effort in Canada's frontier country. At 91 years of age, the Roman Catholic prelate succumbed on Saturday to a lingering illness at Grouard, the little hamlet in the Peace River country named in his honor.

No living white man, it has been said, was so familiar with the Indian tribes of the north. In tending the spiritual needs of the frontier natives, Father Grouard became a linguistic expert, gaining the ability to converse fluently in a dozen different Indian dialects.

SEED EXHIBITION IN MARKET HALL FOR THREE DAYS

Fifth Annual Quinte District Seed Fair Opens on Wednesday.

$700 IN PRIZES.

Banquet is Being Planned For Thursday Evening.

Primarily educational and aiming to encourage the production of better and more profitable crops together with the use of better seed cleaning machinery, the Fifth Annual Quinte District Seed Fair, which opens in the Market Hall here on Wednesday for three days, promises to draw a large entry list from the six counties of Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, and Lennox and Addington.

This is the first time the fair has been held in Peterborough. Last year at Napanee it created great interest. Over $700 in cash prizes will be distributed, and there are classes for grain, small seeds, and potatoes. Seed cleaning demonstrations will be given daily; in addition there will be many other educational exhibits.

Invitations have been extended for their attendance at the fair, and the banquet which is to be held at the Empress Hotel on Thursday evening, to members of the City Council, the County Council, the members of the Legislature in each of the counties concerned, and to officers of various agricultural organizations throughout the district.

On the first day of the fair, the proceedings will open with a judging competition at 1 p.m., while on the second day there will be a boys' judging competition in the morning, followed by addresses from prominent speakers as follows: T. G. Raynor, Seed Branch, Ottawa, "Seeds"; R. M. McKenzie, Chemistry Department, O.A.C., Guelph, "Fertilizers."

John Buchanan, Director of Extension, O.A.C., will be the principal guest speaker at the banquet on the evening of the second day, while the final day of the fair, Friday, March 13, will see an auction sale of exhibits and their removal. The sale will provide a unique opportunity to farmers to secure some good foundation seed.

J. B. Nelson, fair secretary and treasurer and local agricultural representative, is well satisfied with the manner in which entries are coming in, and is of the opinion that the fair will come as a stimulus to the sowing of better and more profitable crops. The judges will be: J. W. Lennox, Seed Branch, Toronto, and Professor W. J. Squirrel, De-

Soviets Seek Place In China's Gas Trade

SHANGHAI, March 9 (C.P.). — An asserted attempt by the Soviet Petroleum Trust to gain a place in China's kerosene and gasoline trade was revealed to-day when it was learned the Soviet trust was negotiating with the Kwangwha Petroleum Company to import 3,000,000 gallons of kerosene monthly into China.

The Kwangwha Company distributes imported petroleum products throughout China.

Although Russian and Chinese negotiators said a contract was likely to be consummated in the near future, they declined to reveal details of the plan.

PRINCES RUSHED AT BUENOS AIRES

Brothers Attend Round of Banquets, Yachting, Polo, Golf, Races.

SEE PRIZE FIGHT.

BUENOS AIRES, March 9. (AP)—The Prince of Wales and his brother George are interspersing the sports of which both are fond, among official functions which have been arranged for them before inauguration of the British Industrial Exposition here next Saturday.

Leaving a state banquet Thursday at midnight the Prince of Wales went yatchting until nearly dawn. Saturday afternoon he played No. 1 on a polo team against a team captained by Lewis Lacy—and lost 6 to 8. Saturday evening they were the guests of honor at the Suarkz-Loayza prize fight.

Sunday morning the Prince of Wales went to Saint Andrew's church for a service, but with the afternoon both brothers, heavily guarded, went to Palero Field with President Uriburu for the races, and are said to have won about $358 between them on the ponies. If it was a good day for them it was bad for almost everyone else for all the favorites lost. After leaving the track they attended a cocktail party.

In between it all the two Princes have managed to sandwich several games of golf with members of their suite and of the British colony here.

VIVIAN GORDON'S BROTHER PIERRE HAS BREAKDOWN

Third Victim in Case Dashes Madly From Room—Taken to Hospital.

LIKELY TO RECOVER.

Came to New York From Montreal, Claiming Sister's Body For Burial.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 9.—The third victim of a triology of murder, suicide and near madness, Pierre M. Franklin, brother of strangled Vivian Gordon, who says his home is in Montreal, Que., tossed fitfully in a hospital to-day under heavy guard.

Yesterday—the eleventh day since his racketeer sister's body was found in a park thicket and the sixth since the lifeless form of his 16-year-old niece was found in a gas-filled kitchen—Franklin suffered a mental collapse and forcibly was taken to the psychopathic ward of Bellevue, strapped to a stretcher.

Dashes From Room

Early in the morning he dashed half-clad into the hall from his room in a hotel—shouting and crying. Five house detectives and a nurse labored with him for three hours before they could subdue him. When police arrived, they found him lying on the bathroom floor, gibbering.

His room was littered with newspaper clippings revealing the sordid underworld life that led Vivian Gordon to her death and shamed her daughter, Benita Bischoff, into an untimely grave. Photographs of his sister, a striking auburn-haired woman, in a variety of poses, and of his niece in her first dancing costume lined the walls.

Hospital officials said he was not in a serious condition but would require constant care and observation to restore his mental state to normal. He weighs well over 200 pounds and is of a hearty, healthy type.

Claimed Sister's Body

Saying Montreal was his home, Franklin came here several days after the crime and claimed his sister's body, certifying his kinship in affidavits. He and an unidentified woman, the only mourners, buried her Friday in Westchester County. He paid his hotel bill Saturday night and said he was returning home the next day.

Meanwhile, the hunt for Miss Gordon's slayers virtually was at a standstill. With professional detectives and 18,000 of New York's "finest" co-operating, not a single clue has turned up which points toward a solution of the city's most engrossing mystery since the murder of Arnold Rothstein in 1928.

PERU INSURGENTS COME TO TERMS

Lt.-Col. Ocampo on Arrival at Lima Will Take Over Provincial Presidency.

JIMINEZ UNDECIDED.

LIMA, Peru, March 9. (AP)—Lima and Arequipa insurgents have settled their differences with an agreement allowing the Arequipans to organize the new Provisional Government.

Upon his arrival here from the southern city, Lieutenant Colonel David Samanez Ocampo, will assume the provisional presidency, and two of his fellow Arequipans will take portfolios in his ministry. One cabinet will go to Central Peru, one to the north, one to the trans-Andean region and one each to the army and navy.

Samanez Ocampo for the last fortnight has been President of the "Southern Junta" a Government actully set up in the southern city, which for more than a century has warred with Lima for supremacy in the politics of the national city, once the home of the powerful Incas.

The place of Lieutenant Colonel Gustavo Jimenez, actually in charge of the Government now since his coup d'etat of Thursday night, remained somewhat in doubt to-day. Upon his accession to power he stated that his Government would remain in office only long enough to compose the various factions and then resign.

A Man's Letter every girl should read

"DEAR MISS DIX—I want to tell you how true your advice to Marcia C — was. I'd never realized it before reading your comments, but then it came home to me that whenever I've been struck by a girl's appearance it's been when she was wearing some dress that had attractive colours —that seemed to reflect, to typify her personality. It's certainly true that 'it's colour that takes a man's eye.'" Harry M

I HEREWITH pass on Harry's hint to Marcia C and every other girl who reads this.

I think Harry reflects most men's idea about the way they like a girl to dress. Men love fresh, cheerful COLOUR, and the girl who attracts is the one whose frocks and blouses and sweaters are always charmingly colourful.

It doesn't much matter what colour a girl wears, so long as it's becoming to her, and pretty and fresh looking.

Here are two simple rules I'd follow, girls, if I were you:

1. Choose the colours you find most becoming.

2. Keep them fresh, vital, charming as new, as long as you wear them. Never wear faded colours.

"But how can we wear delicate colours all the time, yet keep them fresh and lovely?" practical girls often say. "Frequent washing ruins colours."

No—frequent washing doesn't ruin colours. It's using ordinary soap—even ordinary "good" soap—that fades colours and even if it does not always

If you use Lux, you can wash pretty colours again and again and they'll have all the "life" and alluring, charming appeal they have when new.

Colour Charm in Your Home

Not only in dresses, blouses, scarfs, but in your HOME, fresh, lovely colour adds charm and glamour to you.

Keep pretty curtains, cushions, table linens, colourful as new with Lux. Here, too, Lux is invaluable in guarding colour charm. DOROTHY DIX.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

FOODS THAT PROTECT YOU FROM ILLNESS

Perhaps you wonder why health writers, including myself, talk so much about food. If an individual is underweight we advise more food, if overweight, less food; If acutely ill, that he refrain from food or cut down on it considerably; if suffering with a chronic or old, standing ailment, that he, perhaps, increase his food intake.

Now the above are what might be called general rules, but there is a great deal more in this food question than the amount of food eaten. As a matter of fact food of itself can mean health or illness to you, even if you have no real organic ailment.

Prof. Mellanby says: "diet, in addition to supplying materials for growth and maintainance of the body, and the necessary energy to enable it to do its work, also contains two groups of substances—one which tends to produce harmful changes and ill-health, and the other which helps the body to protect itself, not only against the harmful substances in the food itself, but also against other disease-producing agents or organisms that may be in the body."

Just think of that for a moment. Some parts of the food you eat would be harmful if it were not for the other parts.

Now you are going to eat all kinds of food, because life would certainly not be very pleasant if you had to think about your food every time you ate anything.

What are you to do?

Here, again, Nature comes to your rescue and allows you to eat practically everything you want to eat, providing you just make sure of certain kinds of food at least once a day. These foods are called protective foods because they are rich in Vitamin A, which has a definite effect in raising the resistance of you body so that it can fight off harmful material or organisms. These foods are egg yoke, liver, cod liver oil, milk, butter, suet, carrots and green vegetables.

Now you may not like the idea of egg yoke, cod liver oil or even liver everyday but you can make sure of any one of the others, that is milk, butter, suet, carrots or green vegetables.

These foods then are not only body builders, but help you to avoid intestinal and other ailments.

I wonder how many of you remember the tandem coach of bygone days?

* * * * * * *

Perhaps you haven't actually seen one, but have seen the pictures from which you can see that it must have been one of the most interesting of the old-time vehicles.

* * * * * * *

And the tandem coach is very good for reproduction in stitchery. It fits in charmingly with the present vogue for silhouette pictures worked in cross stitch on canvas.

* * * * * * *

Recently I saw a reproduction of a tandem coach in stitchery. There were two high-stepping horses driven by a coachman, and a lady of probably high degree was seated in the coach with the men seated outside as was the correct ruling of coach etiquette in those far-off days.

* * * * * * *

I have never had the privilege of seeing them, but I am told that two marvellous English coaches remain and are used in London at the present time.

* * * * * * *

Perhaps you have been fortunate enough to be in London for the inauguration parade of the Lord Mayor and have seen the coach which he uses on such occasions.

* * * * * * *

It is the oldest in England, dating back to 1757, and is known as the Lord Mayor's coach. The King's state coach, reinstated to use when King Edward VII ascended the throne, is said to be "the most superb carriage ever built."

* * * * * * *

It is no wonder then, is it, that glamor lingers about these historic coaches, for they were once so magnificent that no automobile can compare in magnificence?

* * * * * * *

Their use was restricted to royalty and ladies of high court standing.

* * * * * * *

It is said that one queen, wife of Matthias, rode to her wedding in a coach coveted with perfumed leather! Gold was lavishly used on the vehicles.

* * * * * * *

The tandem coach makes a smart picture to frame for a man's or boy's room, for a country house or farm house, for a room furnished in antiques, or for one in present style of decoration.

* * * * * * *

It is excellent, too, for an under-glass tray top, for footstool tops, and for rugs, if the canvas is coarse.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

A Bedtime Story

by Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY AND BADBUNTY

Hopping, skipping, running and walking home from the Hollow Stump School in Woodland near the Orange Ice Mountains, came the forty sixteen trabbit children of Uncle Wiggily. Jingle chased Jangle, Buster threw little teeny weeny snowballs at his brother, Duster Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, the puppy dog boys, who had joined the rabbits, chased their tails and were so funny that Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, laughed until she fell down in the snow and Custer had to pick her up.

The rabbit children were much happier now than when they had started for school in the morning. For then Jingle and Jangle had quarreled about an ear ribbon and there had almost been a fight. The tablecloth and all the dishes fell crashing to the floor and Uncle Wiggily felt so sad that he ran away to the woods to look for an adventure.

But the little bunnies promised among themselves never to be bad any more and they agreed, after school, to go look for Uncle Wiggily, to make him come back home. They were now on their way to the woods.

"When we find Unkie Wig," said Bunty, using as much baby talk as she was permitted, "we'll all love him won't we?"

"Yes, indeed!" said Jingle.

"And I'll make him a nice soft snowball if he wants it," promised Jangle.

Since these twins had started the quarrel which made so much trouble and sent Uncle Wiggily skipping away to the woods, it was only fair, I think, that Jingle and Jangle should do as much as they could to make up for their badness; don't you?

So the bunnies, coming home from school, went to find Uncle Wiggily in the woods. But though they saw the place where he had been sitting on a log near a bush, they saw no other sign of Mr. Longears.

It was while sitting on this log that a jolly old dog came out of the bushes and gave Uncle Wiggily the tickle stick, you may remember. But that doesn't come in this story yet. Wait a little.

"Well, I guess Unkie Wig must have gone back to his hollow stump bungalow," spoke Baby Bunty when they had hopped around the woods a bit longer but had not found Mr. Longears.

"Yes, let's all hurry home and tell him how sorry we are," said Jingle.

Hopping, skipping, running and walking, the rabbit children hurried to their bungalow home, Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow still chasing their tails, went to thier kennel house to gnaw bones.

"Oh, Nurse Jane!" called Baby Bunty when she saw the muskrat lady housekeeper out in front of the bungalow sweeping the steps, "did Unkie Wig come home yet?"

"No," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "he didn't. And your mother, my dear children," she said to the others, "is much worried." Baby Bunty, being an orphan rabbit, wasn't the real child of Uncle Wiggily.

"Where do you think Daddicums is?" asked Jingle.

"I don't know," answered Nurse Jane.

"Don't you think—don't you think he'll ever come home—ever?" asked Jangle.

"I don't know," answered Nurse Jane, softly. "It is getting late now. Uncle Wiggily may have had a very strange adventure in the woods, and he may like it better there, where it is peaceful and quiet, than here in his bungalow where, sometimes, the rabbits quarrel and pull all the dishes and cloth off the table." Nurse Jane didn't look at Jingle and Jangle as she said this, but those twins knew whom she meant just the same.

"Oh, we're never going to be bad any more!" promised Jingle.

"Never!" said Jangle.

Then, all of a sudden, Baby Bunty started to run off toward the woods.

"Come back!" called Nurse Jane. "Where are you going? It will soon be dark! Come back!"

"I am going to look for Unkie Wig," said Bunty. "He hasn't come home and he's off in the woods, so I'm going to look for him and bring him back. I love Unkie Wig!"

"We all do," spoke Nurse Jane. "But you mustn't go to the woods looking for him, Bunty. Come back! Be a good little rabbit orphan!"

"No!" cried Bunty, twiddling her ears and jiggling her tail, "I'm going to be bad! I'm not going to be a good Bunty! I'm going to be a bad Bunty and I'm going to look for Unkie Wig!"

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" murmured all the other little rabbits when they heard Bunty say she was going to be bad. "Oh! Oh! Oh!"

So away ran Baby Bunty to the woods, putting her paws over her ears so she couldn't hear Nurse Jane calling her back.

WARKWORTH WINS ORATORY TROPHY

Y.P.A. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Meets Bowmanville in Debate Series.

WARKWORTH, March 9 (Examiner Correspondence) — The Y.P.A. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met the Y.P.A. of Bowmanville at Colborne on Monday evening in the final inter-league debate. Owing to bad roads, a large number were unable to be present.

The subject of the debate was "Resolved that county life affords greater opportunities for social enjoyment than does the city life". The affirmative was upheld by Mr. McLaughlin and Miss Leggott and the negative by Miss Richards and Mr. McCubbin. Great credit is due the debaters in the splendid way they handled the subject. Their points were presented in a clear, concise way with no time lost and were arranged in good order. The judges decided in favor of the negative.

The winners brought honor to the Warkworth society in winning the silver cup 2 years in succession and now their permanent possession. During the evening a slendid program was put on by the visiting societies after which the Colborne society served a dainty lunch and a social time spent together.

Tourists from the United States are estimated to have spent $46,000,000 in Mexico last year.

WEAK AFTER INFLUENZA— COULD NOT DO HOUSEWORK

Could Feel Strength Coming Back After Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (Tonic)

"I took a severe attack of influenza," writes Mrs. John Fraser, 2019-5th Ave. East, Owen Sound, Ontario, "and when I was able to get out of bed I was in such a weak condition that I thought I would never get my strength again. I could not do my housework. So a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I did, and after taking a few doses I could feel my strength coming back. After taking six boxes I was completely well and as strong as I ever had been, and I haven't taken a severe attack of influenza since."

"Now Strong as Ever"

Danger ahead! Look out . . . if you've had the flu and can't get back to normal. That is the dangerous part of influenza — the after-effects. Influenza weakens the blood—makes further sickness likely.

The iron and other elements in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) increase the blood count—that is they multiply the number of red corpuscles in the blood. Through these pills thousands of persons weakened by influenza, overwork, worry or other causes, have been helped back to health, strength and happiness.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills (tonic) at any druggist's—or from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ontario—50 cents a box. Don't wait. It's dangerous to continue in a run-down condition.

Noted Operatic Star Succumbs In Boston

BOSTON, Mass., March 9.—Clara Kathleen Rogers, celebrated on the operatic stage here and abroad as Calara Doria, died suddenly at her Beacon street home here Sunday.

Mrs. Rogers was born in Cheltenham, England, in 1844, the daughter of John Barrett, widely known composer and musician, often referred to as the "father of English opera." Her mother was Eliza Emily Barret, the daughter of Robert Lindley, celebrated violin cellist.

She was educated in Germany and made her debut at Turin, Italy, in 1861. She sang on most of the operatic stages abroad and in America for the next 12 years.

She married Menry Munroe Rogers, Boston attorney, in 1878.

Mr. Rogers is at present seriously ill with pneumonia.

Although the new post office for Northalleton, England, was sanctioned 19 years ago, the building has just been completed.

ILLEGAL FISHING.

The use of a posse of overseers from outside points in an effort to stop fishing through the ice in district waters is a sensible policy upon which the Fish and Game Department is to be commended.

Officials who are unknown to the offenders have a much better chance to do effective work and to bring about the apprehension of the guilty parties.

It is a plan that might well be extended to cover the spawning season when illegal fishing flourishes and when the greatest harm is occasioned.

The Examiner has more than once pointed out that it was too much to expect that the small staff of permanent overseers could grapple with the poaching that goes on in the spawning season, and suggested that the officials encharged with the enforcement of fishery regulations should be reinforced at that time by special officers.

A drive against those who are so disregardful of the importance of conserving the supply of game fish in these waters that they will take large quantities of fish during the spawning season would be even more objective if the method adopted last week were to be followed and a flying squad of outside officials sent into action against the poachers.

MR. NIXON'S MOTION.

Hon. Mr. Nixon's resolution expressing approval of the principle of a referendum on the liquor question is to come before the Legislature this week, and the Progressive leader proposes to divide the House on this issue.

His action will bring about the most interesting situation the Legislature has witnessed during the present session.

The majority of the Liberal members of the House, it is said, will support Mr. Nixon's resolution despite the fact that at the provincial convention prohibition was discarded and the referendum plan scrapped.

It will be an unusual development.

Political history in Ontario, in fact, can be searched without finding a parallel to this situation, which reveals the elected members of a political party proposing to vote diametrically against the policy decided upon by a provincial convention.

However, the Liberal members in the Legislature have little choice in the matter unless they are prepared to betray their constituents, for the majority of them were elected upon a prohibition policy and on the understanding that they favored a referendum on the liquor question.

Mr. Nixon's motion will, of course, not carry, for it will have the full force of the Government majority against it, but it will at least serve to enliven what up to the present has been a hum-drum session.

DEPORTATION THE BEST PLAN.

Nine Sudbury Reds, all with foreign names, who were convicted of creating disturbances in connection with an unemployment demonstration, were given jail sentences by the police magistrate on Saturday.

There does not seem any reason why loyal Canadians should be taxed to pay the expenses of jail accommodation for newly arrived Communists who have only one idea, namely, to cause all the trouble they can in this country.

The one sensible, economical and effective course in dealing with foreign agitators is to put them on a boat and start them back to the country from which they came.

Jail sentences are only a momentary curb, and they are expensive as well.

These Sudbury disturbers and their comrades all over the country will never become good citizens and good Canadians, but will continue to be storm centres just as long as they are allowed to live in Canada.

There has been little hesitation in deporting Britishers who have not made a success of it in this country; there should be none at all in deporting those violent apostles of the Soviet doctrine, who are doing their best to upset Canadian ideals and to exploit the present economic conditions to the advantage of the Communistic forces.

SHOULD BE IMPROVED.

In arguing that the municipal income tax be retained in Ontario, the Toronto Star is not oblivious to the fact that the present law is unfair in some respects and offers several suggestions as to how it might be improved.

These are well worthy of the consideration of the Legislature.

In the first place, it is suggested that a single rate of taxation should be applied in all municipalities, which would do away with one of the chief causes of complaint against the existing act.

Then the Star proposes that all donations to charitable purposes should be exempt, another important point, and, thirdly, that the amount of income tax paid to the Dominion should be deducted before the municipal income tax is computed, a change that would eliminate the complaint that citizens are being taxed twice on the same income.

Even the warmest advocate of the municipal tax will not deny that the law requires changes, and the above suggestions and others that are being brought forward should all be carefully studied.

Otherwise the unpopularity of the levy because of its present weaknesses and inequalities will destroy it as a means of raising municipal revenue, if not in the present session assuredly next year, judging by the support that the proposal for its abolition is gaining in many quarters.

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

(From the Philadelphia Evening Public Ledger)

It seems hard at this writing to over-estimate the significance of the blunt and sweeping order-in-Council by which the Canadian Government has just refused to admit Soviet Russian commodities in competition with other imports of similar character. This order, promulgated on Saturday by Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Canadian Minister of Revenue, clearly reflects opinion and feeling dominant in the Parliament and in all the Provinces. It does not dissemble the fact that Canada is determined to shut out more than Russian coal, wood pulp, lumber, asbestos, furs and other goods carrying the stigma of forced or coerced labor. This division of the British Commonwealth has acted with dramatic force and suddenness to put an embargo on the Communistic propaganda that inevitably clings about Soviet exports. And it makes no effort to justify itself by citations of economic abstractions.

Canada acknowledges, in effect, that it views Russian dumpings as a preliminary movement in an economic war, of destruction organized not only against itself but against the whole system of civilization of which it is a part.

* * * *

The Canadians have inherited the system of British law in which the rights of the individual are paramount and in which the will of the average man is the basis of government. Their philosophy of politics has not yet been corrupted by the sort of sentimentalism that has left Great Britain and even the United States hesitant and doubtful in the face of open and flamboyant Soviet aggression. Their order-in-Council frankly recognizes that the Russian Soviet is seeking to divide the world and to destroy the economic basis of Western civilization. With this conviction and not from any concern about details of international trade, the Canadians have struck the most powerful blow yet aimed at Russian plans for a communized world.

* * * *

The best that may be said of the Soviet system, even by its own friends and propagandists, is that it is seeking to utterly obliterate the individual man's mind and conscience as factors in civilized progress; to eliminate all private property; to deny freedom of thought and action to all men in order to reduce all humanity to a common level of bread-and-butter mediocrity.

Nations whose lives are ordered on the basis of a sane regard for the dignity of human life and the right of the individual to be master of his own destiny cannot be blamed if they view this experiment with distrust and hatred. It is still a question with educated liberals whether all the food and shelter in the world or all the tractors ever to be built could be worth more to the civilizations of the future than the simple right of the individual to be his own master and to express his genius in his own way. It is not apparent in Russia or anywhere else that mankind can ever get along if its mind is in chains and if complete liberty of thought and opportunity is withheld from the exceptional or inspired man and the gifted and passionate minorities.

The frank aim of the Communists is to suppress individualism for the uplift of the masses. No one even in Moscow knows whether this is possible. But the Communists are willing to wreck the world to make the experiment.

* * * *

Canada says, in effect, that it wants as little as possible to do with Soviet Russia. Its ruling is not apologetic. It is not oblique. It is not, as we have said before, concealed in a mass of vague generalities relating to rules of international tariffs and trade. It is a declaration of principles such as might have issued from London when the British Empire was at the apex of its pride and power. There is no humiliating trace here of the caution and nervousness and uncertainty with which other Governments have confronted the Russian problem and its belligerent representatives.

Canada is the first country to toss all nonsense aside and speak in a matter as direct as the Soviet's leaders have been talking from the beginning. And it is barely possible that its example may teach a badly needed lesson to other nations and Governments that have been merely querulous and painfully over-polite in the face of the Soviet's attacks.

LONDON'S APPETITE.

Figures, and oddly enough they are "provisional" figures, are now available for 1930, which tell a wonderful story of London's appetite. Its weekly bread consumption, for instance, approaches 26,000,000 half-quartern loaves. If they were all of the "sandwich loaf" variety the daily ration placed end on end would stretch for 600 miles. In addition to home supplies, London imported 1,400,326 tons of wheat and 218,000 tons of flour in 1930. Cheese imports to suit all palates, from cheddar to gorgonzola, totalled 120,000 tons.

To augment breakfast supplies, nearly 145,000 tons of bacon and hams and 73,000 tons of eggs were imported, and London required over 160,000 tons of butter in excess of that received from English farms.

For lunches and dinners, London purchased 660,000 tons of chilled and frozen meat from Australia, New Zealand and South America, and dried fruit, chiefly in the form of sultanas, currants and raisins, for puddings and cakes, totalled 111,000 tons.

London heartily supported the "eat more fruit" campaign and received from overseas 621,000 tons of green fruit and vegetables. Even then its demands were not entirely satisfied, for canned goods, much of which was fruit, accounted for a further 111,000 tons.

Our great-grandmothers told us how to make tea. "One teaspoonful for each person," they said, "and one for the pot." In 1930 London imported over 491,000,000 pounds of tea, equivalent to 94,320,000,000 cups, with a goodly allowance for the pots. London, too, has a very sweet tooth and some 874,000 tons of sugar were necessary to satisfy its cravings.

With all these purchases, amounting to nearly 5,000,000 tons, London's housekeeping purse still had a heavy call upon it for innumerable foodstuffs, such as coffee, cocoa, rice, sago, honey, etc.

Overseas growers have much to be thankful for to the London market. Its port serves nearly one-third of the overseas requirements of the population of England; and London pays up well—it does not ask for extended credit.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Young Miss Spring must have been completely buried by yesterday's blizzard.

And only on Saturday we were reading of seeding operations under way in the Hamilton district.

The municipal income tax apparently does not concern the smaller centres. Lindsay officials, for example, say the revenue obtained is not worth the trouble of collecting it.

It is an ill wind, etc. Yesterday's snow storm will do much to fill up the lakes and rivers and ensure a supply of power next summer.

Parliament convenes this week. In many respects it should prove to be a notable session.

It might be well to remember that Judge Morson is not the only elderly Canadian to find himself without a job these days. And the others have not been retired on a full salary basis, but rather with no salaries at all.

The Red-Headed Goddess

By

ALICE ROSS COLVER

Then the Indian began to talk. Striding along quickly and quietly a few paces behind the next Indian, never glancing down at her, he dropped his words in swift cautious whispers, and Lorraine listened attentively, scarcely breathing as she lay against his bare savage breast. It was a half hour she was never to forget.

"It must not be known that Silver Tongue is talking white man's language to the white girl, for the white girl is now a goddess. The Indians believe it. She dropped from the sky. She cured Look-in-the-Sun. As long as the white girl is a goddess she is safe, but if it is ever discovered that she is a white girl she will be killed."

"Oh—why——"

"She has seen too much. She knows secrets that no woman can know. Only a goddess can witness such sacred ceremonies."

"What—what kind of a goddess am I?" Lorraine asked, feeling rather overwhelmed. "What ought I to do?"

"You are the wife of the Sun-God, Estsanatlehi, descendant from a Great Bird who carried you to us from your home in the waters of the West."

"But, I don't want to be a goddess! I can't be a goddess—there's Dirk—"

"The coming of Estsanatlehi has brought good luck to the Navajos. Look-in-the-Face is made well. So long as Estsanatlehi remains there will be more good luck."

"I suppose I ought to feel flattered. Does everyone believe that?"

"Scarface is a divided road, going two ways. The white girl must be watchful of Scarface, as Scarface is watchful of her."

"All right, but how long have I got to be a goddess? When can I go back to Dirk? He's sick. It was for him I came. He hasn't any food left. I thought you'd help me. You must help me! Can't you?"

"Hush. All things are decided."

"All things are decided." There was a final sound to that. Lorraine shivered in her blanket.

"What do you mean?" she asked at length.

"The white girl knows nothing. Silver Tongue knows all. The white girl must sweep her mind bare, as the wind sweeps the dessert, then Silver Tongue will write the truth on it. Only so can Silver Tongue help the white girl."

"All right," Lorraine agreed hastily. "It's swept."

"Silver Tongue can help the white girl—but only Silver Tongue. Silver Tongue saw the sky machine fall. Silver Tongue heard the devil box asking for news of the white girl and the white man. The devil box that encompasses the earth told Silver Tongue many things. Now the white girl must tell Silver Tongue the name of her father and his place of living, so that Silver Tongue may go to-morrow to the station of the white man and there send words over the magic wire."

"Telegraph! To Dad! Oh, will you? Can you? When will he be here? How can he find the way? How will it be any safer for me to go with him than with you? Why can't I go with you to the telegraph station? That seems so much quicker and simpler—"

To this torrent of questions Silver Tongue made a brief reply.

"Hush. Silver Tongue knows Scarface."

"You mean——"

"If Scarface sees Silver Tongue taking the white girl away, he will suspect, he will follow, he will kill the white girl surely."

"But won't my going at any time—even with Dad—be just as dangerous?"

"Silver Tongue can arrange," the brave replied patiently. "The white girl's father will come with other whites to the Mountain Chant to see the Navajo Fire Dance. It is often done. Each year it is done. The white people have a strange curiosity. It leads them over many trails and into much danger, but the white man must know while the Indian is content to believe. The white men just know that the Navajos dance with fire in their bare hands. Therefore, they come to our Mountain Chant each year to see how it is done. All our people will travel to this distant place. It is an important ceremony. The white girl also will travel with us, and the white girl's father will travel there too. When he receives the words across the magic wire, he will bring friends. It will be safe for the white girl to depart if there are many whites surrounding her. Not until then can the white girl and her father be reunited. In about two weeks time. There is no other way."

Lorraine listened intently to this simple unfolding of a way out of her dilemma. It was unbelievable. By such a narrow margin had she escaped death! By such a freak of luck had she seen her reckless, wild venturing forth that night end fortunately! Supposing Silver Tongue hadn't been able to understand English. Supposing she hadn't happened to bring along the cigarette lighter. Supposing any number of things. She had hoped to get help when she sought the Indians, but it had never occurred to her that she would be able to get in touch with her father in the desert. And now Silver Tongue would wire him for her!

"How far is the telegraph station?" she asked.

"It is a three days' journey one way, on horseback."

Ah! Then the wild thought that she and Dirk might struggle there together vanished. The best thing to do was to trust this Indian, who seemed so eager and willing to help her. Hastily she whispered her father's name and address, which the Indian repeated until it was fixed in his mind, then he strode on in satisfied silence. But Lorraine was not yet content. She pressed her fingers around his arm to catch his attention once more.

"But there's Dirk. What about him? He's got to be saved too. He's back there in the canyon, sick, alone. Can't you bring him back to me before you start, so that I can take care of him here?"

"It is not safe to bring a sick white man to camp for the white girl to nurse. Then indeed Scarface would cease to believe the white girl was a goddess."

"But——"

"Hush. All things are decided. The mind of the white girl must rest on the mind of the Indian, as the tired bird rests on the waters. Silver Tongue will find the white man on his way to the magic wire. Silver Tongue will explain all things to the white man. He will see that the white man has food and water.'

"Oh! Well, if you will do that——"

"I have said it."

"But, how will he get to the Fire Dance? Will you take care of that too?"

Silver Tongue will arrange. Now our journey is ending. The white girl must say nothing more."

Lorraine cautiously lifted her head and peered about. They seemed to have reached the floor of the canyon and were following a thread of a trail through its narrow, dark chasm. In spite of his suggestion as to quiet, she could not help asking what was to happen now.

"The women and children will be wakened to give greeting to Estsanatlehi. There will be singing and dancing."

"More!" Lorraine groaned inwardly.

"The white girl must not forget that she is a goddess. It is better that she be worshipped than killed."

"Well, yes, if I must choose. When are you going to wire Dad, did you say?"

"In the dawn of the new day I will be gone. The white girl will be alone here. She must never forget she is Estsanatlehi the wife of the Sun God——"

"I wish you'd coach me a little on my lines. What ought I to do?"

The white girl is powerful. She has cured the sick. She holds fire in her fingers. She rides on a great bird our people have seen and heard. They are afraid of the white girl. They will do her least bidding."

"I think I see. As a gooddess. I'm a sort of glorified slave driver. All right. I'll do my best. But I'm scared. I'm scared of old what's-his-name that seems to be the Big Chief."

"Scarface has a war in his interior. It is well to be afraid of him. He believes with his heart but doubts with his mind He knows one thing and thinks another. It would be well if Etsanatlehi sang songs to her husband the Sun God in the mornings. It would be well if she danced to him and performed rites and ceremonies. But, above all things, Scarface must never see Silver Tongue talking with Estsanatlehi."

"I see, all right," said Lorraine again. "I can dance and sing. I will——" she paused, then went on in what she considered a good imitation of Silver Tongue's own style. "I will throw clouds over the eyes of Scarface. I will dance the pattern of the sunbeams and will mystify him with mist. And you—you won't forget about Dirk, will you? The canyon is right exactly opposite the Greek temple up there. Do you think you can find it?"

"Silver Tongue knows."

Ahead of them Lorraine saw the canyon widening, saw a cluster of little dome shaped houses, saw Indian shapes forming shadowy groups again, and realized suddenly that in a brief time her only friend would be leaving her.

"How—how long will you be gone, do you think?" she quavered.

"Six days going and returning. On the seventh day all will commence the long journey to the place of the Night Chant."

But here he suddenly broke off and Lorraine was put on her feet abruptly. The happenings of the next few moments were swift.

Scarface stepped to her side and raising his voice, intoned somethin to the heavens. At once there emerged from the dozen or more shelters—or hogans—startled women and whimpering sleepy children. Out they came awed and frightened, to listen to the old medicine man, who, with gestures now familiar to the girl, explained who she was and how she had got in their midst. When he had ended, the women came forward one by one, bowed to Lorraine then to the east, the west, the south and the north, and withdrew. Once more a circle was formed about her. Once more, there was chanting and dancing, but at last it was over, and she looked longingly at the little huts wondering which was to be hers where at last she might rest.

TIDY SUM REALIZED BY FLEETWOOD W.A.

Society Decides to Purchase Communion Service for Use in Church.

LIFFORD LINE, March 9 (Examiner Correspondence) — The March meeting of the Fleetwood Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Archie Staples on Wednesday afternoon with twelve members present.

Mrs. Tisdale the president of the association was again in charge of the meeting after an absence through illness since the December meeting.

Business subsequent to the recent box social held by the ladies was transacted. It was found that after all expenses were defrayed the sum of seventeen dollars and fifty cents was realized.

It was decided to purchase a communion service for use in the church with Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Tisdale and Rev. M. Scott to form a committee in charge of this item of business.

A committee was also formed to interview Mr. Leslie, carpenter, regarding the making of tables for use at garden parties, fowl dinners, etc.

Mrs. J. Hart, vice-president of the association, invited members and friends of the association to meet at her home next Tuesday evening for a social gathering. This kind invitation was gratefully accepted as also was the invitation of Mrs. Cummiskey to hold the April meeting at her home.

What To-day Means To You

"PISCES"

If March 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a.m. to 10:15 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Tendencies for March 9th: An unsettled atmosphere will overshadow the morning hours, and the early riser will not be stimulated to action. After two p.m. there will be felt an urge to accomplish, and night will be turned into day before you feel like quitting. Good results from your efforts.

The child born on this March 9th will have a bright, sunny disposition, but not a forceful character. It will be easily influenced, and much a child of environment, and its schools and friends should be chosen carefully. It will be affectionate, loyal, friendly, and "domestic."

You have a very sensitive nature, and you reflect the color of your surroundings, or the moods of your associates. Your feelings are easily hurt, and your spirits are quickly dampened. The gift of seeing slights in everything, as you do, reflects more favourably on the eyesight than the insight. You have a very slight sense of humour, and you take many things seriously, which only demand, or deserve a laugh. You are conscientious about doing your duty, and it wounds or aggravates you when others do not do theirs. You are too tender-hearted to be active in revenge, but you do harbor secret thoughts of resentment, which are more harmful to you than to your so-felt enemies.

You are more imitative than creative, and you would do better in a secondary position, than in anything on your own. You are not afraid of hard work, and you do not feel yourself above doing anything, which is honorable and honest. You dislike being under obligation to others, in either a social or business way, and you often refuse help which would be gladly given you.

You are not a good mixer in society, as you are only free and easy with those whom you know intimately. From choice, you are a natural "stay-at-home." As you give your best self to those who are nearest and dearest to you, your greatest happiness is found beside your own fireside.

Ladies' Aid of Trent River United Church Holds Regular Meeting.

QUILTS FOR SALE.

TRENT RIVER, March 9 (Examiner Correspondence)—The members of the Ladies' Aid met on Wednesday afternoon at the United Church for the March meeting, when the president, Mrs. William Preston was in charge, and the important item of business was the payment for books recently purchased and donated for use by the church choir.

The society has on hand two quilts which the members quilted and are offering for same at $4 and $3. There is a box of material on hand which the members plan to make up into cushions which will be offered for sale.

At the April meeting, the roll call will be responded to with a verse of scripture. Reports were received from the secretary, Mrs. I. Lawson and the treasurer, Mrs. John Scott.

Letters of appreciation were read which had been received from members who had been ill and who had been remembered with fruit and flowers. After the business meeting was concluded, a pleasing program was given as follows: solo, "The Potter's Clay," Mrs. Bert Robson; reading, Mrs. George Vanvolkenburg; reading, "Ladies' Aid Meeting" by Mrs. John Scott; reading, Mrs. W. W. Redden; reading, "Things Men Won't Touch," Mrs. James Longmuir; recitation, "Pussy Cat," Miss Irene Wood.

A dainty lunch was served by the ladies, many visitors being present for this tea for which a small fee was collected. Mrs. Bert Robson favored the gathering with another solo in a clear sweet voice, "Hold Thou My Hand." Miss Bessie G. French played the accompaniments for the afternoon.

FAVOR RAISING TURNOVER TAX

Two Per Cent. Impost Would Yield Additional Revenue of $80,000,000.

MACHINERY ON HAND.

MONTREAL, Que., March 9.—The Montreal Gazette to-day publishes the following despatch from its Ottawa correspondent:—

"A turnover tax of two per cent. on sales of manufactures to wholesalers and on sales from wholesalers to retailers, or an increase in the sales tax to a maximum of four per cent., an increase in the corporation income tax from eight to ten per cent., and an increase in the postage charge on newspapers from one cent per pound to 1½ or 2 cents are regarded as the present best guesses on the proposals to the Government to solve the problem in the fiscal year which commences three weeks hence, of dropping revenues and increasing outlays.

"It is estimated that a two per cent. impost on turnover would yield a revenue of $80,000,000 with little additional cost of collection, as the machinery for such work already exists in connection with the direct taxation resulting from the war. It is also computed by experts that every one per cent. rise in the sales tax means about $25,000,000 more for the Treasury, so that an increase from the present rate of one per cent. to four per cent. would mean about $75,000,000 more revenue."

GOV'T PROMISES ALL BEEN KEPT

Armand Lavergne Urges Dominion Be Changed to Kingdom of Canada.

HAVE VICEROY AS HEAD.

QUEBEC, Que., March 9. (CP)—Reaffirmation of his belief in the British Empire as the important factor in the growth of the Dominion of Canada, and insistence on the necessity of equal liberties for the two great races of the country, was made by Armand Lavergne, K.C., Conservative Member for Montmagny and Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, at banquet tendered him by local Conservatives Saturday night.

The principles of the Conservative party allied with the Nationalist doctrines formed the main theme of the speech. Reviewing the work of the Conservative Government since its inception at Ottawa, Mr. Lavergne contended that Premier Bennett's promises had been kept.

Mr. Lavergne voiced the opinion that the country should hence forward be known as the Kingdom of Canada so that instead of having a Governor General, His Majesty would be directly represented by a Viceroy. Decorations should be re-established, he thought, and the "abnormal situation" by which foreign powers may confer decorations on Canadians, but not King George, should be ended.

The banquet was attended by nearly four hundred people, among whom was Hon. Maurice Dupre, Solicitor-General.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 9. (CP)—Prime mercantile paper 2¾-2¾ per cent.

Foreign exchange steadier, demand rates (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Great Britain 4.85 11-16, France 3.91½, Italy 5.23 7-16, Germany 23.79, Canadian dollars at par.

WORST STORM

then came the flood. Dams on the river were in jeopardy as the water surged down the river in an ever-rising torrent. Dams broke in the upper lakes and the debris broke holes in the two dams at Auburn. Dickson's dam was swept away, and its broken timbers piled against the Rogers dam causing it to burst. The lock's dam below Little Lake let go.

The Gas Plant was flooded beneath three feet of water and it was possible to paddle a canoe up George street as far as Dalhousie street. Farm property for hundreds of acres on the sides of the river were innundated.

Thus came and went the greatest snow storm in Peterborough's history.

DUNDEE WINS 2-0.

MACASSA ISSUE GAINS 12 POINTS

Action Confined on Standard List Except for One or Two Stocks.

HIGH-PRICED GOLDS STEADY.

TORONTO, Ont., March 9. (CP)—Beyond one or two features action was confined and somewhat mixed in trend during the forenoon on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day.

Macassa, which is expected to announce refinancing plans in the near future, saw unusually heavy turnover towards noon and a net price gain from Saturday of 12 at 35. Siscoe and Eldorado also were firmer, but Howey and Kirkland Lake gold lost a cent or so each. Wright-Hargreaves recovered 8 to $2.10, Dome continued strong and other higher-priced golds were steady. Penny stocks displayed an easier tone.

Sherritt Gordon regained 4 to $1.15 and Ventures was up 3 to 57. Chibougamou Prospectors sold somewhat lower, but the balance of the base metal group showed little change. McLeod River Mining Corp. was called for trading on the unlisted section and sold around 22 to 23 cents.

In the oil group Nordon moved up a couple and Home Oil recovered 4 to $1.04.

Winnipeg Review

Special Service to The Examiner through the courtesy of E. J. Bawlf Company, Grain and Stock Brokers, of Toronto

There was no feature to the wheat market yesterday although prices were firm and practically higher throughout the short session. Offerings were again light, the support being a little buyingby mills and commission houses, while there was a little short covering from time to time. Export business was insignificant only a few loads being confirmed, following an improved business Friday when Canadian sales were around 700,000 bushels, while the U.S. Farm Board worked 150,000 a total from North America of 850,000 bushels. The worst snow storm of the season now prevailing over Ills. and eastward with all winter wheat states having received plenty of moisture the past 48 hours, while failing to have much effect on the wheat market is expected to be highly beneficial for the new crop, and has removed apprehension regarding dry weather. Broomhall reported that the further bad weather prevails in France and considerable winter acreage will have to be abandoned as it is too late to re-sow winter wheat. The local cash market continued dull with very little offered. There was nothing new in the flour situation, domestic demand being fair with nothing doing in export channels. Local sentiment appears to be a little friendly to wheat for a moderate upturn of a few cents. Liverpool cables stated their weakness was due to a very slow demand with offerings fairly liberal. Buenos Aires closed 1-8 to ¼ higher.

Coarse grains.—These markets were extremely dull and featureless. Prices held steady in sympathy with the upturn in wheat. Oats, barley and rye closed about 1-8 higher. Flax market was firmer, practically recovering the decline of yesterday, but there was very little going on.

Liverpool cables due 5-8 to ¾ higher based on Winnipeg.

One hundred musicians of the London Symphony Orchestra made a concert tour of Great Britain and Ireland in a special train this season.

MOTORS STRONG TORONTO MART

Durant Moves Steadily Ahead to Reach High For Year on Increasing Turnover.

Goodyear Tire Follows Lead.

TORONTO, Ont., March 9. (CP)—Motors were strong throughout the morning on Toronto Stock Exchange to-day.

Durant came out slightly higher and moved ahead resolutely on an increasing turnover the first hour. The stock reached the highest in a long time above 11. The extent of the rise attracted some selling for profit but this was absorbed with only a small set-back. Durant's rise was a continuation of the strength which has carried it upward from around 7. The jump to-day was accounted for by the admission that negotiations were going on for the manufacture of Hudson cars in the Durant plant.

Ford also was strong and fractionally higher, reflecting an advance in the motor group in New York.

Goodyear Tire jumped with the motors, the common rising 4 points to 109. Photo Engraver was firm and fairly active at 25.

STORM GENERAL

to bring traffic back to normal. Highway traffic on Saturday night was almost at a complete standstill, scores of cars being stranded overnight, while the lashing wind with a heavy fall of snow filled in the highways which but a few hours before had been virtually bare.

Seven inches of snow fell over the week-end.

Windsor District.

WINDSOR, March 9 (C.P.).—The worst blizzard of the winter swept down upon Windsor and Essex County early Saturday night. A howling wind which at times reached a velocity of fifty miles an hour, and driving the snow in blinding sheets before it, tore down light poles and high tension wires and plunged portions of the border cities in darkness.

It put street cars out of operation for nearly three hours, halted bus service and disrupted ferry boats' schedule on the Detroit River. Street cars left city rails and blocked the lines even after the wires had been repaired and power restored to normal.

In Hamilton District.

HAMILTON, March 9 (C.P.). — Hamilton to-day struggled to dig itself out from the heaviest snowstorm in many years, and found the task too heavy to accomplish in a single day. Transportation facilities are completely paralyzed, streets and highways are blocked by many feet of soggy snow, and the downy flakes this morning were continuing to add inches to the already overwhelming blanket.

The storm started at midnight on Saturday, accompanied by a howling wind from the east. By Sunday morning, the snow was deep enough to halt all but the belt line of the street railway.

KINGSTON, Ont., March 9 (C.P.). —With a snowfall of eighteen inches during the week-end, Kingston and the surrounding district struggled to have traffic resumed. In the city the storm of Sunday was severe and tied up all traffic though no damage to telephone or telegraph wires was reported.

The highways were in bad shape, however, because of drifts, and there was little traffic moving. To-day snowplows were ordered to clear the highways.

Petty Thief Saved From His Victim

SIMCOE, Ont., Mar. 9.—(C.P.) Local Provincial police are congratulating themselves upon saving one or more lives as a result of prompt action in a case in Charlotteville township. A farmer suspected that wood was being systematically stolen from his woodpile, and being unable to discover by other means the identity of the thief, bored two holes in a piece of wood and inserted two shotgun shells.

He expected the subsequent results, when the wood was placed upon a fire to lead him to the home of the thief.

Fortunately police found the thief before the wood reached the fire or results might have been disastrous.

ROADS BLOCKED NEAR LINDSAY

Busses and Other Vehicular Traffic Tied Up as Result of Storm.

NURSE USES SNOWSHOES.

LINDSAY, Ont., March 9 (Special to The Examiner).—This town is this morning slowly digging itself out of the worst snow-storm in the memory of the oldest inhabitants. The downfall of the "Beautiful" started early Saturday evening to the accompaniment of a stiff gale, which increased in velocity during the night, continued all day Sunday and let up this morning. The downfall has been so heavy that vehicular traffic was completely tied up on the streets of the town. The Toronto bus managed to reach Lindsay during the day after a terrific battle along the highway, but could not make the return trip. The highways leading to the town are completely blocked and are dotted here and there with stalled cars, with the tops only showing above the drifts.

The C.N.R. authorities had every available plough in the yards out on Sunday endeavoring to keep the Haliburton, Coboconk, Whitby, Toronto and Port Hope lines clear. This is giving employment to an increased number of men. There was one train from the north this morning, and reports from that district indicate that there was a demoralization of railway and highway traffic.

The C.P.R. morning train from Bobcaygeon reached here this morning and left on time for Toronto. It had a plow attached and the officials claimed that it would make Toronto.

The snow is so deep on the main street of the town that the taxi service is demoralized. Piles of snow six and seven feet in height are in evidence along the thoroughfare and the spectacle was witnessed this morning of a nurse using snowshoes in order to reach the Ross Memorial Hospital. Traffic on the Lindsay-Peterborough highway is completely blocked, but it will likely be resumed shortly, as the Provincial Highway Dept, plough will, it is expected, operate on the stretch to-day.

Albans in the custody of railway and immigration authorities.

Case Passes On.

Appeal was made to the St. Alban's Board of Charities and this board decided it had no authority in the case, as Dorothy was born in New York. The appeal was carried to the Vermont State Charities Board which ruled that the State of Vermont was in no way responsible for Dorothy. The case was then referred to United States Government legal authorities who officially said the United States was not responsible for Dorothy's care. A final appeal was carried to the New York State Charities officials, which resulted in a ruling by that body to the effect that the State was not responsible for the baby's care, but that the New York Board felt the community and state in which the child was abandoned shou'd be held responsible.

Faced with the scores of pages of official rulings and with the knowledge that the railway maintained no facilities for the care of infants, immigration authorities here enlisted the active co-operation of a prominent Burlington resident, a member of the National Jewish Immigration Committee, who arranged for a conference of United States Immigration, New York Public Welfare, New York City Public Charities, and Jewish Board of Guardians' officials, with the result that Dorothy has been given a home in an institution of the Jewish Board of Guardians.

MISSING HINDU FOUND IN RIVER

Body is Headless—Evidence Involves Alleged Murder Ring.

EIGHTH MYSTERY DEATH.

RIO VIA, Calif., March 9. (Special) Equipped with positive identification of a headless man's body found anchored to a tractor wheel in the Sacramento River and chain of circumstantial evidence involving an alleged Hindu murder ring, state and county authorities to-day began a roundup of suspects. The body was identified as that of Sant Ram Pande 32, University of California student and Sacramento police department interpreter by Clarence S. Morrel, State Bureau of Criminal Indentification Chief.

Sheriff J. R. Thornton of Solano County said Pande's death marked the eighth mysterious Hindu killing in California in the last five years. Pande, who Sheriff Thornton said, caused college students to investigate previous slayings of his countrymen was last seen on February 24 by Morrel in whose office Pande's finger prints were taken, the Hindu explained they would serve as identification purposed in case something happened.

The Hindu was believed to have been kidnapped from the Capitol steps. Known as an outspoken adverse of home-rule in India Pande often discussed the alleged murder ring, with Morrel. Sheriff Thornton said he believed the faction favoring Gandhi's independence movement was responsible for Pande's death.

ADVANCE SHIFTS TO MOTOR LIST

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—(C.P.)—Bull forces shifted their favor from the electric power shares to the motors in to-day's stock market, but were unable to keep the list headed upward after mid-day. The market wobbled uncertainly during the afternoon.

The news of the week-end included reports of moderate improvement in automobilesales, and further gains in steel mill output in the Youngstown and Chicago areas. Business surveys generally, however, were not favorable enough to discourage the bear faction, and the advance in share prices was checked by flurries of selling in the oil nad motion picture issues, and in U. S. Steel, which slid off more than a point.

Both General Motors and Chrysler rose a point to new high prices for 1931. A few shares surged up 3 to more than 6 points, including Electric Autolite, Auburn, American Woolen preferred, Case, General Railway Signal and Aluminum. Shares of 2 or more included Nash, Mack Truck, Eastman and Timken Roller Bearing. A wide assortment of issues sold up a point or more including Studebaker, Stewart, Warner, Borg Warner, American Telephone, General Electric, American Can, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth and Kroger. In the oils, Standard of N. J. sagged 2 to a new low for 1931. Atchison lost 4 points, Allied Chemical 3, and North American and Warner Bros. lost a point or so.

HARDY TOURIST !

Believe it or not, but despite the unseasonable weather there was a tourist in the city this morning. She comes from Scotland, and halted Police Sergeant A. Thomas while he was on patrol, in order that she might "snap" him to show the folks back home just what a Canadian police officer looked like. She informed him that she had a son on the famous Metropolitan Force in London, and was surprised to learn that the burly sergeant also had a relative on the same force.

INDIAN DENIES SKELETON FOUND IS REMAINS OF WARRIOR TECUMSEH

Claims Bones Are Those of Man Named After Famous Chieftain.

KNOWS WHERE GRAVE IS.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Mar. 9.—Jacob Logan, an Indian, 89 years of age, who is spending the winter at the home of his nephew, Aloneo Logan, Warehouse street, St. Thomas, declares that the bones of an Indian found on Walpole Island are not those of Tecumseh, the Indian warrior, but are those of a man who at birth was named after the great Chief, a customary thing after his death in the War of 1812.

Jacob Logan asserts he overheard the whole story of the death of Tecumseh when he was a boy of 14 from the lips of his grandfather, Ibram Huff, and Jacob Fesson, one of Tecumseh's followers.

Fessons story was to the effect that after Tecumseh had been killed in the battle near Thamesville camp he made his followers promise they would hide him where the enemy would not find him.

When he died the body was carried to the north shore of the Longways Road by Fessons, Yellow Fish, Bull Horn, and another man and placed without a coffin, in a hole dug at the root of an upturned tree.

His tomahawk, war club, musket, bayonet and knife were placed in the grave with him. The burial spot, Jacob Logan says, was not on the Reserve but on white man's land, and he declares he knows the exact farm and place. Logan declares Tecumseh was shot just before the British army crossed the base line road, on the north side, near the River Thames on a farm afterwards known as the Tecumseh farm.

Unique Record Set By Poultry Flocks

A flock of fifteen White Leghorn hens with a very high laying record and owned by E. J. Waterman, 519 Romaine street, has been brought to the notice of The Examiner. The birds, May pullets, purchased by Mr. Waterman from Welsh's Poultry Farm, Park Hill road, have laid a total of 1,189 eggs from November 1st, last up to March 6th. The monthly average of production has been 267 eggs. The complete monthly record is as follows: November 341, December 338, January 241, February 228, March 1st-6th, 41.

Another enviable has been established by a flock of Barred Rocks owned by M. F. Bayliss, 26 New Chamberlain street. His birds were hatched from eggs purchased from H. Taylor of Otonabee. He has fifty-five birds in his pen, who have laid 2,468 eggs from December 7th to March 6th, an average of 45 eggs each bird during this period. The peak of production was reached on January 4th, when they laid a total of 43 eggs.

He stressed the value of missionaries who went in among the people and showed them that men could remain aloof from temptation and remain pure and undaunted even in the Arctic isolation. The Arctic called for men but strong men were required, the speaker pointed out as he brought his splendid address to a fitting close with an apt quotation from Robert Service.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian H. R. H. Kenner and a vote of thanks was proposed by Rotarian Dr. Bannister who expressed the appreciation of Rotarians to Ven. Archdeacon Fleming. Among the guests was Rev. Douglas Patterson of All Saints, an old friend of the speaker of the day.

MEN CAN GET WORK AT SHOVELING SNOW

Many Homes Prepared to Give a Lift to the Man Out of Work.

The Examiner has had a number of telephone messages from residents stating they would give work to any unemployed man who would call, shovelling the snow around their homes, but in many cases no one has applied.

Jobs may be had on George street north, Charlotte northwest, Gilmour, Homewood and Weller streets that we know of.

Men need not hesitate to apply for this kind of work as our citizens are disposed to help out in this manner in most cases.

GIRL IS STABBED WHILE SLEEPING BY CRAZED LOVER

Montreal Workman Finishes Deed By Strangling Victim to Death.

POLICE CALLED IN.

Landlord Seizes Killer as He Attempts to Slash His Wife.

MONTREAL, Que., March 9.—(CP)—A sleeping girl, Cecile Mondor, aged 28, was stabbed twice in the left breast and then strangled to death early today in a rooming house here. Detectives arrested a Paul Henri Warren, aged 26, said to be her lover.

Lunges For Landlady

Witnesses in the house told detectives that Warren, who works at night, apparently was the victim of a sudden dementia when he returned home this morning. He suddenly dashed down the stairs with a knife in his hand and lunged for the landlady. Her husband leaped on Warren and disarmed him. Then he went upstairs and found the Mondor girl dead in bed, her attitude suggesting that she had been asleep when she was killed.

Detectives rushed to the scene and immediately placed Warren under arrest, while the body of the girl was removed to the morgue.

Acted From Mercy

Mercy and compassion arising out of the girl's fear of disgrace in bearing an illegitimate child prompted Warren to kill his sweetheart according to an alleged confession in the hands of the police.

The young man, according to police, pleaded he was actuated only by humane motives. He said the girl was about to become a mother.

MRS. ARMSTRONG GIVES ADDRESS

Percy Branch of Women's Institute Meets at Home of Mrs. George Palmateer.

COTTON DEMONSTRATION.

NORHAM, March 9. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The monthly meeting of the Percy Branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Palmateer, Norham, on Wednesday when the president, Mrs. Lorne Evans was in the chair.

After the opening exercises and the transaction of business, Mrs. Harper kindly offered her home for the next meeting

The roll call was answered by a superstition and the answers were both humorous and interesting. The ladies in charge of the program were Mrs. Morrow, Mrs. Dingman and Mrs. W. Campbell.

A demonstration of articles made from a yard of cotton was very interesting and suggestive—aprons, pillow cases, children's waists and numerous other articles were shown.

The program opened with the singing of "The Maple Leaf" and Mrs. (Dr.) Armstrong gave an excellent paper on "Canadian Industries."

Mrs. Armstrong dealt with the different industries giving the products from each. She said agriculture was the oldest and most important industry. Canada is second only to the United States in the exporting of flour and raised 1-8 of the wheat of the world.

"Other products of Agriculture were barley, oats, peas, beans, etc., used in making cereals and the canning industry. maple syrup and honey are also products, 80% of the maple syrup of Canada comes from Quebec.

The fishing industry of Canada is increasing but the foreign market is not so good, so more fish should be used in home consumption.

The Canadian forests produce wood, paper, pulp wall board, etc.

Canada also produces woollens, rayons and celanese. Therefore, we as Canadians, should patronize Canada-made articles.

This also applies to magazines as so much American literature is preferred to the good reading found in our Canadian magazines."

Mrs. Harper gave a very interesting paper on St. Patrick, giving an account of his birth and home and life. She said the Shamrock was sacred to the Irish because the three leaves stood for the Trinity. Killarney was sung by the ladies present.

Mrs. David Evans gave a very humorous reading "Speak soft to the de'il."

Mrs. Morrow read a poem, "I want to go to-morrow." A contest, finding the most words in the word St. Patrick" was won by Mrs. Lorne Evans.

Lunch was served and about 40 ladies were present.

Class Meets.

The Sunshine Class of Norham Sunday School held their monthly meeting at the home of the President, Gordon Mitchell, on Wednesday evening.

Will Thatcher had charge of the devotional part of the meeting and was assisted by Ewart Huycke, Frank Muggridge, Ida Clare and Mrs. D. Knight.

Miss Lucille Lean had charge of the program.

Lorne Mitchell gave an interesting reading "Tips on how to be a failure." Miss Edna Evans entertained those present with an enjoyable piano solo.

A berry contest was won by Ida Clare, Lorne Mitchell and Everett Newman.

After playing several games lunch was served by the Social Department under the leadership of Wesley Clare. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and sons, for their kind hospitality, was given on behalf of the class by Ewart Huycke.

FAVORITES FOR THE GRAND NATIONAL STEEPLECHASE

TRIO OF CANDIDATES FOR BIG RACE

No turf event anywhere attracts as much attention as the Grand National Steeplechase over four miles which is run annually at Aintree, England, and which will be held this year on March 27. Great fields usually start but generally only a few finish the trying course with its tremendous obstacles in the shape of six feet high hedges and wide water jumps. Among the favorites this year are: No. 1, Amberwave, owned by Lady Helen McCalmont, shown ABOVE, with Mr. J. O'Brien in the saddle; No. 2, Easter Hero (R. Everett up), and No. 3, Mr. M. D. Blair's Ballyhanwood, who seems to be full of run if the above snap is any indication.

PLEASING PROGRAM AT STIRLING MEET

Mrs. A. Bissonnette Reads Interesting Paper on Life of St. Patrick.

STIRLING, March 9. (Examiner Correspondence.)—The W. I. met in the community hall on Thursday evening, with a large attendance.

After business was completed, a paper was given by Mrs. A. Bissonnette on "St. Patrick."

Stirling 50 Years Ago

Reeve T. Montgomery gave a most interesting address on "Conditions in our village a half century ago."

"At that time our burg was quite an industrial centre much larger than Campbellford, which is now a town. There were no cars, not even a railroad through. Flour was made at a large grist mill taken over the trails to Belleville, in barrels.

A few used coal oil lamps but many thought the tallow candle safer.

Mr. Martin had a store where shoes were manufactured by hand, about 10 men would be employed.

Jesse Barlow had a tannery here.

A boy would work 16 hours a day for $12 a month and board.

A great deal of the land around the village was used as a sheep commons.

The farmers rarely hired help, but made a bee if they had a big field to cradle.

They raised a big field of corn and had many a husking bee.

Happy was the young man who possessed a "top buggy." Mr. Montgomery when a young man drove Dr. Bucan to West Huntingdon, with a cart and yoke of oxen

The matter of school education was in the hands of severe teachers who did not try to win the confidence of the pupils but ruled by fear."

Charles Allen gave a pleasing piano instrumental. Cena Spry gave a paper on, "Curtains for every room in the house." There are many things to be considered, the size of the room, the direction from which the light comes, a north window needs a cheerful note, an over drape suggesting warmth.

FEDERAL HOUSE

of the Imperial Conference, and proceedings were handled with despatch in order that the Prime Minister and members of the Government might represent Canada at that important gathering of Empire statesmen. Consequently the first session was an "emergency" meeting of parliament, as distinguished from the regular. During the coming session there will be less inclination, at least on the part of those opposed to the Government, to hurry business through. There will be more of a tendency to canvass thoroughly and criticize Government measures as they come down.

Two Vacancies in Commons

Parliament will meet with two vacancies in the Commons and possibly one in the Senate. In the Commons, one of the vacancies is in Hamilton East, Ontario, and the other in Three Rivers, Quebec. The fact that these vacancies exist does not mean a change in the status of the parties in the Commons, as the former member for East Hamilton was a Conservative, and of Three Rivers, a Liberal. The vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of Senator J. G. Turiff, may, of course, be filled at any time by order-in-council. Senator Turriff, who called himself a Progressive, generally gave his support to the Liberals. He was the only Progressive member of the Upper Chamber.

While official announcement of the sessional programme is reserved for the Speech from the Throne, sufficient information is available to indicate that it will be fairly formidable. As indicated at the outset, the fiscal year will be nearly run by the time the members gather in the Commons Chamber. The end of March means also the end of Government appropriations for the fiscal year. Consequently, if the public service is to go on and be paid, money must be provided without delay. Supplies are obtained in such periods of stringency through the introduction of an interim supply bill granting to the Government a proportion of the total amount of the estimates for the coming fiscal year. Such a measure will doubtless be brought down very soon after parliament meets, the Opposition agreeing to the vote on understanding that by so doing their approval is not given to any specific item in the estimates.

It is agreed generally that the tariff will be the focal point of the entire session. A general revision of the schedules had been forecasted for some time, and briefs to the number of about a thousand showered upon the Government. Public hearings, promised at the last session, have been held. They took place on but a few days, and occupied only three or four hours. But the public was given an opportunity to appear and make representations an opportunity of which very few availed themselves.

What will the Government do with the tariff? This question has already begun to agitate the minds of a large number of people. It will continue to do so until Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, in his capacity of Finance Minister, presents the budget. The emergency session saw important increases in certain schedules. Textile duties were given a sharp increase. Some of the iron and steel rates were advanced appreciably. There were increased in certain of the agricultural schedules, as well as in those of a number of miscellaneous articles. The avowed purpose of the changes was to give increased employment in Canada by providing a larger home market. At the coming session the Government will be asking to state whether or not this purpose has been accomplished.

Budget Changes Expected

The next budget will, it is expected provide for a large number of additional changes. It may even provide for a large number of additional changes. It may even provide for doing away with some of those made at the emergency session. But the expectation is that the tariff will be given a fairly thorough overhauling, in the light of evidence gathered by the former Tariff Commission and of the thousand briefs now on hand. Consequently, the budget statement overshadows everything else in the sessional programme.

Intimations are heard also that Mr. Bennett will initiate a period of rigid economy by lopping off several millions from the total estimates which the Government will ask parliament to approve. The financial statement which he will present to the Commons will necessarily show a deficit for the present fiscal year. Just what amount it will be remains for the Finance Minister to say, but it will probably approach a hundred million dollars. In addition to this a deficit on the operation of the Canadian National Railways for the year is predicted. For this provision must be made.

It is somewhat difficult to indicate the specific measures which the Government will bring before parliament. The Technical Education Act will be re-enacted, and there will be a bill to provide for a greater contribution from the Federal Treasury for old age pensions. During the election campaign the Prime Minister intimated his willingness to pay all, or nearly all, the sum required for these pensions, provided this was satisfactory to the provinces. However, the constitutional question has been raised, and there is some doubt how far the Government may go in assuming the obligation. The general expectation is that an Old Age Pension Bill will be brought down.

It was the intention of the Government to introduce a measure for the organization and control of radio in Canada. Recommendations of the Aird Commission, which provide for nationalization of radio in the Dominion, were assumed to be the basis of the proposed legislation. But here again the question of jurisdiction has come to the front. The Supreme Court is being asked to determine whether or not radio is a matter of federal or provincial jurisdiction. Its decision will probably be the subject of an appeal to the Privy Council. All this takes time, and consequently the Government's radio bill may have to go over until another session. There would be little use of passing a measure which might later be annulled by a decision of the highest court in the Empire.

Farm Relief Expected

Measures of farm relief are expected. Provision for seed grain will be made. The general view is held also that the Prime Minister will lay before the House proposals for assisting the Western farmer, who lost so heavily as a result of depressed wheat prices, to get on his feet again. Just what form the legislation will take remains to be seen. Loans for farmers, and even direct financial grants have been mentioned, but no exact official statement of just what is intended has been made. It is reasonably certain, however, that something will be done along lines of relief to the western wheat grower.

There seems to be little likelihood now, that Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who is recovering from an operation, will take any active part in proceedings of parliament until after Easter. Consequently such matters as a new trade agreement with Australia, and steps for the rehabilitation of the price of silver will probably go over until that time. Mr. Stevens conducted negotiations for the new Australian agreement with Hon. Parker Moloney, Minister of Trade and Customs for the Commonwealth. He has also taken a great interest in development of the Oriental market for Canadian wheat. The latter project is predicted on the restoration of silver prices, a matter to which Mr. Stevens has given a good deal of thought. With a view to promoting the Chinese market for Canadian wheat, Hon. Mr. Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to Japan, made a trip to China recently, and reported the result to the Government. It is probable that his conclusions will be laid before parliament.

The St. Lawrence Waterways, one of the hardy annuals of the Dominion parliament, will again come to the front during the session about to open. Since the emergency session of parliament, Mr. Bennett has conferred with President Hoover in Washington. No official statement revealing the nature of the conference or the subjects discussed has been given out. It is practically certain, however, that the St. Lawrence waterways formed the subject of at least part of the discussion, and some conclusion may have been arrived at. Parliament will want to know what these are. If none were reached, parliament will expect to be apprised of that fact, and the reasons for it.

THE ROBOT AT THE HELM

HERE is a struggle of intense interest to all music lovers. If the Robot of Canned Music wrests the helm from the Muse, passengers aboard the good ship Musical Culture may well echo the offer of Gonzalo to trade "a thousand furlongs of sea for an acre of ground." Are you content to face a limitless expanse of "sound" without a sign of music?

Monotony in the theatre—corruption of taste—destruction of art. These must inevitably follow substitution of mechanical music for living music.

ATLANTIC COAST GRIPPED BY GALE, TOLL RUNS HIGH

Series of Auto Crashes During Storm Claims 14 Lives.

DRIFTS BLOCK ROADS.

Many Injured By Falling Trees —Waterfronts, Cottages Washed Away.

NEW YORK, N.Y., March 9 (C.P.).—Lashing the Atlantic seaboard from the Carolinas to the tip of Maine, a snow-laden gale left in its wake today death, injuries, and property damage.

Starting Saturday night and continuing unabated through most of Sunday, snow and rain centered its fury on New York State and on New England. Seven were killed in New York State and on New England. Seven were killed in New York City in automobile accidents attributable to the storm.

Four were killed in an automobile accident at West Haven, Conn., and three at Glens Falls, N.Y. Many were hurt by falling signs, trees and telephone poles. Long stretches of waterfront were gnawed away on Long Island, and summer homes were swept out to sea.

Church Roof Torn Off.

The snow in New York City melted as fast as it came. The roof of a Bronx church was torn off, endangering the lives of 200 children. Lighting systems were wrenched out of order. The Jersey meadows were transformed into lakes, through which trains sloshed cautiously. The tide rose almost to the top of the Battery sea wall for the first time in many years.

A snowstorm laid a white mantle over Northern New York—as deep as 8½ inches at Rochester. The storm swirled through the Adirondacks, blocking roads and stalling automobiles. Railroads had snow plows out north of Albany.

It was not entirely an ill wind, however, for the rain dropped billions of gallons of sorely needed water in New York City reservoirs and put snow shovels in the hands of impoverished men up state.

P.C.I. Team Falls Before Stamford Collegiate

CITY QUINTET DEFEATED BY 39—26 IN THE FINALS OF C. O. S. S. A. PLAY-OFFS

Niagara Winners Show Much Superior Form in Passing Attack.

LEAD FROM FIRST.

Garnet and Grey Win From Collingwood 34-17 in the Semi-finals.

The Peterborough Collegiate basketball team passed out of the 1931 C.O.S.S.A. play-downs, when they fell before a fast moving Stamford Collegiate quintette in the finals played in Toronto Saturday afternoon.

Both squads won their semi-final contests decisively Friday evening—the Stamford boys literally sweeping the Belleville Collegiate team before them and he Garnet and Grey team having little difficulty handing the Collingwood entry a 34-17 set back.

Both squads had a fine crowd of supporters and a packed gymnasium greeted the teams.

The Niagara winners showed exceptional form in their passing attack and particularly in the first half had the P.C.I. squad at sea. However the "Petes" came back strongly in the final frame and showed the fans fine basketball to run up 18 points and with the opposition weakening somewhat, could have added more to their total if time had permitted.

Fouls proved the undoing of the "Petes" and no less than sixteen were called against them by referee Hutchison. By these fouls the opposition benefited by 12 points and it was heart breaking to see the boys from the Niagara Peninsula drop in the free tosses. Ward, in particular being highly successful.

Superior Combination

The Stamford boys displayed wonderful combination and together with a packed five-man defence presented a mean proposition to the P.C.I. outfit. The garnet team went to work in a business like manner and led by Howie Macdonald, with 8 points, Vern Armstrong with 7 and Art Ward and Nels Stanger with 4 each, turned in a very creditable effort.

The regulars carried the brunt of the scoring attack during the entire two day tuornament and despite the fact that the boys were beginning to feel weary towards the close of the final fray, the pace was faster than at any other time during the game.

Every one of the winning squad turned in a nice card and the boys should do well in their next fixtures. Carl Ward stood out as their scoring "ace" and the tall forward accounted for 21 markers. The other forwards appeared quite ordinary but worked in nicely on combination efforts.

The "Petes" tried hard at all times but their fine effort in the last half fell a little short of bringing them up to the opposition.

Regulars Are Good

The regular forward line played nice combination and Wib Ward, Jack Wolstenholme and Nels Stanger supported the others in fine style.

As stated before, fouls proved costly to P.C.I. and Kelly and Reynolds, defence men, were the worst offenders with 4 and 3 respectively.

In a final spurt in the last session Macdonald Armstrong, Art Ward and Jack Wolstenholme, let loose and drove the Stamford team back on the defensive for over half the period.

Their fine effort however, fell 13 points short and the local team were forced to take a 39-26 defeat.

The local Collegiate has enjoyed an exceptionally fine basketball season and may derive consolation in the fact that they won their group and went into the finals before being eliminated.

The teams:

Stamford, 39—Forwards, Ward, 21; Finaly 4. Centre, Chisholm, 7. Defence, Rennie, 2; Graham, Alternates, Ruth, 7; Wade, 2; Montgomery.

INDIANS HOLD LEAGUE RECORD

Springfield Scores Two Victories Over Week-end For 54 Point Average.

BOSTON CUBS THIRD.

BOSTON, Mass., March 9 (C.P.)—The Springfield Indians, who have dominated the Canadian-American Hockey League race during the current season, banged out two victories last week to boost their points to a 54, a new record. The Providence Reds, last year's champions, piled up 53 points during the entire season.

The Reds now trail the Indians by three and a half games, and the Boston Bruins-Cubs appear to have clinched the third place play-off berth.

The official standing, including games of March 7, follows:

	W.	L.	T.	Goals F.	A.	Pts.
Springfield	26	7	2	147	83	54
Providence	21	8	5	113	71	27
Boston	13	19	4	86	101	30
Philadelphia	10	22	4	73	101	24
New Haven	8	22	5	60	123	21

Obs Heximer, Springfield forward, who has been the league's leading scorer most of the season, caged four goals during the week, thereby increasing his point total to 54, exactly 20 more than the totals of the Providence pair, "Cizzy" Hart and Leo Gaudreault, and Eddie Burke of Boston, all of whom are tied for second place, with 34 points. Hart, however, has caged 23 goals to 19 for Gaudreault, and 17 for the Boston centre.

Eddie Convey of New Haven finished another week as the league's highest penalty carrier. He has served a total of 98 minutes in the penalty box to date. "Bud" Cook of Providence, and Nichols of Philadelphia, each have been banished for totals of 95 minutes.

STARS SUFFER DOUBLE LOSS OVER WEEK-END

Lose to Cleveland Indians 7-5 on Saturday and Bisons 5-3 on Sunday.

FIGHT AT SYRACUSE.

State Troopers Called to Quell Riot—Holmes and Murray Start Hostilities.

TORONTO, Ont., March 9 C.P.).—The Syracuse Stars, cellar occupants, figured prominently in the week-end activities in the International Hockey League. After losing a close and exciting game to Cleveland Indians, 7 to 5, Stars returned to their home stamping grounds and suffered another defeat this time at the hands of Buffalo Bisons, 5 to 3, after ten minutes' overtime.

The lowly ones took their defeat gracefully enough at Cleveland, but at home it was a different story. One of the worst scenes enacted in modern hockey occurred in the final frame when the flashes of belligerency noted as the game progressed broke out in open warfare in the last frame. Bill Holmes, captain of the Stars and Red Murray, hard hitting Bison defenceman, started the fireworks by clouting one another with their sticks. A free-for-all threatened to develop then and there, but the referee managed to get the players to the penalty box to serve major sentences, but here hostilities broke out anew and 5,000 excited fans joined in the melee with hearty vocal support. More than a score of fans attempted to get close enough to help Holmes pummel the Buffalonian, but State troopers arrived on the double, leaped the boards, and dashed across the ice surface to the rescue. Some of the spectators prominent in the attack were marched out of the rink.

The Indians' triumph over the Stars enabled them to tie Windsor Bulldogs for second place, 11 points behind the Bisons, who have the top rung clinched.

In the third fixture the Bisons on aSturday night defeated London Tecumsehs, 1 to 0, and prevented the Canadian squad from gaining a more solid hold on third place.

The standing of teams to date:

Heavyweights To Hold Attention On Friday

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 9.—(C. P.)—Cauliflowers will bloom in Madison Square Garden this week after a week's absence and give an added touch of distinction to the National boxing schedule.

The Garden's Friday night show will be headed by a heavyweight duel between Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia Adonis, and Ernie Schaaf, rugged Boston battler. It will be their fourth meeting. Loughran caught the judges' eye in their first meeting but Schaaf won the next two on points and will be favored again.

On the basis of their comparative showing against Max Baer, Pacific Coast slugger, Loughran looks like the best bet. Schaaf took a close decision from Max while Loughran outpointed the California youngster by a tremendous margin.

The only other show of importance during the week pits Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, against Les Kennedy of Long Beach, Calif., at Los Angeles tomorrow night.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"STRANGE INTERLUDE"

Th play which is generally considered the very peak in achievement of America's foremost playwright, "Strange Interlude" by Eugene O'Neill, will be presented at the Grand Opera House today by the Theatre Guild, Inc., of New York, which produced it in the eastern metropolis early in 1928, where it ran for 75 capacity weeks and was awarded the Pulitzer Prize as "the best play of the year."

"Strange Interlude" is undoubtedly the greatest novelty the theatre has had in years. It is quite the longest play current, consisting of nine acts, though, of course, not the first drama of extensive length. It does not depend upon the regular lines of dialogue to tell its complete story, but trusts more to the 'asides'. By these, the hidden thoughts of each character are expressed. Oddly enough there is no apparent interruption of the dialogue, although the action remains static while one character of another is indulging himself in a chat with himself.

The play may be termed an epic of a woman's soul. Nina Leeds is a real creature, swayed by impulse and passion, constantly striving for the happiness which always seems just ahead. Depressed and changed in nature by the shattered romance of her youth, she is buffeted as a pawn of fate in the years that follow, marrying one man, loving another, and facing the sunset of life with a third.

The art of O'Neill is apparent everywhere throughout the nine long acts, during which he presents no superficial, matter-of-fact exposition, but a vibrant, serious, if also curious drama that strips bare the very souls of his men and women.

A carefully-chosen cast is promised by The Theatre Guild, Inc., of its own metropolitan players, five of them from the original production, including Elisabeth Risdon, Leonard Mudie, Elaine Cordner, Richard Barbee, Maud Durand, Maurice McRea, Ethel Westley, John J. Burns, Jack Grattan.

Playgoers should bear in mind that the performance begins precisely at 5.30 in the afternoon, with a dinner intermission from 7.40 to 9, and the final curtain descends at 11 o'clock.

AMERKS HOLD FIGHTING CHANCE OF RETAINING PLAY-OFF BERTh BY DEFEATING CHI HAWKS 2-1

Bruins Make Certain of Qualifying for Finals By Swamping Quakers 7-2.

MAROONS BEAT SENATORS.

Canadiens Assure Themselves of First Position, Blanking Falcons 2-0.

BY GEORGE MAGUIRE
(Canadian Press Sports Writer)

TORONTO, Ont., March 9.—Winning teams in the National Hockey League's week-end program of five games left little doubt as to their superiority. Only one match can be styled close and in that New York Americans retained a fighting chance to land a play-off berth in the Canadian section by nosing out Chicago Blackhawks, 2 to 1.

Toronto Maple Leafs maintained a four point gap between themselves and Montreal Maroons by outscoring New York Rangers, 5 to 2, in the Queen City, while the Montrealers defeated Ottawa Senators, 6 to 2. Boston Bruins made certain of qualifying for the league play-off when they swamped Philadelphia Quakers, 7 to 2. In the fifth scheduled fixture, Les Canadiens of Montreal, assured themselves of first position in the northern division and the honor of meeting the Bruins, by coasting through to a 2 to 0 victory over Detroit Falcons.

While the high scoring by winning teams might indicate one-sided contests, such was not the case at Toronto or Montreal. Lester Patrick's blue shirted hockeyists battled the Leafs stubbornly and on equal terms for 45 minutes. The score at this stage was one-all and anything seemed likely to happen and it did happen. Two Rangers were penalized and the Duncanites smartly rapped in three counters to clinch the verdict. Each team notched another tally before the conclusion, but the damage had been done and the Leafs just about made sure of finishing second in the standing as the schedule draws to a close.

Maroons outscored the Ottawans 3 to 1 in the first frame 2 to 1, in the second and one to nothing in the third, to hold their one point lead over the Americans in the race for the third perch.

Smith Injured

The victory, however, proved costly for Coach George Boucher's men as Reginald "Hooley" Smith, splendid playing right wing, suffered a broken wrist in the opening period which will keep him out of the game for the balance of the season.

The game was strenuously fought from start to finish but the Maroons displaying the sparkling form recently uncovered at Toronto, possessed the scoring punch that meant victory.

Alex Connell, the Ottawa goal-keeping wizard, suffered a nasty injury when a puck driven with bullet like velocity struck him on the nose. He gamely continued after repairs.

The Bostonians, after a slow beginning, did not encounter much opposition from the Quakers after they struck their stride. The Philadelphians notched the only goal of the first 20 minutes to give the Rossmen such a scare they promptly smacked home four tallies in the second session and three in the final chapter when the American group tail-enders also added another to their slim total.

Morens Not Playing

Despite the absence of Howie Morenz, rated the greatest centre in major league hockey, and who is leading all players in point scoring, the Flying Frenchmen, dealt the Falcon play-off prospects a body blow by their shoutout victory. Both goals came in the opening frame from the sticks of Aurel Joliat and Mondou but the Habitants continued to hold the upper hand until the last frame when the Detroiters sent five men up in a fruitless effort to score.

The motor magnates are still five points behind the Rangers and have five games to play while the New Yorkers have three.

Victory over Chicago gave the Amerks renewed life at Madison Square Garden, but while they are only one point behind the Maroons they have played one more game which may prove the deciding factor.

The Hawks took the lead last night in the second period only to have "Rabbit" McVeigh knot the count five minutes later and Billy Burch score the winning marker early in the last session.

OSHAWA OUTPLAYS STRATFORD 7-2

Pats Retain Slim Chance of Vaulting Into Play-off Berth By Victory.

TORONTO, Ont., March 9 (C.P.).—Only one game was played in the Ontario Hockey League on Saturday night, but the lone clash proved exciting in more ways than one. Oshawa Pats, occupants of the basement, showed the home town fans they are capable of displaying real hockey when they outskated and outscored the third place Stratford Nationals, 7 to 2.

Only three games remain on the schedule, but by their surprising victory the Pats retained a slim chance of vaulting into a play-off berth.

Guelph Maple Leafs head the parade with 32 points, while right behind is Niagara Falls with 31. Next comes the Nationalists with 30, and then Galt with 28. The Pats have 27 points while behind them trail the Kitchener-Silverwoods with 26.

To-night the Pats journey to Niagara Falls and a win, coupled with a loss for the Galtonians who are tackling the Silverwoods, will land the Oshawa hockeyists in the fourth and last dividend paying position. Guelph and Stratford meet in the third scheduled tilt.

SIX TEAMS ENTER O.H.A. PLAYOFFS

R. M. C. and Chatham Clash in Western City For Intermediate Title.

EVEN JUNIOR TEAMS.

TORONTO, Ont., March 9 (C.P.)—Entering the final week of championship competition six Ontario Hockey Association teams clash tonight.

The familiar Yellow and Black of the Tigers, renowned on gridiron and hockey surfaces, step out on the Allan Cup trail again, as they clash with the dark horse in the Provincial eliminations, Windsor Mic Macs. Tigers, present holders of the O.H.A. crown and winners this season of the Senior "A" series championship, were heavily favored to enter the next round but, at Windsor Saturday night they encountered unexpected stern opposition, and the Mic Macs, winners of the Senior "B" series title, nosed them out 3 to 2, in the first of the two-game series.

More or less of an unknown quantity, due to the fact they drew a bye in the regular schedule, the Windsorites may duplicate their astounding performance, but cold figures are against them. The Tigers play best when the odds are greatest. This they proved in eliminating Toronto Nationals and Port Colborne, and they are generally favored to come through with victory.

Royal Military College of Kingston and Chatham clash in the Western Ontario City in the first of home-and-home games for the Intermediate championship and the right to meet the Northern Ontario Hockey Association representataives in the Allan Cup playdowns. As a winner must be declared to pit against the Northerners on Thursday, the teams will play the second tussle at Kingston tomorrow night.

PAINFUL PILES STIFF JOINTS

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription — HEM-ROID —to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

SOFTBALL CLUB ORGANIZED

COBOURG, March 9. — The fact that another softball club at Port Hope has organized for the season, indicates that spring is believed to be just around the corner. The Port Hope Sanitary team has held its organization meeting. The following officers were elected: Honorary President, J. B. Holland; President, M. N. Moore; Secretary-Treasurer, Ward Roland; Manager, C. V. Brown; committee, E. K. Taylor, W. H. Armstrong, R. Jex, F. Comley and W. H. Wakelen.

Harold Armstrong Is Listed Among Notables Who Took In 3 Championship O.H.A. Games

In mentioning the players who have played on championship teams in the three series of the O.H.A. the name of Harold Armstrong was overlooked. The error has been brought to our attention by a Peterborough fan, and we gladly stand corrected. Armstrong played with the Peterborough Colts when they won the O.H.O. junior title in 1901, and again with Peterborough when they won the intermediate championship in 1902. He then moved to Toronto and played for the Toronto Marlboros when they won the senior honors in 1905.

Harold Armstrong was a great player in his day. In fact, one of the best. After playing for Marlboros he went to Ottawa, for a trial with the Senators.—(Mail and Empire).

HAMILTON TIGERS LOSE TO MICMACS

Windsor Senior "B" Champions Secure One Goal Lead For Return Game.

WINDSOR, March 9.—The "dope" was tossed into the snowdrifts that appeared here Saturday night, as "Pick" Hines's 1930-31 O.H.A. senior championship race closed with a third period rush that carried them to a 3-2 victory over Hamilton Tigers in the first game of their two-game title series.

By virture of the unexpected decision, Windsor carries a one-goal margin into the second game of the round at Hamilton on Monday night, and promises to make the 1929-30 titleholders step for the honor of representing the association in further playdown competition.

GARDINER WITH CHICAGO HAWKS FOR FOUR YEARS

Veteran N.H.L. Player at 27 He Hold Shutout Record for League.

ALL-AROUND ATHLETE.

Formerly Played in American Association and Manitoba Amateur League.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 9 (C.P.)—Study of the trajectories of objects in motion is a profession to-day for Charlie Gardiner, goalkeeper for Chicago in the National Hockey League—but until five years ago it was just a hard-worked hobby. Only 27 years old, the Winnipeg sportsman has spent most of his life catching, hitting, tackling and stopping moving objects.

Baseball and trapshooting, rugby football and golf have polished up the ingenuity "Charlie" shows now between the posts in hockey, where he leads the National Hockey League goalkeepers with eleven shutouts, and only 65 goals scored against him, less than any other net guardian in the league. Winnipeg recalls him as a perfect outfielder and a .300 hitter and he is still one of the best clay-bird crackers in Manitoba. He may no longer be a dead-tackling wing on the gridiron, but he scores in the lowest 30's on the links.

Joined in 1927

Back in 1927 as a curly-headed kid, he joined the Chicago Black Hawks when the goal job was almost equivalent to suicide by puck-shot. He won the homage of N.H.L. fandom by his laughing fearlessness under showers of drives from opposing attackers. And he stayed with the Hawks as they built up a team to aid him in keeping down the foemen's score—and even to retaliate. In 1931, "Charlie" is still curly-headed but a veteran of the nets at 27.

Gardiner stepped into the National League after only a year's experience in professional company with the Winnipeg Maroons in the American Hockey Association, now the American Hockey League. He played with Winnipeg Maroons and the Selkirk Fishermen in the Manitoba Senior League during the two preceding seasons, each time encountering elimination by a Lakehead team in the Canadian championship playdowns. His previous hockey experience was with the Intermediate and Minor teams of the Winnipeg Tigers.

Short and stocky in build, Gardiner showed goalkeeping talent of the highest order soon after he donned the pads. His acrobatic agility in the nets makes his style highly attractive to the spectator, but his greatest value lies in the fact he makes spectacular plays only on the rare occasions when his usual cool technique will not suffice.

An accomplished singer, "Charlie" has been heard over the radio from Chicago. He is married, the father of one child, and make his summertime home in Winnipeg.

Stars And Choates In Final Tangle

Stars and Choates will meet tonight at the Brock street rink at seven o'clock in their final City League game. The teams are now tied 3-3 in a fight for a play-off position with the league-leading Seahorses. To-night's contest will put one of them out, and it promises to be a great scrap.

The ice should be in good shape, and both outfits will be at full strength. With the wind-up of the East Peterborough Loop, the City League is the only hockey attraction left fans, and they provide plenty of action in their games.

YEAR'S WORK IS OUTLINED

Horticultural Branch of C.G.E. Club Holds Re-organization Meeting.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

A well-attended re-organization meeting of the Horticultural branch of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club was held last week in the Employment Building, at which a tentative outline of activity was planned for the coming season and a governing body elected.

W. H. Young and A. L. Callander president and vice-president respectively for last season were returned to office while A. E. Prest will be secretary and N. E. Crowe, treasurer. Last year's executive committee was re-elected in block and is composed of Messrs. Geo. Land, Jack Pilling, Frank Roberts, Geo. East, Chris Jay, Bruce Law and Harold Darling. More members will be added to this committee later in order that every section of the Works will be represented

Membership is open to every employee who is a member of the Social and Athletic club and a substantial discount on all orders for seeds, bulbs, plants and shrubs may be obtained if the order is placed with any member of the committee before March 21. These will be purchased from the Rennie Seed Co, and the most convenient way of placing an order is to fill out the form supplied with every Rennie catalogue and hand the cash and order to any committee member. The discount will be rebated later. Every member of the above committee is qualified to advise the purchase on the varieties of flowers which are most suitable for exhibition purposes. Negotiations are also underway which will permit employees to purchase "wizard" sheep fertilizer at a reduced rate but so far no satisfactory agreement has been made.

Every employee who wishes to join this club, even though they have been members before must send their name, clock number and street address to A. E. Prest, Switchgear department.

The annual flower show will be held this year on August 14 and 15, in the Canadian Legion Hall, and the prize list which is being compiled by W. Young A. Prest and Geo. East, should be ready sometime this month.

Chicago Shamrocks Ousted From Running

Rocks Put Up Game Fight But Are Eliminated By Tulsa Oilers 5-4.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 9.—(CP)—Advancing tide of the American hockey league schedule today had virtually bumped Chicago Shamrocks out of the list of playoff-berth contenders. The Rocks fought hard last night but were defeated 5 to 4 by Tulsa Oilers who lead the race to the eliminations by half-a-dozen points.

Kansas City Pla-Mors, 1930 league winners, jumped to within four points of Tulsa Saturday night by taking an overtime victory from Buffalo Majors, 3 to 2, but slipped back again when Tulsa notched the Sunday win. St. Louis Fliers, confirmed tailenders, followed Bobby Kirk to a win over Minneapolis Millers, Kirk getting the game's only two goals.

MORENZ, SHORE BEST CHOICES ALL-STAR TEAM

Gardiner, "King" Clancy, Bill Cook and Joliat on First Team.

37 SELECTIONS.

Eddie Shore and Howie Morenz on Every Sports Writers' Selection.

TORONTO, Ont., March 9 (C.P.).—For the past three weeks the Canadian Press has been publishing the individual selections made by 37 sports editors in National Hockey League cities—13 in Canada and 24 in the United States—of an all-star team of N.H.L. players, together with an alternative team. The consensus of these selections follows:

Eddie Shore of Boston and Howie Morenz of Canadiens were the only players whose choice was unanimous for either the first or second teams, with Shore winning the honor for first team defence by 34, receiving 27 votes for the right berth and seven for the left. He received three votes for the second team. Twenty-nine chose Morenz for centre for the first team, and he received six second choice votes for centre and one each for right and left wing of the alternative team.

Except in the case of goalkeepers, the selections for both teams were clear-cut. Charley Gardiner, the Chicago net guardian who is leading the league in shut-outs, received 16 votes for the first team, and also led the second choices with 13, making it necessary to use the "transferable vote" in placing the second team goalie. Thompson and Worters of the New York Americans were tied with 9 votes for the second team, but Thompson won out by having a 10 to 9 margin of votes for the first team.

The consensus of voting follows:

First team:

NORWOOD GAME IS POSTPONED

Lakefield Unable to Travel to Norwood on Account of Blocked Roads.

PLAY ON WEDNESDAY.

One of the incidental effects of Sunday's precipitation of snow is the cancellation of the East Peterborough hockey game which was billed for to-night at Norwood with the Lakefield team.

This game is postponed until Wednesday night, and the return clash will take place at Lakefield Friday night.

Ollie Edwards, proprietor of King's Hotel at Norwood, telephoned this afternoon that the roads out of the village were nearly all blocked. The east wind filled up the road between Norwood and Hastings, and not even horses could negotiate it this morning.

The mail did not arrive and communication between the two villages was cut off. A gang of men are working on the new Provincial highway out of Norwood, and it is hoped that this will be entirely cleared by Wednesday night.

Americans paid nearly $18,000 for Estonian sugar candy and confectionery last year.

JUNIOR PLAY-OFFS OPEN AT CALGARY

Ex-Kings of British Columbia Bringing Out Strongest Team in Years.

WINNIPEG, Man., Mar. 9.—(CP)—Warfare among the juniors along a hockey front that stretches from the western tip of Lake Superior to the Pacific starts tonight at Calgary. Five champions from five provinces are all that are left in the west to battle for the Abbott cup and within two days there will be only four. Either Calgary Canadians or ex-King George kids from Vancouver will be through after their two-game series.

Ex-Kings arrived at Calgary today with a line-up reputed to be the strongest of all the juniors British Coumbia has produced. Tonight and Wednesday they clash with Eddie Pulens' Canadians and the winners will go further east to take on Al Ritchie's famous Pats at Regina. Present holders of the Canadian championship, Pats have not been beaten this season and have not been scored on in their last four games.

On the eastern end of the prairie strip, Elmwood Millionaires of Winnipeg and Westfort Maroons of Fort William will decide which team will await the winners of the Regina series. They play at Fort William Thursday night and here next Monday.

SAINTS WIN THIRD TITLE

MONTREAL, Que., March 9.—(C. P.) — St. Francois Xavier hockey squad of Montreal today won its third consecutive provincial intermediate title by defeating Isle Maligne, champions of the Kenogami district five goals to nothing.

The game was scheduled as the first of a two game series, the second game to be played tomorrow evening but the Ile Maligne squad defaulted the second game owing to the admitted overwhelming superiority of the locals, making the game a sudden-death contest.

CHAUTAUQUA WILL PLAY AT LAKEFIELD

Representative Addresses Committee Regarding Playing Dates and Seat Plan.

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 9.— (Examiner Correspondence.)— Miss J. S. MacKechnie, the official representative of the Canadian Chautauqua, addressed the local committee at a meeting held on Wednesday evening in the council chamber. She outlined the plans and scope of the Chautauqua for 1931 which is visiting 95 towns and villages this winter and early spring in Ontario. The idea of reserving seats under a plan system was discussed and adopted by motion of Rev. T. M. Wesley and W. G. Morrison. The reserve plan will open on March 16th at a time to be announced later, and will be placed in E. H. Northey's store.

On motion of E. H. Northey and T. Crawford the following members were nominated for a Property committee: J. A. Porter, chairman, Allan Clark, J. Botterill.

Miss MacKechnie then gave a very interesting review of the plays and personnel of the coming Chautauqua, telling the committee of the splendid attractions which are promised Lakefield audiences this year. This stirred the enthusiasm of the committee who are convinced that the project would be put over with certain success and they wish to pass on to the citizens their confidence and assurance that they will get marvellous value for their recreation dollars this year.

The members of the committee are now selling tickets and all are advised to buy early and be ready for the reserved seat plan.

The meeting closed with the assurance to the representative that the men were enthusiastically boosting Chautauqua this year and every year.

Mrs. Northcott of Welland is visiting Miss Grylls.

Mrs. I. M. Grant of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kendall.

HAVELOCK

Miss Annie Buchanan is receiving the congratulations of her many friends on having successfully passed the elementary pianoforte examination of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. Miss Buchanan is a pupil of Miss Jean Anderson.

Mr. Carmen Coon, who has returned from Toronto where he was in attendance at the bedside of his aunt, Miss Mary Seeney, who was so severely injured in the motor accident near Highland Creek, states that while his aunt is in a very serious condition it is expected she will recover.

The members of Havelock Ladies' Bridge Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Ross Covert on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Rae Williams was the successful player, and carried off the prize for the highest score.

Mr. W. P. Moyer, of Peterborough, was a business visitor to Havelock, on Thursday.

Mr. J. B. Nelson, of Peterborough, district representative of the Department of Agriculture, was in the village and addressed the Junior Agriculture Society at the regular meeting in the Orange Hall, on Wednesday evening.

Miss Jean Anderson spent Thursday in Peterborough.

Miss Mary Anderson is in Toronto, where she is employed in the sessional staff of the Legislature.

The many friends of Mrs. Peter McCann will be pleased to hear that she is making favorable progress toward recovery.

Great Work Being Carried On Amongst Eskimos of Canada's Northland.

"With the advent of explorers, scientists, miners, fur traders and police into the Arctic regions there comes the need for the Eskimos to be educated, so as to protect themselves against the forwardness of white men and to be able to deal intelligently with them. This important work is the aim of the missionaries in Canada's great north," declared Venerable Archdeacon Fleming of the Arctic in a sermon before the congregation of St. John's Anglican Church Sunday morning.

The preacher chose for his text Ephesians 5:1, "Be ye therefore followers of God, as dear children; and walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given Himself for us."

People think of the arctic in terms of exploration.. Men like Hudson, Mackenzie and Baffin braved the north through love of adventure and a desire to wrest secrets from the unknown. Many temptations, dangers and difficulties assailed them. Martin Frobisher realized that his first trip was a failure, and so went back three times. The Church, too, made sacrifices and sent missionaries like John West, who was the first to venture into the "terra incognita."

In 1921 the Church of England in Canada was made responsible for the missionary work of the church. As the Canadian race is a small people in a large land, such a responsibility is a heavy burden for the cost of diffcult enterprises has to be borne entirely by them. In the year 1926 the church made definite moves to commence action so that its tradition would not be destroyed, and during the past four years has been placed on a much stronger basis. But there is still much to be done, as there are seven races of Eskimos in Canada at the present who are just as pagan as their forefathers were.

If men are to be sent into the Arctic regions for the purposes of mining, fur-trading, commerce and law, then Christ must also be sent there. The Eskimos must be freed of their long years of bondage to the Nature superstitions, and for this reason the need for the crucified and risen Savior is most necessary. Christ went about healing the sick and giving sight to the blind, and the doctors in Canada's great North have to do the same thing. The laborers are indeed few, but these unstintingly and unselfishly sacrifice everything, even their lives, for the furtherance of the missionary work of the church. A nurse from Aklavik was home on furlough after five years' service, but immediately offered her services for another period of similar duration.

Until the missionary comes into the Arctic, the natives can neither read nor write. The Eskimo has, therefore, little chance against the incoming tide of white men. And ignorance is often termed the first sister to vice. The great purpose of this education work is also to emancipate the people's minds so to help them to battle life more effectively.

Some people, said Archdeacon Fleming, have the idea that ignorant people are necessarily stupid. Nothing, however, is further from the truth. The Eskimos are, like all members of the Mongolian race, very clever and can be taught anything. Their retentive faculties are remarkable. A school has been established 160 miles north of the Arctic Circle, but it is very much overcrowded so that something definite will have to be done to remedy this situation in the very near future. The pupils who are receiving education from this school are going to be the best "children of God" and are, therefore, going to be the best missionaries of the Word of God, if only we give them a chance.

It is thus up to us, concluded the speaker, to aid in this great Christian work, the education of the peoples of the Arctic so as to aid them the better to combat the trials that beset them, and to bring them to the arms of their Savior.

PRESENTATION OF BRITISH BUDGET MAY BE LEFT TO HON. W. GRAHAM

Provision to be Made for Expenditures for All Purposes of Over $4,000,000,000.

SNOWDEN ILL.

LONDON, March 9 (By George Hambleton, C.P. Staff Correspondent).—Whoever presents the Budget some time early in April, will probably have to provide for expenditures for all purposes of more than $4,000,000,000. It is still doubtful whether Right Hon. Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will have recovered by then from his illness. In the event of his absence, presentation of the Budget would doubtless be entrusted to Right Hon. William Graham, President of the Board of Trade.

Ordinary expenditures on the Navy, Army, Air Force, Civil and Revenue Departments will account for $2,195,000,000, an increase of $105,000,000 over last year. The increase is almost entirely due to the civil votes, including unemployment allowances, as the service votes show a net decrease of $2,270,000.

The deficit at the end of the financial year, March 31, is not now expected to be as large as had been feared a few weeks ago. At the moment it stands in the neighborhood of $325,000,000.

SWIMS THROUGH SHARKS

SYDNEY, Australia, March 9 (AP) Protected from an eating sharks by a steel net thirty by 15 feet, towed forty yards behind a launch, Lily Coppleston, a New Zealand girl, swam shark infested Neutral Bay in three hours and six minutes. The distance is seven miles but Lily swam much more, since then et was constantly swung from its course by the current.

The pictures were exceptionally clear and combined with descriptions of incidents along the trip, provided a delightful trip for the audience.

Mrs. E. E. Harvey presided and announced that next Friday, Miss Laura Wilson would speak on Paris, Past and Present and the following Friday, March 20th, Rev. McLean would give a talk on a trip to the Holy Land.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 7 (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.) By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The music hall's patrons now witnessed a strange sight. The great ape, grasping the boy's shoulders, peered long and earnestly into his face. A broad smile lighted the latter's features as he stroked Ajax's shaggy head and talked to him in a low voice. The ape seemed troubled and excited. He jabbered, mumbled, roughly caressed Jack, and at length climbed into the box and snuggled down close to the boy's side.

The audience applauded wildly when the ape refused to budge in answer to its trainer's commands. Finally, reduced to desperation by this show of mutiny on the part of his valuable animal, the trainer threatened with a whip. Then he found himself facing two infuriated enemies instead of one: for the boy, leaping to his feet, seized a chair and stood ready to defend his ape friend. Ajax had bared his fangs and was uttering horrid growls.

The delighted cheers now turned to cries of terror. A near-panic threatened. What might have happened, but for a timely interruption, may only be surmised. . . . Meanwhile, Lord Greystoke, in his study, listened to an angry gentleman from Oxford. "I resign, sir, at once," the latter said. "You do not need a tutor for your son. What he needs is a wild animal trainer." And he related his recent experience.

When young Mr. Moore had entered the room of his youthful charge, as was his custom each evening at ten o'clock, he was surprised to see the future Lord Greystoke dressed for the street instead of for bed! Furthermore, the lad was about to depart by way of the window. But when he realised he was discovered, he turned back as though to relinquish his planned adventure; then suddenly he lifted the astonished tutor high above his head.

LEASING NEW QUARTERS

The remodelling and decorating of George Robertsons' new barber shop is in the hands of Graham Brothers, who have already begun the work on it. The store, located at 440 George street, was recently occupied by Vito Miccoli, fruit dealer.

The place will be turned into a large up-to-date tonsorial parlor, with private booths for ladies, and a big assortment of tobaccos, fishing tackle, etc. Robertson expects to open at the new stand April 1st. His present quarters have been found inadequate to handle his business.

RESPONDS TO TWO CALLS

Despite the heavy snows, the Fire Department was able to respond to two calls yesterday. At 4:41 a.m. an alarm was sent in from a garage at the corner of Rubidge and Rink streets. A car caught fire and the flames soared so high that they burned a hole in the roof. However, the firemen arrived just in time, for if the fire had not been checked a number of garages would have been destroyed. The car was a total loss, but little damage was done to the building apart from the roof.

A chimney fire on 178 Dalhousie street at 8:17 a.m. also required the attention of the firemen, but proved to be only a minor fire.

The Chief of the Fire Department requests that all the citizens of this city co-operate in the matter of keeping the hydrants clear of snow. Owing to heavy snowfalls over the week-end most of the hydrants are completely covered with snow. The city workers who are cleaning the streets are not of course familiar with the position of each hydrant in the city, and for this reason people who know them to be buried are asked to clear the snow away from them. This is merely a preventative measure in case of fire.

COMRADES LAUD MAJ. W. HERRIDGE

Canadian Legion Send Best Wishes on Appointment to Post in Washington.

AIDED VETERANS GREATLY.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 9 (C.P.) — From his old comrades of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League through its Dominion President, Col. L. R. LaFleche, Canada's new Minister at Washington—Hon. W. D. Herridge—has been heartily congratulated on his appointment announced by Premier R. B. Bennett.

"The appointment of Major Herridge as Canadian Minister at Washington," Col. LeFleche stated, "marks the first occasion on which a front-line soldier of the Great War has been called to such an important post in the diplomatic services; and the significance of this action by the Dominion Government will be most heartily appreciated by all the new Minister's war-time comrades of the Canadian Corps and of the Legion.

"Major Herridge's war record requires no embellishment. It speaks eloquently for itself, and makes him eminently suitable to continue to serve Canada's interests in peace time.

Praise From LeFleche

"The returned men of this country and their dependents already owe a debt of deep gratitude to Major Herridge. Speaking on behalf of the Canadian Legion, I am extremely pleased to pay tribute and to express thanks to him for his invaluable assistance rendered many times when very difficult problems have faced us. For his sound, constructive advice in these moments of crisis, we are very grateful for services so freely given. It is not going too far to say that the credit for some of the Legion's most outstanding successes is due in large part to him.

"I am sure that this appointment will be a very popular one, as I have already received a number of telegrams from prominent Legion members expressing their very great pleasure in ths respect.

"Major Herridge is a man of very wide sympathies, broad experience and knowledge of Canada and of the British Empire, and, undoubtedly, will represent Canada most creditably. He has the very best wishes of the Canadian Legion."

N.M.R.A. HOLDS SHAMROCK TEA

Delightful Social Gathering Held at Home of Mrs. James Milby.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

The North Monaghan Ratepayers' Relief Committee held a successful Shamrock Tea on Saturday from 3 to 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. James Milby. The guests were received by Mrs. Milby and Mrs. J. Seger, and ushered into the living-room, where the bright glow of an electric fire added a look of comfort to the surroundings. Cut-outs of Shamrocks were placed over the archway between the rooms. Green was the predominant color in the tea-room. Long streamers of green crinkled paper were laid across the snowy cloth, a handsome center piece being a silver basket filled with daffodils and carnations. Tea was poured by Mrs. J. Bugg and Mrs. W. Harvie, with Mrs. W. McKinley, Mrs. F. McBride and Mrs. R. King assisting. Mrs. W. Stephenson and Miss Watson were in charge of the kitchen, and Mrs. Stevens sold home-made cooking from a small table. Mrs. T. Monk undertook the duties of treasurer. All the ladies assisting wore a shamrock emblem of crinkled paper. A short musical program consisted of vocal solos by Geneva Sedgwick and Mrs. McKinley, and pianoforte selections by Mrs. Bugg.

In the evening a very successful card party was held, with a good attendance present. Prizes for euchre were won by Mrs. R. Parnell and Mr. Reg Stephenson, and Mrs. W. Anderson was the winner of the lucky prize. Prizes for cribbage went to Mr. W. Anderson and Mrs. R. King, and consolation prizes to Mrs. T. Monk and Mr. E. J. Brown. Refreshments were served by the ladies who assisted with the afternoon tea.

PLAINTIFF GIVEN JUDGMENT IN FULL

Judge Huycke Scores Manner in Which Evidence is Given in Court.

Scathing comments on the manner in which evidence was given before him in First Division Court this morning were made by Judge E. S. S. Huycke, who remarked to plaintiff, J. D. Lundy, "How do you expect me to accept your evidence?" His Honor's remarks were called forth when Lundy, in cross-examination by J. A. O'Brien, said he was not prepared to swear whether or not a promissory note was signed on a Sunday. He had previously sworn positively that the note was not signed on a Sunday although he could not recall the day of the week.

Later when plaintiff, in reply to a question, said, "To the best of my knowledge," His Honor sternly reminded witness that such a reply was unsatisfactory. He also commented on evidence given by Edward Lynch, one of the two defendants to the action, and said, "It is very unsatisfactory for witnesses to come here and give evidence in such a manner."

Judgment for the claim of $225.70 less $80.00 and the adjustment of interest, without costs, was awarded to plaintiff, who was represented by B. H. Park.

At the outset of the hearing Mr. Park called His Honor's attention to the fact that in the plaintiff's statement of claim he had made an error of $80.00 too much.

The claim arose out of a promissory note dated October 12, 1926, and due October 15, 1927, which was given to plaintiff for the purchase of livestock, being signed by defendants Edward Lynch and Frank Peters.

Defendant Peters claimed the note was signed on a Sunday, and that it was consequently void, on notice to payee, under the Lord's Day Alliance Act. Peters said he knew the note was signed on a Sunday because he could not get out to Lundy's farm at any other time. In answer to Mr. Park, he replied that the note was signed by himself and Lynch with Lundy's pen, in Lundy's presence. Examining the signatures on the note, witness stated that it was signed with Lundy's hand.

In summing up, His Honor said he would require more evidence to show that the same pen wrote the two names on the note. It appeared, he said, that the ink was different and also that a different pen had been used.

"MEN ARE STRANGE CREATURES"

WHAT AN unmerciful twitting they give women about their bargains! And how they love to harp on "vain as a woman" when wives and daughters are successful in looking their best!...But to hear them at the office is another story. It's "my wife this, and my wife that"—with evident pride.

Vain? There's nothing quite so vain as men who have attractive and accomplished wives. How their wives manage the home—how they plan and buy—is a source of constant wonderment and appreciation. Nothing pleases a man more than the knowledge that his wife is a shrewd manager and a deft hostess.

But what is so amazing to men is commonplace to women. Women know that shrewd management and good taste are not matters of chance, but qualities to be cultivated—personal qualities that depend upon a thorough knowledge of style and value.

It is not difficult for them to obtain this knowledge. Every day they read the advertisements in the newspapers—printed statements of style, price and value. Statements that are sponsored and signed by companies known for business integrity and style authority.

Guided by this knowledge, women choose wisely—and receive for their money the highest in quality, the utmost in style.

PROBABILITIES
Fresh northerly winds; mostly fair and moderately cold tonight and Wednesday; local snow flurries.

FIRE DAMAGES KINGSTON COURT HOUSE

More Charges Laid Against Alleged Gang

DONALD GIBBONS TO STAND TRIAL ON THREE COUNTS

Chief Newhall in Evidence at Preliminary Hearing Tells of Confession.

PLANNED AT HAMILTON'S.

John and Gerald McClure Plead Guilty to Four Charges of Burglary.

That Robert Hamilton's house on Lansdowne Street was the headquarters of the burglar gang of six local youths in their many alleged robberies of stores in and about the city, was the evidence given in Police Court this morning by Chief of Police S. Newhall, when the boys, after a week's remand, made their second appearance in court and had fresh charges laid against them.

Chief Newhall stated that Donald Gibbons, one of the youths, had made a complete confession to him. Gibbons had said that Hamilton and his wife had urged the boys to stay at their house until 2 o'clock in the morning before pulling off the burglary of H. Eastabrooke's store, according to the Chief. Before doing the robberies, the Chief continued, Gibbons had told him that the gang were accustomed to wait in the Hamilton house and watch the actions of the police on night patrol. He told the manner in which the burglaries were committed, and said that the loot was taken to Hamilton's to be stored and divided.

Gibbons was committed to trial on three counts of burglary by Magistrate Langley after hearing Chief Newhall's evidence.

The McClure brothers, John and Gerald, pleaded guilty to four charges of burglary. They admitted taking a hand in the robbery of the following stores: H. Eastabrooke, Sidney Crowe, E. F. Mason and H. Davidson, but stoutly maintained that they had not been with the gang when one of the Habeco stores was robbed.

Arthur McDonald was again remanded for sentence on two counts of burglary to which he had pleaded guilty. The 14-year-old member of the gang pleaded guilty to five charges of burglary from stores in the city and in the nearby countryside.

Hamilton, charged with receiving stolen goods, will appear in court this afternoon to stand trial.

LABORITE PARTY EXPELS MOSLEY FOR DISLOYALTY

National Executive Pass Resolution Ousting Sir Oswald Unanimously.

NOTIFY SMETHWICK BRANCH

Mosley Now Ill, Invites Action By Neglect to Announce Resignation.

LONDON, March 10 (C.P.). — Sir Oswald Mosley was expelled from the Labor Party to-day for his "act of gross disloyalty" in launching a "new political party."

The resolution ousting Mosley was passed unanimously by the National Executive of the Labor Party and the Smethwick branch was notified at once that Sir Oswald was no longer a member.

Sir Oswald, who is recovering from an attack of influenza which prevented his own presence at the function at which his new party was launched, invited his expulsion by neglecting to announce his resignation from the Labor Party even after the new political group had been started.

VICTIM MAKES NO CONFESSION BEFORE DEATH

Arthur Rouse is Hanged in Bedford Jail, England, for Murder.

COMPLICATED LOVE LIFE.

Wife and One of Three Sweethearts Fight to Last to Save Him.

BEDFORD, Eng., March 10 (A.P.) —Alfred Arthur Rouse, man of many loves, who last November tried to "die by proxy" in an effort to escape the responsibilities of his amorous adventures, to-day was hanged for the murder of an unidentified man.

He was the first person in 145 years to be executed for the murder of an unidentified victim.

The body of the man he killed was kept unburied throughout his trial and subsequent incarceration, in the hope that Rouse in a last minute confession would tell who he was.

Prison officials carried this hope even to the shadow of the gallows, but so far as was known the doomed man revealed nothing. During the trial Rouse said that the victim was a man whom he had given a lift and who had accidentally, perhaps in lighting a cigaret, set fire to his car while he was outside effecting temporary repairs.

Wife Loyal to Last

The case was marked by the unswerving loyalty of his wife and one of the three women with whom he lived, the mother of his child. After his arrest, the wife and the other woman, a Miss Campbell, joined forces and until yesterday attempted to get a reprieve or communtation of sentence.

Rouse, a 35-year-old traveling salesman, drove from Northampton early in November of last year, and when his automobile was found burned by the roadside it was at first believed that he had died by accident.

Investigation revealed an extremely complicated love life. Experts theorized in court that he had become convinced that death offered about the only solution and had conceived

FERGUSON SEES BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR EXPANSION

Claims Immigration Conditions in Canada at Present Only Temporary.

AT COMMERCE LUNCHEON.

Sir Gilbert Lyle Has Hopes of Success From Ottawa Parley.

BY THOS. T. CHAMPION
(C. P. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Mar. 10.—"After being in communication with Canada as late as last night, I am able to say there is on the horizon a very much brighter outlook," said Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, speaking at the luncheon of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce today. C. J. Smith presided.

"We are not able to absorb people from other lands just now," Mr. Ferguson continued. "But that condition is only temporary and there is now an opportunity to prepare for future expansion.

"Some people here will find it difficult to understand Canada's attitude towards industrial expansion. They do not know for instance we have a heritage of 35,000,000 horsepower in water, of which only 6,000,000 horsepower is being used at present.

Forget Canadian Goods

"When I see in England such slogans as 'Buy British Goods Made In England by British Labor' it seems to me to be forgotten that the goods of Canada and others parts of the Empire are equally British. Imperial consolidation cannot be effected in the lines of discrimination."

Hon. Mr. Ferguson referred to the coming Imperial Economic Conference would produce more than the development of a certain atmosphere, he said. The problem involved the whole reconstruction of the economic fabric of the Empire, but no Government could resist public opinion inspired by patriotic motives, he added.

Sir Gilbert Lyle, prominent industrialist and former President of the British Associated Chambers of Commerce, proposed the toast to the Speaker. Business men in Great Britain had welcomed Premier R. B. Bennett's offer of reciprocal tariff preferences, he said, and were profoundly disappointed when it was not accepted by the Imperial Conference.

"Ottawa is a lovely place in which to hold the further conference," Sir Gilbert said, "and I hope the change from our somewhat foggy atmosphere may bring more wisdom to some of the delegates."
